It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE,

DELIVERED BEFORE THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, JAN. 12, 1865.

Fellow Citizens of the Senate and Assembly:

In obedience to the requirements of the Constitution; it again becomes my duty to communicate to the Legislature the condition of the State, and to recommend such matters as I may deem expedient for their consideration.

When we contemplate the condition of our country, its necessities, the manner in which it has been preserved through all its trials, our minds naturally turn to Him whose care has been over us, who has protected and preserved us in all the trying scenes through which we have been called upon to pass.

For the preservation of our liberties; for His care and protection over those who have gone forth and are now risking their lives in defense of the principles upon which our happiness and prosperity rest; for life, health and plenty; for the guidance of that Unseen Hand which has led us through all our dangers; for that gleam of light we now see breaking through the clouds and darkness that have for the last four years surrounded us; for these and many other blessings of which we have been the recipients, let us render thanks to our Heavenly Father, and let us ask the continuance of his favor—His guidance in future.

The duties of the Legislature are ever important and responsible. It would be difficult to fix bounds to the influence that his acts exert. Man can confide to his fellow man no higher trust than the power to legislate for him; but doubly important do these duties become in times like the present, when men's passions are excited, when nations are convulsed, and the destiny of ages seems hanging upon the result of the transactions of a single day. If ever the Legislature needed Divine influence—wisdom from on High to guide him, he needs it now. You are not alone to care for the local interests of your immediate constituents; your acts will encourage the patriotic soldier, and all the friends of freedom, or they will encourage the enemies of the Government in their mad schemes to subvert its authority. Your acts should, and doubtless will, aid in the promotion of liberty. They should vindicate the principles upon which our Government rests, for if these be obliterated by the rebellion of the South; the cunningly devised schemes and frauds of those in our own midst; or from any other cause, our liberties are gone. May they all bend to promote the good of the State and nation, and the good of all mankind. In all such acts you will receive my hearty co-operation.

The financial condition of our State, considering the drafts that have necessarily been made upon the treasury, is very flattering indeed. Great credit is due to our worthy Secretary and Treasurer for their management in bringing about this result, and for the able and efficient manner in which they have at all times discharged the duties of their respective departments. For a full detailed statement of the transactions in all the different funds of the State, I would refer you to the reports of these officers, herewith submitted.

I invite your attention to the following condensed statement of such transactions during the last fiscal year :

Balance in Fund,.....	36,725 28
Total receipts into War Fund,.....	632,403 15
Balance in Fund,.....	2,173 87

Several appropriations have heretofore been made to the Governor, for military contingent expenses. The Legislature at its session in the year 1863, passed an act providing for a Military Contingent Fund, appropriating to the Governor the sum of three thousand dollars, and making it his duty to report to the Legislature at each session, the amount expended from said fund. Seeing no necessity for the use of the fund, I have made no drafts upon it, and have the honor therefore to report, that the money belonging to the Military Contingent Fund, except so far as the same had been drawn by my predecessors, remains in the State Treasury unexpended.

It has been customary for the Legislature at each session to appropriate to the Governor the sum of five thousand dollars for contingent expenses. Of the money appropriated at the last session for this object, I have found it necessary to use but a small proportion. The balance unexpended and now remaining in the State Treasury being sufficient, in my judgment, to meet these expenses for several years to come, I would recommend that no appropriation for this object be made at the present session.

The amount of State indebtedness is two millions and five thousand dollars. With the exception of one hundred thousand dollars borrowed, and used for the purpose of erecting the State Capitol, this debt was created for war purposes, and is a legitimate charge against the General Government. Large amounts advanced by the State, for the purposes above named, have already been repaid. Vouchers for a considerable further amount, are now in the hands of the proper United States auditing officers. Others will soon be presented, and we confidently hope and expect that the day is not far distant, when all the money advanced by the State, for war purposes, will be refunded by the General Government, and the whole debt of the State, except the hundred thousand dollars used in erecting the State Capitol, liquidated thereby. Authority should be given to the State Treasurer to pay off any bonds outstanding against the State before maturing, whenever they are presented, and the surplus in the State Treasury will warrant him in so doing.

The five per cent. due the State from the General Government, on sales of Government lands within this State, has long been withheld, for reason that an unsettled claim existed against the State on account of money received by the Territory of Wisconsin, from sales of lands granted to aid in the construction of the Milwaukee and Rock River Canal. Congress at its last session passed a resolution referring the whole question to the Secretary of the Interior for adjustment. The amount due the State having reached several hundred thousand dollars, and it being important to the interests of the State, that this money should be obtained as soon as possible, in order that the interest thereon might be saved to the fund to which it belongs, I directed the Attorney General to prepare a full statement of the case on the part of the State, and proceed to Washington immediately and lay it before the said Secretary, and if possible, procure a final adjustment of this question. I am happy to inform you that from information received, there is a strong probability that I shall be able to obtain and pay over to the State Treasurer the five per cent. due the State on sales of Government lands within its limits, before the close of the present session.

Several years since, the General Government, by act of Congress, granted to the State of Wisconsin a large quantity of land, known as "swamp and overflowed lands." Subsequent to the grant, a considerable portion thus granted was sold by the General Government. The money arising therefrom has not as yet been paid over to the State. I have not the data at hand to ascertain the amount due the State from this source; but from the examination I have been able to give the subject, am satisfied that it will not fall short of fifty thousand dollars. I have presented the claim of the State to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and hope soon to be able to place the amount justly due the State from this source, also in the hands of the State Treasurer.

The able report of our worthy Bank Comptroller, herewith submitted, contains many valuable and important suggestions and recommendations concerning the banking interests of the State, to all of which I invite your attention.

The whole number of banks doing business under the state banking system at the close of the last fiscal year was sixty-four (64).

The whole amount of outstanding circulation of the state banks at the close of the last fiscal year was $2,560,672.00.

The public printer having refused to perform the work under his contract, and it being important to the interests of the state that another printer should be employed to do this work at an early day, I would recommend that the contract between the state and the present public printer be annulled, the Commissioner of Public Printing be authorized to advertise for proposals and re-let the contract for the unexpired term without advertising for six weeks, as now provided by law: and that the Secretary of State be directed to procure all printing he may deem necessary for the interest of the State to, be done from day to day, until a new contract shall be made for the unexpired term.

The duty of disposing of several important grants of land made by the General Government to aid in the construction of railroads, will devolve upon this Legislature. Many important questions present themselves in connection with this subject, but the limits of this paper will only admit of my alluding to a few of them.

Lands heretofore granted for like purposes have, in some instances, remained in the hands of the companies to which they were given for a great length of time without being brought into market, or have been held at so high a price that no one would buy them, thus depriving the state of taxes which would otherwise be paid upon them, making it difficult for inhabitants living near them to support schools, and preventing the development of the country, instead of aiding it, as they were intended to do. In other instances, the roads intended to be benefitted by the grants, have never been built, and people who purchased lands with the expectation and promise of a road have never enjoyed its benefits, nor the State received the revenues to which it should be entitled therefrom. Proper limits should be prescribed, and guarantees taken to prevent these abuses in the future.

On the 24th day of May last, pursuant to chapter 345 of the general laws of 1864, a contract for continuing the work on the State Capitol was entered into by the Building Commissioners with William Goodnow, who is now engaged in the performance of the work under his contract. Section four of the act above referred to, provides, "that the entire cost of said work, whether included in the specifications of the architect or not, shall not exceed the sum of sixty thousand dollars," and appropriates a sum sufficient to defray the cost of the work authorized and provided for in the first section of the act. Section nine of the same act provides that the Commissioners shall not let the contract for a larger sum than thirty-five thousand dollars. The Commissioners in their action have necessarily been governed by the last named section; and consequently no contracts have been made which call for the payment of a sum of money larger than that last named. If the Legislature desire the Building Commissioners to continue the work further, as seems to be contemplated by said section four, it will be necessary to so amend the act as to take off the restrictions contained in said section nine.

The attention of the Legislature has frequently been called to the militia laws of the State. To insure a faithful execution of the laws an efficient military force should be organized and placed at the disposal of the Executive. The amendments of the last two years have greatly improved our militia system; yet it is still imperfect, and needs further amendment to make it effective. Owing to the imperfections of the system, want of interest among the people, as well as to the frequent calls of the general government for men, who must necessarily be drawn to a great extent from the State militia, the organized militia, consisting nominally of four regiments of infantry, and two batteries of artillery, is at present in a very inefficient state. The enrolled militia, consisting of all persons subject to military duty, not included in the organized militia, numbers 82,981 men.

The State has, at the present time, Ordnance, Arms, Ammunition and Military Stores, as follows:

Six-pounder S. B. Bronze Field Guns, with cartridges	8
Twelve-pounder, Mountain Howitzer, with carriage and ammunition	1
Carriages for six pounder guns	6
Muskets, Rifled Muskets and Rifles, with accoutrements and appendages	5,186
Pistols and Holsters	50
Swords and Sabres with scabbards and accoutrements	444
Muskets, Rifled Muskets and Rifles unserviceable	665
Canister and round shot for six-pounder guns, (rounds)	59
Shot and shell for twelve-pounder Mountain howitzer (rounds)	100
Ball Cartridge	108,320
Pounds of Powder	125
Bars of Lead	150
Gun-caps	7,000
Canteens	4,000
Haversacks	4,000

In addition to the above, there is on hand a large number of extra equipments, accoutrements and appendages, which are not required to make up the "stand of arms" complete.

For full detailed statements of the condition of the military property of the State, and of military operations, I refer you to the able and interesting reports of the Adjutant General, Quartermaster General, and Surgeon General, herewith submitted.

To the calls of the Government for troops, no state has responded with greater alacrity than has Wisconsin. She has sent to the field since the commencement of the war forty-four regiments of Infantry, four regiments and one company of cavalry, one regiment of heavy artillery, thirteen batteries of light artillery, and one company of sharpshooters, making an aggregate (exclusive of hundred day men,) of seventy-five thousand one hundred and thirty-three men. To this large number furnished by our young state should be added the three regiments of one hundred day men, who so nobly responded to the call at a critical moment, when their services were so much needed, and whose services were of so much importance to the Government, as to call forth from the Commander-in-Chief the highest special commendation.

Further provision should be made for keeping and preserving records of the names and deeds of valor, of all Wisconsin's sons who have taken part in the great national struggle in which we are now engaged. It is due to them and to posterity, that such records should be handed down to future time, and spread before the rising generation for their emulation.

The debt of gratitude we owe to our soldiers and sailors for their great achievements, we can never fully repay. To their exertions, under the guidance of an All-wise Providence, is due the salvation of our country, and to no equal number is greater credit due, than to the soldiers and sailors of our own State. They have fought in nearly every action on land and sea, and none have fought better, none have made the last great sacrifice, the sacrifice of life itself, more willingly at their country's call than they. But the soldiers and sailors of Wisconsin need no eulogy from me; with their own right arms they have written their own proud history. Their patriotism, valor, courage and endurance have never been excelled. Their praises are upon every tongue. As a State we should also pay some further tribute of respect to, and adopt some further measures to perpetuate the memory and example of, the noble heroes from Wisconsin who have fallen in defense of the liberties of the Nation. A suitable monument should be erected at the Capital of the State, on which should be inscribed their names. I doubt not their names are registered in Heaven—let them also be registered on earth. They should ever be borne in remembrance by those for whom they fought and died. Their families should also receive our attention. The heroic dead are gone—their orphan children are still with us. Let us seek them out and cherish them as the children of that State and country for whose benefit their natural protector offered up his life.

Every effort has been made for the relief of the sick and wounded soldiers, of which the nature of the case, and the means at my disposal would admit. But so extended has been the field of military operations, and so numerous and scattered the cases, that I have found it impossible to meet the wants of all as fully as I would wish to have done. Much has been done by correspondence, in obtaining furloughs, transfers, discharges, descriptive rolls, and otherwise assisting them. I have personally visited them in Hospitals, so far as time and attention to other duties of my office would permit. I have also sent agents to them, and through these means many who were lingering in Hospitals, and who could be of no further use to the Government, have been discharged and returned to their families. Many others have been provided with comforts, which have tended to soften their afflictions and materially aid in their speedy recovery and return to duty. Great credit is due our citizens generally for their efforts in behalf of our sick and wounded soldiers. From nearly every hamlet and village all over the State, have gone forth comforts for them. To the Ladies Aid Societies especially is great credit due for the assistance they have rendered in caring for them and their families. They have with kindly aid alleviated much suffering, and have doubtless been the means of saving many valuable lives. The thanks of a grateful people, the gratitude of the brave soldier, the destitute orphan, wife and mother, are their rewards.

Hospitals have been established at Madison, Prairie du Chien and Milwaukee; and Wisconsin soldiers are enjoying their benefits so far as I have been able to get them transferred or ordered to report to these Hospitals. I have urged upon the War Department the importance of providing Hospital accommodations, and sending all our sick and wounded soldiers into our own State, where they might receive the benefits of our bracing and invigorating atmosphere, and be accessible to their relatives and friends, whose kind care and attention would aid much in restoring them to health and usefulness. The claims of the sick and wounded soldiers should receive careful consideration at your hands. Ample provisions should be made for their wants, and for the wants of the families of all Wisconsin soldiers now engaged in this great struggle.

I am informed that many citizens who have enjoyed the protection of the Government, and whose property, in some instances, is still protected by it, have, to avoid doing their duty in the field, ignominiously fled to foreign countries. I would suggest to the Legislature the propriety of taking away from such men rights they will not aid in defending.

I took occasion one year ago, at the opening of the legislative session, to call the special attention of your predecessors to our agricultural, mining, manufacturing and commercial interests. I desire to impress upon you, also, the necessity of fostering these important interests, as upon them largely depend the substantial wealth of our State; but you too well understand their importance to require further notice from me. I will only refer you to my remarks upon these subjects in my last annual message.

The condition of our State Prison has been greatly improved during the last year, and its expenses largely reduced.

The present efficient Commissioner is entitled to great credit for bringing about this result. I am of the opinion that still greater reduction in the expenses of the prison may be effected by a change in our system. While in many other States the prisons are self-supporting, and in some instances produce a revenue to the State, Wisconsin has been paying from twenty to forty thousand dollars a year for the support of her convicts. I am aware that this great difference in expense may be accounted for, in part, by the fact that our prison is new, and a great part of the labor has been necessarily employed in erecting permanent improvements; yet, from a careful examination of the prisons in several of the older States, I am satisfied that the difficulty lies, in part, in the system we have adopted. Instead of buying raw materials, manufacturing and selling the manufactured articles, experience has taught other States that it is much more profitable to let the labor of the convicts by contract to individuals, (the labor to be performed within the prison yard, under the control of the Prison Commissioner,) these individuals furnishing the raw material, taking the articles manufactured, and paying the State for the labor bestowed upon them; thus, relieving the State of the outlay for raw material, the labor in obtaining it, keeping accounts of purchases and sales, and of other expenses necessarily attending the sale of the manufactured articles. Whether the labor of our convicts may not be so organized and systematized as to make it pay the expenses of the prison is a subject worthy of your careful consideration, and as such I commend it to you.

The number of prisoners confined in the State Prison since its organization, is 906; number discharged from prison since its organization, 786; number in prison Oct 1st, 1864, 120 For further details you are respectfully referred to the report of the Commissioner, herewith presented.

Your attention is invited to the able and interesting report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction. This report contains many valuable suggestions concerning the management of our schools, and is evidently the result of much care and thought. And especially would I call your attention to the views expressed therein upon the subject of Normal Schools. Our system of common schools is, perhaps, not surpassed by any; but common school systems can have but little vitality without competent teachers to carry them into execution. Many of those who have heretofore been engaged in teaching our common schools are now in the military service of the Government. Others have sought employment in different directions, and there seems to be at this time, a special necessity for the adoption of some means to supply their places. The measure proposed by the State Superintendent of establishing a State Normal School, at which advanced pupils from our common schools may be further educated and fitted for teachers, is worthy your careful consideration. There is no subject of more vital importance to the interests of the State and Nation than the subject of Education. As no people can be enslaved with it, so no people can become great and powerful without it. We see a deplorable instance of the want of it in the Southern States to-day. Want of general intelligence among the masses of the people of the South, is a prominent reason why they are now endeavoring to subvert this Government. It has been too much the custom in those States to educate the few, while the great mass of the people have been kept in ignorance, and hence are easily deluded and led astray by designing leaders. In free governments particularly, is education the great means of self-preservation. Every man, to be a good citizen, must understand the duties of citizenship. Education, mental and moral, is the means of giving him this understanding. It is not alone useful in the school-room, at the bar, in the counting room, and at the bedside of the sick man, but is all important at the ballot-box and in the legislative halls. The wisest government is not the one that governs the most, that punishes the most criminals, but the one that by its judicious laws, enlightens its people and thus prevents most crime, and as a consequence punishes least. That which by educating its people avoids the necessity of punishment. Every forward step, therefore, in the cause of education drives a nail in the coffin of despotism, increases the strength of free governments, tends to fix more firmly in the minds of the people the principles of eternal justice, and thus promote the best interests of society.

The State University, as shown by the report from this institution, is now entirely free from debt; has fine and commodious buildings erected, excellent professors appointed, and is, in all respects, in a condition for greater usefulness:

The amount expended by this institution during the last year for current expenses was.....	$10,312 94

Among the institutions worthy of your especial attention is the State Reform School.

This school commands itself to the kind consideration of every lover of good morals. It is intended, as its name imports, as a place of reformation and instruction, and not as has been supposed by many, as a loathsome prison, and place of punishment for juvenile offenders. The object is to make its inmates better, wiser and happier, and not more wretched and miserable. In short it is intended as a school and not a prison; to furnish a home for the homeless child, reform the erring, and by the laws of love and kindness, teach them the way of truth and holiness, and induce them to walk therein.

When the character of the children sent to this school is considered, many of them homeless, friendless, and with no visible means of support, driven almost by necessity to the commission of crime, and when we consider the influence upon the community of allowing these children to grow up in idleness, ignorance and crime, the benefits of this institution in a moral point of view cannot be too highly estimated. But aside from the beneficial results to the pupils themselves and the community, in a moral point of view, if we look at it pecuniarily, it is far cheaper to educate and reform these children and teach them some useful trade by which they can earn a livelihood, than to bear the burdens they will necessarily impose upon society, if left to become hardened criminals and paupers.

Few of the older States can boast of a better institution for reforming the young than can Wisconsin; beautiful and commodious buildings, and well conducted, it is the pride of our State, and worthy of the people who established it. As the beautiful building erected for this institution stands out as a monument to mark our advancement in architecture, so does the purpose for which it was erected tell of a people's goodness. Accompanied by our worthy Secretary I visited this institution during the last summer and was much pleased with its management. I invite your attention to the valuable report of the Managers and Superintendent, herewith presented, for a detailed account of the manner in which it has been conducted, and would recommend that the appropriation asked for the present year be granted.

The total amount expended in support of the school during the last year, as appears by the report of the Managers, was.....	$15,956 53

The Wisconsin State Hospital for the Insane, I would also commend to your patronage.

Experience has established the fact that cases of insanity which may be easily cured if proper steps are taken in their early stages, become incurable if allowed to remain any great length of time without proper treatment. It is greatly for the interests of the State, therefore, that all cases of this nature, should receive prompt attention, and thereby avoid the necessity of their becoming a permanent charge upon the State. Humanity also, demands that the unfortunate class of persons afflicted with insanity should be cared for, and if possible, restored to health, happiness and usefulness. At times of great mental excitement like the present, cases of this nature most frequently occur. An institution for their treatment is more important, therefore, during our present national troubles than in times of peace. I lay before you the interesting reports of the officers in charge of this institution. It will be a source of much gratification to all, to learn from them that the last year's labors, under the present efficient superintendent, have greatly improved its condition and added much to its usefulness.

Fifty per cent. of the cases received during the last year have been cured. The average number of cases cured in other institutions so far as I can learn, is 43.05 per cent.

The expenses of the institution have also been much reduced. These results have been brought about doubtless, in a measure, by the employment of the inmates, so far as could be properly done, in necessary labor about the Hospital and its grounds. Saying nothing of the economy of giving employment to the insane, there is no question that employment of some kind, as well as amusements, are quite as necessary agents in restoring them to health and reason as the drugs of the physician. I believe it is a well established fact that over fifty per cent. of the cases of insanity that occur in our country, are the results of inebriety. Inasmuch as the General Government sanctions the traffic in spirituous liquors, and is deriving large revenues from it, I would suggest the propriety of asking congress to aid in caring for this class of cases, by appropriating a certain per centage of the income derived from this traffic to the State, for the support of the Lunatic or Inebriate asylums. It would seem to me to be no more than justice that the General Government should aid in bearing a burden it assists in and profits by creating, and that the unfortunate victim of intemperance should share in the enjoyment of the revenue his folly has so largely aided in producing:

The number of patients now in the Hospital for the Insane is.....	170
The number admitted during the last year was.....	112
The number discharged during the last year was.....	180
The number admitted since opening the Hospital is.....	469
The amount expended for the support of the Hospital during the last year was.....	$37,083 50

I would recommend that the appropriation asked by the trustees for the present year be granted.

An examination of the reports from the benevolent institutions of the State, will show remarkable prudence and economy in their management during the last year. And from personal visits and examination I am happy to corroborate many of the statements made in these reports.

The institutions for the Blind, and Deaf and Dumb, I think I can safely say are not surpassed by any institutions of the kind in the country. Models of neatness—unsurpassed in usefulness, they are an honor to the State that fosters them. The officers and teachers of the two institutions last named, have performed so well their duties to their pupils and the State, so disinterested and benevolent have been their labors, that I take pleasure in specially commending them and the institutions they have in charge, to your notice. I need not say to this enlightened body that these institutions should enlist your sympathy, as you are too well aware that they are the surest, and I might say almost the only means of giving knowledge to the unfortunate class of pupils assembled in them: almost the only means of opening their minds to the reception of the Divine truths of religion, and giving them the benefits of enjoyments to be derived therefrom, and fitting them for self-support and becoming useful members of society. Wisconsin may well feel a just pride in her benevolent institutions. Few States, old or young, can boast of more or better. They are the monuments of her goodness.

Our benevolent institutions, our churches, and our public schools, like the guide-post that tells the traveller how far he has advanced on his journey, are the great land-marks of our people's progress, by which we may judge of their advancement in goodness, morality, intelligence, and true greatness.

The law authorizing soldiers to exercise the elective franchise at other places than their residence, should be thoroughly revised and amended, so as more effectually to guard against fraud and corruption. The privilege of exercising this sacred right should also be further extended, so as to include the large number who by the present law are deprived of it in consequence of being on detached duty or confined in hospitals.

Section three of article four of the constitution of our State, devolves upon the Legislature the duty of providing for an enumeration of the inhabitants of the State during the present year. The assessment of property is taken in the early part of summer. This enumeration can doubtless be made more readily and cheaply at that time than at any other. It is important also that this duty should be performed at an early day, in order that the returns may be made out and compiled in time for the use of the next legislature. For these reasons, and that the Secretary of State may have ample time to prepare and distribute proper blanks to the different towns of the State, I would urge upon you the importance of early action upon this subject.

The attention of the legislature is earnestly solicited to the subject of removing the roving bands of Indians from the north-western portion of our State. Since the depredations and murders committed by them in Minnesota, a feeling of insecurity has existed among our citizens in the sparsely settled north-western counties, to such an extent as in some instances, to cause them to abandon their homes. Several murders have been committed by Indians, and much property destroyed by them within our State during the last year. Their presence tends to retard settlement, and thus prevents the development of the country. Their ignorance and their wild and roving natures unfit them for a residence among civilized people.

I am satisfied that the good of the State, and especially the good of our citizens residing in portions of the State frequented by them, as well as the good of the Indians themselves, demand that these natives of the forest be sent beyond the limits of Wisconsin. I have several times during the last year called the attention of the officers of the General Government to Indian depredations and murders within our borders. Some action has been had, but it would seem that nothing short of removal will allay the just fears, or meet the just demands of our people.

I am aware that this is a subject coming properly within the jurisdiction of the General Government, yet may not this Legislature do much to bring about the desired object, by memorializing Congress and making such a representation of the case, as will induce speedy action? I would recommend that the memorials be prepared upon this subject at an early day in the session, and that such other action be taken as the nature of the case would seem to demand.

It has seldom been the lot of the historian to record a greater calamity to any people than the calamity of civil war. When brother meets brother in civil strife, and indeed is the spectacle. It was this against which the old hero of New Orleans and the Father of his country aimed their solemn warnings. They knew full well the character of the American people. They knew full well the great sacrifice which must be made, and the great interests which would be at stake when civil war should be inaugurated. If the departed dead are cognizant of events transpiring in this world, there is no one thing upon this earth which tends more to disturb the old patriots in their graves to-day—which would sooner induce them to return again to earth to take part in the affairs of men, than the civil strife which has been inaugurated by traitors to overthrow this Government. But sad as is the spectacle, deplorable as is the necessity that prompts, nay, compels all good citizens to take up the sword in defense of the Government, a still greater calamity might and would befall mankind, were we to cease to defend our rights, and thus permit the downfall of our free institutions. Inasmuch as the interests of the many are greater than the interests of the few, as the interests of the world of our children, and the people of all coming time, are greater than the interests of the people now engaged in this struggle, would the calamity of the downfall of this Government be greater than that of the present civil strife. Duty then admonishes us to defend the Government, to draw the sword in self-defense. I will not at this time go into a discussion of the righteousness of our cause. It has already been too fully discussed, too well established, and is too well understood to require comment from me. No right thinking man, at home or abroad, denies, or attempts at this day to question, that it is our duty to sustain the Government, and put down the rebellion. How then stands the case? Some one must lead in this great work. It is the people of the United States that are now immediately interested; they must greatly suffer if we fail. They will enjoy the blessings if the Government is preserved. Who then so largely interested, at the present time, as the people of the United States? The people composing this Government have selected their Commander-in-chief, and said to him go forward and do your duty; select the means and put down the rebellion. He has gone forward, has selected what he deems to be the proper means, and is striving with all his power, and all the power at his command, to accomplish the work. Few will be found I think who have the hardihood at this day to deny the integrity of the pilot now at the head of the nation. But whether they do or not, it is unquestionably true, that the chief executive authority of this nation has been placed in pure and patriotic hands; that the great end and aim of Abraham Lincoln is the salvation of the Government and the protection of the rights of the people. But this commander-in-chief, chosen by the people, has been arraigned by the minority (and the voice of the minority should be listened to and given its due weight;) he has been charged with committing a great error, in selecting the means, and because of this error, as they term it, they refuse to support the administration, refuse even to assist in saving themselves. In viewing this question we should let our minds expand; open them wide enough to take in the whole scene before us. Men are too prone to take narrow and contracted views of this subject; some dark spot attracts their attention, heavy taxes, the draft, personal danger, loss of friends—all I admit grievous to be borne, and they fix upon it such a gaze, allow their minds to be so wholly absorbed in its contemplation, that they see nothing beyond, they see nothing else. They forget that great principles are at stake, that not only the interests of this Government, but the interests of the whole world, the interests of millions yet to be, are thrown in the balance, and involved in this contest. They forget that means must be selected commensurate to the end to be accomplished. Let us try and get a more elevated position, where we can view the whole ground in all its vastness; open our minds to more enlarged and ennobling views; examine fairly and see if the means selected by the President are not the proper ones, and necessary to save and shield the nation.

That the organized force of the rebels must be met with an organized force upon our side, none with any show of consistency can question. That this involves the calling for men, the organization of armies, the expenditure of large sums of money in their organization and support, and consequent heavy taxation, is also beyond question. Where then is the error? The great head and front of the offense, say the opponents of the Administration, is the President's Proclamation of Emancipation. "This is the rock on which we split." Let us look for a moment at this Proclamation. The object, as all will admit, is and should be the restoration of national authority. To this end none will deny that all proper measures, which tend to weaken the rebels and strengthen the Government, should be adopted. The question then naturally arises, is this a proper measure, and does it have that tendency? As to the legal and constitutional right of the Government to liberate, take, and use these black men, I need only say that it has long since been conceded by those most interested in the question, living in the rebel states. None will deny the right of Government to take the property of those in rebellion and use it against the rebels, neither will they deny the right of Government to the service of its citizens to aid in its protection, or the right to take rebels in arms, or induce them by offers of pardon to join the forces of the Government. In whatever light, therefore, you may consider the negro slaves, whether property, citizens or enemy, the Government has alike the right to take them, use proper means to get them, and use them in defense of the nation.

Says Patrick Henry, in speaking of our present constitution, "Among ten thousand implied powers which they may assume; they may, if we be engaged in war, liberate every one of your slaves if they please." Again, he says: "If you give power to the General Government to provide for the general defense, the means must be commensurate to the end; all the means in the possession of the people, must be given to the government which is intrusted with the public defense." The views of John Quincy Adams upon this point, coinciding with the above, are too familiar to you all to require repeating here. But admitting, says one, the legal right to emancipate and use the slaves, was it not bad policy and a great error to do so? This is a proper question for consideration, and it is proper that it should be answered. It was apparent to all, that the rebel States derived great strength from the labor of their slaves. They performed the manual labor of the country, thus leaving all the white population capable of bearing arms, at liberty to join their armies. Any measure, therefore, that would induce these slaves to leave their masters, would tend to weaken the rebellion, as their armies must have food, and if black men did not raise it, white men must. As was anticipated, thousands of black men did leave their masters and come into our lines, and the rebel authorities are compelled to use a part of their force to-day in preventing others from doing the same thing. At this late day it will hardly be denied, that nearly two hundred thousand black men, who have left the South and joined our armies, have not only greatly weakened the rebels, but have also greatly strengthened the Government. To test this question more fully, let me ask, are there any so shortsighted to-day as to desire to see those black soldiers who are now fighting our battles, who are now holding Southern forts, and otherwise assisting the Government, returned to their masters to raise bread for the rebel army, and their places filled by a draft from our own citizens?

I have not the data at hand to show the actual number that have been taken from the rebels and placed in our lines by this proclamation, but that the number is large, and in proportion as it is large, is beneficial to the Government, is beyond question. Another strong reason in my judgment, why this measure was fraught with great good, may be found in its influence upon foreign nations. There is no disguising the fact that at the time this proclamation was issued, there was great danger of foreign intervention. Foreign nations, particularly England and France, so far as the aristocratic portions of them are concerned, would gladly see this government weakened by disunion. This they have shown in many ways. There is no question, either, that the great mass of the people of England and France are violently opposed to the institution of African slavery. While, therefore, the jealousy of these governments would naturally lead them to recognize the Southern Confederacy, hoping to weaken us, the great mass of the people of those nations, when they saw this proclamation, and that the perpetuation of African slavery probably depended upon their recognizing the Confederacy and sustaining the rebellion, their hatred of slavery overcame the jealousy of these governments, and recognition was withheld. Had this proclamation been withheld, and this issue not been presented, the recognition of the Southern Confederacy by foreign powers would have been more than probable. The following extract from a late letter of Alexander H. Stephens, Vice President of the so-called Southern Confederacy, tends strongly to confirm this view of the question. He says: "The silent sympathy of England, France, and other European powers, arises entirely upon their mania upon the subject of negro slavery. Lincoln had either to witness our recognition abroad, the moral power of which alone he saw would break down the war, or make in an emancipation war."

It has been urged against this measure that the black man would not fight. Said Jackson, at New Orleans, in addressing his negro soldiers "I expected much from you, for I was not uninformed of those qualities which must render you so formidable to an invading foe." Again he says: "But you surpassed my hopes. I have found in you, united to these qualities, that noble enthusiasm which impels to great deeds." It is unnecessary, however, to refer to the opinions held of these men, or their deeds in the past, to refute this argument. We have the proof of their courage, valor and endurance, now before our eyes. The present contest furnishes ample proof, if any more were needed, upon this point.

It has also been urged that it was dishonorable for the white soldiers to fight beside the black man. I need only to say in reply to this, that Washington, Jackson, Grant and many other great and good men fought beside them, and did not consider themselves dishonored. Thousands of our noble soldiers are fighting beside them to-day with honor; and I strongly doubt whether the man who fails to respond to his country's call for fear of being dishonored by fighting beside the black man—for fear of being dishonored by seeing a patriotic black man offer up his life on the altar of liberty—will not be found wanting in the day of trial, and fail to serve his country under any circumstances.

But in examining this question, ought we not to look farther than to the policy of the moment? Ought we not to look to the future, and, if possible, so guide our action as to leave our country at the close of this war in a condition to enjoy permanent peace? And is not this measure calculated, by removing this exciting question of slavery, to bring about this result; and do we not owe it to posterity, the opportunity being now clearly presented, by the act of those who have claimed the right to hold slaves, to remove this great curse from the land, and thus take off a great load which must otherwise fall upon the necks of our posterity? This right to hold slaves as a moral question, it is unnecessary at this day and age of the world to examine. That slavery is a great moral wrong, has long since been well established. Few will be found who have now the hardihood to attempt to defend it. And the fact that there are any, is strong evidence of the corrupting and demoralizing influence of the barbarous and inhuman practice. All good men have long deplored the existence of it. John Wesley denounced it as "the sum of all villainies." Said Washington: "there is no man living who wishes more sincerely than I do, to see a plan adopted for the abolition of it." Madison thought it wrong to admit in the Constitution, the idea that there could be property in man.— Said John Adams: "Slavery is a crime much blacker than any African's face." Jefferson and Franklin also deplored the existence of it. Said La Fayette: "I would never have drawn my sword, in the cause of America, could I have conceived that thereby I was founding a land of slavery." "Admitting it to be wrong for man to enslave his fellow man," says one, "It does not concern us at the North. The master and his slave are alone affected thereby." In answer to this it is only necessary to point to the present rebellion. Is not the whole nation, nay, the whole world convulsed and affected by it? But were the assertion true, is it not the duty of man to help his fellow man? "Help those that need help." is the Divine injunction. Says another, "It is a domestic institution, and States within their borders like private individuals within their domicils, are protected." "This true they are protected in proper acts; but no individual has the right, in his own domicil, to take away the right of his neighbor. No individual has a right in his own domicil, to establish a nuisance that will send out a poisonous effluvia, that will sicken and destroy the community around; and should he do so, law and justice would demand that the nuisance should be abated. But "the constitution protects slavery," says another.— The constitution if it protects it anywhere, which at least admits of doubt, certainly does not protect it where this proclamation reaches; and if it does protect it elsewhere, it ought to be amended so that it should no longer protect so great a wrong. I have already discussed this question much farther than I intended, and I fear further than I should have done at this time. I will only add that in my judgment the President in this measure, has not overstepped the bounds of the constitution or good policy, and should be sustained and supported by every lover of his country of whatever party or sect. All good and true men must say he is right. The people in their late elections have passed their solemn judgment upon his acts, and have declared in a manner not to be misunderstood, that he is right. Let us, then, with a firm hand, stand by the right, remembering that God blesses those who deserve his blessing. Let us be earnest, pure and worthy, for pure men, worthy men, earnest men, working, patriotic, Godly men are what our country needs in these times, and what she must have in the council, and in the field, to insure success. We thank God we have many such in the field and State, and to them our country looks. From them she expects help, and she will not be disappointed in her expectations. God is working through such means to-day to save and purify the nation. The foundations of our Government are being laid upon a firmer basis, and she will yet rise higher and higher in the temple of fame. The pangs she is now suffering are not the pangs of dissolution, but the pangs of a new birth, and she will soon emerge into a higher, more beautiful, more virtuous, and more glorious life.

Amid the gloom which has surrounded the nation, our noble State has never faltered. She has always and promptly responded to the call of the General Government. There could be no mistaking the feelings of her people. Their votes and their sacrifices have declared that they stand by the Union. Their bullets and their ballots have always pointed in the same direction. Never was there a sublimer spectacle than was exhibited on the eighth day of November last, when our people, who had so largely sacrificed in human life and in property, marched to the ballot-box, and solemnly declared by their votes, that they were willing to still further sacrifice, if need be, for justice and the right.

Wisconsin loves the Union, resents its wrongs, and seeks to parry every blow that is aimed at its life, let it come from whatever source it may. She is alike unwilling that old rock-bound New England should be "left out in the cold," or that the Sunny South should tear herself from its embrace. She has shown that when the cry of rebellion is heard, she adopts no timid, no vacillating course, but strikes boldly for the Union. In this great struggle she has thus far done her whole duty; she has nobly responded to the calls of the General Government for men and money; as she has sacrificed and borne the burdens, so may she share the glory of aiding to save and purify this government, and make happy its people. And now, gentlemen, may the blessing of our Heavenly Father attend you; may your acts prove salutary, and may your industry, economy and patriotism, win for you the welcome commendation, "well done, good and faithful servants."

STATE CAPITOL.

The contract for building the south wing of the capitol, was let to William Goodnow, on the 24th day of May, 1864, and a contract executed by him and approved by the commissioners; which contract is on file in this office.

PUBLIC PRINTING.

The contract for the printing for the state for two years immediately succeeding the first day of January, 1865, was let to Peter Stout & Co. of Madison, on the 17th day of August, 1864, at 43½ per cent. below the maximum prices fixed by chapter 315 of the general laws of 1860, and an agreement entered into on the 27th day of August, 1864, by the contractors, with sureties approved by the commissioners, which agreement is on file.

REVISED STATUTES.

Frequent demands have been made upon this department by justices of the peace, and other officers, for copies of the revised statutes. In some instances the demand was from justices and officers elected in new towns. In cases of this kind, I have felt it to be my duty to deliver the books. The most frequent calls have been from justices and other officers, who failed to receive copies of the statutes from their predecessors in office. There is no law authorizing this department to distribute the revised statutes. I suggest that provision be made for the distribution of the statutes to such officers throughout the state as are entitled to copies of the general laws, under such restrictions as to the legislature may seem proper.

EXTRA PAY.

Chapter 117, laws of 1864, I submit needs some amendments. As it now stands, a mother is not entitled to extra pay unless she was widowed at the date of enlistment of the son. A number of claims have been presented to this department, since the enactment of the law, which, it seems to me, are entitled to consideration. I allude to that class of mothers whose husbands have abandoned them, mothers who have been compelled to procure divorces from brutal husbands, and mothers who have become widows since the enlistment of their sons. In all cases where the father and mother are separated, whether by divorce or otherwise, and it is proved that the son, prior to enlistment, has lived with and contributed his labor or means to the support of the mother, and that the labor or means so contributed, was necessary to the comfortable subsistence of the mother, she should receive the extra pay. And in case of the death of the father in the absence and subsequently to the enlistment of the son, and it is proved that the son, prior to enlistment, lived in the family, and that his labor was contributed to the support of the family, and that the mother is left without the means of comfortable support, I think the mother should receive the extra pay.

The last legislature passed two acts giving extra pay to persons dependent for support upon soldiers in the service of the United States, who were not the parents of such soldiers. I respectfully suggest that if any one of a class is permitted to receive extra pay, all persons of the same class are equally entitled to receive it. The laws passed are all right, but it was wrong to discriminate in favor of the two persons named in the laws alluded to, leaving all others of the same class to provide for themselves.

Nothing contributes so much to the comfort, cheerfulness and endurance of the soldier, as the consciousness that his family, or those dependent upon him at home, are promptly, cheerfully and tenderly cared for. And I am convinced that there is no portion of the taxes contributed by the good people of the state, that is more cheerfully contributed than is that portion which is expended for extra pay to families of soldiers.

STATE PRISON.

The Legislature at the last session, appropriated for the payment of part indebtedness of the state prison, the sum of sixteen thousand two hundred and seventy-one dollars and fifty-five cents; for building a sewer from the prison yard to Rock river, the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars; for supplies, the sum of five thousand dollars, and for current expenses of the prison, the sum of thirty thousand dollars. The last named sum is to include all money which may, during the year, accrue from current business in the shops, under contract or otherwise, for rent or the sale of any article of chattel property, after deducting from the sums thus received the amount paid for the purchase of stock. The sum thus appropriated, it is provided shall be drawn from the treasury in monthly installments, upon the warrant of the secretary of state. The law further provides that the secretary of state shall not issue his warrant until a duplicate copy of the voucher for each expenditure has been filed in his office, and audited by him.

Under the provisions of the last named act, the commissioner has reported on oath under instructions received from this department, the receipts and disbursements of the prison, accompanying each report with the proper vouchers.

From the reports thus filed, it appears that the commissioner has received

From all sources the sum of.....	$47, 214 25
And he has disbursed,.....	46, 360 25
Balance on hand Sept. 30th, 1864,.....	$854 00

The commissioner further reports, that the whole amount of indebtedness of the prison, on the fourth day of January, 1864, was $17,141 89.

Of which the commissioner has paid in cash,.....	$16, 631 79
Paid in work from shops,.....	285 83
Balance due Sept. 30, 1864,.....	224 77
	$17, 141 89

The balance due as above stated from the prison, is due to prisoners on deposit, and to certain persons who have contracted to take their pay in work from the shops. This balance cannot therefore be paid until the prisoners are discharged and the parties to whom the labor is due see proper to call for it.

No part of the amount appropriated for building the sewer has been drawn from the treasury.

Total,	$2,105,000.

A temporary loan of $200,000 has been negotiated with some of our leading banks in the state, for credit of the War Fund, which is authorized by chapter 361, Laws of 1864; this, with the amount which may be realized from the Trust Funds before the meeting of the next Legislature, it is hoped will be sufficient to meet all demands on the War Fund up to that time.

A detailed statement of the transactions in the several funds with statement of balances in each, is herewith submitted, with a list of bank securities on deposit, together with statement of receipts from banks, railroads, counties, insurance companies, etc.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

SAMUEL D. HASTINGS,
State Treasurer.

ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
STATE PRISON COMMISSIONER
OF THE
STATE OF WISCONSIN.
FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING SEPTEMBER 30TH, 1864.

STATE PRISON COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE,
WAUPUN, October 1, 1864.

To His Excellency, JAMES T. LEWIS,

Governor of the State of Wisconsin :

SIR:—In accordance with law, I beg leave to present to you my first annual report as State Prison Commissioner, containing a full and accurate statement of all the concerns of this institution.

When I entered upon the discharge of my duties, I found the affairs of the prison in a somewhat embarrassed state, owing mainly to its indebtedness, the want of nearly all kinds of supplies, and the small amount of stock and material on hand for manufacturing purposes. I felt really no little anxiety as to the result of the operations of this institution, when I considered, in addition to the statement just made, the enormous rise of every article of consumption, during the year. But laboring earnestly in the practice of every economy, consistent with the health and comfort of the convicts and the best interest of the state, I tried to make its operations as favorable as possible. It was a leading principle with me, to which I strictly adhered in all my expenditures, to buy such articles only, as were absolutely necessary, and to make the best possible use of them, when once bought.

It gives me much pleasure to be able to report that the number of convicts has not increased during the past nine months. By reference to the various tables comprised in this report, it will be seen that there were in confinement, on the 4th day of January, 1864, one hundred and twenty-six convicts, viz.: one hundred and fourteen males and twelve females. There were received up to the 30th day of September last, thirty-one males and five females—making in all, thirty-six. During the same time there were discharged, on reduction of time under the provisions of chapter 324 of the general laws of 1860, twenty-seven; by expiration of sentence, two; by governor's pardon, nine; by order of the supreme court, one; two have escaped and have not been recaptured, and one has died—leaving now in confinement one hundred and twenty convicts, viz.: one hundred and six males and fourteen females. Of the former number three were sentenced by the United States district court.

It is universally admitted that a prison should be a place, not only for the punishment of crime, but also for the reformation of the convicts, and that the former object should always be subservient to the latter. Acting on that principle, I met the unfortunate persons, now under my control, not as outcasts of society, but as men entitled to our heartfelt sympathy. I treated them with kindness and humanity, and as a consequence, the great majority of them performed cheerfully their daily labors, and complied strictly with the rules and regulations of the prison. Punishments inflicted have been few and mild in their character, and were entirely limited to solitary confinement with short rations. Corporal punishment, the relic of a barbarian age, had been abolished already for several years in this institution, and my own experience convinced me of the beneficial influence of this timely measure. And here I wish to state, that I consider the amended provision of chapter 324 of the general laws of 1860,—which allows the commissioner to deduct five days per month from the sentence of every convict against whom no infraction of the rules of discipline has been accorded,—a more powerful agent to promote good conduct among convicts, than anything else that could have been devised for that purpose. After four years' trial, had by my predecessors and myself, I am prepared to pronounce that law a perfect success. Of the whole number of convicts discharged during the year, all had the benefit of it with the exception of two.

The general health of the convicts has been good during the past nine months, but one death having occurred, this being the only one for the last six years. For further particulars on the subject, I beg to refer to the report of the prison physician, herewith submitted.

Several attempts to escape have been made by convicts, who were employed during the summer in constructing the new prison sewer. All were, however, recaptured except two, who are still at large.

It is a remarkable fact, that the inmates of this institution have not only decreased in number, but also in quality during the last nine months. Of the convicts committed, an unusual proportion have either been aged, feeble, or mentally weak persons, and but a very few, if any, had arrived at any proficiency in their respective trades. But notwithstanding all these disadvantages, the gross earnings in the different shops show an increase over those of the preceding years, and the permanent improvements and repairs made in and about the prison, compare favorably, as I confidently believe, with those made by my predecessors.

The joint committee on state prison affairs, in their report to the legislature last winter, unanimously recommended the construction of a sewer from the prison yard to the Rock river, a distance of twenty-eight hundred (2,800) feet. As a sanitary measure, they considered it, and rightfully so, as a matter of great importance. The legislature concurred in that opinion, and appropriated the sum of twenty-five ($2,500) dollars for that purpose. As soon as the weather became favorable for out-door operations, the work was commenced, and the part of the sewer now completed, is fourteen hundred and fifty feet in length, three feet and six inches high in the clear inside, two feet and six inches wide between the walls, covered by a semi-circular arch of two feet and six inches span inside. The whole is laid up in mortar lime, the bottom paved with stone standing on their edges, grouted and plastered with water lime. The walls are also plastered two feet in height with the same material. Apertures are left in the top of the sewer at convenient distances apart, and of sufficient size to admit a person, so that in case of obstructions they may be removed.

It is confidently believed that the sewer, if completed on the above plan, will be a lasting improvement, and answer perfectly well all its purposes, without any regard to the number of convicts who ever may be confined in this prison.

The following statement will show the value of the work done on the sewer, as estimated by W. E. Howard, civil engineer:

2,780 cubic yards of excavation, at 25 cts.,.....	$695 00
Replacing earth,.....	897 00
1,120 perch wall stone, at $1 78,.....	2,006 00
562 perch arch stone, at $1 50,.....	828 00
85 perch paving stone, at $1 50,.....	52 50
Cutting stone for apertures,.....	30 00
1,000 bushels of lime, at 25 cts.,.....	250 00
Cost of material, etc., as per table "B,".....	1,682 19
Total.....	$6,019 69

All the labor has been performed by convicts, and in a most thorough and workmanlike manner.

We completed, early in the spring, the female prison commenced by my predecessor, and had the female convicts immediately removed to this commodious building. In this department, there prevail quiet and good order. This is to a great extent the result of the excellent management of the present matrons, who seem peculiarly adapted to those positions.

To furnish the female prison with the necessary supply of water, was for some time a source of much annoyance. I had, therefore, a well drilled and a cistern built with a cash outlay of over $200 for its exclusive use.

The legislative committee of last winter, in their report, made the following remarks in regard to certain improvements, which I recommended: "The present commissioner is of the opinion that a new blacksmith shop, barn, wash and soap house are much needed, in which opinion your committee fully concur." Although the legislature failed to act upon that matter, I, on my own responsibility, concluded to have at least a wash and soap house built, on account of the miserable condition of the one now in use. We have laid already the foundation and cut quite an amount of stone for a building forty feet in length by twenty-five feet in width, and if the weather prove favorable during the months of October and November, we shall be able to complete it, so that it may be used during next winter.

Various other improvements have been made, such as grading the front and female prison yard, plastering and painting hall in main building, putting up iron railing on front wall, rebuilding kitchen range, etc.

We have opened a new quarry, by excavating 856 cubic yards of earth, and quarried over 500 cords of stone.

It is still my opinion, that both a new blacksmith shop and barn are absolutely necessary, and should be built; but owing to the scarcity of help and the heavy amount of work to be done in completing the prison sewer, I shall be able only to erect a blacksmith shop, provided the legislature should determine that it would be expedient to make that improvement. Attention is also called to the poor condition of the cell room roof, which needs undoubtedly an entire new covering, to make it permanent and save the building from further damage.

The legislature, at its last session, made appropriations for prison purposes, amounting to $58,871 55, to be used for paying past indebtedness, to defray current expenses of the present year, to construct a sewer, and purchase books for the prison library.

The whole indebtedness of the prison, on January 4th, 1864, was stated to be $16,371 55; but subsequently claims were reported by different persons, in the aggregate amounting to $770 40, which had not been credited on the books, and their payment was demanded. After a careful examination, I convinced myself of the correctness of those claims, and had them adjusted. The actual past indebtedness of $17,141 95, is now wholly paid, except the small sum of $224 77, due to convicts on deposit, and persons having claims to be paid by work from the shops.

I did not find it necessary to draw the amount of $2,500, appropriated for constructing the prison sewer, and left it, therefore, deposited with the state treasurer. The sum of $1,682 19, expended in cash for that purpose, was taken from the appropriation for current expenses.

It affords me much pleasure to call your attention to the current expense account of this institution for the past nine months. In order to enable you, however, to judge more intelligibly on the subject, I submit the following table for your consideration, showing the average number of convicts and the cost for officers' services, provisions, clothing and bedding, fuel and light, for the last five years:

Year.	Number of Convicts.	EXPENSES.							Per Day.
		For Officers.	For Clothing and Bedding.	For Beef and Pork.	For Flour.	For Fuel and Lights.	For Groceries and Provisions.	Total.
1860*	176	11,160 05	1,860 56	2,720 82	850 41	1,735 42	753 98	19,081 19	0.46
1861	163	14,344 08	1,379 09	3,220 08	1,233 51	2,630 81	870 15	23,878 32	0.43
1862*	137	11,503 64	1,748 90	1,689 67	808 14	1,770 45	812 67	18,328 87	0.55
1863	123	16,927 39	2,151 77	1,999 13	1,589 66	3,246 28	1,044 05	27,558 26	0.61
1864*	123	11,585 19	2,433 61	1,768 62	1,448 49	2,876 84	1,060 05	21,252 30	0.64

* Comprising nine months, or the fiscal year ending September 30th inclusive.

The above calculation is, however, not entirely correct, for it will be noticed that I have charged myself with the whole amount thus expended, while I have at the same time merchandise, provisions, fuel and lights on hand, amounting to $2,183 70. The articles of the same kind, left by my predecessor and valued at $188 50, being deducted therefrom, leave a balance of $1,945 20 in favor of the above account, and consequently, the actual cost for supporting each convict will be, instead of 64¢, only 53 cents per day during the past nine months.

In connection with the above table, I beg leave to refer to the following statement, showing the prices of articles of merchandise, provisions, etc., used in the prison for the last five years:

	1860 & 1861	1862 & 1863	1864
Wood, per cord.....	$1 50 to $1 75.....	$2.00 to $3.00	$3 00 to $4 50.
Flour, per sack.....	1 50 to 1 85.....	2 50	3 00 to 4 00.
Prison cloth, per yard.....	50 to 75.....	1 25	1 25 to 1 75.
Brown sheeting, per yard.....	10.....	25 to 34	50.
Striped sheeting,.....do.....	16.....	30 to 34	40.
Cotton drills,.....do.....	15.....	35	55.
Tickings.....do.....	15.....	40	45.
Denims,.....do.....	20.....	45	55.
Molasses, per gal.....	85 to 40.....	40 to 55	75 to 90.

Salt, per bbl.....	2 25.....	2 60	3 50 to 4 50.
Pork,.....do.....	10 00.....	10 00	20 00.

I may add, that the per diem of the mechanics connected with the institution, per act of legislature last winter, has been increased from $1 50 to $2 00.

There is still due from the state treasury, of the appropriation for current expenses, the sum of ten thousand dollars, ($10,000,) of which amount a small surplus will probably be left at the end of the year 1864.

The sum of one hundred dollars, ($100,) appropriated for the purchase of books, has been expended for that purpose, and thus we have laid the foundation for a new prison library. The few old books still on hand, are so much torn, worn and defaced, that they are entirely unfit for any further use, hence, our stock of books is not sufficient to afford a volume to each convict at the same time. I would, therefore, recommend that another appropriation of two hundred dollars be made for the benefit of the prison library.

After having made a careful estimate, with the present market prices for a basis, I believe that an appropriation of $80,000, together with the income of the prison, will be sufficient to defray the current expenses of this institution for the year 1865, and to meet such expenditures for improvements and repairs, as the best interest of the state should require.

The suggestion, advocated by the state prison committee last winter, that the affairs of this institution should be conducted on an exclusive cash basis, has been complied with as far as practicable. Although the sales of the different shops amounted to $4,895 94, there is only due the prison on book account the sum of $277 65, and it is my honest conviction, that no poor debts have been contracted during the year. In regard to the purchase of articles for the use of the prison, they were either cash paid at the time of purchase, or within thirty days thereafter. Duplicate bills of all purchases made, were demanded of the vendors, and one of them was filed in the Commissioner's office, and the other in the office of the secretary of state at the end of each month. To this gen-dearly officer, I feel myself much indebted for his courtesy, as well as for his counsel, by which he assisted me in the management of the affairs of the prison.

I have given tables showing the transactions in the cabinet, blacksmith and shoe shops. It will be noticed that the cabinet shop alone was carried on in a somewhat extensive manner. The work in the other two shops has been mainly, and in the tailor shop exclusively, for the benefit of the yard. A cooper shop was established by my predecessor during the latter part of his term, and a certain number of convicts, with my consent, let on contract to the "Green Bay Stave Company," for making barrels. For various reasons, this contract did not prove very profitable to the institution. I concluded, therefore, not to renew it for another year, but have the state, as soon as the contract ceases, manufacture coo-perage on her own account. We have received in cash from this shop, the sum of $97 64, and the sum of $961 81 will be due the prison for barrels already manufactured, as soon as delivered. The experiment thus made proved conclusively, to my mind, the correctness of the following remarks expressed by my predecessor in his last year's report. He says: "It would seem that the state ought to be able to employ the labor of so few men to as good advantage, and in some respects to better advantage, in the branches of mechanical labor already established, and being established, in making indispensable improvements, than to adopt the contract plan, and have to depend upon the uncertain responsibility of contractors at a time when the hazards of business life are manifold in view of the perilous state of affairs."

In conclusion, I wish to tender my heartfelt thanks to the officers of this institution, who assisted me so faithfully in the performance of the arduous duties of my office. And in connection with this subject, I feel obliged to confess, that it has always been a matter of much regret to me, that I was not authorized by law to pay to the keepers and guards two dollars, instead of one dollar and fifty cents per day. Taking into consideration the high prices of merchandise, provisions, fuel, etc., it seemed to me almost a bare impossibility, that they should be able to make a comfortable living with the wages now paid. I believe the law fixing the per diem of the subordinate officers of the prison, should be so amended as to leave it discretionary with the Commissioner to pay whatever he thought would be a fair compensation for their labor; for he alone is the proper judge of the value of the services they render, and of the responsibilities connected with their respective positions.

For information in regard to receipts and disbursements, prison statistics, stock and property on hand, etc., I beg leave to refer to the various tables annexed to this report.

HENRY CORDIER, State Prison Com.

DODGE COUNTY, ss.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 10th day of Nov., A. D. 1864.

JOHN WINGENDER, Notary Public:

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

WAUPUN, Sept. 30, 1864.

It again becomes my duty to submit my annual report in relation to the sanitary condition of this institution.

We have had during the past year about the usual amount of the more common diseases of this climate, arising mainly from sudden atmospheric changes, and cold and moisture inseparable from confinement within prison walls. A report of all these cases in detail I regard as superfluous.

From some unknown source, the small pox made its appearance within the prison during the month of February. A convict named Charles Stanly, convicted Nov. 28th, 1863, in Dane county, and sentenced to two years' imprisonment, was attacked with this disease, and died March 7th, 1864. Subsequently one other prisoner took the disease, and had confluent small pox severely, but recovered. Another had varioloid slightly.

By very general vaccination, and other precautionary measures, we succeeded in arresting the further extension of the disease.

No other epidemic disease has made its appearance within the prison walls.

I deem it worthy of remark, that, notwithstanding typhoid fever has been quite prevalent in the village and adjacent country, yet no case has appeared within the prison. This, together with the fact of the entire absence of all other diseases having a malarious origin, may be regarded as pretty conclusive evidence that our sanitary regulations are ample and successful.

When the ample and capacious sewer, now being constructed, shall be completed, as I doubt not it will be during the next year, it will add greatly to the healthfulness of the prison yard, and the comfort of those who are confined there.

In conclusion, I beg leave to tender my thanks to the officers of the prison for the prompt and efficient aid they have uniformly rendered me in my efforts to benefit the condition of the prisoners.

MARCUS SWAIN, M. D., Prison Physician.

CHAPLAIN'S REPORT.

WAUPUN, September 30, 1864.

Since entering upon the duties of the Chaplaincy of the state prison, it has been my constant aim to benefit the convicts morally and religiously, and thus ultimately benefit the society in which they may move after the expiration of their several terms of imprisonment. To this end, the efforts that have been made to interest and influence their minds, by the claims of the christian religion, to higher and nobler aspirations, the same great truths that impress the minds of others, will, I believe, not be wholly lost, when presented for the consideration of the prisoner; for verily, human nature is the same whether found within the convict's cell, or elsewhere. I have, therefore, ever endeavored to treat the convict as a man or woman, capable of reasoning, thinking and acting, believing this to be the true policy upon which to act, where a desire to do good is the object. Such was the treatment bestowed on the poor unfortunate, fallen ones by our blessed Savior during his sojourn upon our earth.

I have found the prisoners affable and communicative, ever willing, and often desirous, of listening to instruction; and I confidently anticipate that many will go away from the prison, to mingle again with society, reformed in heart, with honorable hopes and high aspirations for the future.

The efforts of the present administration have been, we are confident, to reform, improve and inspire with hope, the prisoners under his care. While the discipline has been firm, it has also been seasoned with mercy. The convicts, having the feelings common to our race, have appreciated the Commissioner's efforts for their good. This is clearly apparent by the good order and exertion to please, manifested by the convicts towards the overseers.

It is a fact worthy of continued remembrance by our legislators, that a very large proportion of the crimes committed, for which these persons have been convicted, was perpetrated under the influence of intoxicating drink. It is earnestly hoped that the time will come when some effective remedy shall be provided for this fruitful source of crime.

Through the continued kindness of the American Tract Society, the convicts are still furnished with the Tract Journal, an excellent religious monthly. Tracts in German have also been furnished for those of that tongue.

I but express my candid convictions, that many of the convicts will go away from this institution better men and better women than when they came, on account of the efforts that have been made in their behalf. Many express their firm resolutions that, with the assistance of Divine Providence, their lives hereafter shall be such as to bring no reproach on the name of our glorious Redeemer.

D. A. WAGNER, Prison Chaplain.

MANAGERS' REPORT.

To His Excellency, JAMES T. LEWIS,

Governor of the State of Wisconsin.

The Board of Managers of the State Reform School, in presenting their Fifth Annual Report, are pleased to say that they find in the records of the past year, increasing evidence of the successful accomplishment of the end designed in the establishment of the school. In all of the departments, we find a good degree of order and industry, as well as discipline maintained. In educational advantages alone, we think the school is surpassed by few in the State, while the reformatory influences combined, make it a most desirable home for those who are deprived of needful parental care and restraint. We believe there is a very great mistake committed by many parents and friends, in their efforts to remove the children from the wholesome restraints and instruction of the school. The following remarks of the Superintendent of the Chicago Reform School meet our views more fully, and we present them for candid consideration. He says: "A boy seldom, if ever, comes to us that does not need the restraints and influences that we throw around him here. When a boy's behavior is such here that we can feel that he is likely to go out and do well for himself, we must cheerfully recommend that you grant him a ticket-of-leave. Petitions, letters and statements are frequently presented to you to prove, either that boys are sent without cause, or that they are too good to be held here; but, unfortunately for the petitioners, neither the facts produced in evidence before the Commissioner, nor the conduct of the boy, after coming here, correspond with the statements of parties desiring their release. The law requires a boy to be kept here until he is of age, or a good boy, and to release him before his behavior is good is to effectually destroy the purposes and government of the school."

Either the boy should be allowed to remain under the care and instruction of the school until his behavior warrants his discharge, or he should not be sent here at all. Interference on the part of friends, not only embarrasses the workings of the school, but impedes the progress of the inmates. Boys of this class learn subordination only when there is no alternative; but let the impression be received that they can be discharged in a few weeks, and all efforts for true reformation of character will be rendered fruitless. The boy will only put on a decent behavior for the time, in anticipation of free indulgence, when released. We submit, whether the Board should not have the entire control of this matter, inasmuch as the law confers upon them the full authority as well as the responsibility.

The expenses of the institution during the past year, have been much greater than was anticipated, both on account of the large number of inmates received, and the high prices of provision, and clothing. While it will be seen from an examination of the accounts and bills of purchase that the supplies have been obtained at the best possible advantage, yet the items of expenditure, exceed the amount of appropriation, and had there not been a large balance in the hands of the Treasurer, at the commencement of the year, we should not have been able to meet the current expenses up to the present time. The following is a statement of the expenses:

Farming utensils,.....	$47 76
Furniture,.....	646 88
Books and stationery,.....	247 68
Bedding and clothing,.....	2, 870 06
Provisions,.....	3, 765 78
Shoe shop,.....	388 85
Fuel and lights,.....	854 24
Improvements and repairs,.....	281 81
Live stock,.....	43 00
Miscellaneous,.....	282 95
Salaries,.....	2, 701 00
Managers,.....	322 10
Total,.....	$12, 456 58

We have expended on the building authorized to be erected by the last Legislature the whole amount of the appropriation, $3,500 00, and it will require a further sum of $600 00 to complete the same and surroundings.

It will be seen by the Report of our Treasurer, that all the money appropriated and in his hands has been expended, and a small balance of $34 46 due him.

There will be required to pay current expenses up to the first of January, and complete the building, $4,000 00, and an appropriation for that amount we respectfully suggest should be made by the Legislature in advance of the general appropriation.

The current expenses of the Institution was the past year $12,406 53. At the commencement of the year there were 72 inmates, and we now have 140. The additional building will necessarily entail additional expense, and with 160 inmates, which number we shall probably very soon reach, we estimate the least at which we can carry on the School the ensuing year to be $14,325 50. There is due from counties $2,325 50, which will leave $12,000 00 to be appropriated by the Legislature for current expenses from January 1st, 1865.

We wish again earnestly to call the attention of the Legislature to the law providing for commitments to the Reform School.

Some officers will not send vagrants there at all, because part of the expense has to be borne by the county from whence sent, and the consequence is an increase of crime among the juveniles. As an instance, the county of Milwaukee has not sent any to the Institution except for crime during the past year, and officers hesitate not to say, that they will not send any while the county has any thing to pay. All admit that there are those now vagrants who soon will be criminals, and still the paltry sum of one dollar per week weighs more than the welfare of the children, or the good of society, with a majority of the supervisors.

That part of the law requiring counties to pay one dollar per week for keeping in the Institution any of the inmates, should be repealed.

The Report of our Superintendent is full of interest and we call your attention particularly thereto. No more faithful, laborious and earnest man in reforming youth can be found than Dr. Barratt, and his family are well adapted to the wants of the Institution. They all work hard and are entitled to our commendation.

We append hereto the rules and by-laws of the Reform School, and the law as it now stands, hoping by that means to carry the information to all the editors in the State, that there is such an Institution; but without expectation that it will find its way to more than half the Justices of the Peace in the State.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM BLAIR,
ANDREW E. ELMORE,
JOHN HODGSON,
EDWARD O'NEILL,

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the Board of Managers of the State Reform School:

GENTLEMEN—Another year of cares and duties, of responsibilities and trusts, of blessings and mercies received, has closed.

In presenting this, the Fifth Annual Report of the State Reform School, it becomes a pleasing duty to record the manifest smiles of a benignant Providence upon the school, not only in the preservation of life and health, but in the measure of success that has attended the work of our hands. The following tabular statements are submitted:

	Boys.	Girls.	Total.
Whole number of inmates received since the opening of the School,	210	86	246
No. in School at date of last report,	69	13	72
No. committed during the year,	74	9	83

Whole number in school during the year,	133	22	155
---	-----	----	-----

There have been discharged as follows:

Returned to care of parents,	7	0	7
Out in families on trial,	1	2	3
Enlisted in the army,	3	0	3
Paroled by the Governor,	2	0	2
Escaped,	3	0	3

Total,	16	2	18
Remaining in school Sept. 30, 1864,	117	20	137

The number of commitments has been greater than any previous year, while the number discharged has been less. This has crowded our building so that every available space has been occupied with beds, even to holes and stair-windings. To make room for the increasing number, a partition was thrown across the hall in the third story, making a room for two or three beds, besides opening a passage to one of the Hospital rooms from the boys dormitory. Four boys occupy this room. In several instances we have been compelled to allow two boys to occupy the same bed.

The number of commitments during each month is as follows:

October, 1863,	5
November, do,	5
December, do,	8
January, 1864,	4
February, do,	7
March, do,	7
April, do,	5
May, do,	6
June, do,	14
July, do,	11
August, do,	7
September, do,	9

Total..... 83

They were committed from the following counties :

Columbia County.....	8
Crawford.....do.....	1
Dane.....do.....	8

Total,	83

Their nativity is as follows :

Forty-two were born in.....	Wisconsin.
Twenty.....do.....	New York.
Three.....do.....	Ohio.
Three.....do.....	Maine.
Two.....do.....	Massachusetts.
Two.....do.....	Illinois.
Two.....do.....	Indiana.
One.....do.....	Minnesota.
One.....do.....	Rhode Island.
One.....do.....	New Jersey.

One was born in.....	Connecticut.
Onedo.....	Pennsylvania.
Onedo.....	Tennessee.
Onedo.....	Ireland.
Onedo.....	England.
Onedo.....	Norway.

Their parentage is as follows :

Irish,.....	26
German,.....	18
English,.....	7
Welsh,.....	1
French,.....	8
Scotch,.....	1
Norwegian,.....	1
African,.....	2
American,.....	29
Total,.....	88

Their previous social and moral condition is shown by the following table :

Number who have lost both parents,.....	11
.....do....who have lost father only,.....	18
.....do....who have lost mother only,.....	8
.....do....who have step-parents,	17
.....do....whose father is in the army,.....	16
.....do....whose parents quarreled and do not live together,.....	3
.....do....whose parents one or both are intemperate,.....	26
.....do....whose parents sell intoxicating drinks,.....	1
.....do....who have been truants from school,.....	62

.....do....addicted to the use of tobacco,.....	50
.....do....addicted to the use of intoxicating drinks,.....	46
.....do....whose father is in state prison,.....	5
Whole number received and examined,.....	88

The above table has been prepared from an examination of the inmates under circumstances which make their statements reliable, and yet it is not probable that half of the evil influences to which many of them were exposed are here presented. It is impossible to exhibit the demoralizing surroundings of many households. Herding like cattle in the same shanty, the restraints of common decency are often laid aside and vulgar conversation mingled with profane and obscene oaths form the daily intercourse. Nothing is more common in such families than to witness the indecent exposure of person, and which is not always confined to the younger children. With every thing to foster depraved passion, and the entire neglect of intellectual and moral culture, it is not strange the child should early become an adept in vice. In some cases boys have been arrested three or four times for larceny before reaching the age of ten years. In others, such has been the neglect of intellectual culture, that, living within the sound of one of the best of our public schools, they have reached the age of fourteen without knowing a single letter of the alphabet.

It will be noticed from the tables given, that a less number have been discharged from the school, than during any previous year. The difficulty in finding suitable places for the boys has prevented our giving "tickets-of-leave," when, if good offers had been made, in proper families, we should have placed more on trial. Our experience in this matter has not been entirely satisfactory. In some instances the desire has been to make the most out of the boy, and he has been subjected to the severest drudgery, without any regard for his mental or moral improvement. And because the boy would not submit to incessant servitude, and contrived to escape as from a taskmaster, we have been censured for inefficiency in discipline.

The work of juvenile reformation is far from being completed when the most hopeful cases are deemed proper subjects for trial in families. It is believed, however, they are so far under the control of growing moral principle, that even the most ordinary parental watchfulness will be sufficient to control any temptations to vicious indulgences. It is expected such watchfulness will be exercised, and an interest felt in the development and perfection of moral character. It is our aim to plant the germs of future manhood, and when we transfer the work to other hands, we expect it to be taken up with an interest and energy that will insure success. We have sometimes yielded to the importunities of parents and friends, and have released inmates, when the result has shown that we had better retained them longer under our care. Some of the worst boys we have had, are those for whom there has appeared the most parental fondness, and the most urgent efforts made for their discharge. In these cases there was a complete oversight of parental obligation and duties, while the original propensities of the child were not only unrestrained, but pampered by indulgence. To return such, after a few months residence at the school, to the same influences and unrestrained indulgence, would be worse than folly. It would be a crime against the moral nature thus jeopardized, and a wrong done to the community and State.

Notwithstanding all our efforts to the contrary, the Reform School still continues to be regarded by very many, as a place for the punishment of crime. Parents and friends often express, in their communications with the inmates, a feeling of regret and shame, as if a degree of disgrace attaches to the family when one of their number is committed to the school. They look with entire unconcern upon the irregularities and growing propensity to vice in their boy, so long as he escapes arrest and detection. They feel not the dishonor of having a disobedient child, and make but little, if any effort, to stop his certain progress to actual crime. But when the State interposes in behalf of the boy, and places him under the restraints and corrective influences of this school, the greatest indignation, is often manifested, and no efforts are spared to remove him from our watchful care and instruction. The entire character of the school is misapprehended. During the past two years, many have been committed because incorrigible or vicious during the absence of the father in the army, and the plea of injustice and ingratitude is urged against their commitment and retention in the school, as if the State should reward the patriotism of the parent by suffering his child to go uncared for, and to glide along unrestrained, in the pathway to crime. No greater wrong could be inflicted, or ingratitude expressed. Nor should it be deemed other than an act of considerate kindness, when the child is thus placed under judicious control, and unwearied pains taken to develop his moral and intellectual nature. We are often gratified with the visits of parents, who find their impressions wrong, and who go away with the most pleasing assurances of entire satisfaction in the management and system of instruction adopted.

In a majority of cases of those discharged, when the conduct has been uniformly good for months previous, we are happy to say, the work of reformation has gone on, fast ripening into noble manhood. From many, encouraging letters are received, showing marked improvement, and giving the most satisfactory evidence of thorough reformation.

The following is a statement of the amounts due from the several counties, for the support of inmates:

Crawford.....County,.....	$11 50
Dane.....do.....	200 50
Dodge.....do.....	14 00

Whole amount due,	$2,825 50

DEPARTMENTS OF LABOR.

The following is a statement of the number of boys employed in the different departments of labor during the year:

Average number employed in shoe shop,.....	80
do.....do.....in tailor shop,.....	18
do.....do.....on the farm,.....	13
do.....do.....in kitchen and dormitories,.....	9
do.....do.....in the knitting-room,.....	30
Number employed on the new building,.....	6

Our time table has remained unchanged, with the exception of one-half hour more given to labor, closing at six p. m. instead of five thirty, as formerly.

THE FARM.

During the summer the farmer boys have worked most of the time, frequently spending only one morning hour in school. In this way we have performed a much larger amount of work, than any previous year. We have now put under improvement all of the land suitable for cultivation, and have, in addition, cultivated fifteen acres belonging to Mr. Walton. From six to eight boys were employed during the harvest, following the reaper and threshing machine; often unattended by any officer, and at a distance of two miles from the school. They went and returned daily, for several weeks with great punctuality, and in only one instance was there a betrayal of confidence reposed—one boy escaped, but was soon retaken. For their work, from fifty to seventy-five cents per day was charged. The amount of their earnings will be shown in a subsequent table. The boys were allowed the afternoon of every Saturday for play, according to the established rule of the school,—some, however, chose to work, and were permitted to receive their wages.

In some instances the boys were allowed to remain at their place of work, during the night, but in all cases one of their number would be sent to the school to obtain permission. On one occasion, two boys were sent three miles and worked five days, returning promptly at the expiration of the time. With one or two exceptions, their conduct, as well as labor, gave entire satisfaction. Several farmers for whom work has been performed, speak in the highest terms of their general deportment.

We take great pleasure in making these statements, because we think they show, most clearly, the reformatory power of the school. For it must be remembered that most of those thus employed, have been committed to the school within one or two years, without any habits of industry, and incorrigible or viciously disposed. We think the improvement has been more marked in the farmer boys, than in any other department of labor. And this leads us to urge again, the importance of having more land for cultivation. Not only should employment be furnished for a greater number, but the amount of farm products should be increased four-fold. In no way can the expenses of this institution be so readily reduced, besides fitting the boys for that employment, which, of all others, is the most urgent and important to the state.

The following is a statement of the amounts received for work done in all the departments, and for products sold:

Whole amount of receipts for farm work done by the boys since October 1, 1868.....	$342 20
For work done in shoe shop.....	114 15
For work done in tailor shop.....	52 00
For seven pigs sold.....	12 00
For hay sold.....	18 00
For one cow sold.....	35 00
For syrup barrels sold.....	10 63
For calf skins sold.....	2 16

Whole amount of receipts.....	$586 23
-------------------------------	-----------------

This amount is credited on several bills for the current expenses of the school.

THE SHOPS.

The large increase in the number of inmates has required a much greater amount of work in the shops, than any previous year. A large number of boys in the tailor shop have been constantly employed in repairing garments, while the number of suits required to furnish each inmate received, has given but little time for outside work. In the shoe shop good proficiency has been made in learning the trade, and a fair amount of outside work performed. Great credit is due to Mr. Pfoffer, the foreman, for the excellent discipline of the shop. During his necessary absence of one month, the work went on in excellent order, under the direction of one boy, as foreman, and another as monitor. Two boys from the shop have obtained good situations in the village of Waukesha, with fair wages. We shall soon open another room for a shoe shop, giving employment during the winter, to about twenty more boys.

• IMPROVEMENTS.

The work on the new building is being rapidly pushed forward, and we hope to have it ready for occupation by the first of November. Three or four of the larger boys have been employed with the carpenters, and two or three with the masons—all of the digging and grading for the basement, cellar, cistern and well has been done by the boys. The great increase in the price of material, as well as the value of labor, since the appropriation was made, will possibly make the cost of the building exceed the original estimates. Yet, as the heaviest purchases were made early in the spring at the lowest figures, it is hoped that the expense will not go far beyond the appropriation. The labor performed by the boys, together with the large amount of stone obtained on the premises for the basement walls, will reduce materially the amount of expenditure.

The building when completed will accommodate thirty or thirty-five of the smaller boys. From its arrangement it is believed that it will not only furnish a delightful home, but possess reformatory advantages not surpassed by any school.

The accompanying report of the assistant superintendent presents the standing and progress of the inmates in the school department during the year. It is our aim to furnish facilities for mental culture equal to any school in the State, and the results show that our efforts have been crowned with success. Some of the boys have improved rapidly, and when discharged have entered the higher departments in our public schools. We have continued the same general course of instruction and discipline as in previous years. There has been an increasing spirit of obedience and subordination, and a higher tone of moral sentiment pervading the school.

The religious exercises have been conducted as before, and many thanks are due to kind friends in Waukesha who have assisted us in the sabbath school and morning service.

Our sabbath school library is much worn by constant use and needs replenishing. We acknowledge with pleasure a donation of eight volumes from the Episcopal sabbath school of Waukesha.

The health of the inmates has been remarkably good during the entire year. No cases of sickness of any importance have occurred, and scarcely any medical treatment has been necessary.

The reports from boys who have been discharged from the school, have, in almost all cases, been very encouraging. From many we receive frequent letters, and a number have made us visits during the year. These have served to cheer and animate us in our work, and to give us the assurance that principles rightly implanted will be developed into future excellence and beauty.

With many thanks for your kind co-operation and sympathy, I respectfully submit this Report.

MOSES BARRETT,
Sup't.

In addition to the branches mentioned above, we have two classes in "Clark's Grammar," the more advanced of which has learned to parse and diagram well. The above tables show the progress and standing of the school. We trust that the promotions have been made justly, and that the progress has been real and permanent. In our method of teaching, and in the studies pursued, we have kept in view practical results. We have rejected every kind of display, and have endeavored to secure for our pupils a thorough knowledge of the common branches. To reading, especially, we give much time and care. We have aimed to form a familiar style, and an intelligent understanding of every word and sentence. In writing, the advancement has been yet more visible. A half hour in each day is faithfully devoted to this exercise; and many who came here unable to form a letter, can, in a few months, correspond with their friends at home. In addition to our regular exercise, the school room is opened every Saturday afternoon, for those who may wish to write letters.

Our evening schools have been an important feature the past year. With our increasing numbers, it was found impossible, in the regular school hours, to instruct properly all the classes. Accordingly two evenings of each week have been devoted to spelling and declamation. Our spelling exercise is, in part, conducted orally, while some of the classes write the words on the board. One class has recently completed the book, and all are advancing rapidly. In declamation, many have made marked progress, both in their style of speaking, and the kind of pieces chosen. In geography and arithmetic, by frequent reviews, moderate length of lessons, and judicious assistance, it has been our purpose to master thoroughly every principle, rather than to go over superficially a large number of pages. In the recitations, every scholar has been made, as far as expedient, to depend on his own resources; and we can see in many, an increasing confidence in their ability to overcome the difficulties which present themselves. Fifteen minutes of each day are devoted to the practice of Calisthenics. The scholars have manifested much enthusiasm in the exercise, and have gained a very creditable precision of movement. Thus we feel that a healthy progress has been made in all the studies pursued, and have confidence that the school will not compare unfavorably with other schools of the same grade.

In consequence of our rapid increase in numbers, it became necessary to form a primary department, which was opened, April 1st, in the room, used in work hours, as the knitting shop. There are at present fifty-one pupils in the department, who are being rapidly fitted, by their efficient teacher, for the higher school.

In the discipline of the school, we have endeavored to promote a familiarity of intercourse between teacher and pupil as far as it is consistent with good order. In a majority of cases, a kind word timely spoken, has been sufficient to check the offender. It has been necessary to resort to severity but rarely, and then only when all other means had failed. Our object has been, not only to instruct the school, and preserve order, but also, to watch closely, and correct their morals and manners—to encourage a manly and truthful spirit, and by kind words, lead them to forget their past life and strive after a nobler one. Nor do we work without hope, for in the brightening countenances we see about us, there is a sure indication that something better is gaining control within—that some are beginning to resolve more firmly—to think more purely and to act more worthily.

Respectfully submitted,
 CHARLES S. SHELDON, Principal,
 H. E. BARRETT, Assistant.

LETTERS FROM BOYS WHO HAVE BEEN DISCHARGED FROM THE

Sept. 11, 1864.

Dear Dr.—I have been looking for an answer to the last letter I wrote, but all in vain. As the end of my month is almost up, I thought I would write again. I am well and hope you and all the family are the same. I should like to see you all very much. I was examined this year for the Grammar School and I stood the highest but one, and he had been to the grammar school in another place. I am going to school steady all of the time.

From your friend,

G. W.

Oct. 2, 1864.

Dear Sir :—Willie has hired out to Mr. ———, for eight dollars a month. He has been a very good boy since he has been at home. He did not like to work at his trade, so I thought it would be just as well for him to work on a farm.

Yours, &c.,

Mrs. B. S.

Sept. 5, 1864.

Dear Teacher :—I received your kind letter Sept. 1st, and meant to answer it that night, but I was away. I attend sabbath school regularly now, and some sabbaths I am the only boy in the class that has the lesson perfectly. I have got that boy that I work with, so he don't swear at all only when he gets mad, and to-day he got cut quite bad in the leg, so I think that will help some. I tell him how we boys used to swear, and how we tried to leave it off by tying a string around one of our fingers to make us think. I think I shall win him over, by the Savior's help, so that he will pray by and bye. I have got kind friends to live with and like it here pretty well, but after all, there is no place like home, and I wish I was back with you all again. I havn't forgot to read my Bible every day and I pray too. I hope you will write soon.

Your scholar, N. O. N.

Dear Teacher :—I was very glad to get your letter which my father brought me from the post office. I am working now with my father, and get $2,25 per day—I like it pretty well here, only its so wicked. I don't neglect prayer at all, for I could not live without it in this great city. I have a great many temptations to drink liquor, for the water is so bad, but so far I have refused every one, and I mean to all of the time.

There is more wickedness going on here on the sabbath than any other day. I go to Mr. Moody's sabbath school, and I think it is a very good one; but sometimes on the sabbath I feel very loney and wish I was back again in the yard hearing you read. I hope you will pray for me that I may never be left to go back to my old ways again. Write soon.

Your scholar, G. E. D.

VICKSBURG, July 9, 1864.

Dear Teacher :—I suppose you will be surprised to hear from me here, but after I left the school, I went down to Chicago to work, but I finally thought I had as good right to go fight for the old flag as any one, so I enlisted in the 72d Ill., and am now here. I had some fun the other day. There were three very nice looking ladies came to the Provost Marshal to get a pass to go south. But he suspected them, so he told me to take them over to Mrs. Gov. Harvey to be searched, but she found nothing contraband. So then he told me to send their baggage. When I was searching one large Saratoga trunk, they looked pretty pale, so I thought I had not seen all there was in the trunk. I measured and found it deeper outside than inside. So I took my knife and ripped up what proved to be a false bottom, and found several thousand dollars worth of quinine packed away. The quinine was confiscated, and the ladies were taken to prison to think over the error of their ways and dream of Dixie far away. I have seen some pretty hard times, and sometimes wished myself back again, but I am glad I can fight for the dear old flag. Write soon.

F. Q.

HEADQUARTERS, near Fort Corcoran, }
Sept. 25, 1864. }

Dear Sir :—I have a little time to-night to write you a few lines, but you must excuse me for not writing before. You see I have no time to write: we are here, at headquarters, guarding the general and staff—we are on guard every other day, and in the afternoon when we come off from guard we have to work. When my time is up I am coming to the school to see all of the boys. I have got that testament that you sent me and I read it every day. What do you think about the war? Do you think it will close pretty soon? I think it will not close up very soon, but we will have some hard fighting before the election day comes round. What do you think about the election? Who are you going to vote for? I am going to vote for Abe Lincoln to be president. We have some men in this company who say they would just as soon vote for Jeff. Davis as to vote for Lincoln—but I say, send them out of our lines to the rebels

From your friend,

T. U.

The following is from two boys who escaped from the school last year and enlisted as drummer boys:

St. Louis, Sept. 6, 1864.

Dear Sir :—I now take the pleasure of writing to you a few lines to let you know how we are getting along. We were both in the battle of Prairie Grove. Thomas got wounded in the left hip and the left arm, and I got shot in the right arm just above the elbow. We have just got out of the hospital and are able to run around. We are both in the same company. We have had hard times since we left Waukesha. We have been away down in Arkansas, and, for all we do not drink, nor use tobacco nor swear. We are trying to be as good as we can, but it is hard for a boy to keep himself very straight in the army. How are all the family. We send them our best respects, and tell them never to try to get away; They don't know what good times they have there; we would give anything to be back again.

From your friends,

J. C. & T. M.

PINE BLUFF, ARK., May 5th, 1864.

DR. MOSES BARRETT, Sup't State Reform School :

Respected Sir :—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a splendid assortment of tracts and papers from the office of the American Temperance Union, New York, the contribution from the boys of the State Reform School in Waukesha.

I have caused these tracts to be distributed in the hospital and through the companies, informing the men that they came from the boys of the State Reform School, in Waukesha.

Allow me in behalf of the men of the 28th regiment to thank the boys of the State Reform School for their interest thus substantially shown to the soldiers in the field. It may be gratifying for them to know, that already some of these tracts have been distributed among the wounded men of the 3d division, who fought so bravely at Jenkin's Ferry on the 30th of April.

Respectfully yours,

ALBERT S. KENDRICK, Adj. 28th Wis. Inf. Vols.

NOTE.—A word of explanation may be necessary in relation to the above letter. Some of the boys receive from their parents and friends a little money—from five to twenty-five cents—which they may use, with the permission of the Superintendent, for apples, candies, pocket-knife, paper and envelopes, etc., as they may choose to spend it. At one of our Band of Hope meetings, it was suggested to send a package of tracts and papers to the 28th Regiment of Wis. Vols., in which there were many friends and acquaintances of the boys. This was cheerfully responded to—some obtaining a few cents by working during the time allowed for play. The amount, ($2 50,) was thus raised and forwarded, and if the recipients of the donation were not benefited, certainly the donors themselves were better and happier for the gift.

RULES AND BY-LAWS.

The managers of the State Reform School do ordain and establish the following Ordinance and By-Laws for their own government, the government of the Institution and its officers, and the discipline of the inmates thereof:

MEETING OF THE BOARD.

SECTION 1. The Board of Managers, three of whom shall be necessary to form a quorum for the transaction of business, shall meet at the office of the Superintendent on the first Wednesday in January, April, July and October annually—the second of which meeting shall be styled the annual meeting. Extra meetings may be held either by adjournment or by request of a majority of the managers in writing; and in all cases of extra meetings, the Managers shall be notified by the Secretary of the time and place of such meeting, by personal information, or by depositing in the mail, to the address of each manager, at least one week before said meeting, a notice of the time thereof, and for what purpose called.

SEC. 2. At all meetings of the Board, the following shall be observed as the regular order of business: 1st. Reading and approving minutes of previous meeting. 2d. Petitions and communications presented and considered. 3d. Reports of officers of the Institution. 4th. Reports of officers and committees of this Board. 5th. Unfinished business, or business lying on the table. 6th. Miscellaneous business connected with the Institution and all matters pertaining thereto, not included in the above specifications. 7th. Before the adjournment of each meeting sine die, is declared, the meeting shall cause the minutes thereof to be read and approved.

SEC. 3. The common Parliamentary Rules that govern deliberative bodies shall be used to govern the meetings; and, on all questions before the Board, the ayes and nays shall be recorded at the request of any member.

OFFICERS OF THE BOARD AND THEIR DUTIES.

SEC. 4. The officers of the Board of Managers shall be a President, Vice-President, Treasurer and Secretary, who shall be chosen by ballot at the Annual Meeting—each of whom shall hold his office for one year, or until his successor shall have been chosen and prepared to enter upon the duties of the same. Vacancies in any of the offices may be filled at any meeting of the Board.

SEC. 5. The President shall preside at all meetings of the Board, and shall sign all orders on the Treasurer for the disbursement of money, and perform such other duties as the Board may direct. The Vice-President shall discharge all the duties of President, when the latter is absent.

SEC. 6. The Treasurer shall execute to the State a bond, with at least two freehold sureties to be approved by the President, in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties and disbursements of all moneys which may come into his hands by virtue of said office, according to law and the by-laws of the Institution; and whenever the said bond shall have been executed and approved, as herein set forth, the President shall notify the Secretary of such approval, who shall record the same on the minutes of the Board, and the said bond shall then be deposited in the office of the Secretary of State. The Treasurer shall receive no compensation for his services.

SEC. 7. Whenever there shall be money appropriated for the State Reform School, the Treasurer may draw the same in sums not to exceed the penalty in his bond, and at least one-half the amount thus drawn shall have been disbursed before any further sum shall be drawn from the State Treasury, and at no time shall the amount in the hands of the Treasurer exceed the amount of the penalty in said bond.

SEC. 8. A certificate from the Secretary showing the amount of money in the hands of the Treasurer at date of last report, and the amount paid since last report, as per voucher returned to the Secretary, shall be evidence to the State Treasurer of the disbursements thereof.

SEC. 9. The Treasurer, upon the reception of any money belonging to the Reform School, shall immediately notify the Secretary, giving the date of reception, amount from whom received, and the Secretary shall charge the same to the Treasurer, in a book to be kept for that purpose.

SEC. 10. The Treasurer shall keep a record of all disbursements of money made by him, which he shall pay only on such bills as shall have been endorsed by the Superintendent, or verified by affidavit, and attested by the Secretary, as allowed by the Board of Managers; and all such bills properly receipted, shall be his proper vouchers for the payment of the same. He shall make out, at the October meeting, a detailed statement of all his receipts and disbursements during the previous year, which statement shall be published with the Annual Report.

SEC. 11. The Secretary shall keep a record of the proceedings of the Board, and shall perform such other services for the institution as the Board of Managers shall direct. He shall file and preserve all papers presented to and relating to any business of the Board, and no paper shall be permitted to be taken from the files except by a vote of the Board, to be entered upon the minutes.

SEC. 12. The members shall at all times have access to the minutes of the Board, and the papers on file with the Secretary, and if, from any cause, the Secretary shall be absent from the meeting, the President may appoint a Secretary pro tem.

SEC. 13. The Secretary shall keep a record in gross, of the accounts allowed at each meeting of the Board, and shall cause a list of accounts, with their several amounts, and to whom allowed, to be appended to the Annual Report.

OFFICERS OF THE INSTITUTION AND THEIR DUTIES.

SEC. 14. The officers of the Reform School, shall be a Superintendent, an Assistant Superintendent and Matron, who shall hold their offices during the pleasure of the Board.

SEC. 15. All officers of the Institution shall be chosen by ballot of the Managers, as follows: The Managers shall openly nominate such person or persons as they may think fit for the office which is about to be filled. Opportunity shall then be given to the members in a free conversation, to express their opinions as to the qualifications of such persons: An informal ballot shall then be taken, and the result declared, and the Board may then proceed to make an election, provided that three votes will be required to elect or remove the Superintendent.

SEC. 16. The Superintendent shall have power to appoint such persons as may be necessary for the wants of the Institution, subject to the approval of the Board, and shall be the chief Executive officer, and responsible head of the Institution, subject to the direction of the Managers and Executive Committee. He shall prepare a code of rules and regulations for the government of persons employed in the Institution, and the inmates thereof, and shall see that all officers and employees are energetic and faithful in all respects, in the performance of their duties.

SEC. 17. The Superintendent shall present to the Board at the quarterly meeting in October, a detailed report of the situation of the Institution, with a list of the persons received therein during the preceding year, and their disposition, and make such suggestions as he may deem beneficial thereto; he shall also cause to be kept in books to be provided for that purpose, a correct account of all the expenditures of the Institution, and for what purpose, and also any amounts received from the shops and tailor shops, farm products, or any other source, under appropriate heads, and present a balance sheet of the same with his Annual Report.

SEC. 18. All accounts for the supplies for the Institution, for contracts of the Superintendent, and for salaries of officers and employees of the Reform School, must be endorsed as correct by the Superintendent, before the same will be audited and allowed by the Board of Managers.

SEC. 19. The salary of the Superintendent shall be at the rate of one thousand dollars per year; of the Assistant Superintendent not to exceed seven hundred dollars per year; and of the Matron, two hundred dollars per year, to be paid quarterly; and they shall reside in the Institution and devote all their time and labor to the service thereof.

SEC. 20. The furniture necessary for the Superintendent and family shall be furnished by himself, and the officers and employees of the Institution shall board therein at the expense of the State; but no officer or employee, except the Superintendent, shall have a family in the Institution.

SEC. 21. The Superintendent shall enter in a book, to be provided for that purpose, the name, age, sex, birth place, from whence and by whom committed, the time of reception, and obtain, as nearly as possible, a brief correct history and description of the person of each individual committed to the Institution, the delinquency for which committed, and when discharged; and if apprenticed, the name and place of residence of the person to whom apprenticed; and in case of death, the time and cause thereof; and such record shall be at all times open to the inspection of each member of the Board.

SEC. 22. The average length of time inmates shall remain in the school, subject to its discipline and instruction, shall be two years. No inmate shall be discharged by the Superintendent before that period, without the advice and consent of at least two members of the Board of Managers.

SEC. 23. The Superintendent shall not sign any petition or certificate of good behavior, for the pardon of any inmate, without the advice and consent of the Board.

SEC. 24. Amendments may be made to the By-Laws at any quarterly meeting: Provided, however, that no such amendment shall be made unless there shall be three votes in the affirmative.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

Prepared by the Superintendent and adopted by the Board of Managers for the Government of the Officers and Inmates of the State Reform School.

1st. Every inmate of the School, when received, shall be placed in a proper class, and some suitable employment assigned to him by the Superintendent; and no change of classification or of labor, shall be made except by his order.

2d. Every inmate shall engage in some manual labor during such hours as shall be designated in the daily programme, and shall attend to the instruction given during the hours of School, as well as upon such religious exercises as shall be established. Nothing of a sectarian character shall be allowed in such exercises, nor shall the religious opinions of the inmates be interfered with.

3d. All profane and indecent language is strictly forbidden, and no inmate shall be permitted to assault or quarrel with a fellow inmate, or to apply offensive epithets, or to have angry disputes with another. nor shall any one be allowed to make any noise or disturbance in the dormitories after retiring:

4th. All persons employed in the Institution shall attend the religious exercises on the Sabbath, and the daily devotional exercises, unless excused by the Superintendent.

5th. Every employee shall endeavor to enforce the Rules and Regulations of the Institution, but no subordinate officer or employee shall be allowed to inflict any corporeal punishment upon any inmate, or to use any force, except such as may be necessary for proper restraint. Every case of violation of Rules or delinquency shall be reported to the Superintendent.

6th. No person, whether inmate or employee, shall be allowed to leave the grounds or absent himself from duty without the permission of the Superintendent.

7th. No intoxicating drinks shall be allowed about the Institution, and no employee or inmate shall be allowed to use any tobacco, or to have any about his person.

8th. No gambling or games of chance shall be permitted, and all plays or games of amusement shall be prohibited on the Sabbath.

9th. Every person shall arise at the call of the bell, and enter promptly upon the duties assigned to him.

10th. Visits from citizens will be received at any hour during the day, but the afternoon of each week day will be more agreeable to the officers. Parents and friends of the inmates are desired to make their visits on Saturdays. No private conversation will be allowed between visitors and inmates.

11th. No visits will be received on the Sabbath, except from those who assist in the religious exercises. Any person who may desire to give moral and religious instruction to the inmates will be permitted to do so at the stated exercises; provided, the Rules for religious instruction be strictly adhered to.

CLASSIFICATION AND DISCIPLINE.

The school is divided into five grades or classes, founded entirely upon behavior. A distinction is made in each grade at the table, and in the privileges of the school. Every month the grades are revised and promotions are made according to the record of deportment. Boys, after remaining in the first grade for several months, with correct deportment, are promoted to the grade of honor: which entitles them to a diploma, signed by the Secretary and Superintendent. They are allowed to go any where upon the grounds, have a separate table, and are often placed in situations of trust and responsibility.

For the better observance of the Sabbath, a special monitor is appointed by the school, (usually one of the officers is chosen) who is instructed to mark every boy for any play, noise or disturbance, during the day. On Monday morning his report is read, and all whose names are reported, are required to go without play one day for each offense.

Each officer and employee is required to exercise a vigilant supervision over those placed under his charge, and all minor offenses which cannot be controlled by judicious management and kind reproof, must be reported to the Superintendent.

Boys are required to make their own reports for the following offenses: 1, Willful Disobedience—2, Quarrelling—3, Lying—4, Attempts to escape—5, Profanity—and 6, Obscenity. Reports from officers or from boys, are heard before the school, on the evenings of Monday, Tuesday and Friday immediately after the devotional exercises.

Reports improper to be heard before the school, are attended to by the Superintendent, in his office, on the same evenings after the exercises in the school room are closed.

PUNISHMENTS.

For Minor Offences.—Deprivation of play and other privileges, sitting in the hall; removal from the table at meals; loss of grade, &c.

For Severe Offences.—Removed to the fifth grade—with bread and water for meals, and sometimes the standing position: confinement in the room: and corporeal punishment. This last is resorted to only when all other means have failed, to correct the offender. A careful examination of every case is had before the school, and not only the nature of the offense, but the shades of guilt are carefully determined. The effect of these examinations is most salutary upon the whole school.

ADMISSION OF INMATES.

Letters are frequently addressed to us asking for information of the method of securing the admission of children to the school. We have therefore arranged the different acts of the Legislature relating to it, in one chapter, with reference to the volume of Session Laws in which each amendment is published.

CHAPTER 236, SESSION LAWS, 1861.

An Act for the Government and Management of the State Reform School, and to repeal Chapter 189, of the Revised Statutes, entitled "Of the House of Refuge."

SECTION 1. (As amended, Session Laws 1862, chapter 345, Sec. 1.)—The State Reform School, at Waukesha, in the county of Waukesha, shall be the place of confinement and instruction of all male children between the ages of eight and fifteen years, and of all female children between the ages of seven and fourteen years, who shall be legally committed to the State Reform School, as vagrants, or on conviction for any criminal offense, by any court having competent authority to make said commitment.

SEC. 2. (As amended, Session Laws 1863, chapter 187.)—From and after the first day of May, A. D. 1863, the Superintendent of the State Reform School, shall charge to each of the several counties in this State in a book provided by him for that purpose, the sum of one dollar per week, for the care and maintenance of each person remaining in said State Reform School, who was committed thereto as a vagrant, or by reason of incorrigible or vicious conduct, or who may thereafter be received into said State Reform School, committed for vagrancy or incorrigible or vicious conduct, from each of such counties respectively: provided, that the costs of the original commitment of all persons to said State Reform School, shall be chargeable to the county from which the person committed to said school is sent: and provided, further, that it shall be the duty of the Superintendent of said State Reform School to procure the arrest and return of any person escaping therefrom; and it shall also be the duty of any justice of the peace, marshal or constable, upon information of such escape, to arrest and return any such fugitive, as above mentioned.

SEC. 3. (As amended, Session Laws 1862, chapter 345, Sec. 2.)—The Superintendent of the State Reform School shall keep an accurate account of the amount due from each county for the support of persons therefrom, and shall annually, on or before the tenth day of October in each year, report to the Secretary of State, the amount which may then be due from each county for the year ending on the first day of October preceeding, which report shall state the name of each person for whom such account is rendered, the number of weeks which such person has been in said school during said year, and the amount charged for each of said persons respectively; and such oath shall be verified by the oath of said Superintendent as to its correctness.

SEC. 4. (Repealed.)

SEC. 5. (As amended, Session Laws 1862, chapter 345, Sec. 3.)—The Secretary of State shall add the amount due from any county in this State for the support of such persons to the State tax apportioned to said county, and such amount shall be collected and paid into the State Treasury for the use of the State Reform School.

SEC. 6. (As amended, Session Laws 1862, chapter 345, Sec. 4.)—The board of managers shall consist of five members who shall be appointed by the Governor and hold their offices for three years; said board to be divided into three classes, and so divided that the term of one class shall expire each year, on the first Tuesday of March, and shall receive for their compensation two dollars and fifty cents per day for every day actually employed, and ten cents per mile for every mile actually traveled, and shall verify their account by their oath or affirmation.

SEC. 7. Such managers shall have the power to make rules, regulations, ordinances and by-laws for the government, discipline and management of the state reform school, and the inmates thereof as to them may seem just and proper: provided, that such rules and by-laws shall be in accordance with the constitution of this state and the constitution of the United States; and they shall have power to place the children committed to their care, during the minority of said children, at such employments, and cause them to be instructed in such branches of useful knowledge, as shall be suited to their years and capacities; and they shall have power in their discretion to bind out the said children, with their consent or the consent of their parents or guardians, if they have any, as apprentices or servants during their minority, to such persons and at such places, to learn such proper trades and employments, as in their judgments will be most for their reformation and amendment, and the future benefit of such children: provided, that the charges and power of said managers upon and over the said children shall not extend, in the case of females, beyond the age of eighteen years: and provided, also, that the religious opinions of the inmates shall not be interfered with.

SEC. 8. The said managers shall appoint a superintendent of said state reform school and such officers as they may deem necessary for the interest of the institution, with a view to the accomplishment of the object of its establishment and economy of its management; and the said managers shall make out a detailed report to the governor of the performance of their duty, on or before the tenth day of October in each year, which report shall contain a statement of the number of persons in the school at the commencement of the year, the number received during the year, and in the institution at the commencement of the year, together with all such facts and statements as they may deem necessary to communicate; which report shall be laid before the legislature by the governor.

SEC. 9. All and singular the provisions contained in the chapter of the revised statutes, entitled "Of masters and apprentices," shall apply to the apprentices and servants, and the persons to whom they shall be bound under and by virtue of this act; and every minor so bound and the officers binding him and his master, shall be subject to all the provisions of said chapter.

SEC. 10. The courts and several magistrates in any county in the state may, in their discretion, sentence to the state reform school any such male or female who may be convicted before them as a vagrant, or of any petit larceny or misdemeanor; and the several courts may also, in their discretion, send to said state reform school any such male or female who may be convicted before them of any offense which, under the existing laws, would be punishable by imprisonment in the state prison: provided, in all cases, the term of commitment shall not be less, in the case of males, than to the age of twenty-one years, and in the case of females, than to the age of eighteen years.

SEC. 11. The managers of the state reform school shall have power, in their discretion, to restore any person duly committed to said school, to the care of his or her parents or guardian before the expiration of their minority, if in their judgement it would be most for the future benefit and advantage of such person.

SEC. 12. The courts and several magistrates in any county in the state shall also have power to commit to the state reform school any male or female child, under the ages specified in section one of this act, upon complaint and due proof made to said court or magistrate by the parent or guardian of such child, that by reason of incorrigible or vicious conduct, such child is beyond the control and power of such parent or guardian, and that a due regard for the morals and future welfare of such child manifestly require that he or she should be committed to the guardianship of the managers of said state reform school.

SEC. 13. The governor shall visit the state reform school once at least in each year, and make such suggestions in regard to the management, government and discipline of the institution as he may deem for the interest of the same.

SEC. 14. Chapter 189 of the revised statutes, entitled "Of the house of refuge," and all other acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed.

SEC. 15. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved April 13, 1861.

It will be seen by an examination of the act, that every inmate must be committed by a court or magistrate. Frequent application is made for the admission of children, by their friends, on the ground of incorrigibility, with the hope that the restraining influences of the school may save them from actual crime. The twelfth section of this act was framed with express reference to such cases, and it is believed to be the most important one in the whole chapter. Such cases when committed should, at once be taken to the school without being imprisoned, as is sometimes done, in the county jail for several days, with matured and hardened criminals. In some cases more vicious examples are there seen and more corrupt influences experienced than during the whole previous life.

Objection has been made to the term of commitment, which in every instance must be during the minority of the inmate. This is regarded by many as the period of actual confinement in the school, while it is designed only to give the Board of Managers such control over the inmate as to secure his complete and thorough reformation. Provision is made for the discharge of every one when, in the opinion of the Board, it would be safe and proper to do so.

There is another reason why the term of commitment should be as it is. There are many children who have no parents or guardians, and who, if discharged on the expiration of a sentence of one or two years, would have no one to provide for them, and if good homes should not be secured at the time of their discharge, which cannot always be done, they would be thrown upon society, homeless and friendless, and be compelled frequently to resume those vicious habits from which they may have been only partially reformed. It is impossible to determine the length of time necessary to reform any one case at the time of commitment. It must be left discretionary with those in the immediate charge of the school. Experience has shown that in a majority of cases, the average time is about two years, while some require a much longer period before they are fitted for places of trust and responsibility.

TRUSTEES' REPORT.

To His Excellency, the Governor of the State Wisconsin:

In presenting a Report of their proceedings during the past year, the Trustees find but little to call your attention to, aside from the general business transactions of the Board.

The Report of the Superintendent hereto appended, gives a full account of the educational position and progress of the School. It appears from this Report, and the Trustees believe the fact to be, that the School is fully up to the standard of former years, in all that refers to the cultivation of intellect, heart and hand in such a School. From a careful comparison of data, the Trustees believe the School under their charge, is accomplishing in all respects as much for the children in attendance as any similar School in the country.

By reference to the list of pupils in attendance, it will appear that the number during the year just closed, is larger than during any previous occasion, viz., 59. By comparison of our Annual Reports it will appear that previous to 1861 the average attendance for three years was 34, from 1861 to 1864 the average has been 54, with an attendance this year of 59. These facts indicate a growing confidence on the part of the people in the usefulness and good management of the School. It is a peculiarity among nearly all parents of blind children, that their exceeding tenderness and care for such children, lead them to hesitate greatly about putting them out from under their own care and supervision, into the training and custody of other persons, especially strangers. Much difficulty was experienced after the first establishment of the Institute for the Education of the Blind in our State; from this cause, in obtaining pupils to form the school; although there were in the State some hundred of blind children; and even now the attendance at the School only represents a mere fraction of the number of such children in the State. This increasing confidence on the part of parents to trust their children to the supervision of the Institute, affords matter of congratulation not only to the Board of Trustees but to the whole State. Blind children residing within our State, not attending this Institution must necessarily grow up without education, no other means or school for them being provided, becoming to a large extent dependent through their lives for support upon the charity of individuals or the State. Every child educated becomes, to a large extent, self supporting. Hence it is to be hoped, that soon the Institution may embrace within its patronage every blind child within the State.

The Trustees refer to the Reports of the Treasurer and Secretary for an exhibit of the financial condition of the Institution.

It will appear that the receipts have been as follows :

Balance on hand at date of last Report,.....	$374 79
From appropriation of 1863,.....	8,000 00
" appropriation of 1864 for current expenses,.....	11,250 00
" appropriation of 1864 for building purposes,.....	4,900 00
" foreign pupils,.....	100 00
" brooms sold the State,.....	32, 98
Total receipts,	$19,757 77

DISBURSEMENTS.

Salaries of resident officers and teachers,.....	$2,874 62
Repairs on heating apparatus, old contract,.....	250 00
Repairs and improvements on building,.....	1,338 33
Current expenses,	3,526 75
Paid on contract for erecting work shop,.....	8,855 00
Balance in treasurer's hands,.....	2,202 70
	$19,757 77

From the amount in the Treasurer's hands, must be deducted the sum of $1,115 76, which will soon be due the contractors on the work shop, leaving $1,086 94, applicable to current support; to which should be added the sum of $3,750 00 of the appropriation of 1864, yet in the State Treasury, making the sum of $4,836 94, applicable to current support to February 1, 1865, the end of the fiscal year. This sum, it is feared, will not be sufficient to enable the Trustees to pay all expenses to that date. The experience of the past year in the advance and fluctuation of prices, is such as to not warrant any certain calculation on their part.

The utmost economy has been practiced by the Board of Trustees in their contracts and expenditures on behalf of the Institution, and such will continue to be their action in hopes that the sum above named may carry the Institution through the year without indebtedness.

In reference to estimates of expenditures for the coming year, the Trustees feel great embarrassment, arising from the excited and fluctuating condition of the markets. The appropriations on behalf of the Benevolent Institutions of the State, will not be made by the Legislature, probably, in four months or more from this date, and to make an estimate approaching correctness, that length of time in advance, in the present unsettled condition of affairs, seems to them impossible.

They have, therefore, determined to make a supplementary report, embracing statements, to the Legislature during the month of January next, which it is hoped will be satisfactory to your Excellency.

The last Legislature made an appropriation of $5,000 to be applied by the Trustees toward the erection of a workshop for the male members of the Institution. At the time of the application by the Trustees last year, for an appropriation for this purpose, they were of the opinion that the sum of $8,000 would be sufficient to erect and complete the building contemplated. The Legislature, however, saw fit not to grant the full sum asked for, and appropriated the sum of $5,000 to be applied towards the work.

Accepting the appropriation, the Trustees at once advertised for propositions to erect the walls, put on the roof, and do certain minor portions (shown by specifications on file) of the work. They received the following bids :

Archibald Patterson, for the mason and carpenter work,.....	$7,882 00
John Peters,.....do.....do.....do.....	7,280 00
Shearer & North, for excavation and mason work,.....	4,600 00
A. C. Phelps,.....do.....do.....do.....	4,480 00
James & Ratherdan,.....do.....do.....do.....	4,849 00
A. McDougal, for carpenter work,.....	3,850 00
Nettleton & Jacks,.....do.....do.....do.....	2,047 00

It will be observed that the lowest bid for doing the mason work, and the lowest bid for doing the carpenter's work, including materials, exceed the amount appropriated by the Legislature by $1,396. The Trustees deemed it their duty not to go beyond the appropriation in their expenditure; they believed it to be bad economy to modify the plans of the building, in size or workmanship, to enable them to erect a building as aforesaid, for $5,000 00; hence, the only alternative left was to omit other portions of work, and complete only such as would come within the appropriation, and leave the walls and timbers in a safe and protected condition till a further appropriation could be had, to complete it. Arrangements were consequently made, and a contract entered into, with James & Ratheram for mason work, and with Nettleton & Jacks for carpenter work, to complete the walls of the building to the roof timbers, including the floor joists window and door frames and casings. These contracts have been nearly fulfilled; the Trustees will be indebted to these contractors in the sum of $1,115 76 on the completion of the work. The Trustees also made it a part of the contract with these parties, that if an appropriation should be made by the Legislature in the winter of 1865, they would complete the building in accordance with the terms of their original bids, provided materials for building should remain unchanged in price.

The Trustees in this matter acted, as in their judgment seemed for the best interests of the State; they have faithfully applied the moneys to the objects of the appropriation, and present the Institution to your Excellency free from debt, on account of the building; they are able also to show a substantial structure, which, with a further small appropriation, will provide the Institution with a suitable and convenient work shop, which has for many years been its greatest necessity. Proper estimates will be prepared by the Trustees for this purpose, and presented to the Legislature in their supplementary report next winter.

It will be observed among the items of expenditure, is the sum of $1,338 69 for repairs and improvements.

Between $700 and $800 of this amount was expended in painting and repairing the cornice and window frames outside the building. This work was rendered imperatively necessary by the condition of the building; the cornice had not been painted since its erection; other portions of the building inside, also required repainting for its protection. The Trustees feel they were warranted in making this outlay.

In conclusion, the Board would earnestly recommend to the fostering care of the Legislature, an Institution so worthily established in our State; one, accomplishing in its mission, a good far exceeding in value the amount of money annually required for its support.

Respectfully submitted,

On behalf of the Trustees,

H. W. COLLINS, Sec'y.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

Gentlemen of the Board :

IN presenting my annual report, I am permitted to speak of another year of prosperity for the Institute. More pupils have enjoyed its privileges than in any previous year, and their deportment and attention to study have been highly praiseworthy; teachers and others have applied themselves earnestly and successfully to their duties; and the result has been the attainment of the proper objects of the Institute in a higher degree, probably, than ever before.

The number of pupils in attendance each year, since the Institute was established, is shown by the following table :

During the year, thirteen pupils have been received, eight have been dismissed and one has died. We enter upon a new year with fifty pupils, of whom forty-six are present at the date of this report. Others will very soon enter.

The School has been conducted upon the same general plan as in previous years. No new theories have been adopted, and no innovations have been attempted. Inasmuch as I do not propose to enter into any discussions of general principles in this report, there would be need of adding but very little more, if it were not expected that it may be read by some who know but little about the operations of institutions of this kind. For the information of such persons, it may be necessary to state that the school comprises a literary, an industrial and a musical department. These are all in operation at the same time; and pupils pass from hour to hour into one or the other of them, according to a programme arranged with a view to meeting the particular necessities of each person.

In the literary department the design is to give a good, solid English education. The extent of the course is determined by the age, ability, application, etc., of each pupil. It is desired that each one should master thoroughly the studies he takes up, rather than that he should take up a great many; that the intellect should become a quick and powerful instrument for the use of knowledge, rather than a capacious vessel to hold it. During the term ending in June last, instruction was given to two classes in Reading, to three in Spelling, to three in Arithmetic, to two in Geography, and to one class each in Writing, Grammar, Rhetoric and Composition, Physical Geography, Algebra, Natural Philosophy and Physiology. At the close of the term a rigid examination was made for the purpose of ascertaining the exact amount of progress made by each pupil; and the records of the examination were made the basis of a new classification of the school for this term. The present classes are as follows: in Reading, two; in Spelling, two; in Arithmetic, four; in Geography, two; in Grammar, two; in Writing, one; in Algebra, one; in Mensuration, one; in History of the United States, one; and in Mental Philosophy, one. In the evening an hour is spent in reading to the school, which is divided into two classes, in order that the older and younger ones may each hear something that will interest them. Occasionally an evening is devoted to an exercise in declamation and recitation.— This, though designed as much for recreation as for anything, has really proved a very profitable exercise.

In the musical department, instruction has been given to all the scholars but one, in vocal music. There are two choirs, each of which meets five times in the week. About thirty have practiced upon the piano and melodeon, and about twenty upon the violin. A few girls have also taken lessons upon the guitar, and a few boys upon the flute. A brass band has also done very well, considering the condition of their instruments. Regular instruction has also been given in musical composition.

The industrial department is in many respects the most important. For carrying it on, however, the Institute has never had suitable facilities. Our old shop seems to have been designed on purpose to show how great obstacles a blind man can overcome for the sake of earning his own bread. I did hope to be able to announce in this Report, the completion of a new building, containing ample room for carrying on whatever branches of handicraft might seem to be adapted to the circumstances of the blind. The building now commenced will, when finished, do this for many years, and will also furnish temporary dormitories for our boys while the old wing is rebuilding. It will be necessary for the Trustees to lay the subject of its completion before the Legislature.

All the older boys have had daily instruction in broom making. Two men have been with us expressly to learn it. One of these was a man aged twenty-seven, from Waukesha county—an active cheerful man, accustomed and willing to work hard. He went into the army three years ago and there lost his sight. With sight went all his happiness. For two years, to use his own words, he “did nothing but cry and wish he was dead.” So different did he feel himself to be from other men, that in all that time he never ventured to take a meal at table with the family. Some one told him of the Institute, and, though scarcely expecting any benefit, he made application for opportunity to learn a trade. In five months he had learned it and gone home rejoicing. We hear from him occasionally as mingling again in the busy pursuits of men. He is now earning regularly $25 per month, and with good reason blesses the day when he entered the Institute.

The girls have continued to work at sewing, knitting, crocheting, netting, beadwork, etc. The two first will, undoubtedly, be of greatest advantage to them. It is sometimes said that girls might learn these things at home, and so they might; and moreover they ought to, but very few of them do. They might, too, learn arithmetic without coming here; but they do not and we take great pains to teach it to them, and shall we not do the same by the sewing which will contribute far more to their happiness?

The little boys have worked with the girls at bead work.

The following is a statement of the pecuniary condition of the department:

No estimate has been made of the value of the sewing done by the girls for the house. If this could be computed, it would considerably increase the balance in favor of the department.

In this connection, may be mentioned the fact that there was sent from the Institute to the fair at Chicago for the benefit of the Sanitary Commission, a box of fancy work worth, by our valuation here, fifty dollars, and which sold there at much higher prices than are charged at the Institute. Almost all of this was the handiwork of the pupils; and the larger part was donated by them. In the same manner, a box worth about half as much as the first, was afterwards sent to the fair at Dubuque.

For the first time in the history of the Institute, the death of a pupil has occurred here. Louis T. Lavine, who had been two years a pupil, died in January last, of typhoid pneumonia. The disease was a consequence of exposure to the severe weather of last January, while returning from a visit to his home. It speaks well for the healthfulness of our situation, that for fourteen years, no death had occurred in a family so large, and containing so many persons whose tone of health is naturally low.

The ministers of the city have continued to furnish us with preaching on Sunday afternoons—a kindness for which our warmest thanks, though heartily rendered, can be but an inadequate return.

Grateful mention should also be made of various publishers who have sent us their papers gratuitously during the year. A list is appended to this report.

Respectfully submitted,

October 1, 1864.

T. H. LITTLE.

ADMISSION OF PUPILS.

Any person wishing to make application for the admission of a pupil into the Institute, must address the Superintendent, giving definite and truthful answers to the following questions, viz:—

1st. What are the names and post office address of the parents or guardians of the person for whom application is made?

2d. Are such parents or guardians legal residents of the State of Wisconsin?

3d. What are the name and age of the person for whom application is made?

4th. At what age did he or she become blind, and from what cause?

5th. Is he or she of sound mind, and susceptible of intellectual culture?

6th. Is he or she free from bodily deformity and all infectious diseases?

7th. What are his or her personal habits and moral character?

Upon the receipt of such application by the Superintendent, the applicant will be notified as to whether or not the person in question will be admitted, and no one must be sent to the Institute until such notification shall have been received.

No person of imbecile or unsound mind, or of confirmed immoral character, will be knowingly received into the Institute; and in case any person shall, after a fair trial, prove incompetent for useful instruction, or disobedient to the wholesome regulations of the Institute, such pupil will be thereupon discharged.

No charge is made for the boarding and instruction of pupils from the State of Wisconsin; but all are expected to come provided with an adequate supply of good, comfortable clothing, which must be replenished from time to time, as it becomes necessary.

The stock of clothing should embrace suitable articles for both summer and winter, and a sufficient number of each kind to admit of the necessary changes for washing and repairing.

All of the clothing must be sent in good condition, not only upon the first entrance of the pupil, but also at each subsequent return from home, after the vacation.

Each article should also be distinctly marked with the owner's name or initials, in order to prevent confusion or loss.

A small sum should be deposited with the Superintendent for occasional expenses.

It is important that new pupils should enter upon their term of instruction at the commencement of a session, and it is expected of all others that they shall be present at the opening of the school, and remain until it closes, on the last day of the session, unless prevented from doing so by sickness or other emergency. It is also expected that timely arrangements will be made for the departure of every pupil from the Institute within a few days after the close of each session.

All letters to the pupils should be addressed to the care of the Institute, in order to insure their prompt reception.

From ten to fourteen is the most favorable age for entering the Institute, provided the pupils have judicious care and training at home, prior to that age. But as this is not always the case, and as there are many who lose their sight after that age; or, having lost it earlier, do not find an opportunity of going to school at the proper time, the regulations of the Institute allow of the admission of all proper subjects who are not under eight or above twenty-one years of age.

It must be borne in mind, however, by the friends of blind children, that though they have the privilege of sending them to the Institute at a later period than the one mentioned as the best, yet it is of the highest importance that they should be sent within said period; for, as they grow older, their neglected powers lose their susceptibility for cultivation, rendering the training more and more difficult, until they become wholly incapacitated for receiving such an education as will fit them for a life of usefulness, independence and happiness. It is not uncommon to witness results of this kind, arising out of the morbid tenderness with which a blind child is frequently regarded by his friends, rendering them unwilling to entrust him, at the proper age, to the care of strangers, lest some harm should befall him. Indeed, every year's experience but serves to indicate more clearly, the lamentable prevalence of this unjust neglect; as there are constantly applying for admission into the several institutions of the country, those whose melancholy lot is to lead a life of hopeless ignorance and dependence, but who might, with proper training in early youth, have become happy and useful members of society, maintaining themselves comfortably and respectably.

The term of instruction is not limited to any definite number of years, but is determined in each individual case, by the acquirements of the pupil and consequent fitness for graduating. The length of each one's term will of course depend upon his aptness to learn, and the extent of the course to be pursued.

The session of the Institute commences on the first Monday of September in each year, and closes on the last Wednesday in June following; leaving a vacation of more than two months, during which time the pupils have an opportunity of visiting their homes and replenishing their clothing.

Parents of blind children are cordially invited to visit the Institute, that they may decide from their own observation whether it is best to send them here.

All persons are requested to send the names and addresses of blind children of their acquaintance to the Superintendent.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

Commissioners of School and University Lands,

FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING SEPTEMBER 30TH, 1864.

STATE OF WISCONSIN,
OFFICE OF COMMISSIONERS OF SCHOOL AND UNIVERSITY LANDS, Madison, October 1, 1864.

HON. JAMES T. LEWIS,
Governor :

SIR : Agreeably to the requirements of law, we have the honor herewith to make to you our official report for the year ending 30th September, 1864.

Statements of the receipts and disbursements on account of the several funds affected by our action, will be found in the reports of the Secretary of State and the State Treasurer, for the fiscal year just expired, and we beg leave respectfully to refer to them for all such information as is not herein contained.

The amounts of interest received during the fiscal year ending Sept. 30th, 1864, are as follows :

School Fund Income,.....	$151,518 46
University...do.....	11,522 40
Swamp Land Fund Income,.....	16,771 48
Drainage.....do.....	4,998 30
Total,.....	$183,805 64

We annex hereto a tabular statement, marked Exhibit "A," showing separately the number of acres of School, Swamp, and University Land sold in each county during the past year ; the amount for which they were sold ; the amount paid on the principal ; the amount paid on interest (at the time of purchase,) and the amount remaining unpaid, besides annual interest. In the case of some of the school lands heretofore purchased from the State, partly paid for, and forfeited, and sold by the State, an excess has been realized upon the public sale, which excess over the amount due the State at the time of sale, is designated as "surplus," in the table "A (1)."

The amount of acres sold, compared with the amount sold last year, as follows :

School lands, acres,.....	44,799 68	50,686 58
Swamp lands, do.....	26,718 22	46,178 94
University lands, acres,.....	2,744 62	2,930 28
Total, acres,.....	74,257 52	99,795 70

The amounts of the sales of the Forfeited Mortgaged Lands, for the fiscal year ending September 30th, 1863, and for the fiscal year ending September 30th, 1864, are as follows :

	1863.	1864.
School Fund,.....	$18,798 17	$17,311 66
University Fund,.....	1,476 00	670 83
Drainage Fund,.....	2,020 99	1,645 51
Total,.....	$22,290 16	$19,628 10

These last figures are given according to the books of our office, but as the transactions, involving the execution of patents, the investigation of taxes, and the execution of new purchase money mortgages, often extend over days and weeks, it is probable that the amounts may not be divided between the two years exactly as they appear above.

No State lands have been leased during the year.

The few loans made to individuals during the last fiscal year, were all from the Drainage Fund. The amount loaned in each county is stated under the head of "new loans," in the table hereto annexed marked, Exhibit "B." These loans were made in 1863, and amount only to $2,275. When lands formerly mortgaged to the State, and forfeited for non-payment of interest or taxes, are bid in by the State, and subsequently resold, patents are issued therefor to the purchasers, and new mortgages are taken for the purchase money unpaid. The transaction is entered upon our books as a payment of the whole price, and a recon of the amount unpaid, pursuant to section 113, chapter 28, Revised Statutes. Exhibit "B" shows also the amount of these purchase money mortgages received during the last year, upon forfeited mortgage lands. The total amount is $11,753 00. These mortgages are all on five years' time, and the rate of interest is seven per cent.

The principal of the School, University and Swamp Land Funds received, and of the Drainage Fund, except $2,275 above mentioned, has been invested, during the past year, in bonds and certificates of indebtedness of the State, as required by chapter 217, laws of 1864. The following statement shows the amount and nature of such investments, including those made previous to October 1, 1863.

Amount loaned to the State from the Trust Funds during the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1864:

From School Fund,.....	$297,000 00
Swamp Land Fund,.....	63,000 00
Drainage Fund,.....	14,000 00
University Fund,.....	11,000 00
Total,.....	$885,000 00
Amount previously loaned from School Fund,.....	823,000 00
Total invested,.....	$708,000 00

The above amount is invested as follows:

Certificates of indebtedness,.....	$805,000 00
State Bonds,.....	108,000 00
Total,.....	$708,000 00

The receipts during the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1864, on contracts and mortgages previously executed, are as follows:

Payments on School Land Certificates,.....	$139,428 60
.....do.....School Fund Loans,.....	115,657 95
.....do.....University Land Certificates,.....	29,513 98
.....do.....University Fund Loans,.....	3,000 00
.....do.....Swamp Land Certificates,.....	12,605 50
.....do.....Drainage Fund Loans,.....	9,610 00
Total,.....	$809,818 98

The total amounts of the several productive funds under our supervision, are as follows:

Dues on School Land Certificates,.....	$861,217 57
.....do.....University.....do.....	127,563 25
.....do.....Swamp.....do.....	201,280 36
.....do.....School fund loans to individuals,.....	571,135 90
.....do.....University.....do.....	18,607 00
.....do.....Drainage.....do.....	59,109 00
.....do.....State bonds and certificates, as above,.....	708,000 00
Total,.....	$2,546,913 08

The productive funds have been increased during the year by sales of land, and by payments of principal on contracts, and on mortgages. They have been reduced by forfeitures to the state of lands previously mortgaged to the state, or held by purchasers on contract. These forfeitures accrue by reason of non-payment of interest or taxes—payment of principal being never demanded while interest and taxes are regularly paid.—These forfeitures, although diminishing in numbers, are still of a grave magnitude, as will be seen by the following statement:

FORFEITURES DURING THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING SEPTEMBER 30, 1864.

	Acres.	Amount.
School Lands,.....	89, 714 55-100	$58, 884 92
University Lands,.....	2, 958 04-100	8, 764 15
Swamp Lands,.....	81, 726 71-100	39, 399 00
School Fund loans,.....		15, 648 00
University Fund loans,.....		800 00
Drainage Fund loans,.....		4, 883 00

The amounts of principal paid on the old mortgages on lands in the city of Racine, are stated in the table annexed, marked Exhibit "C.," which shows also the names of the mortgagors, the lots mortgaged, and the dates of payment. These sums have been collected in foreclosure proceedings instituted by the Attorney General.

Until within a year, the accumulated principal of the several funds was loaned out to individuals upon note and mortgage at seven per cent. interest. In such a system there was an inherent vice. It was impossible for the commissioners, however great their care and fidelity, to be informed with certainty as to the value, or even the title of real estate offered as security for loans, most of which was remote from the residence or office of the commissioners. The transactions were numerous, no loan being over five hundred dollars. The value of land, especially in cities and villages, was in a great measure speculative, and the persons called to appraise the security were often willing to take very enlarged views of the value, in order to aid a friend in getting a loan. If, besides the effect of these unavoidable sources of error in the estimation of security, the commissioners happen also to be led away by political or personal sympathy, or to be actuated by selfish interests of any sort, it is easy to see that loans would often be made upon insufficient securities, and losses to the fund would occur. Illustrations of these facts are constantly in our view. The table hereto appended, marked Exhibit "D." shows, by counties, the amounts due to the state at the time of purchase of the lands which had been bid in by the state on the forfeiture of mortgages taken for loans, and which were still held by the state September 30, 1863. The total amount was $199,241 74. The amount due at the time of forfeiture, on such lands held September 30, 1864, was, as appears by the table, Exhibit "E." $201,623 64. Nearly as many had been sold during the year as had been added by new forfeitures. In June 1864, the amount was probably about $203,000 00. Yet the appraisal of these lands made on oath by disinterested, and, it is believed, capable persons, which appears in Exhibit "F." annexed, shows the total value to be only $95,992 64, or about forty-seven per cent. of the amount due on them when forfeited. Nor does this deficiency express all the real loss to the state. The interest on the investment, since the date of the forfeiture, is to be added. Most of the forfeitures were made between 1856 and 1861, and the interest would be from thirty to fifty per cent. of the principal. Again, the land when bid in by the state, upon forfeiture, becomes exempt from taxation, so that here is another source of serious loss to the state. Many of the forfeited mortgage lands prove to be nearly worthless. A few illustrations of the mode of making loans, practised a few years ago, and of the results will be found in the table attached, marked Exhibit "G." which shows in the cases selected, the names of mortgagors, the dates of loan, the amount loaned, and in what county, and the present appraised value of the security held by the state. They are quite instructive, and calculated to refresh the memory of persons acquainted with the political history of the school fund. We are also informed by the appraisers that in some instances the names of the mortgagors and borrowers are altogether fictitious; in other instances the title is incumbered or wholly defective, and it is doubtful to us whether, on the whole, even the appraised value can be realized in every instance.

This appraisal has been made under chapter 261, laws of 1864. That act provides for the appointment of two appraisers in each county, to estimate on oath the cash value of the forfeited lands. These are to be offered at public sale at a price not lower than the appraised rates, and if not sold, then to be subject to entry at those rates, from which an annual reduction of ten per cent. may be afterwards made. Owing to the great delays in returning the appraisals, the lands have not yet been advertised for sale, but will probably be advertised before the first of January next. The appraisers have been requested to inform us also as to the personal responsibility of the borrowers, in order that suit might be brought where there is a fair prospect of collecting the amount in arrear. Not over one in twenty has been reported as responsible, and no actions have yet been commenced. All the borrowers have however been called upon, so far as practicable, and in some instances the deficiencies will undoubtedly be paid up. In some cases a compromise of the indebtedness may be advisable, and it should be submitted to the wisdom of the legislature to determine how and on what principles this should be effected. The amount paid for appraising the forfeited mortgage lands is $1,767 53, which is considerably less than the amount allowed by the act directing the appraisal. The names of the appraisers in each county are as follows:

The commissioners have, during the last year, and especially since the passage of chapter 233, laws of 1864, given much attention to the subject of guarding the state lands from trespasses. The state has heretofore suffered incalculable losses from depredations, chiefly upon the pine bearing lands. These have often been remorselessly stripped, so as to become, at least for many years, wholly unsalable. We have striven to use the powers conferred upon us by the last named acts in such wise as to effect the utmost good possible with our limited means. The timber agents, (called in the act clerks,) have been appointed by us with a view to their qualifications for the peculiar service required of them. It is their duty, under the statutes and the rules made by us in pursuance of them, (a copy of which we annex hereto, marked Exhibit "H") to discover and report all trespasses on state lands, to seize all materials wrongfully cut on or taken from state lands, and upon order made by the commissioners, to sell such materials at public auction. The trespasser has a right under the law to enter the land, if in market, at any time before the sale of the materials, on paying the price with a penalty of fifty per cent. in addition. If he be the owner of a certificate of purchase of the land, he may obtain a patent by paying the remainder due the state on the land, with a penalty of twenty-five per cent. Under our statutes, one who purchases state lands, paying only in part, obtains only a certificate, and receives no patent (except in the case of forfeited mortgage lands) until he pays in full. The holder of such certificate, it should not be forgotten, has no right to commit waste. He may may not cut timber, except for a few specified purposes, (R. S. ch. 28, sec. 52; laws 1860, ch. 95.) The materials cut by the holder of the certificate are therefore liable to seizure, but the penalty in his case is smaller. The act of 1864 directs that, on payment in full for the land with the penalty, the materials seized shall be released, and further proceedings against the trespasser abandoned. The clerks have, in no case whatever, any right to compromise a trespass, or to receive compensation therefor, or take money from the trespasser or any other person on account of land or materials, except in the single case of an auction sale of materials made by the clerk under an order of the commissioners. The clerks have no discretion to refrain from seizure of any materials cut on state lands, or to make discrimination between individuals, but are bound to follow the law rigorously at all times. We make these remarks, because great misapprehension has heretofore existed on this subject among those most interested.

Trespassers have supposed that they could purchase from the state agents indemnity for trespasses, not only past but future—an idea which has perhaps been sometimes encouraged by clerks for their own illicit profit. We desire trespassers to understand distinctly, that no settlements with the timber clerks have the least binding force, and that they throw away any money which they may pay to such clerks, except in purchasing materials at public sale. The commissioners also earnestly desire, and they firmly intend, that it shall be recognized as a settled fact, in those districts where the state lands lie, that trespassing is more costly than honest dealing; that it is cheaper to pay for timbered lands before cutting, than to cut unlawfully with the risk of paying price and penalty. It is the duty, and it is the interest of all citizens of the state to co-operrate in preserving the trust funds unimpaired. Our great educational endowment should never be a subject for private plunder. The advantages of free education are so palpable, so far-reaching, so inestimable, that no one, it should seem, can be indifferent to the importance of retaining them undiminished. We urgently solicit our citizens throughout the state to condemn by voice and conduct, the iniquitous practice of depredating upon the state lands, and to adopt and diligently pursue all means to deter and punish offenders. The commissioners will, at all times, be thankful for any information that may lead to the detection of trespassing, or of negligence or misconduct in the clerks appointed to prevent it. We have entered upon a system, which we hope will leave fewer grounds for complaint, on both these heads than have heretofore existed, and it shall be no fault of ours, if it is not effective. The table annexed, marked Exhibit "I," shows that within the past year, nearly twelve thousand acres have been reported as trespassed on, and that seizures have been made of materials cut on over ten thousand acres. Some of these however, have been erroneously reported, and upon corrections being subsequently made, the seizures have been abandoned. Of the lands so reported, over four thousand acres have been subsequently fully paid for, and more will soon be patented.

The sum of $1,496 08 has been realized from penalties paid, and sales of materials seized, while the amount paid for the protection of the State lands has been $1,996 30. It is proper to call attention, however, to the fact that the amount of penalties paid, is by no means the measure of the utility of the system. We may fairly presume that but few of the lands reported as trespassed on, would ever have been purchased of the State, if the trespassers had been allowed to strip the lands and escape with the booty. The amount obtained by the State from the purchasers of those lands, may be mostly set down as a result of the work of the timber clerks. Nor is this all. The chief value of the system is in the inducement to purchase timbered lands now felt by many, who formerly obtained timber without the least idea of owning the land on which they cut it. It is now, we think, generally understood, that it is not safe to trust to stealing as the foundation for a large lumber business; consequently purchasing is more in fashion than in earlier times. The honest dealers also see that they cannot fairly compete with those who pay nothing for their timber, and they are, therefore, not only inclined to purchase themselves, but to compel their less scrupulous neighbors to do the same. These fruits cannot be exactly enumerated, but they are found in the large increase this year of purchases, and particularly of full payments. The sales have been this year one third larger than those of last year, while the lands fully paid for and patented the past year, are 103,238.67 acres, against 76,365.29 acres the previous year. We know that a substantial portion of this increase is owing to the watchfulness exercised over the public lands, and the enhanced risks of trespassing on them.

The State now holds, besides the "Forfeited Mortgaged Lands" before mentioned, two millions two hundred and ninety-three thousand eighty-two and seventy-six hundredths acres, school, university and swamp lands, particular statements of which are hereto appended, marked Exhibit "K."

Respectfully submitted,

LUCIUS FAIRCHILD,

Secretary of State.

SAMUEL D. HASTINGS,

State Treasurer.

LAWS FOR PROTECTION
OF STATE LANDS.

Chapter 277 of the General Laws of 1860, as amended by Chapter 233 of the General Laws of 1864.

An Act relating to School, University, Swamp and Overflowed Lands, belonging to the State; and to repeal section nine of chapter twenty-nine of the Revised Statutes.

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

ACT OF 1864.

SECTION 1. The commissioners of school and university lands are hereby authorized and empowered to appoint such number of clerks, not exceeding eight, as they may determine to be necessary, for the purpose of protecting the school, university, swamp and overflowed lands belonging to the state, or any lands in which the state may have an interest, legal or equitable, from any injury from any person or persons trespassing thereon, by digging or removing any mineral therefrom, or by cutting or removing, or in any manner injuring any lumber, timber, trees, wood or bark, being, standing or growing on such premises.

ACT OF 1864.

SECTION 2. It is hereby made the duty of the commissioners of school and university lands, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to prescribe, by written rules and regulations, the duties and the compensation of such clerks: provided, that no such clerk shall receive more compensation for his services than shall be paid to a clerk employed in the school bureau, at Madison, and only for the time he shall be actually employed: and provided, further, that the whole compensation to such clerks shall not exceed, in the aggregate, the sum of four thousand dollars per annum.

ACT OF 1860.

SECTION 3. Said commissioners shall not have power to authorize any such clerk or clerks to settle or compromise with any person or persons trespassing or injuring any premises described in the first section of this act.

ACT OF 1864.

SECTION 4. The said commissioners shall have power to authorize and empower any such clerk to seize, or cause to be seized, any timber, lumber, logs, shingles, shinglebolts, staves, shocks, headings, wood or bark cut upon or removed, or taken from any of the land described in section one of this act without process, and to sell the same at public auction to the highest bidder: provided, that no such sale shall be made until the clerk making such seizure shall report the same to the said commissioners, nor until the time and place of such sale shall have been advertised in a newspaper, printed in the county where such sale is to be had, if any there be, at least once in each week for three successive weeks; and if there is no newspaper printed in said county, then by written or printed notice of such time and place, posted up in the most public place in said county, at least twenty days before such sale. And the said commissioners may cause a bid to be made on behalf of the state at such sale, to an amount not less than one half the actual value of the property offered for sale. No part of the money realized at any such sale, shall be applied on the certificates issued by the said commissioners, then outstanding, if any. Property purchased on behalf of the state at such sales, shall be sold by the said commissioners for such price and at such time or times as they may deem for the best interest of the state.

ACT OF 1864.

SECTION 5. Any person or persons found trespassing upon any such lands belonging to the state, shall have the right to purchase said premises of the state, by paying the amount in lawful money of the United States, at the minimum price at which such land shall be appraised, if the same is subject to private entry at the office of the said commissioners, and also by paying in addition thereto, the sum of fifty percentum of the amount paid for the land. If the person or persons owning the certificate or certificates of purchase for such land, shall be found trespassing thereon, he or they shall have the right to obtain a patent for such land, by paying the amount due to the state on such certificate or certificates, with all legal charges thereon, and the sum of twenty-five per centum on the amount paid for such land. In either case, the commissioners are hereby required to release to the person or persons so paying for the land any lumber, timber, logs, shingles, shinglebolts, or any other articles seized under the provisions of this act, and they are hereby required to discontinue any and all suits commenced to recover any damages for such cutting, taking or carrying away, without cost to the state: provided, that the state treasurer shall in no case receive pay for such land from any other person or persons than those holding the certificate or certificates, or from their authorized agents, in cases where the land has been previously sold by the state: and provided, further, that in all cases when the sale of property is made under the provisions of this act, or the one to which this is amendatory, the person or persons owning the certificate or certificates, and not being the trespasser, shall have the right to bid at such sale the amount due to the state for such land, and the expenses of seizure and sale, the amount of which shall be stated at the sale by the person authorized to sell; and when such bid is made, it shall be the duty of the person making such sale to strike off the property to such bidder or bidders: provided, that if there shall be at the sale any dispute between bidders as to the ownership of the certificate or certificates of sale issued by the state, the person conducting and making such sale shall sell the property so seized to the highest bidder, he first bidding as provided in this act; in which case the amount so received, or the proceeds of the sale when received, shall be paid into the state treasury and remain there until the commissioners shall determine the ownership of said certificate or certificates; and for that purpose, they are hereby authorized to adopt such rules and take such evidence as in their judgment shall be necessary to determine the fact. When such fact is determined, it shall be the duty of the state treasurer, and he is hereby directed to pay over to the rightful person or persons on their order, the avails of such sale, after deducting the price of the land, the penalty and expenses herein provided for.

ACT OF 1864.

SECTION 6. The compensation and expenses of such clerks shall be audited by the secretary of state, upon the certificate of the commissioners, and shall be paid out of the state treasury, out of the income of the several funds for which the service has been rendered. The amount to be paid out of each fund shall be determined by the secretary of state. An amount sufficient is hereby appropriated out of the state treasury to pay all such accounts so audited as aforesaid: provided that the whole amount to be audited, during any one year, for services rendered and disbursements made pursuant to the provisions of this act, shall not exceed the sum of six thousand dollars.

ACT OF 1860.

SECTION 7. Section nine, of chapter twenty-nine, of the revised statutes, entitled "of swamp and overflowed lands" is hereby repealed.

ACT OF 1864.

SECTION 8. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication.

Published April 1, 1864.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

Rules and regulations of the commissioners of school and university lands touching the duties and compensation of clerks to protect state lands, under chapter 277 of the general laws of 1860, and chapter 233 of the general laws of 1864.

I.

The compensation of clerks will be at the rate of two dollars and forty-five cents per day for the time actually employed, besides necessary expenses of travel, seizure, guarding property, and sale, except in the case of clerks with whom an agreement may be made upon different terms. Bills for services and disbursements must show the dates and precise character of services and disbursements, with an affidavit that they were just and necessary.

II.

The clerks will make seizures of the materials mentioned in the law unlawfully cut or removed from state lands, and will immediately report such seizures to the commissioners, specifying in such report the materials seized, the quantity and description of each, as near as may be, the locality of the seizure, the land from which such materials have been cut or removed, describing by forty acre tracts, when practicable, the names of the reputed owners of such land, if any, the names of the trespassers, so far as known, the actual cash value of the materials seized, considering the location, season of the year, and other circumstances, fixing a rate at which the state could sell if it should become the owner of the materials.

III.

The clerks will in no case compromise with the owner or trespasser, refrain from seizing, nor agree to refrain, nor release a seizure legally made without an express order of the commissioners. The law provides the only modes by which the materials can be released, and it will be closely followed. No partiality, unfairness, favor or injustice will be manifested, but an equal and faithful execution of the law will be required of every agent.

IV.

The clerks will receive an order to sell the materials reported by them, unless an order for their release is made by the commissioners. Where there is an urgent necessity for an early sale, the clerks may give notice according to the terms of the law, without waiting for such order of sale, but they must not make the sale until they have received the order.

V.

Materials cut or removed from the state lands, before the latter have been fully paid for, are subject to seizure as belonging to the state, even although the lands may be paid for before the seizure. When the seizure is properly made, clerks will not release without an order of the commissioners, notwithstanding the lands may be paid for and patented after the cutting or removal of the materials, whether before or after seizure. The materials cut or removed continue to belong to the state, unless released on account of payment of the penalty.

VI.

Clerks cannot appoint deputies. They may, when necessary, employ persons to seize or to guard materials, but the acts are their own, and must be performed in their names and on their own responsibility. Notices of sale will be in the name of the seizing clerk, and may be in the following form :

PUBLIC SALE.

By authority of the commissioners of school and university lands, the undersigned, a clerk appointed by them for the purpose of protecting lands belonging to the state, has seized, according to law, and will sell at public auction on the.....day ofat.....the following described personal property cut on or removed from state lands, to wit : (Describe the property as accurately as may be, stating its locality and amount.)

.....Clerk.

The notice is to be published correctly three full weeks before the day of sale. The clerk publishing the notice will make the sale in person. The sale should be in presence of the materials to be sold, unless very inconvenient. If this be impracticable, the notice must specify with particularity the property and its locality, so that persons wishing to bid, may ascertain before the sale exactly what is to be sold.

VII.

When necessary, the sale may be adjourned, in which case notice must be given at the time of adjournment, and also by publication, if possible.

No sale will be complete, and no delivery of the property struck off will be made to the purchaser, until the amount is actually paid to the clerk, who will forthwith report the facts of the sale, and remit the proceeds to the state treasurer. When property shall be bid in for the state, the clerk will hold the same for the state, and take the steps, if any, necessary for its protection; he will also seek opportunities to sell it again, at private sale, as soon as may be, and report them to the commissioners. He is not authorized to make such a sale without a special order from them.

VIII.

In cases where the lands may have been entered, but not fully paid for, and a trespass is committed thereon without the agency of the owner of the certificate, the latter has a right to bid at the sale under section 5, chapter 233, laws of 1864, the amount due on the land, and the expenses of seizure and sale, upon paying which he will be entitled to have the property delivered to him, upon the order of the commissioners, without the payment of a penalty. The expenses will be computed and stated at the sale by the clerk, in such case, and will include his own compensation and all other expenses in seizing, guarding and selling such property, so that there shall be no cost to the state. The clerk will in such and all other cases of sale, make full report of his doings, the amount paid, and by whom, the amount of such expenses, and all other material facts. If there be any dispute between bidders as to ownership, the sale will be made to the highest bidder as if no claim of ownership had been made. If only one claimant appear (who should be required to produce the certificate of sale,) and yet the clerk be not entirely satisfied as to his ownership, or for other reasons is in doubt what course he should pursue, he may adjourn the sale long enough to lay the case before the commissioners, sending them the originals or exact copies of all papers of the claimant, certificate, assignments and other documents, showing title, and will wait for their instructions. Questions of ownership are often very difficult to determine. Persons desiring occasional modifications in any of these regulations or wishing to make arrangements not within the authority of the clerks, will be referred to the commissioners.

The notes of the "Lumbermans' Bank" having been protested by order of Daniel Wells, Jr., were received in this office on the 8th day of January, A. D. 1864, and remaining unredeemed, after due notice, the securities consisting of $13,900 Wisconsin 6's, were sold at private sale with consent of the representatives of the bank, on the 8th day of June, for the sum of $12,900. The outstanding circulation was $13,881, since which the bills have been redeemed at this office at par.

The notes of "The Bank of La Crosse," having been protested by order of "The State Bank," were received in this office on the 1st day of August, A. D. 1864, and remaining unredeemed, after due notice, the securities have been advertised and will be sold at auction in New York city on the 29th day of November next.

The securities consist of Wisconsin 6's..... $7,000
Circulation outstanding,..... 7,000

Nothing has been as yet realized from the prosecution of the personal bonds of the banks, the securities of which proved insufficient to fully redeem the outstanding circulation. Suits are still pending, and holders of the certificates, issued at this office upon partial redemption of the notes, can confidently rely upon the efforts of the Attorney General in their behalf. I trust that there is good reason to believe, that, notwithstanding the uncertainty and delay of the law, the bonds will be finally enforced in all cases where the bondsmen have not become irresponsible. Whenever collections are accomplished, a dividend will be made and due notice given.

In February last, in pursuance of sec. 34, chap. 71, R. S., I demanded of each of the banking associations in this state, a new personal or stockholders' bond, and forwarded to each a new form carefully prepared by the Attorney General, obviating the technical objections raised in suits pending upon the old bonds. Most of the banks cheerfully responded to the call, and it affords me much pleasure to state, that I have almost uniformly found the bankers of the state courteous and honorable in their transactions with this department, and disposed to co-operate with me in any measure tending to the security of the billholders against any possible contingency. Several banks have, however, failed to comply with the demand for a new bond, and I find in the statute no power to enforce the call.

I would respectfully suggest the necessity of legislation to remedy this defect in the banking law. It may frequently occur, that some error may be discovered in the form or execution of the bond, or after a lapse of years it may become worthless in consequence of the insufficiency of the bondsmen. By their certificate of incorporation, it appears that the period of the termination of several of the banking associations is one hundred years from their organization. During this period it will frequently be necessary for the Comptroller to demand a new bond. But the authority to demand and receive the new bond is rendered entirely nugatory by failure to provide for the enforcement of the demand.

The 36th section of the Banking Law provides that "Any banking association relinquishing its business, and depositing a sufficient sum with the Comptroller to redeem its outstanding circulating notes, shall give notice for two years in some newspaper published in the county in which the bank is located, that all the circulating notes of such bank must be presented at the Comptroller's office for redemption within two years from the date of such notice, or that the funds deposited for the redemption of the notes will be given up to the association."

IN section 1 of chapter 203 of the laws of 1862, is the following provision :

" Whenever the securities deposited with the state treasurer to secure the redemption of the circulating notes of any bank, shall be sold in pursuance of sections forty-one and forty-two of said chapter 71 [of the] revised statutes, if such securities shall be or have been sold for a sum sufficient to redeem its outstanding notes at par, then the bank comptroller shall, after the expiration of three years from the time of sale of such securities, pay over to the legal representative of any such bank, upon application therefor, the surplus derived from the sale of said securities, if any there be remaining in the custody of the comptroller."

From which it results that when a bank has been wound up by the protest of its notes, and the sale of its stocks by the comptroller: it is permitted to withdraw any surplus remaining with the comptroller, without having notified the billholders of the period within which the notes must be presented for redemption; and the circulation remaining outstanding becomes wholly worthless.

There is good reason to doubt the justice of relieving bankers in any case, from their obligation to redeem their notes; and no argument can be required to show the propriety of requiring of insolvent banks, the same preliminary notice that is required of a bank voluntarily relinquishing business. I therefore suggest the propriety of the necessary amendment of the act of 1862.

Instances have occurred where, upon the expiration of the charter of banking associations, no effort has been made to retire the outstanding circulation for several years, during which time the banker has realized the profits of his circulation, without taxation, and entirely independent of this department. In one case, the charter expired on the 15th day of January, A. D. 1862, at which time the outstanding circulation was $29,000, of which sum there has been retired $6,879, leaving still in circulation $22,121.

A reasonable time should be given to the banker after the expiration of his charter, after which it should be the duty of the comptroller to proceed as in the case of an insolvent bank.

The advantage which is given to banks under the national system, by inequality of taxation, is a well grounded source of complaint from bankers under our state laws. The National Bank act of 1864, provides for the assessment and taxation of the shares of national banks at the places where they are located, but under such provisions and restrictions as to enable them to escape under the existing laws of this state. Wisconsin is under deep obligations to our bankers for the alacrity with which they, in 1861, advanced money to enable the state to furnish her quota of men armed and equipped for the national defense. If the bonds which they received therefor, had at that time been offered in Wall Street, they could have been negotiated only at a heavy discount. They not only relieved the immediate and pressing wants of the state treasury, but also manifested their confidence in the credit of the state. These bonds constitute more than one-half of the stocks now deposited with the bank department as security for outstanding circulation. If, in consequence of unequal taxation, our state system shall be unable to compete with more favored associations, many banks whose patriotism and state pride have induced them to invest in our bonds, will find it impracticable to adopt the national system and will be compelled to abandon their business.

The amount of banking capital now exempt from taxation in this state is nearly $1,000,000. and is constantly increasing. In addition to the injustice to the state, there is no reason for exempting so large an amount of capital employed in a profitable channel, from the ordinary burdens of taxation. The difficulties which arise upon a consideration of this question are fully and clearly set forth in the following opinion of the Attorney General :

STATE OF WISCONSIN,
OFFICE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL,
Madison, Dec. 6, 1864.

Hon. S. A. WHITE, Bank Register :

SIR : In accordance with your request, I state the reasons why, under the act of Congress, entitled "an act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof," approved January 3, 1864, and under the existing laws of the state, the stock of the national banks cannot be taxed. The forty-first section of the act of Congress contains the following provisions :

Provided, that nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent all the shares in any of the said associations, held by any person or body corporate, from being included in the valuation of the personal property of such person or corporation in the assessment of taxes imposed by or under state authority at the place where such bank is located, and not elsewhere, but not at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of such state : provided, further, that the tax so imposed, under the laws of any state, upon the shares of any of the associations authorized by this act, shall not exceed the rate imposed upon the shares in any of the banks organized under authority of the state where such association is located : provided, also, that nothing in this act shall exempt the real estate of associations from either state, county or municipal taxes, to the same extent, according to its value, as other real estate is taxed.

This extract mentions the only conditions on which taxes can be imposed by state authorities, consistently with the act of congress. Assuming the act to be constitutional in this respect, it appears,

First, That as property of the national banks, except real estate, can be taxed by the state. Such real estate may be and is taxed under the present laws of the state.

Second, That although the personal property of the banks cannot be taxed by the state, yet the shares of stock in those corporations held by individuals, or bodies corporate, are taxable. But,

Third, such shares can, under the act of congress, be taxed "at the place where such bank is located, and not elsewhere." Our statutes now require the taxes on personal property to be imposed at the place where the owners reside. Therefore unless the owner of the shares happens to reside at the place where the bank is located, his stock could not be taxed under the existing laws.

Fourth, The tax imposed by virtue of the state laws could not be, consistently, with the act of congress, at a rate greater than "the rate imposed upon the shares in any of the banks organized under the authority of the state." But under our law, no tax can be "imposed upon the shares in any of the banks organized under the authority of the state." Those shares are expressly exempted from taxation by our state banking law, which cannot be changed without submitting the amendment to a vote of the people. The banks, however, pay a tax of one and a half per cent. on their capital stock, on account of which their capital stock is "exempt from all other taxes," except so far as it consists of real estate. Perhaps this would be held to authorize the state to impose a tax at the same rate upon the shares of national banks held by individuals, but there is room for grave doubt. It may be well to add that the supreme court of this state has recently decided that under our laws the surplus personal property of the state banks over the amount of their capital stock, is taxable by state and municipal authorities, as the personal property of individuals is taxable.

There is a serious question whether our tax laws could be modified by our legislature so as to impose taxes upon the shares of the stock of national banks, on account of a further difficulty. The state constitution, (Art. VIII, Sec. I,) declares that the rule of taxation shall be uniform. Now, if the act of congress be construed so as to allow a tax of one and a half per cent. to be collected of the shareholders of the national banks, yet could such a tax, which is not uniform with the rate of taxation on other property, be imposed by state authority on this particular property, without violating this constitutional provision? Again, does not this constitutional requirement make it obligatory upon the legislature to impose this tax upon the holder of the shares at the place where he resides, following, in this respect also, the same "rule of taxation," applied to other personal property? This may be carrying the restriction of the constitution too far, but the other constitutional objection seems insuperable, except on one theory, the soundness of which I have had no time to consider or investigate. It may be claimed that, inasmuch as congress has authorized a mode of taxation forbidden by our constitution, the latter must so far yield to the paramount authority of the national law. "The constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, shall be the supreme law of the land, anything in the constitution of any state to the contrary notwithstanding." (Constitution U. S., Art. VI, Sec. 2.) It would seem however to be a sufficient answer to this argument, that the act of congress does not require, but only permits the state to tax the shares; whether the state will avail itself of the privilege, is a matter to be determined by the state in accordance with its own laws and constitution, which are supreme upon that point. The legislature may refuse to pass the necessary statute, or the people, through the constitution, may deprive the legislature of the power to enact such a statute.

An amendment to the act of congress, if it could be procured, would be the most convenient and desirable mode of obviating the difficulties above suggested.

Respectfully Yours,

WINFIELD SMITH.

The condition of our banks was never more satisfactory than at present.

The total amount of securities is,	$2, 664, 669 98
The amount of coin, treasury notes, Wisconsin, United States, Minnesota, Illinois, Michigan and Ohio stocks, all of which are now quoted at or above par, is,	$2, 593, 669 98
And of stocks now quoted below par but which are estimated as a basis of circulation at ten per cent less than their market value,	71, 000 00

The decrease of capital during the past year is in consequence of the adoption of the new system by a number of the state banks, while parties who had contemplated organizing under state laws, have established national banks, or wait until the experiment of the new system shall be tested.

A monthly statement of the condition of the banks has been published on the first of each month, showing the circulation of each bank, and the stock on which the same is based, the amount of circulation retired, if any, in each month, and such other information as was deemed of importance to the public.

S. J. Dennis, Esq., No. 78 Reade street, continues to act as agent of this department in New York City. I cheerfully improve this opportunity to express my appreciation of the integrity, promptness and efficiency which is manifested in the discharge of his duties.

The employees of this department, with their salaries, are as follows :

Wm. H. Ramsey, comptroller,	$2, 000 00
S. A. White, bank register,	1, 200 00
Charles G. Meyer, ass't register and book keeper,	1, 000 00
D. B. Ramsey, clerk,	1, 000 00
J. J. Van Keulen, night watchman, per day,	1 25

The appendix attached will show :

- "A"—Securities, circulation and capital of banks.
- "B"—Names of stockholders, and the amount of stock held by each.
- "C"—Names of personal bondsmen for each bank.
- "D"—List of banks and officers of each.
- "E"—Taxes paid to state by each bank.
- "F"—Statement of impressions destroyed during past year.
- "G"—Impressions now on hand of each bank.
- "H"—Condition of each bank in the state.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

WM. H. RAMSEY,
Bank Comptroller.

SEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE BOARD OF REGENTS OF NORMAL SCHOOLS.

The Board, in their report of 1862 say that Normal Instruction, like other branches of education in the State, has met with obstacles for the last two years by the war, which has not only withdrawn many of the young men from the classes, in some cases nearly depleting them, but has taken some of the best instructors. These obstacles have by no means been diminished during the period covered by this report. Not only has the cessation of the war called away many of the male pupils and instructors, but has by this call made vacant places which were of necessity filled by female teachers, and thus drawing still more on the classes. The result has been a lowering of the standard of scholarship in nearly every class reporting to the Board. While the number reported by the various classes was about the same as that of 1862 and the standard of examination established by the Board was the same, a smaller number actually passed the required standard.

On the other hand the Board has acted in conjunction with the State Superintendent in holding Teachers Institutes in different sections of the State with marked good results. It has been the uniform testimony of those attending these Institutes that the results have been beneficial in awakening new interest and zeal in the cause of education, and imparting new vigor to the teachers. County Superintendents have expressed their great satisfaction at the results, and they have been greatly encouraged and strengthened in their own work by the new impetus thus given.

The Board consider that no part of the fund gives quicker returns, or is more satisfactorily expended than that appropriated for these county or district Institutes. Their influences in most cases reach districts but little benefitted by Normal classes, as it has been the uniform policy of the Board to send their agent and make appropriations for Institutes in those counties where no Normal Class exists, in order that the benefit of the fund may be partaken of by all.

INSTITUTIONS REPORTING.

There are four classes of Institutions making report to this Board:

1. Colleges with a net property of $50,000.
2. Female Colleges, with a net property of $20,000.
3. Academies with a net property of $5,000.
4. Union or High Schools without any property qualifications defined, but being "under the control of any city, village, town, or district Board of Commissioners, Trustees, or Directors, having control of the Schools in said city, village, town or district, according to the laws of this State."

Of these several classes, reports were received and a portion of the fund appropriated to the following Institutions:

Lawrence University—Appleton, Outagamie Co.
Milton Academy—Milton, Rock Co.
Allen's Grove Academy—Allen's Grove, Walworth Co.
Beloit High School—Beloit, Rock Co.
Delavan High School—Delavan, Walworth Co.

The following table exhibits the number of pupils claimed as having pursued normal studies, according to the requirements of the Board, together with the number allowed by the Board, and the amount appropriated to each Institution:

	1st Year's Course.	2d Year.	Allowed.	Amount.

Waupaca High School,.....	22	..	9	270 00
	134	20	36	$1,080 00

This distribution was at the rate of $30 for each pupil passing the examination. The Board can only repeat a remark made in its report for 1889:

"These amounts, together with those received from the tuition of pupils, ought surely to be a sufficient inducement for the establishment of good Normal Classes, and it is not unreasonable, on the part of the State, to expect that the work for which the institutions are paid shall be fully and amply done. Nor should any institution lay claim to or expect to receive aid and encouragement from the State, until, on its part, it is willing and able to do the State some service."

CONDITION OF THE FUND.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

Established by the Board of Normal School Regents for the information of Institutions applying for a portion of the Normal School Fund:

The Board of Regents, desirous of placing in the hands of Institutions, all necessary instruction in applying for a portion of the Fund, would call their attention to the following requisitions, drawn from the law, and the resolutions and acts passed at various times by the Board:

PROPERTY QUALIFICATIONS.

All Institutions having a College Charter, must have property, over and above all incumbrances, to the amount of $50,000. Every Female College must have, under the same conditions, at least $20,000. Every chartered Academy, property under the same conditions, of at least $5,000. Union or High Schools are exempt from the property qualifications, but must report in the same manner as to their property, and in all other respects conform to, and make their reports as Colleges and Academies.

The property of any College or Academy, may consist in College buildings and grounds, other lots or portions of land and buildings, library, apparatus, furniture, notes, accounts due the Institution, &c. Stock notes, or such as are given for shares, on which it is proposed to declare a dividend, are not to be considered as assets.

APPLICATION.

Institutions desiring to participate in this fund by the organizing of a Normal Class, must, each year, make application to the Secretary, before the first day of April.

Those forming classes for the first time, and returning only a Fall or Winter class, may make application at any time previous to the first day of September.

ORGANIZATION OF CLASSES.

1. Pupils must make written application to the Principal of the Institution to become members of the class, setting forth name, age, and place of residence, and also a desire to prepare for teaching, and an intention to teach at least two years in the State of Wisconsin.

2. A special examination (both written and oral) should be had for admission to the class, and no one should be admitted who does not pass a creditable examination in the following branches: Reading, Spelling, Penmanship, Geography, Grammar, Intellectual Arithmetic, and Written Arithmetic to Proportion.

3. The Normal Class should meet, as a class, every school day, and in addition to such lessons as may be recited in other classes, should have special instruction given in the best methods of teaching the different branches, best methods of organizing and classifying mixed and graded schools, true order of studies, school programme, school discipline, and other subjects connected with the practical work of the school room, and should, as a class, carefully study some work upon the Theory and Practice of Teaching and Science of Education.

4. A Class Record should be kept, showing the actual attendance and standing of each member of the class, as also the duties each has performed in writing essays, and conducting class exercises.

5. The preliminary examination papers, original application, and class record must be presented to the agent at the time of the examination.

6. Pupils must be at least 16 years of age at the time of entering the Normal Department, and must be in attendance at least one term of four months during the year covered by the report, after all days of absence, holidays, the usual Saturday vacation, and all other days in which normal instruction is not given, are deducted. There must have been an actual attendance of sixty-five days, in order to bring the pupil into the list of Normal Students to be reported to the Board.

Institutions drawing from the fund will be expected to keep the Normal Department in operation during at least one term of the year, and no appropriation will be made to institutions that do not meet these requirements, unless some valid reason is shown why it is not so done.

Pupils in the Normal Department must pursue, at least, three of the studies laid down by the Board. The Board would further call the attention of Instructors to the necessity of Lectures and Debates with the Normal Class, and always, when practicable, the establishment of Model Classes in connection therewith.

A knowledge of Vocal Music is desirable, and when that or German has been acquired, will be certified to in the Diploma.

EXAMINATIONS.

1. The examinations will be held, when desired, once a year, and will be upon the entire course of the year for which the pupil is entered. None should be presented for examination who, in the opinion of the Principal of the School, cannot pass a thorough examination in all the studies required.

2. No pupil will be examined in the studies of any year, who has not passed, or cannot pass a good examination in the preliminary studies, and studies of the preceding year or years.

3. The examination will be held at such time as will best suit the convenience of the Agent and the Institution. Each Institution should, at as early a day as possible after organizing a class, correspond with the Agent, notifying him when the examination is desirable, giving as wide a range in the selection of time as possible. Upon receipt of this, he will appoint a time for the examination, at which time, all who are to be returned as Normal Pupils, should be present, provided with pen, ink and paper.

4. The Agent is instructed by the Board to refuse examination where the Normal Class has not been established and conducted according to the law and regulations of the Board. He will exclude from examination any person who does not give satisfactory evidence of being a Normal Pupil according to the regulations of the Board, and whose general character and deportment are such as to unfit him for a teacher.

DIPLOMAS.

1. Upon the recommendation of the Principal of the Institution there will be granted to those members of the Normal Classes who show, by a thorough examination, that they have completed their first year's course, a Graded Recommendatory Diploma, setting forth the qualifications of the holder, as shown by the examination of the Agent of this Board, and passing him in the studies of the first year.

2. Upon the same conditions, to those completing the second year's course, will be granted a still higher Grade of Recommendatory Diploma, of having passed in the second year's course.

3. To those pupils who complete the three year's course, and who present satisfactory evidence of having taught successfully, a Public School for at least one year, will be granted a Professional Diploma, of Graduation in the Teacher's Course, as prescribed by this Board.

TIME OF MAKING THE REPORT.

The reports should embrace only the civil year at the close of which it is made; a part of the preceding year cannot be regarded. The report should embrace all matters to the first day of January, and be returned to the Secretary of the Board as soon thereafter as practicable, that there may be ample time to correct any errors, or supply any deficiencies, should there be such. No report can be received after the 5th day of March.

Annual Catalogues, Circulars and other Documents, giving information concerning the Institutions, should be furnished to the Secretary, as soon as issued, that full and complete information of every institution should be on file in the Secretary's office, and always accessible to the Board.

All communications relating to the formation of Normal Classes, applications and general business, should be directed to the Secretary. Those relating to the examinations of classes, return of examination papers, Teachers' Institutes, etc., should be made to the Agent.

In the distribution of this Fund the Board will adhere strictly to the foregoing regulations.

SIXTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
SUPERINTENDENT
PUBLIC INSTRUCTION
OF THE
STATE OF WISCONSIN
FOR
THE YEAR ENDING AUGUST 31, 1864

By JOHN G. McMYNN,
SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION

MADISON, WIS.,
ATWOOD & RUBLEE, STATE PRINTERS.
1865.

OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION,
MADISON, December 10, 1864.

To His Excellency, JAMES T. LEWIS,

Governor of Wisconsin :

SIR :—I have the honor, herewith to submit the Sixteenth Annual Report from this Department.

I am very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

JNO. G. McMYNN,

Superintendent of Public Instruction.

ANNUAL REPORT.

To the Legislature of Wisconsin :

GENTLEMEN :—In compliance with the requirements of law, the following report is respectfully submitted, for the year ending August 31st, 1864.

The law provides that the State Superintendent "shall prepare in each year a report, to be submitted to the Legislature, on or before the tenth day of December in each year, containing—

1. An abstract of all the Common School reports received by him from the several County Superintendents of Schools.
2. A statement of the condition of the Common Schools of this State.
3. Estimates and accounts of the expenditures of the school moneys.
4. Plans for the improvement and management of the Common School Fund, and for the better organization of the Common Schools. And—
5. All such matters relating to his office, and the Common Schools of the State, as he shall deem expedient to communicate."

The following summary of the reports received from County Superintendents for 1862-3 and 1863-4, will present the subjects of attendance, taxes, teachers, etc., in an intelligible manner.

The following towns are unreported this year :

Chamber's Island, Door County.

Liberty grove, Door County.

Eaton, Monroe County.

McClelland, Wood County.

Eau Galla, St. Croix County.

Reports sent in, after the annual report from this office is published, are received upon affidavit that the delay was unavoidable, and such reports are incorporated in the reports from towns or counties with which they properly belong. It is the duty of all school officers receiving reports to acknowledge their reception by return mail, and if such acknowledgment is not promptly made, it is the duty of the officer sending the report to write to inquire if the report has been received.

SCHOOL CHILDREN.—The number is nearly 3 per cent. greater than last year. This is the least increase in per centage since the State was organized.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.—During the past year the attendance has fallen off. The per centage of attendance of number registered is 58.

The following table showing the attendance since 1849, although not strictly reliable, may be of interest :

Years.	Per cent. of Attendance,	Years.	Per cent. of Attendance.
1849 estimated.....	44	1857 calculated.....	60
1850....do.....	57	1858....do.....	62
1851....do.....	70	1859 estimated.....	65
1852....do.....	71	1860 calculated.....	67
1853....do.....	69	1861....do.....	65
1854 calculated.....	65	1862....do.....	64
1855....do.....	65	1863....do.....	65
1856....do.....	64	1864....do.....	58

There is a decrease in attendance of number registered of 7 per cent. since last year. The per centage of attendance of the whole number entitled to school privileges is, for this year, 88. This is 11 per cent. less than last year. This fact ought to attract the attention of all. It is well to urge parents to manifest greater interest in their schools, and to call upon all classes of citizens to aid in securing a more general and regular attendance. It may be best to enforce attendance by law, and to appropriate the public money on the basis of actual attendance; but of this we may be certain, our schools will never do their legitimate work until we improve the character and increase the qualifications of our teachers.

TEACHERS.—Of the 7,585 teachers employed during the past year; it is ascertained from data furnished in the special reports of County Superintendents, that the number holding certificates of different grades is as follows :

Number holding limited third grade certificates,.....	824
..do....do....third grade certificates,.....	16,257
..do....do....second.....do.....	377
..do....do....first.....do.....	127
Total,.....	7,585

By reference to the following sections of the school law relating to Teachers' Certificates, an idea of the attainments of the teachers employed may be attained :

TEACHERS' CERTIFICATES.

Sec. 100. Every applicant for a situation as a Teacher in any of the Common Schools of this State, shall be examined by the County Superintendent of Schools of his county, in regard to moral character, learning, and ability to teach, and, if found qualified, shall receive a certificate as hereinafter provided.

Sec. 101. There are hereby established three grades of Teachers' Certificates, to be known as certificates of the first, second and third grade, respectively, as the case may be. Each certificate shall show the branches of study in which the holder has been examined, also the relative attainment of the applicant in each.

Sec. 102. Every applicant for a Certificate of the Third Grade, shall be examined in Orthoepey, Orthography, Reading, Penmanship, Intellectual and Written Arithmetic, Primary Grammar and Geography, and if found qualified, shall receive a Certificate which shall entitle the holder to teach in the town for which he applies, and which shall be in force for one year from the date thereof; and each County Superintendent may issue Third Grade Certificates for a less period than one year, and for a particular district, whenever he is satisfied that the applicant is qualified to teach in such district, and is not qualified to teach in every district of the town for which he is licensed.

Sec. 103. Every applicant for a Certificate of the Second Grade, shall be examined in all the branches required for a Certificate of the Third Grade, and in Addition thereto, in Grammatical Analysis, Physiology, Physical Geography, Elementary Algebra, United States History, and Theory and Practice of Teaching; and, if found qualified, shall receive a Certificate which shall entitle the holder to teach in any town in the county in which he is examined, and which shall be in force for one year from the date thereof.

Sec. 104. Every applicant for a Certificate of the First Grade, shall be examined in all the branches in which applicants for Certificates of the second and third grades are examined, and in addition thereto, in Higher Algebra, Natural Philosophy, and Geometry, and if found qualified, shall receive a certificate which shall entitle the holder to teach in any town in the county in which he is examined, and which shall be in force for two years from the date thereof.

The teachers employed in the cities, not under the supervision of the County Superintendents, are not examined by them, and the above figures may be very slightly changed, when they are included.

It appears that about 98 per cent of those employed the past year were not examined in the History of the United States, nor in Hygiene or the Laws of Health, nor in Theory and Practice of Teaching. If any class of instructors needs to understand these branches, it would seem to be those who have charge of our country schools. It is probable that some of those teaching under a third grade certificate might obtain the second grade, but these certainly exhibit little professional pride, when they can show no evidence, in their license to teach, that they possess any special fitness for their vocation.

TEACHERS' WAGES.—The wages of teachers have been increased somewhat during the past year, but not to correspond with the increased cost of living. There is an increase of 19 1-2 per cent. in the pay of male teachers, and 15 1-2 per cent. in that of female teachers.

SCHOOL TAXES.—The whole amount of taxes received for school purposes is 20 per cent. greater this year than last. If we include salaries of County Superintendents, at least $1,000,000 has been expended during the year in support of the Public Schools.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS.—No reliable reports are received at this office from this class of schools. The number reported as attending them is far below the real number.

LIBRARIES.—Only enough is reported regarding these to show that nothing is done to improve them. The repeal of the law of 1859, providing for District Libraries, and the transfer of the library fund to other funds, probably render it useless to urge the wisdom and expediency of using this powerful agency to educate the youth of the State.

REPORTS OF COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS.

The following Circular was addressed to the County Superintendents in August last by my predecessor :

STATE OF WISCONSIN,
OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION,
August 13, 1864.

DEAR SIR:—It is desirable that a Special Report from you be embodied in the Annual Report from this Department. This Special Report should be very brief, and may embrace the following subjects:

1. School Houses.—Number built during the year ending August 31st., 1864. Improvements in those previously built.

2. Graded Schools.—Their number and general character. Number of Districts in which Graded Schools might be profitably established.

3. Teachers.—Number holding certificates of each grade. Number employed in same school as during the previous year. Number who have no other employment, and are engaged in teaching during the year. Average age and experience.

4. Pupils.—General average of punctual attendance. General Department. Number who are not properly supplied with books.

5. Patrons.—General interest manifested. Number of visits to schools.

6. Your views upon the Township District system of school management, as presented in the last Annual Report from this Department, a copy of which has been recently sent to you.

7. Any suggestions you may see fit to make with reference to the wants of our schools will be thankfully received.

N. B.—You will confer a favor by sending to this office copies of your circulars, notices, and also of your questions used in examinations. I trust also that Superintendents may exchange with each other, all papers connected with their work. This will tend to uniformity of work.

Very truly yours,

J. L. PICKARD,

Superintendent Public Instruction.

In response to the foregoing, the following have been received:

ADAMS COUNTY.

In this county several districts have become disorganized during the past year, owing to the fact that many of the inhabitants have removed to other localities; the few remaining families have been set off into adjacent districts.

Two school houses have been destroyed by fire, one of which was a log structure and the other a framed house. Upon the site occupied by the latter a new frame house has been erected, which, though defective in some respects, is much superior to the old one. This is the only house built since the last annual report was made. The inhabitants of several other districts in which new and more commodious school houses are needed are deterred from building at present by the high price of building materials. Wherever I have found a district in which it was proposed to build a new house, I have placed in the hands of the building committee a copy of Barnard's School Architecture, thinking it would give them material assistance in planning and furnishing their house.

Among the prominent defects in the internal arrangement of our school houses—to say nothing of the absence of maps and charts—are the insufficiency of black-board surface, and the improper construction and arrangement of seats and desks. In one school, numbering forty pupils, I found no black-board at all; in eight or ten others, numbering from twenty to thirty scholars each, the black-board surface ranges from nine to fourteen square feet, and these boards are frequently so located as to be entirely out of the reach of the smaller children. The fact is, our houses are so small and so "cluttered up" that there is not room for sufficient black-board. The seats and desks are generally too high, and in some cases subject the children to much physical discomfort.

We have no properly graded schools in the county. The propriety of establishing one at Friendship, our county seat, has been suggested by some of the influential citizens. Such a school is certainly needed at that place.

During the year I have examined seventy-two applicants for teachers' certificates, and have granted two second grade, forty-four third grade, and a few local certificates.

The attendance of pupils during the last winter's schools was poor, on account of the severity of the weather and the depth of snow; during the past summer the attendance has been quite good.

Patrons do not visit the schools as frequently as they should; in many cases the official visit made by the Superintendent has been the only one received by the school during an entire term.

Here let me say that we very much need a supervision of our schools, more efficient than can be exercised by the County Superintendent. If the Township District System is adopted, this want will be supplied, and, though I think that new and thinly settled counties like Adams would not derive so great benefit from its adoption as would more densely populated sections, I am satisfied that, as a State, Wisconsin needs just such a system, and I hope that our Legislature, at its next session, will be brought to action upon this subject.

Taking the reports of the teachers for my data, I find that about 12 per cent. of the pupils attending our public schools are not properly supplied with books. This is an evil so obvious and of so great magnitude that I am encouraged to believe it will not long exist. I am gratified to say, that improvement is being made in this respect.

The frequent change of teachers is another evil which can hardly be overlooked, and which it will require time and much effort to remedy. It occurs to me that, to secure permanence, somebody beside the teachers and their pupils must be educated. I think that good teachers are sometimes discharged or permitted to resign because their employers do not know that they are good teachers, or because they ignore the truth that the remuneration should be in proportion to the value of the services rendered.

The only permanent private school in this county is Brunson Institute, located at Point Bluff. It has been instrumental in preparing many for successful labor in our public schools, and it is to be hoped that it will continue to exert the same beneficial influence. The opportunities afforded to its pupils, though not equal in all respects to those presented by older institutions of similar character, are very creditable to a school of its age and amount of patronage. I am now holding a Teacher's Institute in connection with this school. It is attended by quite a number who design to teach during the approaching winter. Mr Fay, the former Superintendent of Adams county, is teaching in the northern part of the county and informs me that a number of teachers are there studying under his direction.

In conclusion I would say that our teachers manifest a commendable desire to improve in knowledge and skill; and that much praise is due to the parents and school officers in some localities for the energy and interest they manifest in all matters pertaining to the interests of our public schools.

BROWN COUNTY.

During the year I have visited nearly all the schools in this county twice, and taken notes of my observations of teachers, their manner of conducting schools, attendance of scholars, character of school houses, and other matters pertaining to the interests of schools. One great obstacle to the efficiency and success of our public schools in the country districts is the frequent change of teachers. The short period for which they are generally employed, and the uncertainty of being retained induces many of the best and most competent to seek other and more steady employments. I have endeavored to remedy this evil by impressing our school officers with the importance of securing good teachers and permanently retaining them.

The school houses in this county, I am sorry to say, are not of the first order. We have some very good ones, others that would be comfortable only for the lack of room, and too many that are unfit to be called by that name.

There is a lack of maps, charts, and globes in some districts, while others are partially, and some more fully supplied with these necessary appurtenances.

Late and irregular attendance of pupils are most grievous evils in our common schools, and tend more to thwart the best endeavors of teachers, than any other causes coming under my observation.

Primary instruction is, in some instances, too much neglected, the teacher as well as the pupil, in many instances, wishes to advance with too much haste, and before the scholar has attained a full understanding of the primary branches. The importance of visitation by school officers and patrons cannot be over estimated; such visits seem to endow both teacher and pupils with new life and vigor. This matter, I regret to say, is sadly neglected.

We have in the city of Green Bay three schools, in which are employed seven teachers, who have had experience in teaching, as follows: One 32 years, one 10 years, one 5 years, and the others ranging from one to three years respectively. There are only two schools in this county having two departments. One in Green Bay and one in Depere. They are ably conducted by competent and experienced teachers, and contrasting their condition for the last year with former years, there is a very decided improvement in the general attendance of pupils, school discipline and mode of instruction.

CHIPPEWA COUNTY.

This county has made no improvements in building school houses during the year. The seats and desks in some have been improved, and others need improvement of the same kind. About half of our districts are provided with substantial, well constructed school houses. Two have none, and the remainder are yet using the buildings erected before the settlers were really prepared to build them. Ten of our schools have so small and scattered a population that but one term is kept during the year.

The school in Chippewa Falls is divided into three departments; the increasing number of scholars will soon require a fourth department.

The character of our schools has improved materially during the past year. We need a few more competent teachers. For the want of them, some schools have been under the care of inexperienced teachers, hardly qualified to properly discharge the duties of the position. Schools for the winter, so far as teachers have been employed, are supplied with those better qualified than at any time previous.

Examinations have generally been well attended, and teachers have rendered much assistance to increase the interest, and the standard of qualification has been advanced. Several of our teachers have made successful efforts for improvement by attending classes for reviewing, during vacation of their schools.

Parents do not feel that interest which the good of the school requires. The schools in a few districts are visited by parents, who render much encouragement and assistance to the teachers, but the majority think their duty is done when the teacher is hired, and appear to make no further effort. I find, as a general thing, that the wide awake, faithful teacher interests the parents, and if the parents feel an interest in the school the children are sure to be interested.

The future is encouraging; our schools are young, but have improved rapidly since their organization, teachers are becoming more numerous and better qualified. Parents are showing more interest in the welfare of schools, and I think all the auxiliaries for the improvement of schools will be increased.

R. PALMER, Supt. of Schools,

COLUMBIA COUNTY.

I.—EXAMINATION OF TEACHERS.

I have endeavored during the past year to carry out both the letter and spirit of the law, in this department of my duty, as a school officer. For this purpose, examinations have been so conducted as not merely to test the present qualifications of teachers, but also to lead them onward to a fuller and more complete preparation for the important work which they have undertaken.

The county has been divided into seven inspection districts. At least two general meetings (spring and fall) have been held in each district.—The number of meetings to be attended, the amount of labor connected therewith, and other circumstances, have seemed to render it necessary that each meeting should be limited to two days, and in some instances the public exercises have been compressed within the limits of a single day.

In a considerable number of instances where sickness or absence has seemed to render it necessary, applicants for license as teachers, have been allowed separate examinations. It is believed that the interests of our schools require that this class of cases should be reduced to the lowest possible limit.

II.—SCHOOL VISITATION.

1. After an examination of the school, (usually by witnessing its regular ordinary operation,) and addressing the scholars in a familiar manner, on some subject connected with their studies, I have endeavored in a full and free consultation with the teacher, to make such suggestions with regard to the modes of giving instruction, management of classes and government of the school, as the circumstances in each varying case might require.

2. It being a leading object in visiting the several districts, to awaken the district officers and patrons of schools, to united and practical efforts for the improvement of their schools, I have, where practicable, sought personal interviews on this subject. When a satisfactory interview could not readily be obtained, a letter like the following has been addressed to the district board:

Gentlemen—In the discharge of that part of my official duty, which requires me to act as an inspector of schools, I have again visited the school in your district. As far as it seemed necessary to do so, I have counseled the teacher in regard to the instruction and management of the school.

To you as the chosen representatives of the district, I wish now to offer a few suggestions, and I trust they will be received in the same spirit in which they are offered, a sincere desire to improve the school, and render it an educational institution, suited to develop the children into healthy, decent, upright and intelligent men and women.

Your attention is invited to the subject discussed at pages 66, 106 and 107 of the school code.

Your careful consideration of your duties as school visitors (see Sec. 54 of code) is also invited. The value of the encouragement afforded by your presence, both to pupil and teacher, can hardly be over-rated.

As school examiners, we observe, among other things—

1st. The order and general deportment of the scholars.

2d. Irregularity of attendance, or absenteeism of a portion of the scholars.

3d. Whether a uniform series of text books is used.

4th. Whether any of the scholars lack text books in branches which they ought to study.

5th. The temperature, ventilation, and general comfort of the school room.

7th. The contiguity of the school house to the street or other disturbing influence.

7th. The inconvenient arrangement of seats and desks.

8th. The height, width and inclination of seats, compared to the wants of scholars.

9th. The great need of more good black-board surface.

10th. The lack of outline maps and suitable charts.

11th. The imperfectness of the out-door appendages, and its effect on the health, morals and decency of young persons.

III.—SCHOOL HOUSES.

Seven new school houses have recently been erected in this county.

Others have been renovated, so as to better subserve the purpose of school houses.

Last year when the Code was sent me for distribution, I prepared an article on the subject of school houses, touching the following subjects:—
1. Location. 2. Size. 3. Height. 4. Underpinning. 5. Windows. 6. Ventilation. 7. Space for Class Exercises. 8. Black-board. 9. Teacher's Table. 10. Seats. 11. Desks. 12. Other Furniture. 13. Apparatus. 14. The School House a Dwelling.

This was printed on a leaf of a size to correspond with the Code, and inserted at pages 106 and 107.

This article is of a strictly practical kind. Sizes, heights, and inclinations of seats, desks, &c., are given in figures; dimensions and location of black-boards, and the arrangement of the room so as to make them accessible and useful; the removal of the awkward pulpits (mis-named teacher's desks) found in most of our school-rooms, and the useless platforms on which they stand; and the substitution of a usable, movable table, on a level floor; these subjects receive prominent attention.

I have made special visits to such districts as have contemplated erecting new houses for the purpose of consulting with building committees, and laying before them such improvements as have come under my observation.

IV.—ATTENDANCE AND PROGRESS OF PUPILS.

The attendance of pupils has been more regular during the past year than heretofore, and the progress of the schools generally has been very encouraging. Teachers have generally been very ready to adopt improved modes of teaching.

A serious drawback to our progress is, that our best teachers are soon drawn to other avocations, and we lose their services in the educational field.

V.—GRAND SCHOOLS.

Have been established in Columbus, Lodi, Kilbourn City, Fall River, Wyocena, Pardeeville, Cambria and Poynette. In Otsego, although the number of scholars is less than in either of the other places named, a similar arrangement will probably soon be made. In Lodi a consolidation of districts has been accomplished during the present year for this purpose.

These schools are all under the care of district boards organized in the ordinary manner. Several of them are supplied with sets of Maps and Charts, and some of them with a few articles of apparatus.

The teachers are comparatively efficient and skillful. Although we seriously feel the need of the influence of a good Normal School, I think that our village schools do not usually feel that need so much as those in the country; the best teachers being selected for the villages.*

DANE COUNTY—(FIRST DISTRICT.)

In this half of Dane County there are one hundred and nineteen school houses. Two have been built during the year. Some of these are very fine structures, while others are miserable specimens, destitute of either taste, convenience or comfort. Many large and costly houses are so badly arranged and seated, as to be almost entirely unfit for school purposes. It is surprising that in most instances the school-room is constructed apparently with no intelligent idea of the purpose which it is to serve. Seats and desks out of all proportion to the size of children who are to occupy them; arrangement such as to afford no facilities for maneuvering classes; black board so small or so situated, that it is useless for general, or even class exercise; and no means for ventilation or equalizing temperature. Indeed the experience of the past year has led me to conclude that little or no regard is generally paid to the important fact that the school-room with its surroundings is a most powerful educating agency. It is generally admitted that the proper temperature of a room, in winter, for health and comfort, is about 65 degrees. Yet in some of the school-rooms visited last winter, the temperature was as high as 90 degrees. Nor was the teacher altogether to blame for this; for perhaps, even then, in some parts of the house it was no more than comfortably warm. Seventy-five school houses are without outbuildings. And in two instances, school houses situated in the centre of large villages are without these necessary appendages. Comment upon this state of things is unnecessary.

I visited every school house, in which a school was taught, during the summer, except one, a shanty, built this summer, and the existence of which I did not know at the time the school was in progress. In a few instances the schools were not in session, owing to some local cause, at the time of visitation. Such schools I of course failed to see. One hundred and nine schools have been in session during the summer. In the village of Stoughton they have a large graded school. Efforts are also being made in the villages of Sun Prairie and Marshall, to erect suitable buildings for schools with departments. Most of those engaged in teaching during the summer had had previous experience, and a goodly number were teaching the same school that they had previously taught. As a general thing the interest and efficiency of teachers in their work seem to be increasing. Indeed, if parents and patrons manifested as much interest as teachers do in the work of education, the successful and almost perfect operation of our common school system would be placed beyond doubt or criticism. Of the one hundred and nine schools in session the past summer only thirty-four were visited by the district board; nineteen were visited only once; and only two were visited more than twice. One of the greatest obstacles to the success of our schools is the fact that parents generally know little about the school except from the representations of their children. In fact very few people really know what a successful school is. If parents would frequently visit the school, and thus realize with what the teacher has to contend, they would learn to sympathize with him, and be led to encourage him in his patient toil for the good of their children. Scholars would also be encouraged to faithfulness. The little petty jealousies and difficulties among scholars, would never swell to such gigantic proportions, monthly offenses, resulting in the dismissal of the teacher and the general demoralization of the school. At the public examination last spring, 1864, applicants presented themselves. Of this number 108 were granted third grade certificates. No higher grade certificates were granted. A few private examinations were given.

A. B. PRINCE, County Superintendent.

DANE COUNTY—(SECOND DISTRICT.)

During the year 1864 I have examined 209 candidates, granting certificates as follows:

1st Grade,	8
Limited,	106

Twenty-nine of these certificates were limited, because they were granted upon private examination subsequent to the public examinations, and not because the holders of them were deficient in qualifications. The teachers are steadily improving in Orthography, Reading and Mental Arithmetic. These branches are not only better understood, but also much better taught than formerly. In many places there is considerable improvement in Geography; but the great deficiency of "teachers' helps," retards progress in this direction.

When our teachers are furnished with necessary tools to work with; when our reported black boards shall have grown to proper size, and shall have come down within the reach of pupils; when our school rooms shall contain maps and globes—in that "good time coming" which Superintendents and Teachers are working for, doubtless the advancement in this branch will be as rapid and noticeable as in the others. Attention is paid to map-drawing in many of our schools. The least improvement noticed is in Written Arithmetic, owing doubtless to the fact that the class of both teachers and scholars who made this branch a specialty are not now in the schools.

Owing to the severity of the winter only eighty-five schools were visited. These, with a few marked exceptions, were in a prosperous condition.

The Summer schools were found better attended than before, still our observation and our reports show a wonderful degree of carelessness or blindness in this respect. Parents are not properly aiding their children to form habits of promptness and devotion to business, when for light causes they permit them to be absent from their places in the school-room. Irregular attendance is the great bane of our schools. Next to this, is the multiplicity of classes; due to neglect on the part of School Boards to decide what series of books shall be used in school.

I am happy to state, that the number of school visitors, and school visits, as shown by the registers, has largely increased during the past year.

Several School Districts determined at the annual meeting of 1863 to erect new and fine school buildings. Owing to the scarcity of labor, few, if any, of these were completed during the year. Considerable has been done in the line of refurnishing and repairing.

Sixteen of those who received third grade certificates at the Spring Examinations came into the Fall Examinations and are thus reckoned twice in the above statement. The disposition which brings our teachers out to every examination, even though it is not demanded to qualify them to teach, I consider commendable. The figures which I have given will show that the great majority of our teachers in winter, as well as in summer, are ladies. The war calling off large numbers of our male teachers, has effected a great change in this respect. Four years ago very few of our winter schools were taught by females. On the whole, I do not regret the change. I cannot but hope that the effect will be beneficial to the interests of our schools. It tends to break up the changeable, the regular turn about policy hitherto pursued; a male teacher for the winter term, and then a female for the summer, and thus, almost inevitably, a new teacher for every term. A large majority of our districts must now, from necessity, employ female teachers for both terms—and the way is fairly open for them to employ the same one by the year. When our ladies are qualified for this it will be a great improvement upon the old system. And I am cheered in my work by the evidences I find that they are qualifying themselves to enter this wide and effectual door of usefulness which the war has opened before them. My acquaintance with them at my examinations and in the school room has elevated them as a class very much in my esteem as educators of our youth. We have a large number, and it is increasing quite rapidly, who make teaching a profession, and who are qualified to take charge of schools during the winter term. The great law of demand and supply is working admirably. The only counteracting influence is the disposition in our District Boards, which is too prevalent, to keep down the wages, especially of females, to the lowest point, and make them "board around" at that. Our young ladies who "are apt to teach," ought to be encouraged; yea, stimulated to the highest standard of qualifications for the responsible, noble work to which many of them must now devote themselves as a regular profession.

GRADED SCHOOLS.

There are, not including the city of Beaver Dam, six schools with two or more departments, but in a majority of these the system of gradation is quite imperfect. There are at least three districts in which graded schools might be introduced with great profit. But, as this would, at the commencement demand an extra outlay for the necessary rooms, a large number of children of all ages and attainments are herded together in one room, and in one case under two teachers who are compelled to conduct recitations in different parts of the same room, producing a most vivid impression of what the poet meant by "Confusion worse confounded."

SCHOOL HOUSES.

Much less than the average amount has been expended during the year in building and repairing school houses. Two have been built. One in a new district, and where logs were plenty; of course it must be of logs. The other a very neat house, with a wood-shed and other improvements. The old one was burnt last winter. If such is the result of fires a friend of education cannot but pray that there may soon be a general conflagration of all the old, uncomfortable, dirty, rotten, pioneer school houses, a large number of which are still found in this district.

A large catalogue of evils, which our schools are heir to, might be reported. But these are gradually being removed. There is, on the whole, slow but steady progress. The fountain of influence, in regard to our common school system is with the parents and patrons; as is the district, so almost uniformly is the district board, the school house, the teacher, the school.

H. M. PARMALIE, County Superintendent.

DOOR COUNTY.

(NO REPORT.)

DOUGLAS COUNTY.

This county has now been under organization just ten years; the most remote from the geographical and political centre of the State, unconnected by any roads or other means of communication within the limits of our territory, nor the recipient of any State munificence, except through the common school system, it has grown and advanced in social and commercial importance quite equal to other rural and frontier counties.

In 1850, what is now organized as Ashland, Douglas and La Pointe counties, was returned in the census at 489 of population; in 1860 the returns gave Ashland 518, La Pointe 358, and Douglas 828.

During the last four years the population of this county has increased about ten per cent., and may now be set down at nine hundred. Much of this increase is due to the employees on the copper mining works; these localities being as yet from four to ten or twenty miles from each other, and too few at each for a school, the children of the employees, to obtain instruction, have to avail themselves of the town schools. As they are all within the district organizations of the county, the above facilities for education are legitimately enjoyed, though at no inconsiderable expense to the parents and guardians. Early steps, however, should be taken to disseminate the school system among the mines, to secure in the outset the benefits of the State's bounty among the children in the mining districts.

In view of the above populations of Ashland, La Pointe and Douglas counties; allowing to the two former as great increase since 1860 as to the latter—which is not too little—the following statements reported for record, viz., Ashland [pop. 1863, 560], children 272, La Pointe [pop. 394], children 133, and Douglas [pop. 900], children 103, give rise to the inquiry, of to what is the marked discrepancy due? In one of the counties

(two hundred and seventy-two five hundred sixtieths) nearly fifty per cent. of the population are returned as children between four and twenty years of age; in another (one hundred and thirty-three three hundred and ninety-fourths) or thirty-three and a third per cent. as children, while the last (one hundred and three nine hundredths) returns but eleven per cent. of pupil age. It may not be denied that the above are correct returns, but it may at the same time be believed that the parents of the children—in excess—are maintaining their tribal relations, and the children are under teachers employed and paid by the United States Indian Department.

The school houses of Douglas county are quite inadequate to the demand. The first District in Superior had ample grounds bestowed upon it by the early proprietors. Two houses were erected in 1856 and 61, one of which, too remote from a sufficient number of children, has been in disuse for two or three years; the other has been enlarged, the grounds fenced and rendered pleasant and inviting, and conveniently seats fifty-two advanced and thirty primary pupils. The second District has a pleasantly located house, well finished and painted, having seats for thirty pupils.

The schools have not been graded under the prescribed system. The time has come, however, when the system should be entered upon. There are one male and five female teachers in this county who have attended the public examinations and received certificates to teach third grade schools. The first, and four of the latter, have successfully taught school elsewhere and here. We have the teachers for all three grades, fully qualified.

The tabulated report accompanying this, palpably shows a great want of interest in the schools. Out of one hundred and seventy-eight children between four and twenty years of age, but one hundred and forty-five names appear on the rolls of the teachers. In the First District, containing one hundred and thirty-six children, two hundred and thirty-six days of school were kept, and only 9,918 days of attendance; allowing a truancy of ten per cent., the attendance would have been over 28,000; but here we have an attendance of thirty-five per cent., or a fraction over one child in three at school. The Second District presents a better report. One hundred and seventy-nine days of school were kept for forty-two children, which ought to give an attendance of 6,700 after a deduction of ten per cent. absences; but the actual attendance was 8,462 only; or but little over one-half the amount due. Are the parents and guardians importuned on this subject? They, with too much truth, reprehend the authorities for not providing the necessary school room. The first District house seats eighty-two pupils, and yet 236 days of school should give even 19,000 attendance, nearly double the actual amount; and the second District house has seats for thirty pupils, and 179 days of school were open, giving facility for over five thousand days attendance, against 2,462 days enjoyed.

The truth is, the juvenile population has swelled upon our hands, before we realized it; the facilities for obtaining books are not the best, and the adult population have not awakened to the responsibility imposed upon them. It is, however, hoped that at the coming annual meetings, the subject will receive due attention.

The State authorities have adopted a system for common schools which only wants, at least in this locality, a more active administrative policy. If laudable pride to foster and carry out the policy or system manifestly does not exist, some power of supervision, mild and enticing in its exertion, should be if not already, inaugurated and brought to bear to render the system effective. The State, possessing a mineral interest, second only to Michigan, in her Lake Superior counties, will take pride in seconding these frontier counties in developing their resources, and it is not to be doubted that material aid and encouragement will be extended towards the Lake and Bay shore towns, Ashland, La Pointe, Bayfield and Superior, should they at once enter upon a vigorous plan to improve their common schools and establish first grade departments. These towns, enjoying pre-eminently, a healthful, invigorating climate, have much to gain by erecting attractive school houses, of ample dimensions, surrounded by well appointed pleasure grounds, shaded by the rich evergreens of the primeval forests, watered by the mountain rills or laved by the pure waves of the lake. Schools thus provided will command the services of the best of teachers, become the pride of the State, an honor to the towns possessing them, and entice parents and pupils from the sultry regions to come and at once experience the benefits of climate and acquire education, restore health and enjoy pleasure.

In conclusion, it is respectfully submitted that the State Superintendent endeavor to visit these frontier counties, at his earliest convenience, and stimulate the people to improve, if not to excel, in educational enterprise.

THOS. CLARK, County Superintendent.

DUNN COUNTY.

(NO REPORT.)

EAU CLAIRE COUNTY.

Not having had the charge of the schools the past year, I cannot speak with that definiteness respecting their condition that I otherwise might. There are some things which I deem it of importance to communicate.

1st. There is a decided lack of qualified teachers in this section of the State, and I am obliged to license those who are not qualified. Probably some advance has been made in the condition of the schools in general. A very decided advance has been made in the erection of a house for a graded school, upon the east side of the river; one which does honor to the place and those more particularly engaged in the enterprise. It is calculated, when completed, for five or six departments. The school has recently opened with flattering prospects. The accommodations in that part of the town, or rather that town, have previously been very insufficient.

Upon the west side, where I am teaching, the school has its usual interest, and is making commendable progress.

There is a very commendable zeal and liberality, for so new a country, in this county. Only 7 years since, a school was first established in this valley of the Chippewa, and that in the rudest kind of a building. It is a decidedly loyal county, and has done nobly in filling its quota for the army.

A. KROOK, County Superintendent.

FOND DU LAC COUNTY.

The architecture of a part of the school buildings of this county will compare favorably with that of similar sections of the State, but it is far below what it ought to be. Much labor has been expended in lectures and special visitations in needy localities, to secure new buildings, and required changes in the internal arrangement of old ones, and with some success.

Twelve new school buildings have been erected in this county during the past year. In most of these a decided advance has been made in architectural design. A few have been constructed with little reference to taste, comfort and convenience; while one has been added to the twenty-one log buildings previously existing.

Much remains to be done in the erection of new buildings, and in remodeling old ones, by cutting down seats, removing clumsy desks, high platforms and pulpits, and in the introduction of a generous amount of black wall, clocks, maps, charts, recitation and other seats, all arranged for effective service.

Extensive plans and specifications for the construction of school rooms (including size and preparation of seats, black boards, desks, aisles, &c.) arranged with special reference to the comfort of the children and the convenience of the teacher, have been prepared at much cost of labor by the Superintendent and are kept for the use of the schools of the county.

This county has only two graded schools. Four schools have a Grammar and Primary Department. Four localities exist where Graded Schools might be profitably established. But the tendency, owing to lack of appreciation, or knowledge of the advantages to be derived from consolidation, is in the direction of division instead of centralization.

In matters of this kind even a large majority may be in the wrong.

As no records of any kind came into my hands at the commencement of the calendar year, I cannot give the exact number of certificates now existing. One hundred and ninety seven teachers have been approbated by me—8 receiving First Grade, 18 Second Grade, and 181 Third Grade Certificates—79 have been rejected.

With few exceptions the schools in this county change teachers each successive term, and the schools plainly show the evil results of this custom.

The teachers, as a class, have been laborious and faithful. They have commanded my respect and confidence, while they, laboring in the midst of discouragements, have often enlisted my deepest sympathies. Their attainments have not reached a standard which ought to be reached; but they have tried to do their work faithfully and well. We have some superior teachers, but by far the greater number are sadly deficient in the best modes of teaching, and lack thoroughness in conducting school exercises, especially recitation. A good Normal School, expressly designed for the training of teachers, is greatly needed in this county. In the districts where the largest percentage of the children attend school, the attendance is most regular and most punctual. In one township nearly 95 per cent. of the children attend the Public Schools. In another less than 50 per cent. of the children are in the Public Schools. A part of the localities of foreign population, especially German, very in-wisely as it seems to me, withhold their children from English schools, and send them to German schools. In one day I visited three schools, containing 11, 4 and 3 pupils, respectively, and yet these districts draw public money on 498 scholars. The children were in German schools. Their love for their vernacular is commendable, and yet it is plain that the German schools thus patronized are a great detriment to the Public Schools. They ought to retain their language, since a man who can speak two languages is worth two men; but the interests of the State demand a law requiring the presence of all children under a certain age in the Public School, until they shall have mastered the rudiments of an English education.

Few persons, either officers or parents, visit the schools. Many teachers get discouraged because they are never cheered by the faces of those for whose children they labor, in the School room.

Only nine schools are reported as having been visited by District Boards, and only then by all the members of the Board, except when with the County Superintendent.

Meetings of School District Boards were called for conference, on the second day of the last examination, in each inspection district. Thirteen persons appeared, representing ten School Districts. But I hope the real interest in Education is more general and deep than this would suggest. "I think it is."

Up to Aug. 31st, two hundred and ninety-eight visits had been made by me to one hundred and sixty-three schools, and thirty-six evening addresses had been given in various parts of the county on topics of vital importance to the elevation of the schools and the more thorough education of the children.

L. N. CUNDALL, County Superintendent.

GRANT COUNTY.

A few days since I forwarded you my Annual Report. The Report is imperfect in many respects, and does the county injustice, especially in representing so many school houses as being without black-boards. I have spent many days labor upon it; but, owing to errors in the Town Clerks' reports (not one of which came to me free from inaccuracies—most of them with several columns left blank) I am unable to give you a correct statement of the facts.

I entered upon the duties of this office the first day of January, 1864, and at once began the visitation of schools. I visited upwards of fifty schools before commencing the spring examinations. At the close of these, upon the Governor's call for "100 days' men," I, for the second time, entered the service of my country, leaving the correspondence and all necessary business of the office in the hands of Mr. John L. Copp, of Lancaster Institute, to whom I would thus publicly express my thanks for his faithful services. I returned from the army just in time to meet my appointments for fall examinations, hence this past summer the schools were not visited.

IN SCHOOL HOUSES.—In the village of Bessebel there has been built a fine African house this summer, and, perhaps, a half dozen others of less value throughout the county. Quite as much has been made in the matter of repairing other houses—painting, putting up black-boards, etc. and in building out-houses. The houses are yet far from what they should be, many of them being supplied with seats without backs, and in many the seats are too high from the floor to permit the younger pupils to rest their feet; and not a few have seats of such a length that from four to eight pupils sit on a seat, thus causing great confusion when classes arise to recite, and when they return again from recitation.

GRADED SCHOOLS.—At Platteville there are two graded schools in evidently prosperous condition. At Hazel Green there is a graded school. There are three departments in each of the three named, and in those at Platteville there is an assistant in the Principal's department. The school at Lancaster cannot yet be called a graded school: there are in it but two departments, with an assistant in the Principal's room. The number of pupils attending the school is too great to effect a grading without three, or four departments. At Roscobel the school was tolerably well graded last winter, and was rapidly becoming one of the first schools of the western part of the State. Now it is under, I think, a no less efficient corps of teachers; but, I fear, their usefulness is greatly crippled and the success of the school impeded by the action of the board in creating each of the three departments a separate school. I trust, with their two excellent buildings, which reflect so much credit upon their enterprising village, they may see it to be for the best to give the principalship of the whole into the hands of one teacher, thereby establishing a thorough graded school. At Cassville, Beetown, Potosi, Georgetown, Muscoda and one or two other villages, there are schools with two departments; and, I trust, the day is not far distant when they may grow into well-regulated graded schools. I think each of these villages capable of supporting such schools nine months of the year. And in each the leading citizens are alive to the importance of improving their schools.

TEACHERS.—The whole number of persons examined at my spring examinations was 228, of which number 135 received certificates,—2 received certificates of the 1st grade, and 133 of the 3d grade; 93 failed to receive certificates of the third grade, of which number I granted to 32 limited certificates—the standing of the candidates seeming to justify me in so doing, and the granting of such certificates being asked for by district boards where they taught. The average age of teachers holding certificates is 20 years, and their average experience 16 months; the average age of the 32 holding limited certificates is 17 3-4 years, and their average experience is 6 months. The great majority of male teachers in this county are now in the army of the Union—the schools are largely in the hands of young ladies, and thus a new and younger class of teachers is brought into the schools. Hence the small average of both age and experience. The number employed in the same school as during the previous year is 46. There is too great a disposition to change teachers every year, or every term—though this evil is diminishing. I have labored to convince the people that an inferior teacher even can accomplish more, if continued term after term in the same school, than can be accomplished by a succession of quite superior teachers each term. Much that is learned under one will be condemned by the next and must be unlearned. It is well to retain a good teacher when once secured. A large number have been engaged in teaching during the whole year, and there is quite a number who have no other employment. But, I fear the number of professional teachers cannot be large as long as no greater inducement is held out to young women and young men to make teaching a profession, though there is evidence in many parts of our county of proper appreciation of the teacher's services, in increased wages. There is every reason to be satisfied with the spirit of the teachers of this county; they show a determination not to rest content with present attainments. Many who attended the spring examinations, attended this fall also; and I may here remark, although the fall examination does not come within the bounds of this report, that they showed evident improvement in scholarship; quite a number who failed in the spring, having received third grade certificates this fall, and the fall examination was on more difficult questions. I have had printed upon my certificates, "Success in Teaching," intending to mark such standing upon my visits to schools.

PUPILS.—The general average of punctual attendance is not as high as it should be; in fact a want of punctuality I regard as the greatest evil of our schools. I am able, however, to report it an evil rapidly on the decrease. In all schools where a system of reporting to parents the punctuality, deportment, and standing in classes of pupils, at the end of each fortnight or month, has been observed, the average in all these cases has been much improved. Where the attention of parents is called to these matters, they will generally cooperate with teachers to secure the best results. There is great improvement in the general deportment of pupils. On each subsequent visit to the several schools I notice less whispering and inattention to study. During my visits last winter I made careful inquiry as to how many pupils were not properly supplied with books, slates and pencils. I found but few, comparatively, without the requisite books, but in most of the schools none but the more advanced pupils—those studying arithmetic—were supplied with slates and pencils. This I regard as a great evil. I would have all the younger pupils furnished with slates and pencils, with and upon which to print their lessons and draw pictures—making this a regular exercise. For the same reasons I would have the blackboards made low and extend along the whole North side of the school room.

PATRONS.—I can report a growing interest on the part of parents, as shown by an increased number of visits to the schools. This is especially true of the villages throughout the county. This interest is shown, too, by an effort to secure the services of the best teachers.

6. In regard to the Township District System of school management, I would simply say that I concur in the views of the late State Superintendent of Public Instruction, as presented in his last Annual Report. In my native State I have seen the practical working of the system and can bear testimony to its success. By its adoption, I think, the number of graded schools in this county might be very greatly multiplied—giving each town one thorough, graded school, at least, nine months of the year.

In a large county like Grant, and perhaps in every county, there is needed an officer in each town whose duty it shall be to visit each school in the town once a month and report to the County Superintendent. This county contains 29 towns, three of them six by twelve miles. This is too large a tract of country for any one man, to visit often enough to be thoroughly conversant with the working of each school, there being over two hundred schools in the county.

There are in this county many children who have not entered the school room during the year. It is my opinion that the Prussian idea, that the child is the property of the State, and that it is not only the right, but also the duty of the State to educate her children, is the correct one; and I have no doubt of the propriety of a State law compelling parents to send each child, between certain years of age, to school a certain number of days each year. Every dollar expended by the State in educating the young, may save a large per centage of the fund expended in reforming the more advanced in years. Education and crime are not compatible with each other. And certainly, as a step toward this end, it seems to me well that the State apportionment of the school fund should be upon the per centage of actual attendance at school, rather than upon the number of children in the district and town.

And further permit me to suggest that the disposition of some districts to hire the cheapest teacher for the very shortest legal term, to secure the State fund, might be remedied and the best interests of the school system enhanced if all school taxes were levied by towns, or counties, or, better still, by the State.

I have not had any questions printed for either of my examinations. I have written them upon the board for teachers to answer from. This prevents any possibility of previous knowledge of what my questions are, and enables me to change them, if I find a candidate present who has been a spectator somewhere else.

D. GRAY PURMAN, County Superintendent.

GREEN COUNTY.

In making a brief report of the condition of the schools in this county, I very much regret that I cannot report more definitely on the several subjects enumerated in the circular of August last, to county superintendents. Owing to illness a part of the year, and the great number of schools to be visited, (one hundred and twenty-five) I had but little time for gathering statistics. I shall furnish the teachers in future, with blanks for monthly reports, which will assist me very much.

Notwithstanding the heavy drain upon the country of men and money, our county has steadily increased the amount raised for building school houses for the last three years. In 1862 there was raised the sum of $1,024, in 1863, $2,515, and in 1864, $4,564. There have been built during the past year, five or six school houses, that are a decided improvement on the old ones, in construction and arrangement.

Of graded schools, we have four of three departments, and two of two departments each, all in a prosperous condition. There are two or three localities, where, with a little alteration of district lines, graded schools might, with profit, be established.

The number of teachers holding certificates of each grade, is as follows: First Grade, 4; Second, 3; Third, 190. Average age, 22 years. Of the number applying for certificates during the year, sixty have failed. Of the number licensed, all but 35 have had previous experience. A small proportion of our teachers are employed in the same school as during the previous year. I think people are altogether too fond of change. The number of professional teachers in the county, is increasing. In regard to punctual attendance and deportment, we have little cause of complaint, and very little for lack of books.

As to the interest of the patrons, in our schools, I think there is little lack of that. But unhappily it is not manifested in the right direction. It is too common for people to manifest great solicitude about the manner their school is managed, and make inquiries of the pupils and others, without ever visiting the school themselves. In fact I find that in many cases the District Board has not visited the school for a whole term.

I have visited about one hundred of our schools twice and the remaining twenty-five once, during the year.

The Township System of school management, as presented in the last Annual Report of the State Superintendent, appears to me to be democratic in spirit, and calculated to produce the greatest good to the greatest number.

I have endeavored to be pretty thorough in the oral examination, and in the use of the blackboard. I have sent out a few circulars which are not now at hand.

We have an Institute or Teacher's meeting appointed at the village of Brodhead, on the 28th and 29th of December next. We should be happy to have the assistance of the State Superintendent. If he cannot come, perhaps he can send us some help, which we very much need.

W. C. GREEN, County Superintendent.

GREEN LAKE COUNTY.

There has not much been done in repairing and building school houses since my last year's report. Some of our villages, prior to said report, had put up commodious and elegant buildings, presenting all the attractions and comforts desired by both teacher and pupil. War and hard times have in a measure, checked progress in erecting such buildings as the wants of the scholar and the interests of society demand.

There have been four graded schools, of two departments each, in operation during both the winter and summer term.

The result of my examinations during the past year is as follows:

SPRING EXAMINATIONS.

		Grades.
		I.	II.	III.
No. of Applicants:	Ladies 77; passed.....	0	0	59	59
"	Gentlemen 9; passed.....	1	2	4	7

No. of Applicants: Ladies 19; passed	1	0	15	16
" " Gentlemen 12; passed	0	0	10	10
Total				26
No. of District Certificates given during the year				4

Of the number who received Certificates, 64 have been employed in the county prior to the examinations referred to above, of whom 40 at least, will be employed in the county the coming winter.

The general average of punctual attendance of pupils upon school, is not as large as last year, it being about ten per cent. less. This is caused by pupils having to stay away from school to fill the places made vacant by the absence from home of fathers and brothers who have entered the army. Though there are many unfavorable circumstances, our schools are steadily prospering. While some of our teachers are making every sacrifice for the good of the cause in which their profession leads them; there are others, who spend no time beyond what the law requires, they attend no Institutes, visit no schools, take no Journals of Education, and some will even commence their schools without taking the trouble to first obtain a certificate.

The snow-blocked roads, and the stinging cold of last winter, prevented me from visiting more than about three-fourths of all the schools in the county. The dusty roads and heat of summer have also been obstacles in the way of visiting schools, and seven received no call from me.

I shall hold my Institute at the village of Dartford, commencing on Monday, October 31st. We hope to have an interesting time, and shall, if all will attend that have promised to be present.

N. C. HOIT, County Superintendent.

JEFFERSON COUNTY.

In submitting my Supplementary Report, I have to regret my inability to give all the information desired, as time spent in Dixie does not aid materially in collecting school statistics at home.

Three school houses have been erected in this county during the past year—all brick—comfortable buildings, and in some instances well planned. I have rendered what assistance I could in their arrangement, in order to have them comfortable and convenient, and in accordance with better styles of school architecture.

There is a great lack of information on this subject that needs the prompt attention of educational men. Within the next ten years more than half of our school houses must be rebuilt.

The ideas of the people on this subject are mostly formed from the rude, ill-planned structures of their school-day experience, but poorly calculated to meet the wants of the present age. A series of plans adapted to the wants of our district schools, laid before the public by means of some cheap publication, or through the columns of the Journal, with a thorough discussion of the principal points of school architecture, would be of great value. A blunder in the construction of a house now must be endured for years, to the disadvantage and annoyance of all parties concerned.

GRADED SCHOOLS.—We have in this county four schools that have the form of gradation, and more or less of the essentials, viz :

Fort Atkinson, four departments.

Lake Mills, three departments.

Palmyra, three departments.

Jefferson, two departments.

They lack, however, in a greater or less degree, that definite order of studies and classification, on which the success of the graded schools in a great measure depends. I think they are improving in this respect, and it needs but time to produce the desired results. Palmyra and Fort Atkinson have fine buildings, well adapted to their necessities, reflecting great credit upon the places, and speaking well for the educational spirit of the citizens.

The other two places are sadly in want of appropriate buildings. They feel the need of them, and, had it not been for the interference of the war, one of them, at least, would have been erected ere this. Hebron, Cold Spring and Rome maintain two departments a portion of the time. Each of these places could support a good Graded school much to their advantage.

TEACHERS.—During the past year, I have examined 399 applicants for certificates. Of this number 6 received second grade, 158 received third grade, 46 received limited certificates, and 99 failed. Of the limited certificates, 27 were given on account of private examinations and various causes other than low standing. The average age of the 80 licensed this Fall is 20 1-2 years. The average experience as teacher is 4 1-2 terms, 12 had never taught, and 13 but one term.

Although the standing of our teachers is lamentably low in the studies required by law, yet the great failure of our teachers is not so much on account of ignorance of the subjects taught, as in knowing how to teach them; or, in other words, normal education is needed. I am trying to obviate this as far as possible by means of Teachers' Meetings, but, of course, can accomplish but very little. Where is that State Normal School?

The general deportment of our pupils is a matter of grave importance. In many localities the good behavior of the children is commendable, while in others a feeling of lawlessness prevails, that shows that Young America is sadly in need of wholesome restraint. It is a subject too much neglected by teachers, and seemingly almost ignored by parents. The education of the street more than neutralizes that of the school-room, even when that is what it should be. It is worthy of note, that where our best schools and teachers are, there is the most healthy moral tone of the youth.

Our schools this winter are taught mostly by females; there being about 20 male teachers in the county. Ten years ago it was considered almost an impossibility for a female to teach a winter school. Necessity has compelled a change that custom was slow to admit, and since it has been discovered that brains and not muscle govern people, females have succeeded well in our winter schools.

I accept it as a fact that hereafter female teachers will conduct our district schools. Nor do I regret the change, if it will (as I think) have the effect to do away with the habit of changing teachers for each term. This evil was the natural result of the old plan of employing different sexes for the different seasons. Let our school terms be so arranged as to give our female teachers nearly constant employment. Give them inducements to fit themselves especially for the profession, and we shall not lament the change, especially if the township system be adopted. From this course, we may expect to gain some of the benefits of uniformity and classification in our schools. The people are slow to give up old habits and systems, but many see the benefits of the new plan, and we may yet hope for its adoption.

J. K. PURDY, County Superintendent.

JUNEAU COUNTY.

I submit the following brief report, covering, I trust, the points upon which you solicit information.

SCHOOLS.—The whole number of schools in operation during the winter of 1863-4 was sixty-nine, of which number sixty-two were visited by the undersigned, with a view to ascertain the condition and wants of each school, advise with teachers, encourage pupils, and if possible, arouse parents and school officers from their apparent indifference, to a lively interest in the numerous and important duties devolving upon them, and to gather matter for timely comment.

Five schools closed before the expiration of the terms: three on account of sickness, one on account of petty grievances between teacher and patrons, and one by the mutual agreement of both parties. The state of the roads prevented my visiting the remaining two.

During the past summer seventy schools have been in operation, nearly all of which were visited.

There have been 24 male and 123 female teachers engaged in our schools the past year, and with few exceptions I have found them earnest in their labors, and well qualified for the duties of their vocation. I have observed with much satisfaction the tact with which many of our teachers excite the interest and arouse the attention of their pupils. Yet some have interrogated me in the following language, "What shall I do to interest my charge?" And here let me say that no general rule can be given: even a multiplicity of rules would fail to reach every case: the minds of children differ, and what will interest one may utterly fail to awaken the least degree of interest in another, or what will interest the pupil under certain circumstances may prove futile under different circumstances, or the same means when employed by one teacher may excite the liveliest interest in the pupil, and fail to attract even the slightest attention when employed by another. Yet there are various ways of securing this important object, and every intelligent teacher who can judge with any degree of accuracy of the nature of children can devise some means to interest and secure the attention of his charge, which is a very important point to be gained, and absolutely necessary to the success of every school.

SCHOOL HOUSES.—I cannot speak in very flattering terms of our school houses and school furniture, though we have some very good school houses, yet we have many very poor ones. Every school house should be erected and arranged with due regard to physical, mental and moral health, comfort and convenience. But a number of our school houses (and that number is not as small as some may suppose) are entirely destitute of all these essential elements, evincing on the part of patrons and school officers a want of interest in the rising generation amounting almost to criminality. Some are very open, others too small to accommodate the pupils that attend, others destitute of the means of ventilation, many are poorly and improperly seated; in several the seats are all of the same height adapted to a very few of the larger pupils, while the majority must sit with their feet dangling from three to five inches above the floor; a few are destitute of blackboards, and a very few are furnished with outline maps and globes. One school house of respectable dimensions has been built during the year, and another is now in process of completion.

GRADED SCHOOLS.—We have three graded schools: two with three departments and one with two. The former maintain ten and the latter eight months school in the year. We have one more district in which a graded school should be established, as two teachers are usually engaged in the school, which numbers about one hundred pupils.

TEACHERS.—At the spring examination 105 candidates for the teachers office presented themselves, of which number 75 were successful: three receiving first grade, eight second grade and sixty-six third grade certificates. About 20 were employed in the same schools as during the previous year. About one-half of the number who have been engaged in teaching during the past year make teaching their principal business: very few have taught the whole year. I am unable to give you the average age and experience of teachers.

PUPILS.—The whole number of pupils who attended school during the winter as indicated by the register was 2982, the whole number present at the time of visitation was 1178, giving about fifty-six and one-half per cent. as the average attendance of the pupils registered, which is quite small, yet we do not regard this as a very discouraging item, when we take into consideration the exceeding cold weather and deep snow, which in sparsely settled districts has kept the roads completely blockaded for weeks at a time, rendering it almost impossible for the school house to be reached even by the largest pupils. And yet on account of the limited time in which to perform my work I managed to visit schools under these unfavorable circumstances when it could not possibly be expected that the schools would be anything like fairly represented. Still the average attendance has been much smaller than it should be. Tardiness, the twin evil of irregular attendance, has detracted much from the interest of our schools, and it will require the combined effort of teachers, parents, school officers and all who are interested in the welfare of youth to eradicate these evils. The whole number of pupils who attended school during the summer, as indicated by the register, was 2081, the number present at the time of visitation was 1494, giving about seventy-one and one-third per cent. as the average attendance, which is a respectable increase upon the winter attendance. The general deportment and progress of pupils have been such in many instances as to elicit from me a word of commendation; few instances of insubordination have occurred—none of a serious character. I found the schools much better supplied with books than I expected to find them.

PATRONS.—Our schools do not receive that attention and encouragement that they should from patrons and school officers. In a few instances I have prevailed on school officers to accompany me to the school room, and on one occasion found a school officer there on my arrival—a rare and pleasing sight—an officer in the school room without solicitation. Yet I hope to see many such sights during my intercourse with schools, for truly they are like “apples of gold in pictures of silver.”

Geo. P. KENYON, County Superintendent.

KENOSHA COUNTY.

In compliance with your circular of Aug. 22d, 1864, I have the honor to transmit you the following supplementary report:

I entered the service of my country for one hundred days, commencing May 17th, 1864, and therefore was unable to visit all the schools in the county during the summer term.

From reports received from teachers, I believe that most schools have been well conducted, and that extra efforts were made on the part of teachers to discharge their duties faithfully.

1. School Houses.—There have been no new school houses built in the county during the past year. There are many districts that need new houses; and it is to be hoped that parents and patrons will awake to the importance of commodious rooms, well ventilated and comfortably seated.

2. Graded Schools.—We have one graded school, as per last report. Probably in many districts a graded system could with propriety and profit be adopted. I believe the graded system the only one that will secure a thorough course of elementary training.

3. Teachers.—I have examined one hundred and fifty-three. Eighty-five hold a third grade and seven a second grade certificate.

Some six or seven have been employed in the same school the previous year.

The most of our teachers are females, who teach the entire year, and have no other occupation—the young men having gone in defence of the “dear old flag”—thus making it a necessity for the schools to be taught by females, or to be closed. Many are young and inexperienced, and this coming winter it is to be feared that some schools will not be in operation in consequence of the want of qualified teachers.

4. Pupils.—The average of punctual attendance is some eighty per cent.

General department, ninety-three per cent.

Most schools are supplied with suitable text-books.

5. Patrons.—There is a general apathy and neglect on the part of patrons in regard to visitation of schools.

This may be in part owing to the greater interest taken in our country's struggle, and yet it can in no wise be excused.

6. Township System.—Judging from conversation had with leading educational men in the county, I think that the present system is generally preferred.

7. Miscellaneous.—We have held an Institute in this county for two weeks, under charge of Prof. S. D. Gaylord, of Sheboygan High School. Everything passed off pleasantly, and we hope profitably, with an attendance of thirty-seven.

Lectures were delivered by F. Newell, Esq., Prof. Gaylord, J. M. Kellogg, Esq. and Hon. A. Van Wyck.

I would suggest that we need some "material aid" from the State, for the support of Institutes. Also, if the county Superintendent is obliged by law to hold an Institute each year, there should be some preference given to such as attend, or some other means devised to secure an attendance of those proposing to teach.

Is it true that teaching our youth is of so little importance that it needs no preparation?

In conclusion, viewing our schools from our present stand point, although they are not all we could wish in point of qualification of teachers and experience, yet we can see a commendable progress in the direction of a demand, on the part of the people, for higher qualifications, and a desire to make our free school system one of true development for the youth of our land, in all that pertains to the practical duties of life, as a citizen and as a man.

R. GRAHAM, Co. Supt.

KEWAUNEE COUNTY.

(NO REPORT.)

LA CROSSE COUNTY.

* My labors date from January last.

One new school house, all told, has been erected in the county during the year. A little patching of old ones has been observed in a few cases, but improvements generally, may be set down under the head of "rix." Districts No. 1, Farmington, No. 2, Barre, and No. 3, Jackson, have been severely threatening to build new ones for a number of years. The two first named districts would do entire credit to themselves by executing their threats right speedily.

There are two graded schools proper, in the city of La Crosse, of three departments each, and one of two departments in the town of Onalaska. Our people here made a foolish mistake at the start, in locating one large school building in the south part of the city and the other in the north. The consequence is, they have no central building, and no graded room above the Grammar department.

Some hamlets in the village of North La Crosse, are crowded up in a single room, say 16 by 24. They must expect "miserable schools" till they double up their school room.

The average attendance in the country schools during the winter, was seventy per cent. and during the summer, sixty-eight per cent. The attendance in the city schools averages seventy-eight per cent., making a general average of seventy-two per cent., against an average of seventy-eight per cent. the year previous. The difference of per cent. is wholly accounted for by the fact that so many children have to take the place of older brothers, and fathers, who are off to the tented field.

With, perhaps, half a dozen marked exceptions, our county schools have been kept fairly in hand, and well ordered during the year.

I renew no certificates to teachers who mark up as failures in the government of schools.

Text books abound in troublesome variety, in most of our districts. Our system of multiplied reading books, adapted to graded schools, works very viciously in our miscellaneous country schools. I have endeavored to talk up the great worth of slates in the equipment of all scholars; and the great use of black-boards in the illustrations of the school room.

Our school houses very rarely attract visitors. This fact is to be attributed to the general dullness of our school methods, and to the lack of interest in patrons, who are presumed to have more important business at home. I am seldom able to get clerks of school boards to accompany me in my visits to their schools. Just when they have pressing calls elsewhere.

During last spring I issued fifty-eight certificates, eighteen of which reached the third grade! the balance of forty being limited. My third grade standard was sixty per cent. Some nine or ten of this grade marked as high as ninety per cent. Without doubt, they could have achieved a higher grade. For the common district school, I am particularly pleased with a high-marked third grade certificate. Two grades of certificates for the common school branches would, I think, be a decided hit and improvement upon the present division.

During my fall examinations, I have given thirty third grade certificates out of forty-seven issued; showing a handsome chalking up from last spring.

I am not posted enough to give any opinion upon the township district system. It would seem to work admirably in older, thick settled countries. I am not sure of its amounting to much hereaway.

The chief trouble with our teachers in this region, is want of pulse, and a knowledge of the best method of teaching. I am trying to work up betterments in this respect.

E. A. MOORE, County Superintendent.

LAFAYETTE COUNTY:

The general condition and advancement of schools in this county are slowly on the improving scale. There have been six new school houses erected during the past year, at an aggregate cost of about $8,730. The expenditure for maps, charts and globes has been $124. Most of the towns, however, are lamentably deficient in these matters.

The number of graded schools in the county is four—three with two departments, and one with four.

The number of teachers examined the past year is 178, of these eight received first grade, six the second grade, and six special certificates for particular districts, running for six months. There were during the year fifteen candidates for certificates rejected.

The general average of attendance of pupils not as great and as punctual as could be wished, but will compare favorably with previous years. One of the great causes of non-attendance is scarcity of labor. There is one improvement beginning to be noticed, which is very advisable in all schools, to retain the same teacher for a succession of terms, which is very obvious to every one at all posted in teaching. Teachers' wages have advanced somewhat in the county, but nothing in ratio to other kinds of labor or employment. The greatest drawback to advancement in that respect lies among the teachers themselves; there being such a mania for school teaching among the young females (to whom now nearly all the teaching is confined) that they underbid each other in their anxiety to obtain situations. To overcome this, we have endeavored to raise the standard to keep the supply down to the limit of demand as near as possible, for I am satisfied, that the wished for good results of our common schools will not be realized till we can, as a people, make school teaching a profession, and pay for it as such.

Again, men are taught no one thing as effectually, in any other manner as through the pocket. And the fact of our common schools having been so cheap, is one great reason of their small estimate and universal neglect by the people.

The visiting of schools by patrons is generally too much neglected, but by agitating the subject frequently, a better state is in some few towns beginning to manifest itself. Not to carry this to an improper length, I will close by saying, that after considerable thought upon the matter, I am convinced that the proposed plan of the township system is the best calculated to meet the wants of the people in school matters of any known.

GEO. W. LEE, Co. Smp't.

MANITOWOC COUNTY.

Herewith I enclose you my Annual Report for Manitowoc county, and in doing so, very much regret, that the short time I have held the office will preclude me from making any extended remarks as to the condition of our schools.

I made many endeavors last winter to visit every school in the county which was in operation, but the heavy snow drifts, which blockaded nearly every road in this section of the State for weeks, prevented me from seeing many of them. But few schools outside of the villages have been kept during the summer season, and those were very thinly attended, owing to the scarcity of help among the farmers.

As a general thing, our school houses are good, but I regret to say that many are entirely unfit for the purposes designated. There is, however, much palliation for this fact, when it is known, that this county is heavy timbered land, and not easy of cultivation, and that many of our people are yet poor, it being only three or four years since the county itself has been independent in its resources for home consumption. Every year, however, we see the old log house torn down, and the frame school house erected in its stead, and from what I know of our people, I am certain that the movement will continue, until, within a short time, the people of Manitowoc county will prove themselves to be as liberal in this respect as any other locality in the State.

Since the first of January last, I have granted seventy-four third grade certificates to teachers. Although there are many entitled to first and second grade certificates, no application has yet been made to me for either. Our teachers, I think, will compare favorably with those of other counties of the same population.

In my next Report, I hope to be able to give you more full and satisfactory statements.

JAMES CROWLEY, Co. Sup't.

MARATHON COUNTY.

I send you a brief statement, covering the points upon which you solicit information. There has been one substantial and quite handsome log school building erected within the past six months, the expenditures for which will be about three hundred dollars. In addition to this, one or two temporary structures have been erected in newly organized districts during the past spring, with no black boards, and no conveniences for school purposes, they are now standing in an unfinished condition, consequently, are unfit for winter use.

There is but one graded school in the county, it having but two departments; it is an excellent, large, well built and commodious three story building. The entrance is in the middle of the end which faces the street. On the left of the main entrance is a well arranged flight of stairs leading to the second floor. This entrance is designed for the girls, and there is one on the right correspondingly constructed for the boys; the rooms above are well arranged, and are convenient for class rooms, library, apparatus, etc.; the rooms are well lighted and ventilated, and seats of the most approved style. The building has been much improved this summer by surmounting it with a simple, but handsome cupola, which is designed for a bell. The cost of the building is $2,100, including this season's improvements.

Only one district in the county has been supplied with outline maps, and no school in the county is furnished with any apparatus.

The general average of punctual attendance, general deportment, and progress made in studies, has been somewhat higher than during the previous year. Though there is increased public interest in the cause of common school education, it is a matter of regret, that parents and guardians, and even school officers, are so seldom seen in school rooms.

We have much reason to be thankful, amid all the inconveniences subject to thinly populated counties, that the schools of this county are generally gaining in the estimation of the public.

The attendance of pupils has been quite respectable, but, by no means what it should and would have been had it not been for the uncontrollable effects of two epidemics, visiting the various neighborhoods of the county during the spring and summer months, very much diminishing, and in some instances almost destroying interest in our schools for a time.

The schools of our county are steadily improving in interest, order, and methods of teaching and study. The intense interest of our people in the war, has diverted somewhat their attention from the public schools, but rarely has a term been shortened or the necessary means curtailed. The enlistment of so many teachers and scholars in defence of their country speaks loudly in favor of common schools as a means of preserving law, order and the Republic. Decided improvements can easily be noticed. Marathon county has a number of teachers ardent for self-improvement; zealous in their occupation as teachers, and cultivating a friendly intercourse among themselves, proving that a professional spirit is awake among them. I can certainly feel proud of them, and feel only sorry to state, that several of them, endowed with natural faculties as teachers, and well qualified in regard to experience and education, are about to leave the county in consequence of being offered higher wages abroad, or are taking leave to start private schools in villages.

Teachers are too frequently changed. Out of forty districts only one was hired for more than one term.

The standard of qualification is as high as recommended by the convention of county superintendents, as a minimum.

Sixteen have been examined by me and received third grade certificates; as regards their qualifications, compared with those who taught last year, there has been a decided improvement. Four made application but were rejected, making in all nineteen.

M. DeCOURSEY, Co. Sup't.

MARQUETTE COUNTY.

During the school year ending August 31st, 1864, we have had one hundred different schools; of this number, forty-nine were winter, and fifty-one were summer schools. There have been employed during the year eighty-three different teachers, of which number there were ten male and seventy-three female teachers. At the present time there are seventy-five persons holding certificates of qualification to teach in this county; of this number, there are fifty-one third grade certificates, one of the first grade and twenty-three limited (as to length of time) certificates. The latter were granted in many instances to teachers living in other counties, and who were not aware of the time and place appointed for public examination.

Our teachers are nearly all employed in teaching during both the summer and winter terms; their average experience is not accurately known, being probably not far from three years.

There have been no school buildings erected in the county during the year; appropriations, however, have in two instances been made for that purpose. The school building which was in process of erection in district No. 1, Buffalo, has been completed. In several instances school buildings have been repaired and now present a much more comfortable appearance than before.

There are but three graded schools in the county; each of these schools has two departments, one for the larger and the other for the smaller pupils. There are five districts which, to a limited extent, might be graded, provided suitable buildings could be furnished.

During the year there have been one thousand four hundred and ninety different pupils in attendance at the public schools in the county. During the year previous, or the year ending August 31st, 1868, there were attending the same schools two thousand three hundred and sixty-two pupils. These figures indicate a loss in attendance for the year past of eight hundred and seventy-two pupils; or an amount equal to more than one-half the entire number of those in attendance. This loss is to be accounted for by the removal of some from the county, and the effect of the national struggle upon the schools, taking the larger boys from the schools to fill up the ranks of the army, and keeping others at home to fill the places of absent fathers and brothers.

The attendance of those who now attend school has been, for the most part, quite as good as could reasonably be expected, considering the deep snows and the inclement weather of last winter, and other causes during the summer term.

All the schools are supplied, for the greater part of the pupils, with suitable school books; the want of uniformity, however, is quite a serious obstacle to successful improvement.

Nearly all the schools have been visited twice during the year, and the evidence of improvement on the part of both teachers and pupils has been seen in very many of the schools. Our schools, however, are not what we had hoped for under more favorable circumstances. At the present time, embarrassed as we are by the effects of the war, we can only expect with reason to be able to hold our own and maintain our usual number of schools, without making much decided improvement.

With regard to what is called the Township District System, I can only express an individual opinion, and for our county only. At the present time, and under our present circumstances, I do not consider it would be adapted to the wants and necessities of our schools, though perhaps a part of the system might be adopted by so modifying it that a central school for the education and training of teachers and others might be located in certain defined districts, which, in some instances, might embrace several towns. But in the newer and thinly settled portions of the State, of which this county forms a part, it would be too burdensome, if it were practicable, to make the entire change contemplated in this system.

Suggestions connected with the wants of the schools being requested, it may not be wholly out of place to notice the want of suitable libraries for our district schools. This want is being felt sensibly in some localities. Of the usefulness, and in fact the necessity of having such libraries, it ought not to be necessary to speak; but if there are any doubts as to their utility, and the wide spread influence that would be exerted for and in behalf of the cause of education and the good of the people at large, we have only to notice the fact that the libraries furnished the people of the State of New York have long been considered as second only to the public schools themselves in promoting education and in the diffusion of useful knowledge.

How such libraries could be provided, and the proper time for Legislative action upon the same, are not within the province of this report to determine. The only points to consider at this time are whether our youth, who are soon to take the place of those in active life, can be fitted for the duties soon to devolve upon them, unless suitable provision of this kind be now made for their mental and moral improvement; and whether any more potent influence than that of the library can be used to effect the desired object. With these few remarks the above is respectfully submitted.

BENJ. F. HOOD, County Superintendent.

MILWAUKEE COUNTY.—(FIRST DISTRICT.)

(NO REPORT.)

MILWAUKEE COUNTY.—(SECOND DISTRICT.)

I herewith submit the following brief report of the condition and prospects of the schools in this district:

SCHOOL HOUSES.—These, as regards comfort, are in some instances, far short of what they should be: but in consequence of the unsettled state of national affairs, and the present high rates of labor and material, no new ones are being built this year, though it is a commendable fact, that in a majority of cases, the old ones are being thoroughly repaired and put in as good order for the winter term as the most sanguine might expect.

GRADED SCHOOLS.—We have no graded schools. On account of our proximity to the city of Milwaukee their necessity has not yet become apparent, yet there is a growing demand, and ere long the necessity of their introduction will become obvious to the people of this district. There might be profitably established a Graded School in District No. 2 or 5, in the town of Granville, and thereby mutually accommodate the advanced children of adjoining districts.

TEACHERS.—The number of persons examined was 49, of whom 38 received certificates: 4 of whom received certificates of the second grade, 33 received certificates of the third grade, and one limited certificate was granted. Only five are retained to teach where they taught the previous year. In this respect district officers are frequently in fault, as much time is lost in children becoming acquainted with teachers, and teachers with the capacity of pupils. Of the number employed in teaching in this district, but four depend upon teaching as their only vocation.

PUPILS.—My notes taken during school visitation, do not show an increased average of punctual attendance. The only reason I am able to assign, is the scarcity of help among our farming community. In general deportment and progress in study of pupils, the advance is correlative with the awakening enterprise of teachers, and the very flattering interest manifested by parents and patrons. I am sorry, however, that school district officers do not pay that attention to the visitation and needs of our schools, that the law designs they should, but in my opinion this dereliction of duty, on the part of district officers, can only be obviated by the introduction of the "township district system;" then, and only then, will our school system be perfect in all its workings.

EDWARD TOBIN, County Superintendent.

MONROE COUNTY.

The number of school houses built during the year is but two, owing to the pressure of war taxes, and matters connected with the war. The one building at Tomah (yet incomplete) will be a most substantial and well arranged modern school house. Quite a good deal of improvement has been made in those already built.

2. The number of persons holding certificates is 139, third grade. No second or first grade certificates have been issued. Three limited certificates have been issued—last year there was 41. Out of this 142 teachers 120 have no other avocation, and teach summer and winter.

3. The general attendance of pupils during the year averages about 69 per cent. General deportment has been much better than it was last year. By my teachers' monthly reports, during the summer term the average deportment was 87 per cent. The number who are not properly supplied with books is very small indeed.

4. There is great carelessness manifested by the patrons in not visiting the schools. I have endeavored to produce a change in this respect. I think that about one in five of the parents visit the schools. I have visited 130 different schools during the past nine months.

It is my deliberate opinion that the plan proposed for a township district system (or some similar one) would work incalculable benefit to the common school interests of the State. Take Monroe county for instance. It is an impossibility for one man to thoroughly superintend the schools in this county; I find it more than I can do to visit each district during every term of school, and therefore the watch care that I ought to bestow upon the schools is wanting. With a township district system the "educational committee" would supply the lack. This is but one of very many advantages that would accrue. I am most heartily in favor of the proposed amendment to our common school system.

PEPIN COUNTY.

There are in the county, twenty school houses, or buildings that go by that name. Besides these, we have hovels, shanties and deserted houses which have been used the past year for school houses, making, in all, about thirty. The latter class of houses, or shanties, are generally in newly formed districts, and in many cases, preparations are being made to substitute in their places, good and suitable buildings; there has been only two or three built during the past year. The improvements in those previously built, are scarcely worth noticing.

There is one graded school in the county. We have established a graded school in Durand, which was very much needed. This district numbers 160 scholars, who heretofore have been huddled together in one house and until last summer, under one teacher. I am happy to say the people are waking up to this matter. There are other districts where this might be done with great advantage. The Pepin district and Waubesa, both demand graded schools to accommodate the great number, and great diversity of scholars.

I have examined 45 applicants, 32 of whom passed, two receiving first grade, three, second grade, nineteen, third grade, and eight limited certificates. The policy, as regards teachers, is hap-hazard and irregular in this county. Number teaching the same school as last year, one; there are six who have no other employment. Average age of teachers, 19; experience, from one to two terms; but the greater part of the teachers during the past year, were beginners.

The attendance of the scholars, as a general thing, is very irregular—parents do not seem to appreciate the importance of having their children attend regularly and punctually, allowing them to be absent or tardy on the most frivolous excuses, thus fostering habits of shiftlessness which will tell wofully on the future prospects of manhood. The general deportment of our schools is as good as could be expected under the circumstances, but in my opinion, we have swung from one extreme to the other; if in former times the rigor and discipline of the school room was too severe for the youthful nature, they have in those latter times become too lax. In my visitations, I found but very few who were not properly supplied with books. The greatest deficiency consisted in the want of mental Arithmetics, but as soon as the wants were made known, as a general thing, they were promptly supplied.

The indifference of the patrons is somewhat astonishing. They seem to think that if they vote money and hire a teacher, their duty is done. In a large majority of the districts in the county, not a visitation from the board or patrons, during the whole term, and sometimes from one year's end to another. I find, that when this indifference is manifested in a district, the teacher soon catches the same spirit, and then it is communicated to the scholars. But in districts where the board is awake, and the patrons alive to the interests of the school, it infuses the same spirit of watchfulness and energy into the teachers, and often makes a sharp, zealous teacher of one who would otherwise be dull. From the law of influence and association, this indifference of the board and patrons, often moulds the energetic teacher into the same indifference, imperceptibly.

I think the township district system will be a great improvement on our present system, and I hope the time is not far distant when it shall be adopted. It will soon bring about the establishment of graded schools, the want of which every educator plainly sees and feels.

Our graded school in Durand is now in full operation; the intermediate and higher grades are instructed at the Durand Academy, which is doing a great work in disseminating knowledge, and preparing teachers for teaching.

Many children in this county are growing up in ignorance, ignorant of the very rudiments of education, reading and writing, and in some instances are permitted to grow up in this unfavorable condition, simply because they don't "love" to go to school. Where parents are so indifferent to the welfare of their children, and the good of society in general, I think our legislature ought to take the matter in hand, and oblige every child in the state to acquire a certain amount of education, as they do in Prussia, Germany, and many parts of Europe;

JAMES R. HANAN, County Superintendent,

PIERCE COUNTY.

(NO REPORT.)

POLK COUNTY.

Our county is now and thinly settled. Many of the people do not properly appreciate the free school institutions of our state, yet with a little extra effort I have been able to get up some interest in some localities. In my last visit to the schools I delivered an address to the people of each district, where we could get out an audience, which, I think, has had a good effect.

In comparing the present condition of schools with that of one year ago, I perceive a marked difference for the better. There has been but little improvement made in regard to school houses; only two or three log school houses of small dimensions have been built.

In a great many districts there is a sad deficiency of outline maps and apparatus which might be obtained, and ought to be. We also need a graded school in the village of Osceola, which I hope we will succeed in getting before another year. We have also to complain that we have never yet had a visit from the State Superintendent.

R. H. CLARK, County Superintendent.

PORTAGE COUNTY.

The existence of civil war in our nation, drawing as it does so largely upon the material resources of the people, must be expected to operate adversely to the interests of education in all parts of the country to a greater or less extent.

One of the first effects of the war upon these interests, one would readily suppose, would be the refusal, upon the part of the people, to make the necessary appropriations for the support of schools. So far as this county is concerned, it is gratifying to be able to state, that the appropriations for educational purposes are steadily increasing from year to year, notwithstanding the fact that no county in the State, I dare say, has done more, according to its ability, to sustain the government since the commencement of the war.

These appropriations, however, fall far below what they ought to be, and do not keep pace with the increasing wants of the county in this direction.

Among the great wants of the county at the present time are comfortable and pleasant school houses. Although some districts have exhibited a commendable liberality in the erection of school houses, there are many others to all appearance equally able with the former, who send their scholars to schools kept in hovels of various valuations, from fifteen to one hundred dollars.

According to the reports of the town clerks to this office, there are in our county two school houses valued at $15 each; one at $16; one at $20; one at $50; one at $25; three at $75 each, and five at $100 each. Some of these so-called "school houses" are situated in districts inhabited by people who, I am inclined to think, would feel very uncomfortable if their horses and cattle had no better buildings to shelter them. Not being willing to subject myself to a prosecution for slander, and to the disagreeable necessity of "offering the truth in evidence," I refrain from pointing out the districts above referred to, hoping that this allusion to the fact, if it should ever come under their notice, will induce a train of reflections that will result in their determination to erect such houses for the education of their children as will prove to the world that, in their opinion, they have not discharged their whole duty to their country, whose free institutions are dependent for their perpetuity upon the intelligence and virtue of its citizens, until they have placed within the reach of all the children of their district, such means of mental and moral culture, as will, if improved, prepare them for the great duties that must eventually devolve upon them.

I am aware that it is not my especial province to suggest legal remedies, but I will hazard the assertion, that if parents were compelled by law to spend only three hours each week in the school house where their children spend six hours each day five days in the week, cold and cheerless school houses would soon disappear.

Another thing I would notice with regard to the people of our county in general, is their want of an every-day manifestation of interest in their district schools. Many appear to think that when they have voted a sum of money for the support of schools they have done their whole duty. This is a grave error, and one which does its part in decreasing the efficiency of our schools. Every parent should frequently enquire of his children how they are getting along in their studies, and ascertain what their progress is. As one means of doing this he should visit the school in which his children are receiving their education at least once a month, and as much oftener as he can. The good effects of such a course are so obvious that it appears to be unnecessary, even if my limits permitted, to attempt to show them. Yet how few ever set their feet inside of a school house as visitors. And among those who do sometimes visit the school, there are some whose visits are "few and far between." Every person ought to know from personal observation how the school prospers; whether the teacher does his duty; whether the scholars are correct in their deportment and are progressing in their studies; and especially whether that moral support is given to the teacher which ought to be given to enable him to get along pleasantly in the government of the school.

The people of this county do not visit their schools enough; they do not appear to think enough about them, and hence they, in many instances, fail to secure the amount of good from their schools that they ought to get, considering the money expended in their support. But while it is true that educational matters, in some aspects, are not what they should be, it is encouraging to know that it is not all dark.

Among the encouraging features they present, it gives me pleasure to be able to say, that it is the desire of many of the teachers of our county, to avail themselves of all the opportunities which present themselves, in order the better to qualify themselves to discharge the duties of their responsible calling. Their attendance upon teachers' institutes, associations and normal schools, their perusal of educational works and educational periodicals, added to their own experience, has enabled a goodly number of them to take a respectable position in the educational corps of the State. But candor compels me to admit, that there are still some among us, who call themselves teachers, and whom necessity compels us, sometimes, to employ as such, who appear to have no consciousness that there is a higher excellence in their avocation, to which they should aspire. Hence we find them employing their leisure time in poring over some trashy novel, or studying a fashion plate, rather than something calculated to make them better teachers. It should be the ardent prayer of every good friend of education, that this class of teachers (if ladies) would soon get satisfactory offers of marriage, quit teaching and "settle down;" and if gentlemen, that they should very soon discover that they had mistaken their calling. As the value of our schools depends so much upon the efficiency of our teachers, it is to be regretted, that more effective legislative provision, has not been made in our State for the establishment of normal schools for the education of teachers. Such schools located in such parts of the State as to enable those who are preparing for the profession of teaching, to attend at small pecuniary sacrifices, would do more to raise the character of our common schools, than could possibly be accomplished by the same expenditure in any other direction. It would enable the State in a short time to supply its schools with teachers, not only qualified in literature and science, but also well "posted" in the philosophy of teaching.

This county is at present divided into four inspection districts, in each of which I have held two meetings for the examination of teachers. During the year I have issued 86 certificates in all, 14 of these were second grade, and 72 were of the third grade. There are four first grade certificates in force in the county, issued by my predecessor, making in all 90 certificates.

I was relieved from the duty of holding an institute by the enlightened policy of the State board of normal regents, who sent us their agent, who continued with us almost two weeks, and succeeded, we trust, in doing a good work for the cause of education in this county. The good attendance of our teachers, and the interest they manifested augurs well for the future of our schools. I cannot but think, that the last year has been one of substantial progress to our schools, and although to a casual observer it may scarcely be perceptible, it is, nevertheless, real, and sufficiently encouraging to induce us, as teachers and school officers, to go on hopefully in the good work.

I have, during the year, visited officially every school in the county, with a few exceptions, once a term. Those exceptions were mainly on account of the fact that the terms of these schools were so short, that I could not get around before they expired.

W. R. ALBAN, County Superintendent.

RICHLAND COUNTY.

The general state of our schools is encouraging, although there are many improvements needed, and the supply of fully qualified teachers is too small.

There have been five new school houses built during the past year. The old ones remain in statu quo, if not "a little more so."

We have had but two graded schools. There are two or three other districts where they might probably be established with benefit, could the people be convinced of their ability to support them.

The whole number of applications for certificates during the year has been 188, of which 180 have been granted: two being of the first grade, one of the second, and the remainder including regular third grade certificates, district certificates, and certificates granted on special petition from district boards. Many limited certificates have been rendered necessary by two causes: 1st. Not more than fifty per cent. of the applicants passed in every branch. 2d. The demands of the districts could not otherwise be supplied.

The number of certificates now in force for the coming winter is but ninety-three.

Some of those teaching under district certificates have by their tact, faithfulness, and ability to teach what they know, given marked satisfaction to their patrons.

The general average of attendance on the part of pupils seems to be about twelve per cent. better than last year.

The general deportment seen in the schools has been good, in some cases far above the average, but in two or three instances, owing to local influences, or inefficient management, it was decidedly bad.

A greater supply, and more uniformity of text books are much needed.

There is plainly too little visiting of the schools on the part of parents and district boards, but there are pleasant exceptions to the rule, which I hope will multiply, as this want, with many others, has been brought in various ways before the public.

I held an institute at the county seat, in the month of October, which was pretty well attended, and much interest on the part of the teachers was manifested in its exercises.

As to the "township district system" I can only say that it presents many striking advantages. Some difficulties might be found in the disposition of the present school houses, and in the satisfactory location of the superior grades of schools through the towns. Probably these difficulties can be obviated, but it strikes me that the best mode of doing this is yet to be contrived.

Why cannot the law concerning certificates be so amended as to allow a superintendent in one county to make good within his jurisdiction the certificate issued by the superintendent of another county? This could be effected by a simple endorsement, giving the owner permission to teach in a given town or district in the county until the next subsequent examination, leaving the original certificate to speak for itself as to examination and grade of the teacher.

This endorsement might be left optional with each superintendent, who, if he should choose, could still require an examination or other proper evidence of merit, before granting license.

Some alteration of the law to this end would not only be convenient to all parties, without endangering the grade of any county, but would be likely to facilitate the passage of surplus teaching material from counties where it is abundant, to those in which the supply is less than the demand.

WM. C. WRIGHT, County Superintendent.

ROCK COUNTY.—(FIRST DISTRICT.)

I have the pleasure of reporting that the condition of the schools in the First Superintendent District, during the past year, has been quite encouraging to the friends of education, considering the disadvantages under which we have labored. There have been many things well calculated to divert the attention of the people from the cause of education, and there remains much to be done before, as a whole, the schools become what they should be; yet I doubt whether they have ever been better sustained or better conducted than during the past year. It is true, the attendance, particularly of large pupils, has been somewhat less, owing to the increased demand for labor, and the attendance of those registered, in some localities, quite irregular, owing, no doubt, to the thoughtlessness of patrons; but the better classification of the pupils, and the higher attainments of the teachers have more than balanced these losses.

High taxes and war prices have not prevented the people, in all localities, from providing for the comfort and intellectual growth of their children. Four new and commodious school houses have been erected in this Superintendent District during the past summer, and it is highly gratifying to be able to state that they are all of good size, well arranged, and tastefully finished, reflecting much credit upon the inhabitants of the districts in which they were built. Three hundred dollars was raised for building purposes, at the previous annual meeting, in each of three other districts in which larger and more comfortable houses were sorely needed; but they failed to raise an additional amount sufficient to erect suitable houses, and the children will again be crowded into low rooms without any proper means of ventilation—seated upon uncomfortable forms—part of them so near the stove as to be almost roasted, while others are nearly frozen. Many of our school houses should be re-seated, and the forms so arranged as to accommodate small, as well as large pupils, and all should be provided with more perfect means of ventilation.

But very little has been done towards providing globes, maps and charts, and yet, the majority of the schools are entirely destitute of these very important aids to the teachers, and ornaments to the school room.

There are but two graded schools in this Superintendency—one at Evansville and one at Edgerton—of two departments each. There are two other schools, in each of which, two teachers are employed. These latter should be provided with two apartments and thoroughly graded. The noise and confusion consequent upon having two teachers laboring in the same room, is very detrimental to these schools.

At the fall examinations, which were held for the whole county, there were one hundred and seventy-two applicants for certificates. Of this number, one hundred and twenty-three received certificates of the Third Grade; fourteen of the Second, and three of the First. Sixty-four of the third grade were given but for six months. It was found necessary to grant so large a number of limited certificates, that all the schools might be supplied with teachers. It was thought better to bring all up to a proper standard, rather than by the presentation of less difficult questions to place certificates for the full term within reach of a sufficient number of the candidates to supply all the schools. Those to whom were granted but limited certificates, generally, showed marked improvement at the next examinations.

At the spring examinations for this district, there were ninety-four applicants, of which number sixty-two were accepted, all receiving certificates of the third grade. Seven limited certificates were given upon application of district boards, and twenty-one were given for six months, to candidates who were unable to attend the public examinations.

One hundred and thirty-three different persons have been engaged in teaching, in this superintendency, during the year, of which number, but thirty-seven were males. Only nine were employed in the same school during the year. Too much cannot be said against this almost universal practice of changing teachers every term. My observations, made while visiting the schools, have convinced me, that a good teacher can accomplish at least one third more in the same school, during the second, than during the first term. Monthly reports to the superintendent were required of the teachers, during the last term. These furnished me with much useful information as to the condition, wants, and progress of the schools, and no doubt stimulated both teachers and pupils to greater efforts in their work.

Many of the teachers have manifested a commendable desire for improvement, and have labored zealously for the improvement of their schools, while a few have shirked the public examinations, and "kept school" without making teaching a study, or inspiring their pupils with a thirst for knowledge. There will be some of the latter class so long as the opinion prevails, that a poor teacher will answer for a backward school.

The deportment of pupils on the days of visitation, was generally good, and but few cases of corporal punishment were reported. 2,494 pupils were registered during the summer, with an average daily attendance of 1,654. This shows great irregularity of attendance, which I believe to be the greatest evil in the schools. I have suggested, as a remedy for this evil, that the district board of each district establish rules requiring regular attendance on the part of pupils, and in case of failure to comply with such rules, that the pupils so failing, be suspended during the remainder of the term, in which such irregularity occurs. Objections might be taken to this measure, as it would probably drive some from the schools, who should enjoy the advantage of an education: but while all should enjoy these advantages, it is neither sound policy, nor justice, to allow a few pupils, by attending one day and absenting themselves the next, to so break up the classification and retard the progress of the school, as to hinder those who, by regular attendance, seek to make proficiency in their studies.

During the summer term, there were made, by the school district officers, but fifty-seven visits to the schools, and but three hundred by other patrons. Thirty-eight schools were not visited by either of their district officers, and fifteen were not visited by neither officers nor patrons. This shows a lamentable disregard of duty, and carelessness on the part of officers and patrons; but I cannot believe it is attributable to a want of interest in the schools.

District boards do not seem to understand that the law makes it their duty to visit their schools, and to make all the needful rules and regulations for the government of the same; and parents do not yet see the importance of school visitation, as a means of stimulating and encouraging both teachers and pupils. While they are willing to provide, pecuniarily, for good schools, and are generally demanding higher attainments, and earnest, well directed efforts on the part of teachers, they fail to cheer them on in the great work of education, by their occasional presence in the school room.

H. A. RICHARDS, County Superintendent.

ROCK COUNTY.—(SECOND DISTRICT.)

SCHOOL HOUSES.—There are in this superintendent district, not including the city of Beloit, eighty-one school houses, of which eleven are built of stone, four of brick, and sixty-six are frame buildings. The average value of these, according to the statistical reports, is $306.00, and the aggregate, $24,825.50. The lowest valuation is $0.50, and the highest $2,500.00. Clinton Junction can boast of the best house, while that of Utter's Corners is estimated the lowest.

The great advance in prices, during the past year, has discouraged improvements in buildings and in their appurtenances, so that but one new school house has been erected in that time, and only a few additions made to charts and apparatus. $1,974.11 is the amount expended for these purposes. For the sake of such improvements, it is desirable that the "better time coming" may soon come, for not more than one-half of our school houses are equal to the demands and circumstances of the districts in which they are situated, and but fifteen schools are supplied with outline maps, and only thirty have the protection of a fence to preserve their sessions, as well as their play-grounds from the annoyances of cattle and other nuisances that run in the streets. The best apology that probably can be made for this condition of affairs is that most of the school buildings were erected several years ago, when settlements were more sparse, and the means of the settlers quite limited, and since then opportunities for making improvements have been generally put off until more convenient times.

GRADED SCHOOLS.—There are but two schools in this superintendency that can be classed under this head; one at Shopiere containing two departments, and the other at Clinton Junction containing three. In each of these superior educational facilities are furnished, and consequently the attendance of the more advanced pupils in the branches of a common school education is retained. Two departments might be profitably established in the schools in the villages of Milton, West Milton, and Emerald Grove, and probably in other places had not the expensive policy of en-smallling districts been, in some localities, previously pursued. I am happy to say that the advantages of a graded school are to be enjoyed in a part of the last mentioned places during the ensuing year.

TEACHERS.—One hundred and forty-three teachers have been employed in this district during the whole year, of whom one hundred and six were females, and thirty-seven were males. The former class largely predominated during the winter, and met generally with as good success in every respect as the latter. Indeed, for the management and instruction of the class of pupils that usually attend our public schools, I would, from observation, rather give them the preference. In the light of this fact, there cannot be a necessity for that practice, so common in some school districts, of changing teachers once in a year, so as to have a female for the summer term, and a male for the winter. If one of the former class was reemployed for the winter, she would not only be less expensive than one of the latter, but would also, from a knowledge of the wants and progress of her pupils, be generally more serviceable. Some districts realize the importance of this fact, and have retained the same teacher during the year; and, I may say, that the schools under the charge of these have been generally among the best. There are thirteen of this class, and there are nineteen that have been employed one term or more in the same school as during the previous year.

About fifty have been engaged in teaching during both terms, and about the same number have no other employment. It is quite probable that not more than this number intend to make teaching an occupation for life. This is not strange, when there is considered that the average wages paid during the year to male teachers was but $27.76, and to female teachers but $18.72. While this is enough and more than enough for the incompetent or unfaithful, there is not a sufficient discrimination made in favor of those who are desirous of following this profession and who are an honor to it, to induce them to make a more thorough and extensive preparation for its duties.

In respect to ability to teach and tact in management, as manifest on my days of visitation, the teachers might be divided into three classes, good, average, and poor, having about equal numbers in each. Nearly all are worthy of commendation for their earnest endeavors to discharge their duty, some are entitled to great praise for their flattering success, but a few ought never to be allowed again the care of a school, on account of their unfaithfulness, or their inability to govern either themselves or others.

The average age, experience, and scholarship of the teachers, may be gathered from the following summary: Thirty-four teachers were under twenty years of age; ninety-three between twenty and thirty; thirteen between thirty and forty; and three over forty. Thirty-two were without previous experience in their vocation; eighty-six had taught from one to ten terms; twenty-one from ten to twenty; and four, more than twenty. There were one hundred and seventy-four applicants for certificates at the public examinations in the fall and spring, of whom thirty failed to pass examination, one hundred and twenty-six received third grade or limited certificates, fourteen second grade, and four first grade. The average standing of these was six in a scale of which ten is perfection. The number whose average standing was below five is twenty-six; above five and below six, sixty-two; above six and below seven, fifty-two; above seven and below eight, twenty-three; above eight and below nine, ten; above nine, one. The standard of perfection is not an ideal one, but within the reach of every persevering and faithful student; nor again, is it so low as to flatter a teacher with possessing qualifications to which he is as yet a stranger.

PUPILS.—The average daily attendance of pupils is sixty-seven per cent. of the number registered, and the average number registered in each term is sixty-two per cent. of those legally entitled to school privileges. It will be seen from this, that one-third of the time of registered pupils is lost by irregularity of attendance and that not quite forty-two per cent. of the children, between four and twenty years of age, receive daily instruction during both terms in the public school. If there should be added to the latter ratio the per cent. of those under the age of six years, that are not and should not be sent to school, and the per cent. of those attending high schools and academies, not reporting to this office, the disproportion would not seem so great or lamentable. But after making due allowances for these causes, and for the absences occasioned by the great demand for men and labor in consequence of our national struggle, there still remain grounds enough for the assertion, that the daily attendance of pupils is forty per cent. less than it might and should be. But this is not the measure of the evil influence of absenteeism and irregularity of attendance. The injury done in this way to the education of our youth is more serious still. The absent pupil not only loses himself the advantages of the school, but also works an injury to the classes to which he belongs. The blame for this loss of time and waste of invaluable privileges, rests, no doubt, in part upon the teacher's want of interest in his vocation, or upon his inability to elicit from his pupils a love for the school room, but in a much greater degree upon the thoughtlessness of parents, or their inappreciation of the importance of regularity of attendance and of the value of education. The superintendant can, in some measure, correct this evil, by refusing certificates to teachers that have proved their incapacity to draw forth from their pupils a love for study, and by some influences, that he can bring to bear upon the parents themselves, but it cannot be entirely eradicated without a system of compulsory attendance, which, if not opposed to the policy of a republican government, is at least opposed to the sentiments at present entertained by the people.

PATRONS.—In some districts, the school board and other patrons, take a commendable interest in their schools, and cheer and strengthen the teacher by their frequent visits, while in others there is a remissness in school visitation, which, if it does not betray a blameworthy carelessness, must proceed from an undervaluing of the importance of this duty. The school district officer should bear in mind, that by accepting his office, he has given a promise to visit his district school, and that, if he fails to do this, he breaks his word as well as neglects an important trust. In order that there might be more frequent visitations, and some system in making these, I would suggest that the clerk should make a list of the patrons in his district, and appoint the times when each in turn should perform this duty. If such labors were expended in every district, an ample reward would be reaped not only in the renewed courage and zeal of both teachers and pupils, but also in the increased interest and better directed efforts of the patrons themselves.

ALBERT WHITFORD, County Superintendent.

SAINT CROIX COUNTY.

1. SCHOOL HOUSES.—A large part of the school houses in this county are new, well built, painted, well lighted, but poorly ventilated. Some are models for neatness and architectural finish, suitably enclosed and provided with a well or cistern, ample play-grounds and convenient out buildings. A few are mere shanties, built of rough boards, school-pens, rather than school houses. Such were hastily thrown up to answer but temporarily the immediate wants of a newly formed district; but have been suffered to remain year after year, an eye sore by the way-side, a place uncomfortable, unattractive and loathsome to the little victims immured within their walls. There are but two log school houses in this county, and one of these is very comfortable and by no means unsightly in appearance. But one school house has been built in this county during the past season; this, like others in the newer and less populous towns, although by no means faultless in some respects, indicates liberality and educational progress in public sentiment, highly commendable and encouraging.

2. GRADED SCHOOLS.—We have two graded schools in this county. One in the city of Hudson is organized with four departments, and supplied with competent and earnest teachers. The other in the village of New Richmond has been recently organized; but located in a liberal and enterprising community, and provided with a well constructed building, is destined in its maturity, to rank high among schools of its kind.

3. TEACHERS.—Four teachers now residing in this county are holding certificates of the first grade; two of the second, and forty-four of the third grade. All except four of the teachers holding certificates of the third grade, were examined both in the spring and fall with different schemes of questions; the scheme for the fall examination being far more difficult and comprehensive. Of all the candidates for license to teach who have offered themselves for examination during the past year, eighty per cent. have been accepted; two only have received the highest number in every branch, on a scale of 10. The number of questions which were required to be answered correctly was set at 60 per cent of all that were presented in the scheme. None were licensed who fell below this in any branch. Most of the failures were in Orthography and Mental Arithmetic.

Of the whole number of teachers in this county, twelve make teaching their principal vocation; six are engaged eight or nine months in the year, and five only, have been employed in the same schools this year as in the preceding year.

Our teachers generally evince a commendable zeal in their work, and a desire for higher qualifications. With few exceptions, they have attended the institutes in which many of the more experienced have taken an active part. Our institutes have been large and spirited. Professional gentlemen, especially clergymen, have encouraged them by their presence and instruction. Those teachers who prize and attend institutes, are the most successful. The very fact that they put themselves in the way to learn and improve, is in their favor, and what they have learned they are apt to make available in the management of their schools.

PUPILS.—A very few instances of marked insubordination have come to my knowledge during the past year. Good order has generally prevailed in our schools, even to the exclusion of all kinds of communication among the pupils in school hours. I have met with but one teacher who allows and defends the practice of whispering in school, and that is a teacher of remarkable quiet nerves.

Irregular attendance is the complaint of almost every teacher. The whole number of pupils in our county, attending school, is 2,078. The whole number of days attendance of pupils, during the past year, has been about 126,000; it should have been nearly twice that number.

Owing to irregularity in attendance, the county has lost, in the aggregate, 50 per cent. of all appropriations and expenditures in behalf of our public schools. But the loss does not end here. By this cause classes are deranged, teachers discouraged and parents dissatisfied.

Many of our schools are poorly supplied with books,—others suffer for want of uniformity.

To remedy the evils mentioned, and others of less magnitude, a circular has been printed and sent to the different District Boards, calling attention to existing facts, and suggesting measures which might be serviceable for the end proposed.

During the past year, educational meetings have been held in different parts of the county, which have been well attended and seemingly productive of good results. All necessary taxes and expenditures for school purposes seem to be cheerfully borne, and higher wages for the services of teachers accompany the demand for higher qualifications.

I have taken much pleasure and interest in the enjoined duty of visiting and inspecting the schools under my supervision; more especially as parents, children and teachers have given me a hearty welcome, and have kindly received my advice and suggestions; thus showing a sympathy with, and an interest in the objects of my visit.

During the year I have visited every district twice, in which a school was in session, spending from two to three hours at each visit. In general, I have found the schools in good condition, teachers earnest and industrious, and pupils orderly and studious. But I have been too often pained by glancing at the register, to find that from one-third to one-half of the pupils were absent. I have also regretted to learn that the schools are seldom visited by parents or by the district board, and that some excellent teachers were much disheartened on account of the apathy and indifference of the patrons and guardians of the school.

But with all the drawbacks which have been mentioned, our schools are improving. Our teachers are becoming better qualified, are aiming at higher culture in themselves, and better methods of imparting instruction to the youthful mind and heart.

A. H. WELD, County Superintendent.

SAUK COUNTY.

In compliance with your request of August 28th, I submit the following Special report of the condition of common schools of this County :

1. SCHOOL HOUSES. My Statistical Report shows that there have been $3766.25 raised, during the year, for the building of School Houses, and, I think, during the time there have been three log, one stone, and five frame school houses completed, or are in process of completion.

As the standard of qualifications of teachers is elevated, there is more interest manifested in school buildings, playgrounds, and more tasty surroundings generally, as might have been anticipated.

But, in many districts they do not yet seem to realize that a close, un-ventilated room with dark walls and a filthy playground and buildings, have anything to do with the child's education conducive to coarseness of mental and moral faculties.

Others are more alive to these things and do every thing perhaps that they can, consistently with their means and circumstances, to make the School House and playgrounds what they should be, a "home" for children, a place where they may cultivate the perceptive faculties, and become practically acquainted with Esthetics, the Science of Beauty. I sometimes find on visiting a school, it may be in some old log school house—the teacher in such case should doubtless have the credit—the walls covered with nice pictures and paintings, or decorated with evergreen festoons, thus throwing around every thing within, an aspect of cheerfulness.

The ornamental is not only attended to, but at least in one instance I know that the pupils on arriving at school found, to their great physical comfort, all the seats upon which they were accustomed to sit, from four to six inches lower, caused by the rasping effects of an old saw that the teacher had borrowed that morning.

Thus the teachers having left teaching and gone to educating, their influence may already be seen as well as felt.

2. GRADED SCHOOLS. We have eight districts that have each two or more departments approximating more or less nearly the Graded School; one of these has three departments, and another three in summer and five in winter.

In most if not all of these schools, the principal teacher exercises a general supervision over the different departments, and, on examination of attainments, decides on a pupil's ability to enter the next higher department.

There are three other districts where they should have graded schools, and probably would have, if they had suitable buildings, as it is a much more economic way, as well as a more efficient and successful one of educating pupils. I trust the number of these schools will be increased the coming winter.

3. TEACHERS. There are some eighty who make teaching their principal business, twenty who teach only during the winter, and a few others just commencing, who intend to make this their business, at least till they get up a small private school. The remainder of our teachers make this a stepping stone to something else. As the teachers advance in attainments, their required ability, at examinations, is elevated, by giving more difficult questions, and holding the minimum standard at sixty per cent.

At my fall examinations, 93 candidates presented themselves, to whom were granted :

Third grade certificates	66
Second do	1
First do	1
Total	68

At the spring examinations 169 candidates presented themselves, to whom were granted :

Third grade certificates	111
Second do	2
Total	113

After the close of the fall examinations I gave six or eight district certificates to subsequent applicants, and about as many more after the spring examinations.

4. PUPILS.—I have no statistics by which I can state explicitly the average of punctual attendance of pupils; judging, however, from the schools as I found them, I should say that the average has been good, with an exception or two which continued for a time. An epidemic prevailed in different parts of the county, which, at one time, reduced many schools quite low, and in a few instances, broke them up. Perhaps I ought to add also that the whortleberry season had its influence upon some schools. The general deportment of pupils has been very commendable; I have heard no complaints, and of no difficulty, except in one school where the patrons were more to blame than the pupils, and even this was transient. Pupils are well supplied with books where there is an interest in education, and where there is not, they are not thus supplied—"Where there is a will there is a way," applies forcibly here.

5. PATRONS.—The schools of Sauk county have not generally been visited as often as they should be, either by the patrons or officers of the school; a few, however, have exhibited a commendable zeal in this respect. There is one item that is worthy of note: in one of the village districts, they had a board, previous to last fall, composed of men of excellent business habits, but not particularly interested in school matters, who exercised a good degree of caution in procuring good teachers, and in this I think succeeded, and paid good wages. Here, so far as special efforts for the school were concerned, they stopped; and as a consequence, their schools were not generally orderly. The pupils, when not under the immediate supervision of the teacher, were wild and lawless. They would even tear off the siding from the privy and the casing from the pillars of the school house, for the purpose of kindling a fire. There was not a desk but what had been more or less cut with their knives. In short "destruction" was written upon every thing about the house. To such an extent had this state of things been carried, that the principal lawyer of the place, at the annual meeting, as I understand, took the position, that it could not be stopped, and consequently, was even opposed to repairing the privy, from which the siding had been nearly all torn off. But the school house and privy were repaired. The new board, at the opening of the winter school, published to the pupils, some written regulations which should govern either them or the board; such as for any act above referred to the actor should be punished to the extent of the law, and for an unintentional act, such as accidentally breaking a light of glass, the pupil should repair any such damage to the satisfaction of the board, etc. The members of this board visited the school, occasionally, and encouraged their teachers by their presence, and by timely suggestions. The result has been, that the district property has not since been injured in the least and the discipline of their schools is far superior to what it had been, and in many respects it has been a model school, with teachers, whose reputation for order was certainly no better when they went there, than the others had been. Let it be understood then that the school is, to a great extent, what the district and the district board make it.

§ 6. TOWNSHIP DISTRICT SYSTEM OF SCHOOL MANAGEMENT.—At my first examination of the township district system, as presented in the last annual report of the State Superintendent, I thought that there were objections that would fully balance all the arguments in its favor, but these objections have nearly disappeared.

Give us the township system.

I. W. MORLEY, County Superintendent.

SHAWANAW COUNTY.

(NO REPORT.)

SHEBOYGAN COUNTY.

I forward to you a general report of the condition of the district schools in this county, their progress and improvement.

1st. But four new school houses have been built during the past year, and not so much progress made in improving the appearance of those already built, and supplying them with suitable seats, desks, charts, etc., as ought to be made, owing to the fact that our attention has been given to the war. In building, especial pains has been taken to make them convenient and comfortable. Several districts have delayed building until more favorable times.

2d. There is but one graded school—located at Sheboygan Falls, has three departments, and employs four teachers—in this county outside the city of Sheboygan. It is well sustained. The villages of Green Bush and Plymouth, each employed two teachers last winter, and it is to be hoped that permanent graded schools may soon be established there, and also at Gibbsville, Hingham, and Glenbeulah.

3d. At the public examination of teachers in April last, I required 60 per cent correct answers, for a third grade certificate.

Out of 201 applicants who applied, 54 passed high enough to receive a third grade certificate, and one a first grade; but several of this number, acting in their profession during the examination, received a certificate for only six months. The interest felt by teachers, parents, and friends of education, is steadily increasing. The present system of County Superintendents has set teachers at work to qualify themselves. Competent, emergetic, working teachers command good pay and steady employment; but those who keep school because it is easier and pays better than washing dishes often fail to get schools. This is as it should be. The system of changing teachers, which has done much to make schools backward, is being done away with.

4th. The average attendance has, considering the scarcity of help, been good; and scholars, except in backward districts, are well supplied with books. Various methods have been tried to secure a large attendance, each having its good point; but those teachers, who have urged the parents to assist them, have succeeded best.

5th. Patrons are beginning to learn that upon their frequently visiting the school, conferring freely with the teacher, and exhibiting a lively interest in the progress of the scholars, as much depends as upon the teacher. Many have supposed that their work was done when a teacher was hired, and the necessary books furnished; but I am glad to see that this opinion is giving way. I have, during the year ending January 1st, 1865, visited 126 schools, and find them making good progress.

6th. The Township District System will, I think, supply the only link necessary to make our school code perfect. Those who have given the subject any thought, must have felt that something was needed to make our school system work, that the system of district organization was ruinously expensive and tended to keep small districts backward. The Township District System will remedy these evils, by having to support a less number of schools—for school houses may be so located in every town as to save 20 per cent. and, at the same time better accommodate all the children—by making a greater uniformity in the schools, and doing away with many small districts that cannot afford to keep a school for more than three or four months during the year, and that only by employing a "cheap teacher." Those miserably uncomfortable houses, with a single row of benches on three sides, would give place to houses built and furnished with a view to the comfort and convenience of the scholar.

I trust the next Legislature will enact such laws as will give us the benefit of the Township System soon.

H. A. FORBES, County Superintendent.

TREMPEALEAU COUNTY.

(NO REPORT.)

VERNON COUNTY.

(NO REPORT.)

WALWORTH COUNTY.

In compliance with your circular of Aug. 30th, I herewith submit the following brief Report of the condition of the school interests of this county.

Since the date of my last report, there have been built two neat and commodious district school houses, which supplant as many dilapidated structures, that were formerly used for school purposes; also, in addition to these buildings, the people of Geneva and vicinity have erected a very convenient and commodious seminary, on an eminence overlooking Geneva Lake, at an expense of nearly $5,000. It is generally understood that this seminary is designed, in a great measure, to fit and prepare teachers for their important duties in our district schools. Several districts have repaired or "patched up" their "temple of learning," waiting for a more propitious season to build.

The number of graded schools in this county remains the same as reported last year; they are eight in number, and are conducted by successful and experienced teachers.

There are but few, if any, other districts in the county that could profitably sustain a graded school.

Since my last report I have examined three hundred and five applicants, and have granted seven first grade; 6, second, and 283 third grade certificates; of these, 57 are employed in the same schools as during the previous year. 94 have no other employment, and 89 have been engaged in teaching during the year.

The general average of punctual attendance of the pupils of the schools of this county, while members of the schools, was nearly 80 per cent., and yet when we take into consideration the number of children of the county drawing public money, the punctual attendance upon our schools is alarmingly small.

The general deportment of the schools has been good, very good, with a few rare exceptions, during the past year.

In some districts there is a manifest deficiency of books, while generally the pupils are well supplied.

During the past year the interest manifested by the patrons of the schools has been of that passive nature, which is usually visible at the annual school meeting in voting the necessary funds to conduct the schools successfully through the coming year, and in sending their children during the session of the same.

The visitations of the patrons of the schools have been less frequent than in former years, owing probably to the fact that the minds of the people are so engrossed in watching and sustaining the Government in its efforts to put down this unholy rebellion.

So far as the Township system of school management is concerned, I most unhesitatingly recommend its adoption in Wisconsin, as I have seen its good effects in my native state, where it has wrought many changes for the better in their school system. It is generally conceded by the friends of education in this county, that its adoption would be a step in advance, and it is to be hoped that the Legislature elect will incorporate it into our school laws at the coming session.

Finally, would we save our state from corruption, our country from ruin, we must educate with all the thoroughness which the interests at stake demand, both the minds and the hearts of the children in the schools.

The present peril that hazards the unity of the nation, arises from the ignorance of large masses of the people, and the institutions and laws designed to keep them in ignorance. Freedom and intelligence, moral and intellectual, are cause and effect, foundation and superstructure.

The temple of freedom, no more than the temple of righteousness, can stand on the, "hay, wood and stubble", of darkened minds. The denial of knowledge to the mass of the people, is certain death to a Republican Government. Cherish, then, the Public Free Schools as the bride does her jewels. Honor the teachers in them, as most worthy of encouragement and respect, then, whatever madness may seize, or judgment visit other portions of the nation, where knowledge is sealed up and law forbids instruction, the warm sunshine of a favoring Providence will make our fields fruitful and fragrant, and intelligence and virtue will make our homes happy and secure.

A. J. CHENNY, County Superintendent.

WASHINGTON COUNTY.

The schools of the County of Washington have improved very much during the last year, in attendance as well as in scholarship. The different Districts of the County raised money enough to make their school houses more comfortable to the pupils as well as to the teachers, and where those school houses that they intended to build during this summer are not even commenced, so does this not depend upon the good and earnest will and wishes of the inhabitants of those places and districts, but on the high prices of all materials and on the high wages asked by the laborers.

As soon as this present war is settled, our schools will flourish more than ever, for many of our ablest young teachers have changed their books and pens for the musket and sword. When returned they all will, it is hoped by their friends and patrons, again cling to the noble work of the education of the children.

I examined during the previous year 281 teachers, and 216 certificates of the 2d and 8d grade were granted. The average standing was from 6 to 7 on the adopted scale. The patrons of our schools are entitled to many thanks for the interest they took in the improvement of our schools and the assistance they gave to this office to get more influence upon those who are yet too indifferent towards our schools, our teachers, and the education of our rising generation.

Yours Respectfully,

F. REGENFUSE, County Superintendent.

WAUKESHA COUNTY.

In compliance with yours of Aug. 31st, I forward the following special report:

1. SCHOOL HOUSES. Our County is supplied with 118 public school buildings; of these 8 are positively good and commodious, 15 are comparatively good, that is, they are tolerable, 20 are absolutely intolerable and disgraceful to enlightened humanity. The remaining 75 fill the varying shades of gradation between the two extremes.

Two new buildings have been erected during the past year; but I regret to say that in size, arrangement and needful accommodations they are not up to the times in all respects. Two others are in process of building, one of which promises to be commodious and tasteful. Two houses, also, have been extensively repaired and newly seated. One has received an addition for a primary department.

The people "talk about building" and "intend to build" a large number of new and elegant school houses, "as soon as the times get a little easier." May the good time soon come.

2. GRADED SCHOOLS. Eight schools in the county have two or more departments, and are gradually advancing towards gradation. Two of these have each three departments. Of the five having each two departments, three merge the primary with the higher during the summer term. Five or six other schools in the county would be greatly benefited by arranging for a separate primary department. When a school averages sixty or more pupils, I have recommended the district board to place some 25 or 30 of the younger pupils in charge of a primary teacher. This arrangement has worked admirably in every instance, and I believe, given universal satisfaction. Pupils, teachers and patrons all attest its advantages. In one instance where the trial was made by renting a room in a private dwelling, for one term, a primary room was immediately added to the former school building. Others contemplate enlarging or building soon, to provide like accommodations.

This system of grading schools may with profit be adopted in nearly all of our towns and small villages. Nothing but mismanagement can prevent its success.

3. TEACHERS.—Ten public examinations have been held during the year. The number of applicants for license to teach has been 333. The number found entitled to first grade certificates was 5. The number found entitled to second grade certificates was 15. The number found entitled to third grade certificates was 286. Fifty of the third grade licenses were limited to six months—most of them on account of inexperience. Those who prove themselves possessed of "ability to teach" are entitled to an extension of their certificates for the remaining six months without further examination.

A moderate gain is apparent in the qualifications of the teachers of the county, as a whole, over the past year: a very marked advancement has been made by those who make teaching a business. These teachers improve their opportunities, they read the Journal, they are found at the institute, teacher's association, and at the school room before 9 o'clock.

Comparatively few remain a second term in the same school, and fewer still a second year. Five teachers have continued each two years in their respective schools, and it is worthy of note, that no more prosperous schools are found in the county.

4. PUPILS.—The general average of punctual attendance is in advance of the preceding year. Still it is far below what it should be. In point of deportment, I am most happy to say, a decided improvement is manifest. I come to this conclusion, not only from what I see of the pupils in the school room and at their sports, but from the representation of teachers and more especially from the absence of much of the obscene caricatures formerly so abundant in most public school buildings. It is true, in this county, that our school buildings suffer less at the hands of the pupils than in former years. I insist upon the teachers attending to matters of this nature with untiring diligence.

Very little complaint is made for lack of books. Some are troubled for want of uniformity. We are more in want of slates and good blackboards than books.

5. PATRONS.—I regret to say that in a majority of instances more want of interest than interest is manifested by the patrons. Still there are in nearly every district a few exceptions; in some, noble exceptions.

What we need most of all things in our common school is a healthy public sentiment on this subject. When this is right, it will right all other wrongs.

I am endeavoring, with the co-operation of many earnest teachers of our county, to call attention to the importance of patrons visiting and becoming interested in these things. We do this in part by holding pic-nics in summer, and in winter, gathering several schools or parts of schools at convenient times and places, thus bringing teachers, pupils, and often a tolerable number of the parents, together. On these occasions, and in evening lectures, I endeavor to bring this subject home to the people, showing them how indispensable is their co-operation with the teacher.

6. The Township District System was discussed at some length at one of our County Teachers' Associations. Several gentlemen of experience and observation who have witnessed the workings of this system in other states, bore uniform testimony to its superiority. I doubt not that under its workings our school buildings would speedily improve. It would also tend to elevate many schools now much neglected. I see no reason why the cause of education would be retarded in any community, if equitable provisions were made whereby those localities, possessed of more than an average share of enterprise in educational matters, were allowed to appropriate funds for the support of the schools in their respective sub-districts.

7. SUGGESTIONS.—Space admits of my making only two suggestions. And, first, in my judgment, the time is at hand, when children under six years of age should be excluded, by law, from our public schools. On this subject all educators are agreed. The health of the child, its future progress in education, and the attention due from the teacher to other pupils of proper school age, all demand it.

My second suggestion relates to the distribution of the school fund. Could the income of this fund be distributed on the basis of number of days the pupils attend school, instead of the number of children between the ages of four and twenty years, a premium would be offered on attendance. This would doubtless have a powerful influence for good, on the number of pupils attending school and the regularity of their attendance. Such a result would be of inestimable value to all our schools. And who is prepared to show that this is not the most equitable basis on which such money could be distributed? An amendment of the State Constitution is needed so as to enable the Legislature to make the desired changes, but the subject can be agitated, and the minds of the people prepared for them.

A. D. HENDRICKSON, County Superintendent.

WAUPACA COUNTY.

Having held this office only since the first of September last, I am unable to give satisfactory information upon some of the points about which it is desirable that I should report.

1. SCHOOL HOUSES.—I know of only two school houses built during the year; one of these is a good frame building, the other a log building. Several of the old buildings have undergone a thorough course of repairing, and have been rendered at once more comfortable and attractive. A few of the schools have been supplied with one or more maps during the year, but there are still many schools poorly provided for in this respect.

2. GRADED SCHOOLS.—There are three graded schools in successful operation in this county, one of these has three departments, the others two each. A union of two districts has been formed at New London this fall. There will be at least three departments. A degree of interest is manifested for the welfare of schools, which considering the times, is certainly creditable.

TEACHERS.—I have examined forty-five applicants for certificates, at the regular public examinations; the number of certificates granted is as follows:

Third grade, twenty-nine.

Second grade, six.

First grade, two.

To supply a deficiency of teachers, on account of many of our male teachers having entered the army, and others having left the county, I have issued three district certificates to those who came nearest the required standing. The benefits of normal schools are clearly seen in this county. Those teachers who attended Mr. Wernli's normal school last fall, in nearly every instance, pass good examinations, and a very large proportion of them teach excellent schools.

The educational interests of this county have steadily advanced during the past three years. Teacher's associations have been organized in many parts, which have done much to improve the teachers and to awaken an educational interest in towns where they are held. The teachers of this county, by patient study and continued application are becoming more efficient, elevating their profession and securing the respect of the community at large.

J. K. MCGREGOR, County Superintendent.

WAUSHARA COUNTY.

1. SCHOOL HOUSES.—But little has been done in the way of building and repairing school houses during the past year. A new house has been built in District No. 5, in the town of Aurora, which reflects credit upon the inhabitants of the district. It is hoped that other districts in the town will be led to emulate their example. The people of the village of Pine River are just completing the addition to their house noticed in the report of my predecessor, and a graded school is to be established during the coming winter.

2. There are but two graded schools in the county, though there are perhaps a dozen districts in which one might be maintained with advantage and true economy. Under the township district system, the benefits of graded schools would be realized much more extensively than at present.

3. There have been no applicants for first grade certificates. For certificates of the second grade there have been seven applicants, five of whom have been successful. Ninety-seven persons applied for third grade certificates, sixty-eight of whom were successful. I believe there is a growing feeling in favor of employing successful teachers, though I have no means of ascertaining, with any certainty, the number employed during the past year.

By a careful examination of teachers' registers, I am led to believe, that the attendance of pupils is generally good throughout the county, with the exception of those places where wild berries are found in abundance. If not out of place, I would suggest a remedy for this state of things: Let the children be encouraged to cultivate such small fruits as are easily raised in gardens; these could be gathered before and after school, thus giving all necessary time for intellectual improvement, and at the same time cultivating a taste for the noblest employment of mankind. In some schools I have found a lack of books. In one school I saw a class of ten scholars with but one reading book. But this is not a general fault. There is more want of judgment than of liberality on the part of parents in supplying children with books. Many districts have an overplus of "Astronomies" and "Poetical Geographies," procured at a high cost from wily tongued agents, while the teacher has to labour under great disadvantages through the want of books absolutely necessary. Under the system of changing teachers, so prevalent in this county, a much more expensive class of books is in use than is needed. Scarcely a school can be found in the county without its "fifth reader class," the majority of whose members would fail to render a newspaper article intelligible, or its "Algebra" or "Higher Arithmetic" class, to which you might appeal in vain for a correct solution in mental arithmetic. This evil is owing, in a great measure, to a foolish and false ambition on the part of parents, who think to crowd their children beyond their capacity, and are sure to realize the truth of the adage: "The more haste, the less speed." Neither are teachers free from blame in the matter, as many of them are anxious to achieve a reputation for "taking scholars through the book," and are too willing to bestow undeserved commendation upon pupils. I speak earnestly on this matter, for I know it to be a serious evil, and one which would be quickly remedied if its extent and mischievous tendency were once understood.

5. There is much general interest manifested on the part of parents, but it is too general to produce very special results.

CHAS. B. SKINNER, County Superintendent.

WINNEBAGO COUNTY.

(NO REPORT.)

WOOD COUNTY.

In compliance with your request, I submit for your consideration the following brief statement in relation to the schools of Wood County. There has been, with one or two dishonorable exceptions, a general disposition on the part of both parents and teachers throughout the county to unite their efforts with mine in aiming to secure the best interests of the schools. Although but little is directly done by the people to encourage the teachers, yet the uniformity with which they grant their requests, vote their supplies, furnish their children with books, indicates more than words, the estimate which they place upon education.

Many quite important improvements were made during the past year, even more than could have been expected, considering the present times, several districts have levied a tax for outline maps and charts; and globes have already been furnished to some of the more prominent districts.

One neat and capacious house has been erected, and several others have been improved and made to appear more friendly and homelike.

There are but two districts with graded schools in the county. One with two and the other with three departments. The school in Grand Rapids, as it is now being conducted by Mr. Jackson, (as principal) is meeting the pressing wants of the county; is a thorough graded school, and exhibits very clearly the great advantages which may be derived from the same; and although some trouble originated in this district, which, during the first part of the year, marred and disturbed its progress, and excited prejudice in the minds of some against the policy of a graded school; still when it was seen that this unpleasant state of affairs was more the result of injudicious efforts by an inefficient teacher than from any imperfection of the theory itself, they mainly passed away, and with them the petty jealousies and local stifes originating therefrom.

A normal Institute was held in the spring of 1864, and continued its session nearly four weeks, under the principal care of Rev. J. W. Harris, a leading educator of the county, which evinced clearly the valuable results of proper normal instruction. There was also an Institute held in the fall of 1864, conducted principally by myself, assisted by H. C. Jackson and Henry Tyler, at which time there was a marked interest and general good professional feeling manifested; by which combined course of instruction of the two Institutes, we have had the good pleasure of raising the standard of qualification at our public examinations of teachers, (which, by the by, have been held twice during the year, and in strict conformity with the advice of the State Supl., and in compliance with the school law), and at the same time have been relieved of the embarrassment of issuing district certificates, to a great extent; a most desirable result considering the circumstances.

It was our pleasure to visit all the schools in the county twice, (except one,) and the most of them three times during the year, and to occupy at least one half day in each instance, observing the general plan of instruction adopted, referring to errors where they appeared to exist, giving practical hints where it seemed necessary, and in some cases conducting the exercises, to exemplify more clearly what appeared to be the best method of imparting instruction in the various branches, and in all cases seeking out the wants and peculiarities of the different districts, the better to be prepared to administer to said wants by way of public lectures and private advice to both parents and teachers; and while in the discharge of said duty I have noticed several points worthy of consideration, some of which it may be well to mention, to wit:

1st. That there is a general lack of regular systematic visitation of schools, not only by teachers from other districts, but by school officers and parents.

2nd. That the attendance of pupils has been much better than on former occasions, especially during the latter part of the year.

3rd. That there is an evil common to a portion of our county, which is the non-payment of taxes by speculators, by which many districts, although raising burdensome taxes for school purposes, have nothing to pay their teachers with except tax certificates or district orders, a sort of pay much to be deprecated, and they can not, even with the greatest effort, hire a first class teacher, and are therefore suffering under unpleasant difficulties.

4th. That there has been a disposition on the part of every practical teacher in the county to take the Journal of Education, when the matter has been brought to his notice.

5th. I have seen the lack of enthusiasm, which would not be felt if parents took more general interest in the matter of education, and have found teachers laboring under the same embarrassment, to remedy which, to a certain extent, it was decided at the county Teachers' Association to hold a series of public examinations of schools, in various parts of the county, comprising in some instances the schools of nearly three towns at one session. There were four such sessions held during the summer, in different parts of the county, at which times and places the most of the parents of the pupils who participated in the exercises were present, and thus a mutual benefit was derived by all present, and the effect has been most salutary upon all the schools which participated in said exercises.

Wm. F. WITTEB, County Superintendent.

REPORTS OF CITY SUPERINTENDENTS OF SCHOOLS.

About the middle of November a circular, similar to that addressed to county superintendents, was sent to each city superintendent of schools in the state. The replies received are given below:

CITY OF FOND DU LAC.

In compliance with your request I make the following brief Report of the condition of the Public Schools of this city.

1. A new building for the accommodation of the high and grammar schools has been erected the past season, and will be ready for occupancy about the first of January, 1865. The building is designed to accommodate 450 pupils. The cost when completed will be about $15,000.

2. Our schools are designed to be branches of one school, and are comprised in the following departments: One high and one grammar school; three intermediate and fifteen primary schools.

Three teachers are employed in the high, and three in the grammar school; two in each of the intermediate, and in one primary school; one in each of the other primary schools; making 28 teachers in all.

The schools are all graded, with the exception of two in sparsely settled localities. Into these schools the three grades of primary scholars, for the convenience of small children, are admitted.

3. Eleven teachers are employed in the same schools as during the previous year. Eleven others were employed in our schools, but, for various reasons, were transferred to other departments. Six are new teachers here.

The average age of teachers is about 24 years. Experience 5 years.

4. Pupils. General average of attendance:

In high school, 97.4.

In grammar school, 96.1.

In all other schools, 87.6.

The pupils have generally been well supplied with text books. By resolution of the Board of Education, pupils whose parents are not able to purchase books, are supplied at the public expense. This number is not found to be large.

The number of scholars enrolled in the high school during the year was, 163.

In the grammar school, 186.

In all other schools, 2,115.

Total in all schools, 2,414.

5. On the part of parents and patrons there has not been that practical interest which is desired. When they have voted the means to carry on the schools, they too generally seem to think their responsibility at an end. I am sorry to report that very few are in the habit of visiting the schools. Frequent visits by parents would, I am confident, prevent many evils, and awaken a new interest in our schools. Is there any way to make them see their own interest in this matter?

GEO. B. EASTMAN, City Superintendent of Schools.

CITY OF LA CROSSE.

Our La Crosse city, of 6,000 people, half foreign, enrolls 1,290 within the school ages. About 40 per cent. of this number attend the public, while 30 per cent. are scattered in the private schools. A catholic school, with a new commodious building and six teachers, started off this fall with some 250 pupils. The Germans have supported two large separate tuition schools, one of which is now incorporated into the public schools. This diversion, or "scatteration" of school forces in a city of this size, shows faulty management somewhere.

Ten teachers—six principal and four assistants—are employed, in the two public buildings. The two grammar room teachers, (males) are paid $50 a month, and the other principals $30 a month. They range in ages from 16 to 26 years, with from one to six years experience. Our school terms foot up to about ten months yearly, yet grade very little, if any, above the average of the country schools. This poor showing for our city is partly explained by the fact of our frequent changing, without improving the stock of teachers; their small pay, and their neglect (in many cases) to get "posted," or to make betterments in themselves. Add to this, plain bare school rooms, no library, no apparatus to speak of, inattention of parents, the cause of our slow progress, or no progress, is quite apparent.

Mr. Thomas, recently from Binghampton college, has been engaged as principal of the 1st ward school, during the present fall term. His school room, or his scholars, move; move very perceptibly. He has scarcely any use for text-books ; he has much use for slates and black-boards ; governs without scolding ; has ideas of his own ; carries them out ; simplifies his classes ; is systematic, and gives his scholars the short end of the working lever without their knowing it. We hope much from his labors and example.

F. A. MOORE, County Superintendent.

CITY OF OSHKOSH.

In compliance with your request, I submit the following information in relation to our city schools. The system adopted, and which we endeavor to fully establish here, is the graded system ; and nothing but the lack of a proper high school building, prevents us from carrying it out complete.

No new buildings have been erected the past year, and no additions to any previously built, except in the 1st ward. This building, with the addition erected last summer, at a cost of $8,300, will now seat 350 scholars. Four teachers are employed in this school, two primary and two intermediate ; there being two grades in each department.

We have one good and convenient school building, in each of the other wards, capable of seating about 175 pupils,—each school under the charge of three teachers, and divided into primary and intermediate.

As to punctual attendance, deportment and scholarship, I give you the general average of each school for the summer term, which is a fair average for the year.

Our High School, under the management of Mr. J. H. Bates, as principal, and Miss Marian Cooper, assistant, has reached a higher degree of efficiency and discipline, than was ever contemplated by its most sanguine friends.

It is largely patronized by the larger scholars from the country, particularly those who are fitting themselves for teaching. We have a fine apparatus, both philosophical and chemical, purchased mostly the past year, at a cost of about $500.

All the teachers in our schools, 18 in number, are females, except the principal of the High School, and we are well satisfied with them. Some have been in our employ for over 6 years, and but 3 less than two years.

School masters are played out, here.

We have no scholars not provided with proper text books.

The blank form enclosed explains itself. Nothing we have ever introduced to stimulate the ambition of the scholars to obtain a clean record, has succeeded so well as this. As these certificates are taken home by the scholar at the end of each month, for signatures, their standing is brought directly before the attention of the parents, and their co-operation is thereby secured in establishing in their children habits of punctuality, study and meritorious conduct.

The highest degree of excellence in the average columns is denoted by the No. 100. Ranks from 95 to 100 may be regarded as highest; from 90 to 95, high; from 80 to 90, mediately; from 70 to 80, low; and below 70 as lowest.

Department should rank 100. The parent or guardian is respectfully requested to examine and sign this report and return it by the bearer. It is hoped this examination will be more than a formality, and that it will be a means of improving the schools.

Assistant-Teacher Principal.

CITY OF MADISON.

In reply to your enquiries I would say:

1. No new school houses have been built in the city during the year, but important improvements have been made in some of those already constructed. These improvements consist mainly in an increased supply of blackboards, maps and charts; in the construction of walks and fences; the planting of shade trees, and the re-construction of out-houses.

2. We have three graded schools of three departments each, and a central grammar and high school, accommodating in the aggregate about seven hundred pupils. The general character of these schools is believed to be fully up to the average. Here, as elsewhere at the present time, the primary and intermediate departments are over-crowded, while some of the grammar departments are only partially filled.

3. Thirteen teachers are employed in the city schools, only five of whom are in the same departments as last year, although ten have had previous experience in the city schools in other departments. One of the number has been in the employ of the board seven years.

The average age of our teachers is twenty-five and one-half years, and their average experience is six and one-half years.

4. The attendance is ninety-two per cent. on the average membership—membership being determined as in the Chicago public schools.

The general deportment of pupils in the school rooms is good. There is some truancy, and less attention given to deportment of pupils outside of the school room than there should be. In this respect, however, there is at present a manifest improvement.

Few, if any, are unsupplied with text-books. The needy are supplied by the city Board of Education.

5. Very little interest is manifested in the schools by citizens at large or by parents. There are some causes for this apathy here at the State Capital, which it is believed do not exist to the same extent elsewhere. Political and other assemblies; the meeting of the Legislature; the arrival and departure of troops, etc., tend to draw public attention from the schools, and at the same time cause much absence, tardiness and truancy of pupils.

Total number of visits to the schools during the year, 2,071, of which 381 were parental.

More than one-half these visits were made on the last day of the several terms.

6. Among the many things that might be named as necessary to make our schools efficient and our people intelligent and enlightened, the following, it seems to me, are especially needed:

1. The inauguration of the township district system.
2. The establishment of a public library in each township.
3. The apportionment of school moneys on the basis of school attendance.

W. M. COLBY, Superintendent of Schools.

CITY OF MILWAUKEE.

1. The number, cost, etc., of the school houses in the city you will find in my report to the County Superintendent.

The only buildings erected during the past year were additions to the Round House, in the Sixth Ward, and to the Teutonia Street school house in the Ninth Ward, at an expense of about one thousand dollars.

2. The number of graded schools is nine, one in each ward, containing three departments each. There are also six branch schools, located in the suburbs. These are not graded schools.

3. There were seventy-seven teachers employed during the past year. Of this number nineteen were new teachers in the city, though many of them had taught previously. Twenty taught in the city two years. The remainder have taught from two to thirteen years. The youngest is seventeen years, the eldest forty six—average age about twenty-four or twenty-five.

4. The general average of punctual attendance is 85 per cent. The general deportment good during the year. A few cases have been reported to the office. They were mostly of a light nature, and easily settled by consultation with parents.

5. The interest taken in our schools by the citizens is not what it should be, nor what the real merits of the schools deserve. The number of visitors during the year was 594.

6. In reply to your last question, I would say that there are three causes operating to prevent the advancement of our schools. First—The want of primary school accommodation. Though we have large and beautiful school houses, yet our primary departments are over-crowded, containing from 200 to 400 scholars each. Our teachers over-worked, and the foundation of our whole system injured by the want of a few thousands wisely expended. Second—The want of a High School. Upon this point, I feel that it is not necessary for me to say one word. Every intelligent educator can see the necessity; if our wealthy citizens would pay by the way of a tax one-half of what they are willing to pay to support private schools, our whole city would be benefited and their children better educated. Third—Want of co-operation and unity of action among our teachers. We have no teachers' meeting in the city. When I was appointed Superintendent I sent a written communication to the School Board, asking them to adopt a rule requiring the teachers to hold regular meetings for their own benefit as well as the improvement of our schools. I am very sorry to say that the communication did not meet with a favorable reception, and the matter was dropped. I think these three are the serious obstacles in the way of the advancement of our schools. Our teachers are faithful and industrious, but do not work together, or upon any well defined system. But little can be done in our primary departments for want of room. The High School, I trust, will one day be obtained.

EDWIN DeWOLF, Superintendent.

CITY OF PORTAGE.

Since my last report we have made important additions and improvements to our school buildings, enlarged our school grounds, graded the schools more perfectly, increased the number of teachers, and we trust improved their advantages.

The work of improving our schools commenced several years since and has been steadily prosecuted. Our people cheerfully submit to heavy taxation for the purpose, expecting to reap their reward partially in the present, but more fully in the future.

The new brick building mentioned in my last report has been so far completed as to be occupied by the high and grammar schools. In the second ward, two valuable lots, centrally located, have been purchased and the school house formerly occupying property not owned by the city, has been removed to them and so enlarged and improved as to accommodate an intermediate and a primary school. The city, now, with a single exception, owns all the buildings and property occupied by her schools. The value of her property may now be safely estimated at $12,400. In 1859 it was estimated at $1,550.

During the year the grading of the schools has been changed. At present they consist of a high school, a grammar school, three intermediate schools and three primary schools, under charge of the following teachers in the order named. Prof Jas. H. Magoffin, assisted by Miss Abby O. Briggs. Mrs. Agnes N. Cornwell, assisted by Miss Luthera B. Waldo. Miss Maria Austin, Mrs. M. S. Ege, Miss Susan A. Waters, Miss Fanny E. Waldo, Miss Eliza Hunter and Miss J. Kate Miller. Eight of these have been in the employ of the city many years. Two were employed this year for the first time. The majority of them are over 30 years of age, and all bring to their work the experience of years in teaching. As a rule we avoid changing our teachers unless it is manifest that our schools are to be benefited by such change. We have only parted with one of the number steadily employed during the past year, Mr. Geo. F. Richardson. He left us for government employ. For many years he had proved himself a most thorough and efficient teacher, and we parted with him very reluctantly. As it takes time for teachers to acquire a knowledge of the mental, moral, and physical characteristics of their pupils, as well as the peculiar wants and notions of their patrons, when this knowledge is well acquired, competent and faithful teachers ought not to be dropped for any slight cause. Besides, permanency of employment strengthens the influence and elevates the character of this meritorious profession.

There were 1198 names on our school registers the past year. The average attendance was about 500. The general deportment of the pupils was good. Text books are furnished where parents or guardians are un-ble to provide them. The appropriation for this purpose amounts to about $20 per annum.

The patrons of our schools seldom visit them. This is the more to be regretted as many of them are among our most prominent citizens, who have had considerable experience in teaching, and might make many valuable suggestions. I have no means of determining the number of visitors during the year, but believe that hereafter it would be well to have them registered. Teachers from other schools occasionally call, they are always welcome visitors.

Further improvements are in contemplation. At present our schools are well filled. More school room is required and more teachers should be employed. We are also in need of more school room furniture and a school library. The utility of our schools is, however, much impaired by absenteeism. Patrons seem unconscious of the importance of punctual attendance. During the present term the attendance has been much improved by the establishment of a single daily session. The pupils are less tardy and remain during the day. Besides it gives them more time, night and morning, for such duties as may be required of them at home.

Notwithstanding all that has been done, something is still wanting to awaken many to the value of our school privileges, as well as more fairly to equalize our school expenses. There are many parents that never send their children to school, or if they do, it is for a very brief period during the year; there are others that manage to secure the full benefit of our schools without contributing anything to their support; while there is still another class that are forced to pay large amounts without having any children to be benefited by them. Now in order to secure a large attendance, as well as to equalize the cost, would it not be well to require by law registration of all children of school age, and to impose a nominal tax on them to be paid by their parents or guardians for school purposes? Would not such registration and tax (in addition to the one now levied upon property) increase our school monies, more fairly equalize the cost, and by bringing the matter directly home to parents, tend to secure a fuller attendance of pupils? Privileges, however valuable, are not always appreciated if enjoyed without cost or trouble.

HENRY B. MUNN, City Superintendent of Schools.

CITY OF KENOSHA.

1. We have built no new school houses, nor have we made any improvements in those formerly built.

2. All the schools are graded: commencing with sub primary, one room; primary, three grades in three rooms with one teacher in each; intermediate, three grades, as above; two grammar schools of same grades in different parts of the city, each containing two classes, called A and B classes; it being expected that the scholars spend two years in the grammar school; and the high school, four classes, with a course of study designed to cover four years.

3. The number of teachers employed is 18. Eight are the same as employed last year and five are new teachers in our schools, although possessing some previous experience. The average age of the eleven female teachers is perhaps 20 years; of the gentleman teachers perhaps 30 years.

4. The general interest manifested in the schools by parents seems highly satisfactory, although this interest does not manifest itself in as frequent visits to the schools as could be desired.

I enclose herewith a copy of the revised school regulations, published during the past year.

The principal change in the course of study is the removal of mental and moral philosophy from the high school, where heretofore those studies have been pursued for the last two years of the course, and the substitution of English and American History, and the history of English and American Literature.

More attention than heretofore is also given in the high school to reading, spelling, penmanship and grammar.

CITY OF SHEBOYGAN.

1. Our school houses remain the same as last year, with no improvements beyond ordinary repairs.

2. The schools of this city are arranged in six grades; the sixth grade is the third primary department of three classes, in which the instruction is almost entirely oral, combined with the National Primer and 1st Reader. The 5th grade is the 2d primary department of two classes, embracing 2d Reader, Primary Geography, &c.; the 4th grade is the 1st primary department of two classes, embracing 3d Reader, Primary Arithmetic, Monteiiths Manual of Geography, &c.; the 3d grade is the intermediate department of three classes, embracing 4th Reader, Int. Arithmetic, Geography, Writing, &c.; the 2d grade is the Grammar department of two classes, embracing 5th Reader, Arithmetic, U. S. History, English Grammar, Physiology, &c.; the 1st grade is the high school department of four classes, embracing a thorough course, such as is usual in the high schools of this State.

In the primary departments, especial importance is given to oral instruction, and teachers are hired with particular reference to their ability in this direction. In the intermediate and Grammar departments, we insist upon those more common things, such as the great bulk of our scholars must have and must get before they are sixteen years of age.

3. We employ ten teachers. Six of our teachers were with us the last two years. They will average 14 years of age, and have had from one to fourteen years experience, probably will average five years each.

4. Our report for this term, shows a registration of 748 names, with a daily average attendance of 621. Our per cent. of punctual attendance, varies in different departments, from 80 to 98, general average, 96. We have no scholars unsupplied with books.

5. The people are very much interested in everything pertaining to their school. We have the best building in the state, north of Milwaukee, and the tax is voted regularly and cheerfully. In nearly two and one-half years I have not had a single instance in which I have not been fully supported by parents, in the discipline of their children. I make it a point to communicate freely with the parent, concerning the progress of the child, and have always received a cordial support in school, and a hearty welcome at the fireside.

Yet, I think this people neglect one most important auxiliary to the best success of their school, by neglecting to visit it only upon examination and exhibition day. These are well enough in their place, but they can never take the place of the frequent, social visiting of the school by parents.

I would urge some measure to secure a more uniform standard of teachers' examinations. In this county, less is required to obtain a certificate, than to enter our third grade. I can do nothing in normal instruction for the county at large, because the teachers can pass without it.

I have never been in favor of an elective county superintendency, and I am less in favor of it now, than ever. They should be appointed by some authority who will examine their qualifications for so high an office.

Cannot something be done to systematize our text-books? We should have a uniformity throughout the county, at least, throughout the State would be better. I will send you our blanks, &c., as soon as the new ones are completed.

S. D. GAYLORD, City Superintendent.

CITY OF RACINE.

1. No changes have been made in school houses during the past year, beyond usual repairs.

2. In the gradation of schools there are

- One high school,
- One grammar department,
- Six intermediate departments, and
- Nine primary departments.

A system of gradation or classification is commenced, which will, when complete, arrange the intermediate and primary pupils in eight classes or grades. In each of these grades it is intended that the same subjects shall be taught at the same time, and in the same way.

3. The answers to this query will be found in the following table:

No. Teachers:	Previously employed in Racine.	Employed last year in same sch.	Av. Age.	Av. Yr's Ex.	Salary.
1	1	1	35	14	$1,500
1	1	1	27	7	450
4	4	3	26.5	6.5	400
5	4	1	26	6	350
7	5	2	22.5	2.6	800
7 assist.	4	3	20.5	1.3	200

4. The general average of attendance for the last year was,

	Fall Term.	Winter Term.	Spring Term.	Total.
High school, per cent.,	98.	99.	96.	97.6
Grammar dept.,	97.9	97.6	95.6	97.
Intermediate depts.,	93.9	94.5	93.5	93.9
Primary depts.,	90.6	91.5	91.9	91.3
Average of depts.,	94.8	95.6	94.2	94.8
Actual per cent. not reckoned by departments,	93.2	93.8	94.1	93.7

* Principal and Superintendent.

- The general deportment of pupils has been satisfactory. Some 30 are reported as not properly supplied with text books by their parents, or about 2 per cent.

5. The interest manifested by parents, though not as great as under former administration, is perhaps as much as could be expected during the present excited state of the public mind.

I am unable to give the precise number of visits made in all the schools, but from the data reported, the total is not far from 8,000.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENCY.

It is now three years since the law, creating the office of County Superintendent, was passed. That it has advanced the interests of education in the state, is generally admitted, and were it possible to secure the services of men for this office, who possess the culture, character, energy, skill and tact necessary, there could be devised no means more efficient than this agency. The labors to be performed are arduous, and such men should be elected to fill this office, as are worth more than the meager amount now paid.

These officers have, during the past year, cordially co-operated with the State Superintendent, in all plans for advancing the interests of education. Their work has been most useful, and, in many instances, most efficiently performed; the sacrifices they have made are creditable to them personally, and deserve the gratitude of those for whose good they have been made.

On the 19th of November, the following note was addressed to Hon. J. L. Pickard, Superintendent Chicago Public Schools :

HON. J. L. PICKARD,

My Dear Sir :—Your resignation of the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction, in October last, so generally regretted by the people of this state, prevents you from making the sixteenth annual report, which your familiarity with our educational interests so well fitted you to prepare.—Permit me to request that you allow me to embody in the report from this department for the present year, such suggestions as you may find time to make, and to assure you, that by so doing, you will confer a favor upon the friends of education throughout the state.

I am very respectfully,

Your Obedient Servant,

JNO. G. McMYNN.

It affords me much pleasure to be able to embody the following reply in this report :

OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS,
CHICAGO, December, 1864.

HON. JOHN G. McMYNN, Supt. Pub. Inst., Madison, Wis. :

Dear Sir :—Your favor of 16th November is received, and its request shall be complied with so far as my time will permit.

For the first two months of the year 1884 I was engaged in correspondence with the newly elected County Superintendents, and in holding personal interviews with them at points convenient of access to all. The object I had in view was to secure uniformity of action on the part of the superintendents for the first time entering upon the discharge of their duties. The severity of the weather compelled me to abandon one appointment at Appleton, as the roads were so blocked by snow that the trains were unable to run for a day or two at the time of the appointed meeting. At Milwaukee, Milton, Fond du Lac, Tomah, Durand, River Falls, Appleton, Boscobel and Oak Grove, meetings for conference were appointed, all of which, except the case mentioned above were met, and nearly all the superintendents invited attended these meetings. The meetings at River Falls and Durand were held in April in connection with institute exercises at the former place.

During the months of March and April I attended many examinations of teachers in different parts of the state. During these four months 24 public addresses were delivered by myself or my assistant—three in Rock county, two in Waukesha county, two each in Milwaukee, Jefferson, Grant and Pepin counties, one each in Dodge, Monroe, Sauk, Columbia, Dane, Crawford, Richland and Green counties, and three in Pierce county.

Between the middle of May and the first of July I was absent from the state, but was for a part of the time, engaged in consultation with educational men and in visiting schools in several of the larger cities of the east.

During the months of July and August I was occupied almost entirely in the duties of the office, anticipating the work of September so far as it could be done. For the institute work of September I employed my brother, J. C. Pickard, myself attending to all necessary correspondence. My resignation took effect Sept. 30th, thus bringing my labors to a close just as the annual reports from the several counties were beginning to come in. The material for the statistical report of the year is all in your hands. The books of the office show the condition of the dictionary account, as also of the library fund account.

The expenses for travel were unusually heavy during the year, amounting, with balance from previous years, to six hundred and nineteen dollars or nineteen dollars more than the appropriation for the year. From this it will be seen that for four years and nine months the traveling expenses of the department have exceeded by nineteen dollars the amount appropriated for that purpose for five years. In this account, of course are included all expenses incident to travel, and which would not have been incurred but for the travel.

The catalogue of books in the library, made when I entered the office, may be compared with the library itself, and will show, I think, due diligence in its care and preservation. I have been compelled, in order to preserve the library, to refuse to all persons permission to borrow books. One book only had disappeared at the time of my leaving the office. In vain have I endeavored to trace it and to recover it.

I trust you found the affairs of the office in as good condition as they were at the time I entered it. It has been my effort and my pleasure to leave there such a record of my doings as will make it easy for my successor to ascertain the course I have pursued, that he may the more readily correct my errors, and improve upon my methods.

All appeals have been carefully numbered and filed, and the decisions upon the same are recorded in full.

A full index of opinions has been prepared, referring to the letters containing these opinions in full. All letters received will be found carefully filed with date of writing, posting, receipt, and answer indicated upon them.

I would here award to my faithful assistant, Mr. A. J. Craig, the credit due him for his excellent suggestions, timely aid, and cheerful co-operation in all efforts to make the work of the office systematic, orderly and prompt.

The uniform kindness of all who have been associated with me during the past five years will ever be remembered with lively gratitude.

For the reason of my resignation and for the expression of my feelings upon leaving the State to which I have been so long attached, and which has so repeatedly honored me with its confidence, I refer you to my letter to superintendents, teachers and other friends of education, published in the October number of the Journal of Education. I will address myself to the performance of the promise made in that letter.

Two words will express in brief the advice I would give teachers—AVOID EXTREMES.

And yet I am hardly content to leave you with so short a text, for our views may differ as to what constitutes extremes in education and in discipline.

You have often had urged upon you the necessity of being what you would have your pupils become. The fact that your pupils will become what you are, gives force to this advice. In no other way does the teacher so impress himself upon the pupils under his charge as by his example. It becomes us then to give due attention to this matter of The Teacher's Personal Habits.

Avoid extremes in dress. Ragged clothing, carelessness of attire, a generally slouched appearance are no worse than fancy cravats, massive rings, dazling chains or tawdry ornaments. The one encourages neglect of the body, without demanding mental or moral culture; the other gives undue prominence to the body, while it sacrifices both head and heart. Plain and neat attire best suits real men and real women.

Every movement of the teacher speaks. Intelligent and refined patrons will be satisfied with nothing short of refined manners. Not like the refinement of the spider's web, which has for its sole object the ensnaring of its victim; but like that of the silk-worm's web, which is made useful to others, though not at the outset as showy or attractive. This includes quiet and orderly deportment which allures and wins, and forbids all noisy raving, coarse and vulgar booriness, and careless postures in the presence of pupils or others, on the one hand, and, upon the other extreme, all simpering, silly affectation. 11

Teachers often put extreme estimates upon their own abilities. Some are forever harping upon their own merits, and others with an equal lack of good sense, continually and persistently decry themselves. The former will fail through lack of co-operation denied by a disgusted people; the latter will fail through lack of energy to dare and do.

There is no class of professional men who can make more outside show upon less capital than teachers. Almost constantly associated with inferiors, and accustomed to authority, it is easy for them to pass into that state of hallucination which will suffer them to glory in their own greatness, and to grow into a belief that they are the embodiment of wisdom. Again, employed by men who look more to outside evidences of progress than to real and substantial growth, and feeling assured that their popularity must depend upon pleasing such men and flattering vain parents, they spend much time in preparing for holiday parades, and soon assume pompous airs while leading forth their little host in review. The eclat gained at such entertainments provokes the teacher to the belief that he has achieved a merited success, and his self-conceit is fattened. His forte is ascertained, and he grows only in that direction. The temptations are strong, and many, who might have been mighty, have fallen before them.

The opposite extreme is not as ridiculous or as blameworthy, but many a teacher failing to see immediate results is plunged at once into a slough of despond. He has mistaken his calling, and all labor therein becomes to him mere drudgery. A teacher of ordinary attainments, wishing to avoid these unhappy extremes, will modestly learn wisdom of others, and calm in the persuasion that he is laboring faithfully toward a right end in the right way, and by use of the right means, he patiently awaits results. One may dig deep in our Western prairies and find neither hazel nut nor acorn, and yet when fires are checked both oak and hazel bush appear. The true teacher well knows that when the fires of ignorance and superstition are kept off the cultivated mind, the seed planted there, though long and securely hidden, will germinate and grow to the blessing of mankind.

Intimately connected with the extreme views teachers take of their own ability will be found extreme views of the character of their work. But here the extremes all lie upon one side of what should be the golden mean. None can place too high an estimate upon the importance of this work. Many may fail to appreciate its value. One runs into the mad chase after physical culture as the ne plus ultra of education, and would make a giant with neither brain to direct to a proper use of the power gained, nor heart to be moved by sympathy with, or love for the many worthy objects in whose behalf this giant power should be used. Others, neglecting both body and heart, fill the brain with knowledge, which will be denied to all others and make of its possessor a selfish and dyspeptic misanthrope. Others toil at the heart of the pupil until they awaken there sympathy and love for the right and hatred for evil, but there is neither muscular power nor brain power to do what the pupil so keenly feels ought to be done, and in despair at the hopeless misery and incurable woes of this world the victim of mis-education either becomes a recluse in this wicked world, or hastens himself to some other, which he faintly hopes may prove a better world. The proper and happy blending of those three extremes will bring the teacher back to his true position. President Hill defines a child to be "a will governing a body under the impulse of passion, and under the guidance of reason." This definition suits my present purpose. From this it will appear that the passions (including the affections) and the will are of no less consequence than the reason, nor would either be of much worth except as connected with the body. The vessel propelled by wind needs both helm and master. The steamer with engine needs both pilot and rudder. Helm and master can be of little service to an unseaworthy ship. Engine, pilot and rudder may the sooner sink a rotten steamer. The body must be the first care of every sensible teacher. All exercises of the school room must have due regard to the body, without whose healthy action all other powers must prove of less avail, whatever their degree of culture.

And yet physical training alone will not cultivate the mind nor save the soul. A complete master of Lewis' light gymnastics may be an ignoramus or a rake, or both. The grace and beauty this system most surely develops, will but make the fool less respected, and the profligate more dangerous. No sensible teacher will therefore make it the end of his work, but will use it as a very efficient means to a higher and holier end, the intellectual and moral culture of the being who dwells in the body, and makes it for himself a comfortable home.

The will must be trained, not broken. The child with a broken will is a steamer with an exploded boiler. The breaking of the will as it is attempted, and sometimes accomplished, by the Squeers class of teachers, emasculates the child and makes him an inoffensive and useless nobody. The will needs training.

There is no passion to which the human heart is subject that has not its use. Anger, hatred and kindred passions are not necessarily malevolent. Their exercise may be an act of benevolence when brought to bear upon proper objects and in the right way. God, the embodiment of all goodness, is said to exercise hatred and anger. These passions need to be cultivated, not smothered. Much of the mischief of little children, and of the waywardness of older children, comes from an attempt on the part of the teacher to crush out of the child that which is a part of his nature.

Understanding the character of his work the teacher may still mistake the capacity of his pupils. Here are dangerous extremes to be avoided. In nothing connected with the teacher's work is there so much to call out the exercise of common sense as in the estimate he places upon the capacity of his pupils. Precocious children are urged forward into an overgrown imbecility, while those of less mental vigor are chided into almost listless idiocy. "Crack scholars" and "crack classes" are too often paraded before a wondering public by a teacher, when ambition gets the better of his sense. Pride, haughtiness and conceit are thus fostered. Those, whose only fault is that of a more natural development, whose minds grow slowly while the body is attaining its strength and vigor, are driven back into the shade from which they are never called forth to feel the sunlight of a smile, or the cheer of a kind word. They cannot, and of course will not try. One class burns out quickly, the other smoulders out, for in their deep retirement they are fanned by no breeze, and stirred by no ambition. Oft as I have seen a class sacrificed to the vain attempt to pull or push the majority into an even pace with the few marked ones, I have thought of the gardener, who wishing to save time and expense, planted some flower seeds with his pole beans, that the stalk might serve as a support to the climbing bean. True to its nature the bean coiled spirally about the stalk of perpendicular growth and its reliance upon the sun-flower proved its ruin.

for it had hardly fastened to its proud supporter before it was pulled up by the roots, and thus the more useful was sacrificed to the more showy.

While single individuals of any school may become great by the accident of station, the majority, and a very large majority, must be relatively small men. It is the wildest conceit in a teacher to see in every urchin before him a president or governor or congressman; and to be so possessed of this conceit as that his course shall be shaped toward a special fitting of these future magnates for their stations is the veriest folly. If, through fortune's freaks, any one of the whole number should be lifted into place and power, it is far better that his early training should have been such as to develop his goodness, his humility. The training of the child should have reference to the certainty of his manhood, rather than to the probability of his exaltation, to his actual rather than to his possible wants. Nor will he display a greater common sense, who, knowing that the large majority must be trained for ordinary duties, selects the few who are to be honored of men, and impresses upon them the sense of their importance. The embryo president, in the end, may prove a hungry waiter upon the table of his less promising schoolmate. Fortune will make a mock of all foolish predictions.

The true teacher will know no prodigies to laud, no dunces to berate. Convinced that minds differ, he will neither overtax the moderate, nor delay the non-active, but he will curb the child whose brain outruns the body, while he encourages, or it may be, goads the one whose body saps the brain. There is one extreme to which I must call attention in this connection. The mental digestive organs of our children must be of enormous size and power, if they prove adequate to the task imposed upon them by many of our extremists, who believe boys and girls of 13 can master, in the course of a few easy oral lessons, what the lifetime of Newton, of Cuvier, of La Place, Copernicus, of Prescott, and of other ripe scholars and thinkers was not sufficient for. In our mad haste to know the most of everything in the least possible time, we learn nothing well. While I admire the principle of oral instruction, and deem the introduction of what is called object teaching a great and desirable improvement, I would caution all against the extreme notion that this is the grand highway to knowledge, and that hereafter pupils have nothing to do but sit in luxurious coaches, while they are carried with railroad speed to the very summit of the hill of science.

Pestalozzi says: "The first object in education must be to teach the child to observe with accuracy; the second to express with correctness the result of his observations."

Both these objects require much long continued and patient labor for their attainment. No new systems of education will change in the least natural capacity, nor can we yet disprove the maxim, "there is no excellence without labor." Mind is about what it has been for centuries past. Methods have changed, but none have yet done away with the good gospel order of things—"first the blade, then the ear, then the full corn in the ear." I do not expect to live to see the time when mental perfection shall be the work of a day, or when mental activity shall no longer bear any relation to mental vigor. To accomplish anything one must labor. He may not tread the same road his fathers traversed, but his movements as well as theirs must be step by step. The hill of science has not been graded down, nor has the skill of man devised any easier route to its summit. The paths are more numerous and they are opened to more students, but each one who would reach the summit must toil as others have done before him. He who listens to pretty stories glibly told, or swallows crude ideas, sugar-coated that they may tickle the palate, and fancies that thus he is to be "borne on flowery beds of ease" to the end of his intellectual journey, will find himself still and forever at the foot of the hill. He must gird himself to the task before him. He may enjoy pleasant scenes, sniff sweet odors, taste luscious fruits, as he goes on, but he must himself go on if he would go up. That teacher who would persuade himself or his pupils that he can carry them around obstacles by a little object lesson detour, is a dangerous extremist. No part of the teacher's work requires so much hard study as that of preparation for giving a correct object lesson; such a lesson as shall impress truth upon the mind of the child in such a manner as to awaken his curiosity, to fire him with zeal in its pursuit, and to cultivate all his powers, by presenting and enforcing the necessity of their exercise. An object lesson should be so presented as not to satisfy the mind, but to awaken in it new thought, and thus lead it to more earnest seeking after truth. It should never diminish the labor of the student, but should demand greater labor and secure the supply of its demands through the interest awakened in the subject by its careful and proper presentation. Object lessons will not diminish the labors of the teacher, but will increase his labors, and those who expect an easier task because of the introduction of this principle into our system of education, may as well cease to aspire to the work of the teacher at once. I regard this method of instruction as valuable when properly viewed, and suitably prepared for, but as a very dangerous experiment in the hands of the unqualified, who attempt "to daub with untempered mortar." What shall be done? Shall it be thrown aside because effort must be made to prepare for it? No true teacher will for a moment listen to such a suggestion. Some will tire in the race and fall out. Some will prate noisily about some few qualities of objects, very improperly understood, and dream of success, but they will after a while awake to find it but a dream. Accept this improvement with a full purpose to make it an improvement. To accomplish this result you must spare no pains, shrink at no toil, yield to no discouragements, but press heartily and with single eye onward in the work you are determined to honor. In spite of the truth set forth by Dr. Holland in his letter to Thomas Arnold Jones, labor to make "the larger view of teaching and of education," the prevalent view. Read what Dr. Holland says:

"It is astonishing how almost universally it is the opinion that education consists in the cramming into a child's mind the contents of a pile of text books. I do not think that I exaggerate at all when I say that three quarters of the teachers of American youth practically consider fitness for teaching to consist in the ability to conduct recitations from the usual text books, and that three quarters of the people who have children to be educated regard education as consisting entirely in acquiring the ability to answer such questions as these teachers may propose from the text books in their hands. The larger view of teaching and of education is not the prevalent view. Teaching is conducted often by men who are not competent to do anything else. They take up teaching as a preparation for other work. A man teaches as a preparation for preaching—as a stepping stone to something better—as a means of earning money to enable him to learn enough to do some other work. “Fitness for teaching” seems to come a long time before fitness for anything else comes, and is certainly not regarded as indicating a very high degree of intellectual advancement.”

Mistaken views of a child's capacity lead to other extremes in the manner of imparting instruction. Some expect too much of children, others give them very little credit for any intellect. Some help too little, others too much. Some give strong meat to babes, others dilute very much the milk they should have. In the former case, the digestive organs are destroyed by having too much to do; in the latter, they are worn out in the vain chase after something they may do. While I have no love for, or desire to see, infant prodigies, incessant, small, baby talk disgusts me. Those, who under the fancied necessity of coming down to the capacity of children, use the silliest twaddle, are as much to be pitied for their folly, as the man who, in addressing an infant class, asked them for “an epitome of a discourse” they had heard, and then fearing that the word “epitome” might not be thoroughly understood by them, politely told them, that it was “synonymous with synopsis.”

Teachers should address children as if they had minds, but should remember, that they are children, whose minds as yet have little grasp. They should never use words that a child cannot understand, but may use words that a child does not understand if still within the reach of his comprehension.

But leaving manner of instruction let me glance at extremes in the matter taught. In this country everybody calculates. Calculation is with too many the end and aim of all education. You will find in the primary room calculi or small stones; a little farther on, the numeral frame and child's arithmetic; yet farther along, the slate and “ciphering book,” day books, journals and ledgers, algebras, geometries, and ending as you begin, with calculus the educated man becomes a calculating animal. This is well enough if you would make of a man an Arabic character or dollar mark. This I do not understand to be the design of our Creator, though, perhaps, some “cute Yankee” may think it would be a great improvement upon the original. This will serve as a sample of a class of extremists I would condemn, viz: hobby-riders. Whatever the name of their steed, they are narrow-minded extremists.

Here I may be met by the eminently practical man, who would teach nothing but that which may be immediately and directly used—the man of the Gradgrind stamp, who would neither paper walls nor carpet rooms, lest contrary to fact—flowers should be trodden under foot of men in sitting-rooms or parlors, or horses be found walking up and down the sides of rooms, or trees and houses be found standing there without support—the man made up of dry facts, hard, angular and repulsive.

God has given to all pupils fancy, imagination and curiosity. These are efficient helps in the pursuit of knowledge. They demand cultivation, or, it may be, restraint, but they should never be smothered under a dry load practicalness. Again, school hours are not sufficiently long to warrant the attempt to crowd the mind of the pupil with all the facts proper to be learned. It is better to give the more important or leading elementary facts, and so to awaken thought and excite curiosity, as to secure the acquisition of new facts after school days have ceased. Our text-books contain many things that are better forgotten than remembered. All contain much more than it is worth the while of any pupil to memorize. The least important often absorb the time that should be given to the more valuable. Avoid extremes here, for there is as much danger in discarding the book entirely, as in adhering to its every letter. The jewels must be selected from the mass—the things worth remembering selected—the things worth forgetting cast aside.

The road traveled repeatedly, becomes uninteresting to any one who has not his eyes and ears open. Some plod on in the same dull and prosy manner, year after year, with no new illustrations, repeating word for word the text-book used: others forgetting the past, rush after novelties till they leave entirely the path they should have trod, until they are lost in a wilderness boundless, monotonous and uninteresting. While it is absolutely necessary to preserve the same road, in the main, the teacher who would avoid extremes, will study out new attractions by the way, so that the same may appear to himself and his pupils a new way. It was my good fortune to listen to a course of lectures upon natural science, by a gentleman who had occupied the same place for more than forty years. He kept his heart young during this long period. His mind was ever fresh and lively. By close study, he kept pace with the advances made in each department of natural science, and came to successive repetitions of his annual course of lectures, with increased zest and interest. Long experience and practice had made his manipulations perfect, and I rejoiced often, as I heard him, that I was a member of his fiftieth rather than of his first class.

The field of natural science is perhaps better adapted than any other to the growth of the teacher, but there is no necessity for the tiller of any field becoming dwarfed and dried. Facilities for new illustrations multiply on every hand. The true teacher will seek for, appropriate and digest such food as he may find after diligent search.

Variety of illustration is demanded by different habits of thought, and he who uses no others than those furnished by the text book he adopts will fail to reach a large class of his pupils. Different minds reach the same result by different roads. Physicians adapt their medicines to the constitutional habits or the present physical condition of their patients. Quacks have one dose for every ailment, and each dose is pronounced a specific for every disease to which flesh falls heir.

In the discipline of the school, as well as in its instruction, there are extremes to be avoided. The relation of the teacher to his pupils should be neither that of an overbearing task master or overseer, nor yet of an eaves-dropper at watch. Nor should he allow his pupils the license so freely used by those who would only "be let alone." He must neither be cruel nor lax in discipline. Consistent firmness, tempered with kindness, will be his rule.

"A little knowledge of human nature is essential to the education of the morals, and to the deportment of the pupils. For the want of it, many a child has had his spirit chafed, his temper soured, and injury done to his disposition, which no knowledge acquired could compensate or atone for. It is one thing to govern a scholar, and quite another thing to lead the scholar to govern himself. It is one thing to subdue a child to right action by the rule, and another thing, by a little address, to lead him to choose that right action. The former educates his bad passions, making him impatient and malicious; the latter educates his better feelings in all that is lovely and of good report. The latter alone is education, in its only appropriate sense."

In all that pertains to the discipline of the school room, the order of good sense is, first what is right, then what is useful, then what is proper and, last of all, what is expedient. Whatever is right cannot but be useful and proper. Whenever but one course of action in any given case is right, that course is also expedient, and it is the only expedient course. When a choice may be made between several courses of conduct, either of which is absolutely right, then the most expedient may be the best. The philosophy that makes expediency the basis of right, and makes all virtuous action spring from policy, must inevitable fail to make men better. Those who have tried it have felt its fallacy. In all the work of a school room, the teacher of common sense will abide strictly by the right. From several right courses, he will select such as in general will best accomplish the end sought; from these he will choose such as are best adapted to the class of cases immediately before him, and between the proper courses he will decide upon that which will, in the particular case, most speedily produce the desired result.

The relation of the teacher to his patrons bears directly upon his success in the discipline of the school. He must be neither an outcast nor a meddler. He will neither assume nor presume. He will not show conceit nor undue familiarity. He will be neither pedantic nor uncouth. In all his intercourse with men he must be above others without impressing them with a sense of his superiority. "He may have more learning, but he certainly has less manners," was a remark I overheard a short time since, as I passed some workmen who were discussing the relative merits of two teachers.

The teacher should be a citizen in sympathy with those about him and conforming to the circumstances surrounding him. I cannot express, so well as is done by Dr Holland, what I would say upon this point. In his letters to Thomas Arnold Jones, from which I have before quoted, I find the following excellent advice:

"I wish to impress upon you the great truth that your excellence and success as a teacher depend entirely upon the style and strength of your manhood. The ability to maintain order in the school, and to conduct recitations, with measurable intelligence, is not extraordinary. It is possessed by a large number of people, but that higher power to which I have attempted to direct your attention is extraordinary. The teachers are not many who possess it, or who intelligently aim to win it. It is not a garment to be taken off like a coat, but it is the result of the loving contact of a generous nature with those great and beautiful realities of which the text books only present the dry definitions. The greatest naturalist of this country—perhaps the greatest of any country—is a teacher whose equal it would be hard to find among nations of teachers; and this is true, not because he knows so much, but because he is so much. No young mind can come within the reach of his voice and influence without being touched by his sublime enthusiasm. No pupil ever speaks of him, save with brightened or moistened eyes. I have heard women pronounce the name in many places, scattered between Maine and the Mississippi, and always in such terms of gratitude and praise that it seemed as if the brightest days which they recalled were not those of childhood, and not those spent with parents, or lovers, or husbands, but those passed at the feet of that noblest of educators and inspirers—Agassiz. Dr. Arnold was a great schoolmaster simply because he was a great man. His ‘fitness’ for hearing recitations was the smallest part of his fitness for teaching. Indeed, it was nothing but what he shared in common with the most indifferent of his assistants at Rugby. His fitness for teaching consisted in his knowledge of human nature and of the world, his pure and lofty aims, his self-denying devotion to the work which employed his time and power, his lofty example, his strong, generous, magnetic manhood. That which fitted him peculiarly for teaching was precisely that which would have fitted him peculiarly for any other office in the service of men.”

With the earnest labors of the teachers of Wisconsin I have been acquainted; of their self-sacrificing toil I have been a witness; to their devotion to their work I bear testimony, and yet I can find no more fitting advice than is comprehended in this brief sentence:

“The best way to improve one’s condition is to improve one’s self.”

To you, sir, my successor in the great work of superintending the educational interests of a noble state, I commit these interests most cheerfully, assured that your experience and your long familiarity with the work will correct the errors into which I may have fallen. And let me bespeak for you, though I need not do it, the sympathy and cooperation of those who have made my labors so pleasant during the time I have been connected with them.

Very Truly Yours,

J. L. PICKARD.

SCHOOL FUND.

By section 2, of article 10, of the Constitution, it is provided, that “the proceeds of all lands that have been or hereafter may be granted by the United States to this State, for educational purposes, (except lands heretofore granted for the purposes of a University,) and all moneys, and the clear proceeds of all property that may accrue to the State by forfeiture or escheat; and all moneys which may be paid as an equivalent for exemption from military duty; and the clear proceeds of all fines collected in the several counties for any breach of the penal laws; and all moneys arising from any grant to the State, where the purposes of such grant are not specified; and the five hundred thousand acres of lands; to which the State is entitled, by the provisions of an act Congress, entitled ‘an act to appropriate the proceeds of the sales of public lands, and to grant pre-emption rights,’ approved the fourth day of September, one thousand eight hundred and forty-one; and also the five per centum of the net proceeds of the public lands to which the State shall be entitled on her admission into the Union, (if Congress shall consent to such appropriation of the two grants last mentioned,) shall be set apart as a sepapate fund, to be called the School Fund."

By sections 24 and 25, chapter 29; and section 1, chapter 67, Revised Statutes, it is also provided, that twenty-five per cent. of the net proceeds of the lands granted by act of Congress, approved September 28, 1860, and all the purchase money for the lands selected by or under the authority of this State, in lieu of swamp and overflowed lands, sold or otherwise disposed of by the United States, since the passage of the aforesaid granting act, shall form a part of the School Fund.

It will be seen that the School Fund is derived from the following sources:

1. Every sixteenth section,
2. The 500,000 acres granted by act of of September 4, 1841.
3. Swamp lands, (one-fourth according to State law.)
4. Fines for breaches of penal laws.

The five per centum of the net proceeds of sales of public lands, to which the State was entitled upon its admission into the Union, has not yet been received. This sum has been withheld by the General Government, on account of claims against the State, growing out of the Rock River canal grant. This account, it is believed, will soon be adjusted and settled, the matter having been referred to the Commissioner of Public Lands, under direction of the Department of the Interior. The amount that ought to be realized from this source is about $260,000, subject to such claims as the Government may have against it.

The amount accruing to the School Fund from fines and forfeitures during the past year is but $1,483, 18. Some legislation would seem to be necessary, in order that the fund may not entirely lose what it ought to receive from this source. Every county treasurer should be required to keep an accurate account of all moneys paid to him on account of fines, penalties and forfeitures, separate and distinct from other accounts, and of the expenses deducted by the supervisors, as authorized by section 7, chapter 121, laws of 1859, and a statement in detail should be transmitted to the State treasurer accompanying the amount paid into the State treasury. An annual report of the condition of this account should be required from every county treasurer to the State treasurer, whether the expenses incurred by the county for prosecuting for fines, etc., exceed the receipts or not.

Sixteenth section lands and the 500,000 acre tract, have been mostly sold, the purchasers paying ten per cent. of the purchase money in advance, and receiving certificates of sale upon which seven per cent. annual interest must be paid in advance. By act of April 2, 1863, the Legislature changed the conditions of sale as follows:

SECTION 1. The commissioners of school and university lands are hereby authorized and required to graduate and reduce the prices of school and university lands now belonging to this State; in the manner hereinafter specified. Upon all such lands as have once been sold, and forfeited, and resold to the State, and which shall remain in the hands of the State unsold upon the day of the passage of this act, the price shall be reduced, by deducting from the price now fixed by law, the amount of the interest, penalties, and advertising due the State at the time of such re-sale, and twenty per cent. of the amount of principal due the State at the time of forfeiture: provided, that in no case shall such lands be sold for less than seventy-five cents per acre, exclusive of all taxes.

Sec. 2. Upon all school and university lands now belonging the State, which have once been offered for sale, and not sold; and which shall remain unsold on the day of the passage of this act, the price now fixed by law shall be reduced by deducting therefrom thirty-three and one-third per cent: provided, that in no case shall such land be sold for less than seventy-five cents per acre.

Sec. 8. At least one-fourth of the purchase money of all school and university lands shall be paid at the time of the sale thereof, and the commissioners may require the whole price thereof at the time of sale, if in their judgment the interests of the State shall demand it. In case full payment be made at the time of purchase, no affidavit shall be required of the purchaser.

Interest paid previous to the 31st day of May is by law made advance payment. Six months are allowed for redemption of lands forfeited for non-payment of interest, and a penalty of three per cent. upon the purchase money due is required of the holder of the certificate. At the expiration of the time allowed for redemption, the lands are offered for sale, and if no purchaser appears, they are bid in by the State.

Until 1862, all money received from sale of school lands, and one fourth of that received from sales of swamp and overflowed lands, with the proceeds of fines paid into the State treasury, and the three per cent. penalty for non-payment of interest, were loaned at seven per cent. interest in sums not exceeding $500 to one person. By act of March 28, 1863, it is provided that "The Commissioners of the school and university lands are hereby authorized and directed to invest, in preference to all other loans and investments, the principal of the school fund now in the treasury, or which may be hereafter paid in, in the bonds of the State of Wisconsin. Interest shall be paid on the funds so invested, at the rate of seven per centum per annum, on the thirty-first day of May, in each year; and a sum sufficient to pay such interest is hereby annually appropriated out of the State treasury for that purpose." Since March, 1863, the whole amount subject to loan has been invested in State bonds. Under existing arrangements the interest remains the same, the expense is diminished and there is no diminution of income from forfeitures.

The condition of the School Fund Sept. 30, 1864, was as follows:

Due on School Land Certificates.....	$861,217 57
Due on Loans secured by mortgage.....	571,135 90
Due on Loans to the State.....	620,000 00
Due on Swamp Land Loans and Certificates.....	66,070 09
Total fund on interest.....	$2,118,423 56

The productive school fund is affected by forfeitures and amount of loans. Forfeited lands, when bid in by the State, diminish the productive fund, but increase the non-productive funds and therefore lessen the income.

The following is a comparative statement of the interest bearing funds for 1863 and 1864 :

Due on School Land Certificates,.....	$1,173,242 59	$961,217 57
Due on mortgages and State bonds,.....	1,007,437 08	1,191,135 90
Due on Swamp Land Certificates and Loans,.....	81,786 54	66,070 09
Total productive fund,.....	$2,262,466 15	$2,118,423 56

There is, as appears from the above, a decrease of the interest bearing fund since the 30th of September of $144,042 59. In school land certificates there is a decrease of $312,025 01. This arises from an excess of forfeitures and payments over sales during the past year. In school fund loans there is an increase of $183,698 87. This amount shows the excess of payments of certificates and loans over forfeited loans. The decrease of $10,716 45 in swamp land certificates and loans arises from forfeitures and payments exceeding sales during the year.

The transactions in the Fund during the year, ending Sept. 30, 1864, are, according to the report of the Secretary of State, as follows :

The appropriation of $318 to the editor of the Journal of Education, from the school fund, was undoubtedly made by mistake, and will probably be refunded by the next Legislature.

The following statement, obligingly furnished by J. A. Bate, chief clerk in the school land office, shows the comparative amounts of land forfeited during the past two years :

SCHOOL FUND INCOME.

This fund consists of interest on certificates of sale, interest on loans secured by mortgage, interest on State bonds, and that portion remaining after deducting expenses for printing, clerk hire, protecting lands, appraising forfeited lands, etc., is annually apportioned, between the 10th and 15th days of June, to the counties of the State. Limited sales are usually caused by the same circumstances that lead to large forfeitures and thus the productive fund is diminished and the amount of income decreased.

The following statement shows the receipts and disbursements of the School Fund Income, for the year ending September 30, 1864.

The amount of the productive School Fund, in order to produce $155,-879 64, must have been during the last fiscal year, $2,219,709.

The amount apportioned, for any year, will therefore be found by multiplying the number of children reported the preceding year, by the number of cents apportioned that year. The number of dollars apportioned in 1864, is found by multiplying 320,965; the number reported for 1863, by 47, the amount per scholar for 1864.

COST OF INSTRUCTION.

The following table shows the average tax levied for school purposes per scholar; the amount expended for each person of school age, including the school fund income; and the amount expended for each scholar in attendance during the past fifteen years:

TRAVEL, &c.

Entering upon the duties of the office on the 1st of October last, I have found little time to spend in visiting different parts of the state. Time has been found, however, to attend teachers' institutes in Portage City, Waukesha and Burlington. Besides talking to the teachers during the day, evening addresses were delivered to the people in Waukesha and Burlington.

For an account of the work done during the first nine months of the year, reference may be made to the preceding communication from Mr. Pickard.

WEBSTER'S DICTIONARY.

By authority of Chapter 11, General Laws of 1864, there were bought two hundred copies of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary. Of these there have been distributed since the last report from this department one hundred and thirty-one, for which proper vouchers are on file in this office.

The following is a detailed statement of those distributed:

Since the last purchase was made there has been published a new edition of Webster's Dictionary by the publishers of the former edition, Messrs. C. & G. Merriam, of Springfield, Mass. There is little desirable and nothing attainable, that relates to the English language, not found in the new edition. In many respects it far surpasses the old, and is probably superior to any other English Dictionary yet published.

In order to meet applications from new districts, it is estimated that one hundred, in addition to those on hand, will be required.

TEXT BOOKS.

Uniformity of text books throughout the State, if desirable, is practically unattainable. By section 63, chapter 10, Revised Statutes, the State Superintendent is required "to recommend the introduction of the most approved text books, and as far as practicable to secure uniformity in the use of text books, in the common schools throughout the State." By section 63, chapter 155, Laws 1863, it is provided that "the Board in each school district shall have power, under the advice of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, to determine what school and text books shall be used in the several branches taught in the school of such district."

Where different series of text books, on the same subject, are in use in a school, it is obviously the duty of the District Board to adopt such books as will secure uniformity. Economy requires this. The Board ought to adopt such books as their judgment approves, and then require the teachers employed by them to use the books selected and no others. Much complaint is made on account of frequent changes, made without reflection and with no regard to the list recommended by this department. Interested parties, by plausible representations to teachers of little experience, and offers of new books for old, to District Boards, succeed in effecting changes that ultimately prove expensive, embarrassing and pernicious. When uniformity exists in a school there can seldom arise a necessity for a change. When changes become necessary for the good of the school, and the Board adopts such books as it deems to be best, notice should be given of its action throughout the district, and all persons, both parents and teachers, be required to conform to such action.

The following books have been examined, and they are recommended for the double object of securing uniformity, so far as practicable, and obtaining for our schools books believed to be adapted to their wants:

ORTHOGRAPHY.

WATSON'S Phonetic Tablets.

The National Pronouncing Speller.

Spelling should be taught in connection with every school exercise. Lessons can be selected by teachers from the reading books, or from any other book used at recitation.

WRIGHT'S Analytical Orthography.

SANDERS' Analysis.

These are useful in studying the elementary sounds as well as the parts of written words. As authority in spelling, pronunciation and definitions.

WEBSTER'S Unabridged Dictionary (edition 1864.) is earnestly recommended.

READING BOOKS.

McGUFFEY'S Readers.

PARKER and WATSON'S Readers.

SANDERS' Union readers.

These are extensively used and are of about equal merit.

WILSON'S School and Family Readers.

This series is somewhat novel in design and is in use in a few schools of the State. It is worthy of attention. An objection to all these series is that each contains from five to seven books. District boards will find it advantageous to select from different series four books as a series adapted to the wants of their respective schools. Two for the primary class, one for the more advanced and another for the highest class will answer for most of our district schools.

ARITHMETICS.

STODDARD'S Intellectual Arithmetic.

ROBINSON'S Practical Arithmetic.

RAY'S Higher Arithmetic.

PENMANSHIP AND BOOK KEEPING.

SPENCER'S Writing Books.

BRYANT & STRATTON'S Common School Book-Keeping.

BRYANT & STRATTON'S High School Book-Keeping.

HISTORIES.

GOODRICH'S First Book of History, (Peter Parley).

GOODRICH'S History of the United States.

WEBSTER'S Outlines of History.

History should be taught orally in every primary school, and in schools of every grade, where classes are not formed and formal instruction given.

GEOGRAPHIES.

MITCHELL'S Outline Maps.

PELTON'S Outline Maps.

WHITE'S Class Book of Geography.

The latter is designed to accompany the Outline Maps. Mitchell's maps are best adapted to the common schools, and Pelton's to the graded schools. No Primary Geography is named, as all instruction in this subject in the primary schools should be oral.

M McNALLY'S Geography.

MITCHELL'S Geography.

These are extensively used and adapted to common schools.

The Comprehensive Geography, (Allen and Shaw)

This work embraces all that can be taught on the subject in most schools, and is worthy the attention of District Boards.

ENGLISH GRAMMARS.

GREENE'S Grammar.

BROWN'S Grammar.

These are generally used and nothing will be gained by exchanging them for any other book on the subject.

KERL'S Grammars. (Elementary and Comprehensive)

These are not much used, having been recently published. These not having adopted either of the others, will find these books well adapted for the common or graded schools of the State.

No primary work is recommended. Children should learn to spell correctly. Language should be learned in the primary schools, but its science cannot be taught there.

COMPOSITION.

LILIENTHAL'S Things Taught.

QUACKENBOS' Composition.

WILLSON'S Treatise on Punctuation.

NATURAL SCIENCE, ETC.

WELLS' Natural Philosophy.

STOCKHARDT'S Chemistry.

LOOMIS' Physiology.

GRAY'S Botany.

OLMSTED'S Astronomy. (Common School Edition).

LOOMIS' Geology.

WARREN'S Physical Geography.

WAYLAND'S Political Economy.

MATHEMATICS.

RAY'S Algebra.

ROBINSON'S Geometry and Trigonometry.

OLMSTED'S Natural Philosophy. (University Edition).

ROBINSON'S Astronomy. (University Edition).

MENTAL AND MORAL SCIENCE.

WAYLAND'S Intellectual Philosophy.

“ Moral Science.

WEATLEY'S Logic.

Cooley's Moral Lessons is recommended to teachers of all grades of schools, as suggestive as well as instructive.

LANGUAGE.

ANDREWS and STODDARD'S Latin Grammar.

KUNNER'S Greek Grammar.

WOODBURY'S German Course.

FASQUALL'S French Course.

BOOKS OF REFERENCE.

WEBSTER'S Unabridged Dictionary, (Edition 1864).

FOWLER'S English Grammar.

TRENCH'S Study of Words.

LIPPINCOTT'S Gazetteer of the World.

URB'S Dictionary of Arts.

ANTHON'S Classical Dictionary.
 APPLETON'S Cyclopaedia of Biography.
 CHAMBERS' Encyclopedia; or,
 APPLETON'S New American Cyclopaedia.

BOOKS FOR TEACHERS.

Wisconsin Journal of Education.
 BARNARD'S Papers for the Teacher.
 PAGE'S Theory and Practice of Teaching.
 EMERSON'S School and Schoolmaster.
 CALKINS' Object Lessons.
 LEWIS' Gymnastics.
 HERBERT SPENCER on Education.

STATE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

The association held its twelfth annual meeting at Milton, November 15th, 16th and 17th. Charles H. Allen, Professor of Normal Instruction, Wisconsin University, presided.

The subjects discussed were:

Examination of Teachers.
 Course of study in Common Schools.

Importance and place of Oral Teaching.

History and Political Education in Schools, and Education of the orphan children of soldiers.

Addresses were delivered by Hon. J. L. Pickard, Superintendent of Schools, Chicago; and by others.

The attendance was large, and the spirit of those present, as shown by the discussions and resolutions, was of the right kind.

Resolutions were passed recommending the study of History and Political Science in our schools, and urging the State to make provision for the education and support of the destitute children of soldiers, who have died in the present war.

This educational agency, receiving no aid from the state, unobtrusive yet powerful in its influence, aiming to promote knowledge, patriotism and virtue, controlled by no sect or party and yet encouraged by all, is deserving of substantial support and hearty cooperation.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTES.

This simple and economical agency has been efficiently used during the past year, for promoting the improvement of teachers and exciting an interest in education among the people. Until a State Normal School is organized, it is upon these meetings of teachers that we must rely.

County superintendents have held institutes in many of the counties, and in some the sessions have been several weeks in length. The board of Normal School Regents have, by their agent, held institutes in Oconto, Appleton, Plover, Portage City, Waukesha and Burlington. These were designed for the teachers residing in the counties nearest the places where the institutes were held, and they were continued, in most cases, for two weeks. The attendance, though not so large as in former years, was such as to encourage the board in their efforts to improve the schools by furnishing them with better qualified teachers.

The plan upon which institutes are conducted is the same as that usually followed in other states. They are organized by the appointment of a Chairman, Secretary and business Committee, and the daily sessions commence at nine and close at five, with two hours' intermission. The conductor of the institute selects some subject from those branches taught in our public schools, explains it, suggesting the best methods of teaching it and the mistakes most frequently made in presenting it in the school room, and then answers such questions as those in attendance may wish to ask concerning it. A discussion of it follows, when all present have an opportunity of presenting their views of the subject and of what has been said upon it.

Classes are formed, and the exercises are made to conform to those of a well regulated school. Different teachers are, from time to time, appointed to conduct recitations and to drill classes, and the mistakes noticed are mentioned, and thus the institute is made to subserve the purpose of a normal school. The common branches are reviewed, questions are answered, propositions are demonstrated and problems of a difficult nature are solved. Subjects relating to the science of teaching are examined. The proper course of study for our public schools; the best classification of scholars; the means of preventing tardiness and securing regularity; the moral instruction of the young; the duty of teaching them to respect and obey the laws of the land; the method of securing the cooperation of parents in the education of their children; the arrangements essential to health; the comparative merits of mixed and graded schools; the relation of the teacher to the state; these and similar topics are discussed during the day, and the evenings are spent in attending lectures upon topics having a bearing upon the great subject of public instruction.

All exercises of the institute are public, and the sessions are generally attended by the people who feel an interest in our common schools.

If our schools have not retrograded during the past three years, if they are at present in a prosperous condition, it must be attributed mainly to the Institutes held by the county superintendents, and the board of Normal School Regents; and so efficient has this educational agency proved, that it is believed some provision for meeting the necessary expenses for fuel, lights, printing, instruction, etc., is called for by the vital need of better trained teachers for our common schools.

The efficiency of these institutes would be promoted by a more general cooperation on the part of district boards in securing the attendance of teachers employed by them. It is earnestly recommended that teachers be allowed to dismiss their schools and required to attend the institute held in their neighborhood. The loss of time will be compensated by increased efficiency on the part of the teacher. Hospitality on the part of the people, and a generous cooperation with the county superintendent, are always needed, that the expenses for board may not be such as to render it impossible for teachers to attend.

COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES.

These institutions form so important a part of our educational system, that it is to be regretted that so little information concerning them is in possession of this office. It is known, however, that they are extending their influence, improving their methods of instruction, and increasing their facilities for that culture of a high order, than which nothing is more needed in our state. It is hoped that the fact begins to be recognized, that their efficiency will be promoted by diminishing rather than increasing their number. Some of them are still doing the work that ought to be done in our common schools, to the detriment of the colleges themselves as well as the cause of public education.

While the line between the academy and the high school cannot be plainly drawn, as they are really schools of the same grade, that between the high school and the college ought to be well defined. While allowance must be made for the circumstances attending the founding of a college in a new state, there should be apparent each year an increased effort to raise it above the level of the common school, and it would seem that the time has now come in our state, when the college curriculum should no longer embrace the branches strictly primary.

The relation between the common school and the college is one of mutual dependence, and that state shows most practical wisdom that cherishes both with equal care.

THE TOWNSHIP SYSTEM.

The discussions at teachers' institutes and in the State Teachers' Association during the past five years, have generally led to expressions of opinion in favor of the system of school organization recommended by my predecessor in the last annual report from this office. County Superintendents in their special reports, with two or three exceptions, approve of the township system, and the friends of education throughout the state seem to be of opinion that some modification of our present district organization is desirable.

As this subject was ably discussed in the report of last year, it seems unnecessary to reiterate the reasons there given for a change in the law, but the plan there proposed was the result of extended observation and reflection, and is therefore worthy of legislative consideration.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL.

During the past seven years, the Board of Normal School Regents have sought to secure normal training and instruction, by aiding such institutions as have organized normal departments, and by holding teachers' institutes in different parts of the state. The number of departments at present organized, is seven; and the number of students examined during the present year, is less than seventy. Sufficient time has elapsed since the present plan was adopted, to show that the ostensible objects of the law are unattainable under the provisions of the act. Our experience has not been unlike that of other states, in their efforts to organize normal schools in connection with colleges and academies. No fault attaches to the Regents of Normal Schools, nor to the trustees of the institutions participating in the annual appropriation. The plan is defective. It makes the normal department subordinate, and does not provide for special training of teachers.

Teachers' institutes have been more successful. But they are adapted rather to awaken interest among the people, and to lead to the adoption of the best methods of instruction, than to secure mental discipline and self control, and develop the ready sympathy, the sound judgment and rare tact so necessary to the teacher. These can be acquired and developed only under the favorable conditions afforded by a properly organized normal school.

The amount expended in support of our public schools, annually, is more than one million of dollars. The manner in which this large sum is used, depends principally upon the character of the teachers employed. If they are poorly qualified, the money is misdirected, the time of our children wasted, and those results our schools were designed to secure, are unattained.

The experience of every country proves the normal school a necessary part of a well devised and successful system of education. Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Michigan, Illinois, California and Minnesota, have normal schools in successful operation, and even Kansas has founded one, while no country of Europe is without them.

Teaching is an art, and like every other art, it is best learned by cultivating it in schools founded for this specific purpose. If the profession of the teacher is not regarded by those engaged in it, as well as by the public, as being honorable the community suffers in one of its most important interests. The worst results must inevitably follow from regarding instruction as a business that requires no special preparation.

Much, and even most, of the benefit that should be derived by our children from their attendance at school, is lost from want of previous training on the part of our teachers. A large portion of our youthful population can attend school but a small part of the year. To them good instruction is invaluable. A few months attendance, if guided by a teacher possessed of skill, is worth more than years spent in schools controlled by those who have no special fitness for their important calling.

Legislation can commit no greater blunder than to ignore the claims of the school upon the state. Order, industry, frugality, honesty, all the virtues that preserve people and adorn humanity spring from our schools, and to invigorate them, by fitting teachers for them, is an obvious dictate of patriotism, prudence and common sense.

The present is believed to be not an inauspicious time to inaugurate the enterprise of founding a normal school. We must abandon the idea of making educational progress until this step is taken. To obtain competent instructors for our children under existing circumstances, is simply impossible. No investment can be made from which the returns will be speedier or surer. We must improve our common schools or enlarge our reform school. Indeed, no other measure so commends itself to a wise forecast and calm reflection. Were our public schools managed with proper care, and provided with suitable teachers, all other institutions of learning would receive a new impulse. Those States that have established normal schools have also prosperous colleges and universities, while those destitute of them have failed to realize the benefits that ought to be derived from higher institutions of learning. The cause is obvious. Hence, those most interested in collegiate and university education, because most clearly understanding its transcendent importance, are the warmest advocates of schools for the special training of teachers.

The subject is respectfully and earnestly commended to the attention of the Legislature.

GENERAL REMARKS.

That our schools have not retrograded during the past year, that the people show an increased interest in the education of the youth of the state, that teachers are better qualified and more successful, and that knowledge and virtue are gaining the ascendancy over ignorance and vice, may be asserted and perhaps proved. Still, those who observe most carefully the condition of our educational institutions, and understand most clearly their relation to the welfare of the state, are not without misgivings that they come short of affording that security for the future of our country which patriotism demands. There is an indifference in regard to the methods of instruction, an apathy concerning the means of education, that bodes evil to society. The means and methods adapted to our condition a few years since, will not meet the demands of the present. The last five years have called into exercise forces that had before lain dormant. War has developed energies that can be useful only as they can be controlled. To be satisfied with the educational agencies of the past is to be blind to the teachings of the present, and reckless of the claims of the future.

Although no radical changes in our school law are deemed advisable at the present time, yet, it is believed that our whole school system must be modified before many years to meet the demands of a change in society that could not be anticipated when the present system was devised. The terrible ordeal through which our country is passing has shown a necessity for a far more comprehensive plan of education than our laws embraced.

Our great need at this time is better teaching. This subject has been already discussed. Such legislation as will secure greater local interest and more direct supervision is much to be desired. The county superintendency is a step in the right direction, and but a step. There is required for every town an organization that shall bring its schools under such control as will secure a better classification of schools, a more economical administration of school affairs, a more careful selection of school officers, and the appointment of better qualified teachers. It would seem that the time a school is required to be taught, in order to entitle the district to share in the apportionment of the School Fund Income, should be lengthened. Power should be given the people to raise more money at their annual school meetings, for building school houses, than can now be raised.

Whatever measures the wisdom of the Legislature may devise to awaken interest in education, to remove distrust from the minds of the people, and inspire confidence in our common schools, must be beneficent. To provide for the children of the state a generous culture, to train them for liberty and usefulness as citizens, to implant in their minds a love of temperance, order and all the virtues that become a free people, are the objects that legislation should aim to secure. Happily our common schools are removed from the arena of party conflicts and sectarian contention. Around them cluster our hopes of future progress and security. They underlie the welfare of the State, and well deserve the fostering care of the representatives of the people.

Respectfully submitted,

JNO. G. McMYNN.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE ADJUTANT GENERAL OF THE STATE OF WISCONSIN

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS STATE OF WISCONSIN,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,

Madison, Dec. 31, 1863.

To His Excellency, JAMES T. LEWIS—

Governor of the State of Wisconsin:

SIR:—I have the honor to submit, for your consideration and the information of the legislature, the following report of the transactions of this department for the past year; in the preparation of which I purposely omit, as heretofore, any portion of the correspondence between the War Department and this office relative to, and also the minutes, in the organization of troops for the General Government, your Excellency being already familiar with these matters, and presuming that a general review and recapitulation of the results attending our endeavors, and the manner in which we, as a state, have met the demands upon our patriotism, together with a historical sketch of our regiments in the field, will be of a more satisfactory character to both the Executive and the Legislature.

REGIMENTS IN THE SERVICE NOV. 1, 1863.

At the date of my last Annual Report, there were in the volunteer service of the United States the following organizations from Wisconsin, to wit:

The First, Second, Third, and from the Fifth to the Thirty-third regiments, inclusive,—total, thirty-two regiments of infantry; and twelve

Four regiments and one company of cavalry; and two hundred and eleven

Twelve Batteries Light Artillery; and one hundred and twenty-two Three battalions of heavy artillery; and one hundred and twenty

One company (G) sharpshooters; and one hundred and twenty Gibson's brigade band; and one hundred and twenty

Numbering for service, twenty-four thousand eight hundred and twelve

The Fourth regiment had been, during the year, by order of the War Department, changed to a cavalry regiment, and the Thirty-fourth (nine months) regiment had been mustered out upon expiration of term of service, August 17, 1863.

RECRUITING SERVICE.

The opening of the current year did not present a flattering prospect to the volunteering service. The draft under the call of July, 1863, was not yet completed, and for the time there was a disposition to abide its results in determining who should serve; a feeling which had been engendered and increased among the people by the action of the War Department in the disposition of credits of volunteers claimed prior to October 12, 1863.

There were then recruiting in the state, the Thirty-fifth Infantry, the Thirteenth Battery of Light Artillery, and Battery D. of Heavy Artillery, all of which were completed and mustered into the United States service early in the present year, and of which further mention will be found in the historical record.

It will be remembered that under the provisions of field order No.—, by authority of (the then) Maj. Gen. Grant, dated November 4, 1862, the Sixteenth Wisconsin was consolidated into five companies, owing to its greatly reduced numbers in the early and many severe engagements it encountered. The policy of the general government having soon after been changed in the disposition of regiments of this character, and this being the only Wisconsin regiment in which the order was enforced, measures were taken, and the consent of the War Department obtained November 25, 1863, for recruiting five companies and reorganization of the regiment. The companies were forwarded as fast as completed, the last one leaving the state in the month of October, and the regiment was thereby restored to a minimum.

The call of the President of the United States, February 1, 1864, for five hundred thousand volunteers, including the prior call for three hundred thousand, and giving credits to sub-districts for all recruits obtained under the draft just completed, to apply thereon, brought also authority for the organization of new regiments, and new life to the recruiting service. This was greatly increased in the state by the order of your Excellency, February 10th, directing the organization of the Thirty-sixth regiment of Infantry, and the appointment of the gallant, now lamented, Haskell to the command. The prestige of his name and brilliant career, soon brought to his standard a maximum regiment which, with but a short delay in the state to receive arms, was on the 20th of May, brigaded in the army of the Potomac, and at the extreme front.

The peculiar fortunes of this regiment lead me to deviate from the usual course of the report to briefly note their experience. On the 26th of May, within less than twenty days from their leaving the State, companies H and K formed part of the line of skirmishers, with a loss of fourteen men, near Sexton's Junction; June 1st they were in the charge at Turner's Farm, and June 3d in the general engagement at Cold Harbor, where, with so many of his regiment, their brave Colonel was killed by the bullet of a rebel sharpshooter, while forming the brigade of which he had commanded. On the 7th of June the total loss of the regiment in killed, wounded and missing to that date was two hundred and thirty-four. On the 18th following, Lieut. Col. Savage fell in action mortally wounded, and Major Brown severely. On the 14th of August, Lieut. Col. Warner lost an arm, and Major Hamilton was severely wounded in the face, and on the 28th of the same month the balance of the regiment present for duty, numbering near one hundred and sixty officers and men, under command of a line officer, were more than three-fourths captured in the action at Resin's Station. Thus, the regiment which left the State on the 10th of May, nine hundred and ninety in numbers, had, in one hundred days, lost of its field officers two killed and three so severely wounded as to be incapacitated for duty for months, and was for a time itself reduced to a mere squad. Stragglers and convalescents have since joined the command, and there were present for duty November 1st, two hundred and four.

No regiment has in so short a time encountered such dangers and losses—none borne itself more gallantly or won a prouder name.

The Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth regiments of infantry were also authorized on the 7th and 8th of March.

Meanwhile recruiting for old regiments continued briskly, and until the announcement by the Secretary of War that the quota of Wisconsin was full under the calls of February and March, when, the immediate incentive being removed, recruiting ceased almost entirely, leaving the Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth with less than half a regiment each.

A subsequent order of the War Department, directed the assignment of two companies of drafted men, on duty at Camp Randall, to the Thirty-seventh, and the organized companies of each regiment were ordered to the front under command of the Lieutenant-Colonels. Colonels Harriman and Bintliff were directed to remain for the recruitment of the regiments, which was accomplished under circumstances reflecting much credit upon those officers.

Under the call of the President of July 18, 1864, for 500,000 volunteers of one, two or three years' term of service, the Forty-second, Colonel E. T. Sprague; the Forty-third, Colonel Amasa Cobb; the Forty-fourth Colonel Geo. G. Symes, and the Forty-fifth infantry, Colonel H. F. Belitz, have been authorized. The two first are completed and at the front. The last two are yet recruiting—the Forty-fourth with five companies, and the Forty-fifth with four companies at the front under command of a Lieutenant-Colonel.

Upon the return of the non-veterans of the Fifth regiment of Infantry, whose three years term of service expired July 3d of the present year, three companies of re-enlisted veterans of the regiment were left at the front, and upon request of your Excellency, authority was given by the War Department to recruit seven companies for the regiment, and the colonelcy was again tendered to Colonel T. S. Allen, under whose command, for the past two years, the old Fifth had won immortal honors. The order directing its reorganization was issued on the 8th day of August, and on the second of October the seven companies, numbering twenty-six officers and five hundred and ninety-six enlisted men, left Camp Randall for the front, in command of Colonel Allen.

On the 19th of August, authority was also given by the War Department, to recruit the First Battalion of Heavy Artillery to a regiment, and recruiting appointments were immediately issued to secure this result. This being a favorite arm of the service, recruits were rapidly mustered, and as fast as organized into companies, were forwarded to the battalion at Fort Lyon, Virginia, (near Washington). The regimental organization is now complete under the colonelcy of Chas. C. Meservey, formerly Major of the battalion.

Of the foregoing organizations—all authorized or completed subsequent to the call of July 18th—are composed mainly of one years' men; while those completed prior to that date are made up of three years' men exclusively. The term of service and number of each constituting the several regiments, will be found in Schedule D, appended to this report.

VETERAN RE-ENLISTMENTS.

Under orders of the War Department, dated June 25, 1863, authority was given for Veteran re-enlistments of "all able bodied men between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, who have heretofore been enlisted and have served not less than nine months," with payment of bounty and premiums amounting to four hundred and two dollars, and credit of such re-enlistment as three years' men in the quota of their respective States. Proper blanks were forwarded from this office to the commanding officers of Wisconsin regiments to secure such re-enlistments. Returns were not received in time to give the result in my last report. They were subsequently received, and give a most gratifying evidence of the unwearied patriotism of our soldiers.

The following table exhibits the number of re-enlistments in each organization up to November 1st of the present year, and for which number the several sub-districts of the State entitled, have received credit under the calls of the present year, to wit:

The above table includes all the organizations from this State whose term of service permitted re-enlistment, and it will be seen that all responded in greater or less numbers. All entitled have returned to the State during the year to enjoy a veteran furlough—the 18th being the last, and just arrived after a patient waiting of some eight months, during which time it has taken active part in the "one hundred days" from Chattanooga to Atlanta, and in the heroic defence of Allatoona, on the memorable 5th of October.

It should be borne in mind that the voluntary action of these men in re-enlisting, lessened the number by just so many in the State, who would have been volunteered or drafted to fill our quota under the calls of February 1st and March 14th, and that if any are entitled to special consideration these are the men. After the sharp experiences of the hardships and the perils of war, and the lengthened absence from the comforts of home, no ordinary degree of patriotism or luke-warm devotion will prompt men voluntarily to enlist for a second term, nothing but a love of the cause they fight to uphold, can animate them, or induce such personal sacrifice.

It is probable that most of these veterans received substantial tokens of recognition from the localities to which they were credited. This should be so, and if any sub-districts have availed themselves of such credits without proper recognition, they should make haste to show it.

ONE HUNDRED DAY SERVICE.

On the 21st of April the following proposition was submitted to the President of the United States, tendering the extra service of troops from the States therein represented, for the term of one hundred days:

WAR DEPARTMENT,

Washington City, April 21, 1864.

To the President of the United States :

I. The Governors of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin offer to the President, infantry troops for the approaching campaign, as follows :

Ohio	30,000
Indiana	20,000
Illinois	20,000
Iowa	10,000
Wisconsin	5,000

II. The term of service to be one hundred days, reckoning from the date of muster into the service of the United States, unless sooner discharged.

III. The troops to be mustered into the service of the United States by regiments, when the regiments are filled up, according to regulations, to the minimum strength. The regiments to be organized according to the regulations of the War Department. The whole number to be furnished within twenty day from date of notice of the acceptance of this proposition.

IV. The troops to be clothed, armed, equipped, subsisted, transported and paid as other United States infantry volunteers, and to serve in fortifications, or wherever their services may be required, within or without their respective states.

V. No bounty to be paid the troops, nor the service charged or credited on any draft.

VI. The draft for three years' service to go on in any State or district where the quota is not filled up; but if any officer or soldier in this special service should be drafted, he shall be credited for the service rendered.

A. LINCOLN.

April, 22d. 1864.

The proposition having been accepted, General Orders, No. 11, was issued from this office, directing the State militia organizations to be made the basis of four regiments should they tender their services. So few companies were found to contain a sufficient number of men fitted for active service, that the former plan of recruiting by appointments was adopted. The limited time in which to complete the organization compelled the consolidation of companies and squads early in June, into two regiments and one battalion.

To prevent numerical confusion in the regiments from the State they were designated as the 39th, 40th and 41st regiments, Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry, those being next in numerical order at the time of their organization.

So far as possible, the field officers of the State Militia were assigned to the command of these regiments, those officers having exerted themselves successfully in recruiting these troops.

Col. E. L. Buttrick, of the First W. S. M., was appointed Colonel of the Thirty-ninth. Col. W. A. Ray, of the Third W. S. M., Colonel of the Fortieth; and Lieut. Col. Geo. B. Goodwin, of the Second W. S. M., Lt. Colonel commanding the Forty-first.

The regiments left the State on the 13th, 14th and 15th of June for Memphis, Tenn., where, upon their arrival, the 39th and 41st were brigaded with similar troops from Iowa, under the command of Col. Buttrick—the 40th being assigned to a similar brigade in the same vicinity.

This term and manner of service was designed to furnish an opportunity to those whose duties prevented enlistment for long terms of service, but who, through this means, and thus relieving veteran troops from posts and fortifications, might thereby take active part in suppressing the rebellion, and share in the glory of a successful campaign. The character of the regiments was in some degree peculiar. Five Wisconsin colleges and universities were largely represented in these regiments. At least two companies of the 41st being made up almost wholly from the State university, Beloit and Appleton colleges. Clerks and professional men were freely interspersed with representatives of every calling. The term of service expired and regiments returned to the State Sept. 15th to 17th for muster out. A regimental history of each organization will appear in its proper place in this report. Their services were recognized by the President and State Executive, in the following order:

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS OF WISCONSIN,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE.

Madison, Oct. 7, 1864.

General Orders No. 25:

I. In publishing the following order from the President of the United States, the Governor, in behalf of the State, desires to add thereto an expression of thanks to the volunteers constituting the "one hundred day" regiments, for their alacrity in responding to the call for this special service, and for their efficient and faithful performance of a duty which has contributed to such grand results, reflecting such honor upon themselves and the State, and which is thus gratefully acknowledged by the Chief Executive of the nation:

"EXECUTIVE MANSION,

WASHINGTON CITY, D. C., October 1, 1864.

"Special Executive order returning thanks to the Volunteers for one hundred days, from the States of Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin:

"The time of one hundred days, for which volunteers from the States of Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin volunteered, under the call of their respective Governors, in the months of May and June, to aid in the recent campaign of Gen. Sherman, having expired, the President directs an official acknowledgment to be made of their patriotic services. It was their good fortune to render efficient service in the south-west, and to contribute to the victories of the national arms over the rebel forces in Georgia under command of Johnston and Hood; and on all occasions and in every service to which they were assigned their duty as patriotic volunteers was performed with alacrity and courage, for which they are entitled, and are hereby tendered the national thanks, through the Governors of their respective States.

"The Secretary of War is directed to transmit a copy of this order to the Governors of Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin, and to cause a certificate of their valuable services to be delivered to the officers and soldiers of the States above named who recently served in the military force of the United States as volunteers for one hundred days."

(Signed)

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

II. The certificates alluded to are now being prepared by the Adjutant General of the Army, and will be properly distributed upon their receipt by the Executive of the State.

By order of the Governor.

AUG. GAYLORD, Adjutant General.

COLORED TROOPS.

Whatever prejudice may have existed in the minds of the people against the employment of colored troops, it has fast given way if it be not now everywhere extinct. Aside from arguments of expediency and necessity, the exhibitions of moral courage and heroic devotion, forgetful of the wrongs and obloquy of the past, unflinching in the face of an enemy with whom, if spared the casualties of battle, capture was certain death, have compelled the admiration of their fiercest opponents. Authority was received from the War Department in October, 1863, to raise a regiment, battalion, or company of colored troops, and a public order was made to that effect; but owing to the sparseness of colored population in this State, there was little encouragement to any white officer to undertake the raising of even a company. No active exertions were therefore made until early in the present year. Col. John A. Bross, of Chicago, having been appointed Colonel of the Twenty-ninth United States colored infantry, opened one or two recruiting stations in this State, and recruited some two hundred and fifty men for his regiment, for whom this State receives credit from the General Government.

There being no further record of this regiment with the State Department, the following brief sketch of their action is here appended in justice to the men of this State who bravely shared the fortunes of the regiment.

The organization was completed and left camp of rendezvous at Quincy, Illinois, April 26th, arriving at Washington May 1st, was brigaded at Camp Casey with a colored regiment from New York, and Colonel Bross assigned to the command.

About the middle of June the brigade was sent to City Point, from which place, after two weeks of guard duty, it was sent to the front at Petersburg, and joined the Second Brigade, Third Division, Ninth Army Corps, commanded by Maj. Gen. Burnside, June 30, 1864.

The mine was sprung, and Col. Bross was ordered to move forward with his regiment. Leading his men, who were now for the first time under fire, he is said to have charged farther within the enemy's lines than any other regiment on that occasion.

Seeing the utter hopelessness of carrying the enemy's works on Cemetery Hill, Col. Bross gave orders to his regiment to retire, and catching the colors of his regiment was about to turn when he was struck with a Minie ball in the temple and fell dead, enwrapped in the flag. The regiment retreated through a perfect storm of shot and shell, to the crater, losing in this action most of its officers and nearly two hundred enlisted men in killed, wounded and missing.

I respectfully recommend that the act providing aid from the war fund for families of soldiers from this State be so amended as to include the volunteers in this and other colored regiments. They are in the immediate service of the United States, and not being in a State organization they are thereby deprived of the benefits accruing from this fund. Their position differs from white volunteers in the regular service from this State in the fact that there are no colored State organizations, and if they go into the service at all, they must perforce go into the United States regiments. It therefore appears to me but a simple act of justice to extend to them such benefits as may accrue to their families through the war fund.

MUSTER OUT OF REGIMENTS.

During the year past, besides the one hundred day troops, the term of three years' service of the non-veterans has expired, in the following organizations from this State, to-wit: The first twelve regiments of infantry, First and Fourth Regiments and one company of cavalry, one company (G) of sharpshooters, the first ten batteries of light artillery and Battery "A" of heavy artillery.

These regiments and companies having completed their original term of service, their history as such is also complete; the remaining portions of the regiment being hereafter known as veteran organizations.

It would have been proper and desirable to have published the names of all the members of the regiments, with an individual history of each.

This would have been done, had the proper returns been received from the Commissaries of Muster, and will yet, if received in time, be appended to the report.

The present status of the several organizations at the last date of information is as follows:

The re-enlisted veterans and recruits of the First Infantry are assigned to the Twenty first Infantry.

Those of the Second Infantry are assigned to the Sixth Regiment.

The Third Infantry constitutes a veteran regiment.

The Fifth Infantry reorganized as a veteran regiment.

The Sixth Infantry constitutes a veteran regiment.

The Seventh Infantry constitutes a veteran regiment.

The Eighth Infantry constitutes a veteran regiment.

The Ninth Infantry constitutes a veteran regiment.
 The Tenth Infantry are assigned to the Twenty-first regiment.
 The Eleventh Infantry constitutes a veteran regiment.
 The Twelfth Infantry constitutes a veteran regiment.
 The Thirteenth Infantry constitutes a veteran regiment.
 The First Cavalry reorganized.
 The Fourth Cavalry constitutes a veteran regiment.
 The Veteran Sharpshooters are assigned to other companies in the Second regiment.
 Of the Light Artillery organizations and the Milwaukee Cavalry, I have no information showing their present position, except that the Seventh maintains a veteran organization.
 The veterans of Company A, Heavy Artillery, remain with the regiment lately recruited to a maximum.

REGIMENTS IN SERVICE, AND WHERE SERVING.

The total number of regiments and batteries now serving in the Federal army are, thirty-seven regiments of infantry, four regiments of cavalry, thirteen batteries of light artillery, and one regiment (12 batteries) heavy artillery.

These were, at date of last monthly returns, in the following given localities :

Third, Twelfth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Twenty-first, Twenty-second, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-sixth, Thirty-first, Thirty-second Infantry, and Fifth, Eighth, Tenth and Twelfth Batteries of Light Artillery, with Gen. Sherman at Savannah, Georgia.

Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth Infantry, and Second and Fourth Batteries of Light Artillery, in the Army of the Potomac Nineteenth Infantry in the Army of the James.

Eleventh Battery of Light Artillery in the Army of West Virginia.

Batteries A, E, F, G, H, I, K, L, and M, of First Heavy Artillery, in the defences of Washington.

Eighth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Eighteenth, Twenty-fourth, Thirty-third, Forty-third, Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth Infantry, Third and Sixth Batteries of Light Artillery, and Battery C, First Heavy Artillery, with Gen. Thomas.

Eleventh and Twentieth Infantry, Fourth Cavalry, First and Thirteenth Batteries of Light Artillery, Battery D, First Heavy Artillery, in the Department of the Gulf.

Ninth, Twenty-third, Twenty-seventh, Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth, Thirty-fifth, Forty-second Infantry, Second Cavalry and Seventh Battery Light Artillery, in the Army of the Mississippi.

Nine companies Thirtieth Infantry, First Cavalry, and Battery B, First Heavy Artillery, Department of Kentucky.

Third Cavalry, Ninth Light Battery, in the Army of the Frontier.

One company Thirtieth Infantry in the Department of the Northwest, stationed in Dacotah Territory.

RESULTS OF DRAFT OF 1863.

The draft of 1863 made under orders from the War Department pursuant to an act of Congress of that year, was in progress and completed early in the present year.

Lieut. Col. Chas. S. Lovell, 16th Infantry U. S. A., was assigned to duty as Assistant Provost Marshal General of this State, and has—with the exception of a short absence, during which Col. J. D. Greene, U. S. A., was assigned to the position—performed the duties of that office to the present time. The officers constituting the boards of enrollment in each of the six Congressional Districts of the State, were appointed by the War Department from the residents of this State.

In the varied duties of my office I have been brought much in contact, personally and by correspondence, with all the above named officers—Their labors have been of the most delicate and at the same time perplexing and arduous character, and I take pleasure in bearing witness to the very patient and efficient performance of those duties; and also in publicly acknowledging the many acts of courtesy characterizing their intercourse with this office. The following named gentlemen constitute the several boards of enrollment in this State:

First District.—Capt. I. M. Bean, Provost Marshal; C. M. Baker, Commissioner; J. B. Donsman, Surgeon.

Second District.—Capt. S. J. M. Putnam, Provost Marshal; L. B. Caswell, Commissioner; C. R. Head, Surgeon.

Third District.—Capt. John G. Clark, Provost Marshal; E. E. Bryant, Commissioner; John H. Vivian, Surgeon.

Fourth District.—Capt. E. L. Phillips, Provost Marshal; Charles Burchard, Commissioner; L. H. Cary, Surgeon.

Fifth District.—Capt. C. B. Merrill, Provost Marshal; Wm. A. Bugh, Commissioner; H. O. Crane, Surgeon.

Sixth District.—Capt. B. F. Cooper, Provost Marshal; L. S. Fisher, Commissioner; D. D. Cameron, Surgeon.

The enrollment of 1863 included all male residents in the State between the ages of twenty and forty-five years, divided into two classes, from the first of which, to wit: "All persons subject to do military duty between the ages of twenty and thirty-five years, and all unmarried persons subject to do military duty above the age of thirty-five and under the age of forty-five," a draft of one-fifth of the number enrolled, with fifty per cent. addition, was to be made.

The total enrollment of this State was one hundred and twenty-one thousand two hundred and two (121,202). From the annexed table prepared by the District Provost Marshals at my request, it appears that the total number drafted in the State was fourteen thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (14,935), of whom eight hundred and eighty (880) were held to service, in person or by substitutes; two thousand six hundred and eighty-nine (2,689) failed to report, six thousand two hundred and eighty-five (6,285) were exempt, and five thousand and eighty-one (5,081) paid commutation amounting to $1,524,300.

Total.	121,202	14,935	628	232	8,285	2,689	5,081	$1,524,300

Under the modification of the Draft Act by Congress, then in session, the number required under the draft of 1863, was merged into the new call by the President of February 1, 1864, for 500,000, and it was ordered that a new assignment of quotas be made, and that each sub-district be credited upon the new call with the number of men obtained by the foregoing draft. By this course, the State received credit for five thousand eight hundred and seven (5,807), upon the calls of February 1st and March 14, and, with the veteran re-enlistments before mentioned, the new organizations completed, and the recruits for old regiments, the quota of the State was filled, as announced by the Secretary of War on the 5th of June.

DRAFT OF 1864.

Under the act of Congress, approved July 4, 1864, President Lincoln issued the call of July 18th, for 500,000 volunteers, for one, two or three years' service, with order that after fifty days from the date of said call, a draft of troops for one year's service should be made to fill the quota of any sub-district then deficient in volunteers. The quota assigned to Wisconsin under this call was nineteen thousand and thirty-two, (19,032.)—The fact that we had but just filled our quotas under the former calls of 700,000 in a corresponding ratio, was deemed presumptive evidence, that in the absence from the state of any considerable number of the former quota, the last quota was excessive.

No satisfactory explanation could be obtained from the War Department. The general accounts between the State and General Government were compared and found to agree. Attention was then given to the accounts of the Provost Marshal General's office where by comparison with the general account of the department, the following facts were found to exist.

The fact will be remembered by the frequency of its appearance—that subsequent to the call of July 1863, and pending the draft of that year, a settlement was obtained with the War Department on the 12th of October of that year, and an order issued by the Provost Marshal General crediting the State with a net excess of four thousand three hundred and fifty-two over all calls prior, and to apply on the then pending draft. This credit was apportioned to the several congressional districts, according to the excess raised and due to each. But under the modification of the law by act of Congress of 1864, the draft of 1863, so far as quota was concerned—and the call for volunteers of October 17, 1863, were so to speak, ignored, and merged into the call of February 1st for 500,000.

Order was made by the War Department, that all credits due prior to, or the result of the draft just made, should be brought forward and credited to the sub-districts under this call.

Upon examination of the table of credits prepared by the War Department and forwarded to Col. Lovell, A. A. P. M. G., for distribution under the call of February, it was found that the excess of credit, due Oct. 12, 1863, to congressional districts, had been omitted.

To correct this, it was necessary only to show the War Department the discrepancy of accounts between its own bureaus.

Meanwhile the many serious complaints of excessive and erroneous enrollment received from persons whose source of information entitled them to confidence, led to a correspondence with the District Provost Marshals as to the manner and results of the corrections ordered by the Provost Marshal General in June last.

This correspondence developed the fact of a serious misapprehension of the duties of enrolling officers under orders of the War Department. The names of a very large number of volunteers and drafted men enrolled upon the first lists made by government officers, and who had since gone into the service, many during the past year, were still found upon the enrollment lists. Aside from these, there was a large class of aliens and physically disabled persons not stricken from the lists. This result was not chargeable wholly, if at all, upon the enrolling officers. No one, especially in a city, is personally acquainted with the individual history of many of those he enrolls, and I have no doubt the officers generally sought to properly discharge their duties.

An idea, prevalent in a few communities, that an excessive enrollment lessened the chances of individual service, was effectually dispelled upon the assignment of a corresponding quota. But these lists, or this enrollment, were returned to the Provost Marshal at Washington as the number of persons subject to military duty, and constituting the basis of the quota assigned to this state.

Satisfactory evidence having been obtained on this point also, your Excellency directed me to present all these matters before the War Department, in person, with request for proper correction.

Arriving at Washington on the 13th of August, I immediately waited on the Secretary of War and Provost Marshal General with such proofs and explanations in support of our claim as were required. The matter received the prompt and favorable attention of the Department, and after the delay of a few days for official data from Madison, the claims of the state for credit was conceded, and the correction of the enrollment directed in the following orders:

WAR DEPARTMENT, PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, D. C. Aug. 17, 1864.

Lieut. Col. CHAS. S. LOVELL,

A. A. Provost Marshal General, Madison, Wis.

Colonel:—It appears from satisfactory evidence presented to this department that an excess of 4,668, credit due in settlement, Oct. 20, 1863, to the several congressional districts of the State of Wisconsin, have not been so credited. I am instructed by the Provost Marshal General, to direct that you will cause that number to be credited to the several congressional districts, in the following manner, to wit:

First Congressional District,	270
Second, .. do	1,266
Third, .. do	987
Fourth, .. do	—
Fifth, .. do	493
Sixth, .. do	1,846
	4,352

And the balance of 4,568 (viz. 216) to such sub-districts as appears entitled to the same by your record. * * * * *

Very Respectfully your obt. Servant,

[signed,]

T. A. DODGE,

Capt. V. R. C. in charge of Enrollment Bureau.

PROVOST-MARSHAL-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, D. C., August 23, 1864.

Lieut. Col. CHAS. S. LOVELL, 18th Inf'y,

A. A. Provost Mar. General, Madison, Wis.:

Proceed at once thoroughly to correct the enrollment, striking off all men actually in the service, at the present time, all who have been drafted and paid commutation or furnished substitutes, all aliens, non-residents, men who are over age and those who are permanently disabled. Report the total number of the revision thus made before the first of September, 1864, to this office. The quota of Wisconsin will be reduced accordingly. Give your entire attention to this work and give publicity to these instructions. Acknowledge receipt by mail.

(Signed)

JAMES B. FRY

Prov. Mar. General.

I urged the necessity of a longer time in which to complete the corrections, owing to the extreme distance of many sub-districts from the source of information. The emergencies of the service were deemed too urgent to admit of further time.

The measures taken to spread the information, and the delay in some districts, afforded the opportunity through which correction was generally obtained throughout the State.

Through this correction the quota of the State was reduced three thousand six hundred and ninety-one (3,691), or from nineteen thousand and thirty-two (19,082) to fifteen thousand three hundred and forty-one (15,341).

Mention has already been made of the results of volunteering under this call. Draft was originally ordered to complete this quota. A supplementary draft is now in progress in some of the districts. I cannot therefore give the total results. Through the courtesy of the District Provost Marshals I am enabled to present the following table complete to November 1st:

DRAFT OF 1864

Number of Districts	Number Enrolled	Number Drafted	Disposition of Those Who Answered For.					Amount of Contribution
			Mustered in person	Substituted after Draft	Discharged after Draft	Failed to Report	Paid commutation

Total...	94,068	17,534	2,494	945	6,724	7,367	4	1,200

* Three hundred and sixty-two of this number were discharged on account of their sub-districts having been filled by enlistments.

From the foregoing table it will appear that under the corrected enrollment up to November 1st, 1864, the total number subject to draft in this State was ninety-four thousand and sixty-eight (94,068). Of these there were drafted under the last call seventeen thousand, five hundred and thirty-four, (17,534); held to service in person or by substitute, three thousand, four hundred and thirty-nine, (3,439); discharged after draft, six thousand, seven hundred and twenty-four, (6,724); failed to report, seven thousand, three hundred and sixty-seven, (7,367).

THE CALL OF DECEMBER 19, 1864.

Having but just been received, no results have yet been obtained by recruiting or otherwise.

TOTAL TROOPS FURNISHED.

My last annual report gave the entire number of troops from this State in the service of the General Government, on the 1st of November, 1863, as forty-one thousand and fifty-four (41,054).

From the returns made to this office by the several United States mustering officers of the State, it appears that there have been mustered into the United States service as volunteers from the 1st of November, 1863, to the present date, twenty-five thousand four hundred and thirteen (25,413). These include all volunteers for one, two or three years' service, and re-enlisted veterans, all for three years.

Of principals and substitutes held to service (three years) under the draft of 1863, there are five thousand nine hundred and sixty-one (5,961). Held to serve (one year) under the draft of 1864, two thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine (2,859). These several recruits added to the number in service November 1st, 1863, give a total of seventy-five thousand two hundred and eighty-seven (75,287), exclusive of two thousand one hundred and thirty-four (2,134) one hundred day men, for which the State receives no credit, numerically, and which added constitutes a grand total of seventy-seven thousand four hundred and twenty-one (77,421) furnished the General Government by this State under all calls to the 19th of the present month.

The following table gives in better form a recapitulation of the total number and term of service, viz:

Credit at date of last report, (3 years).....	41,054
Enlistments present year to date, (3 years).....	13,347
Re-enlisted veterans, (3 years).....	5,763
Draft of 1863, (3 years).....	5,961
Total 3 years service.....	66,144
Enlistments present year, (2 years).....	41
Total in two years service.....	41
Enlistments present year, (1 year).....	6,243
Draft of 1864, (1 year).....	2,859
Total one year service.....	9,102
Total 1, 2 and 3 years' service.....	75,287
Add three regiments 100 day service.....	2,134
Grand total.....	77,421

Reference is respectfully made to paper "D" in appendix of this report giving detailed information of these troops, to-wit: The regimental organization and original strength, the number of recruits since assigned of one, two or three years' volunteers, or drafted men, and the present strength.

Of the seventy-seven thousand four hundred and twenty-one (77,421) originally in the United States service, the State is now represented by forty-two thousand one hundred and sixty-three (42,163), the loss by death, discharge and desertion, together with those reported missing in action, being thirty-five thousand two hundred and fifty-eight (35,258). The remark of last year in reference to this class is also now applicable, namely, that by far the larger number are of those discharged the service for various reasons, or mustered out upon expiration of term of service, while of those missing in action (not killed) the most eventually rejoin their regiments.

QUOTAS AND CREDITS.

It is impossible to give the exact statement of account at the present date, between the War Department and the State for troops furnished, owing to the following reasons: A supplementary draft is yet incomplete in some districts and of those where it is now complete, the muster-in rolls have not yet reached this office. From the returns, which have reached me up to this date, the following table is prepared, giving the quotas under all calls of the General Government prior to December 19th, 1864, with the credits due the State, and showing a deficiency December 31, 1864, of four thousand four hundred and eighty (4,480).

It is believed, however, that the returns, not yet received at this office, will reduce this number nearly if not quite one thousand.

HISTORICAL RECORD.

I come now to the historical record of these troops, continued in the same general manner as last report, in which will be found a synopsis of the marches, skirmishes, battles, and various actions of the regiments during the year commencing October 1, 1863, up to a corresponding date in the present year. The record is in many instances based upon information furnished by the officers of regiments, and in others, compiled from such reliable data as can be gathered.

The occupancy of my own time in other and varied duties of the office has devolved this labor upon Mr. James M. Lynch, chief clerk in the office, who has, as will be seen, performed an arduous task in a most excellent manner.

FIRST REGIMENT INFANTRY.

In the absence of a detailed report from the First Regiment, I am compelled to refer to the record of the Twenty-first Wisconsin, with which they were brigaded during the year, for a general statement of the marches and actions in which they have participated.

The Iron Brigade remained near Morton's Ford, on the Rapidan, as permanent reserve to the picket guard, until the 10th of October, 1868, when, after a feint of crossing, they marched as rear guard of the corps, crossing the Rappahannock at Kelly's Ford, and proceeding by way of Warrenton Junction and Manassas to Centreville, from which place, they marched on the 19th, by way of Gainesville to Haymarket, where the brigade was deployed on the Greenwich road, as support to Kilpatrick's cavalry. In the evening, one hundred men with two officers, were detailed from the Seventh regiment for picket duty near Bucklaud, where they were attacked by overwhelming numbers of the rebel cavalry, which succeeded in turning both flanks, of the picket line, and captured one officer and thirty-four men. On the following day the brigade marched through Thoroughfare Gap to Georgetown, whence, on the 24th, they returned by Haymarket and Gainesville to Brentsville, and finally to Bristow Station, on the Orange and Alexandria railroad, where they were stationed, furnishing daily details for picket duty on Kettle Run and the Brentville road, until the 5th of November. At this date they again marched, and proceeding by Catlett's Station and Morristown, crossed the Rappahannock at Kelly's Ford, encamping on the 8th, at Brandy Station on the Orange and Alexandria railroad. On the following day they re-crossed the Rappahannock at the railroad bridge and went into camp at Beverly Ford, where they resumed the performance of guard duty.

Participating in the general movement of our forces to repel the threatened attack of the rebels upon our communications, they were put in motion on the 20th of November, and crossing the Rapidan, at Culpepper Mine Ford, at daybreak on the following morning, they marched by Parker's Store to the intersection of the Spottsylvania road with the Orange Plank Road. At this point the Sixth, which was acting as guard to the corps ammunition train, repulsed in a severe skirmish the assault of a portion of Hampton's Legion, which attacked the train. Pursuing the march through the Wilderness, they bivouacked for the night near Robinson's Farm on the old turnpike. On the 28th they advanced, driving the enemy's outposts and skirmishers across Mine Run, when they bivouacked in line on a crest overlooking the stream, and in sight of the rebel works on the opposite side, in which position they remained, under occasional artillery fire, and awaiting the signal for assault. The attack upon the enemy's works at this place having been abandoned, the return march was commenced on the 1st of December, and crossing the Rapidan at Germania Ford, they encamped, on the 4th, at Kelly's Ford, on the Rappahannock, where they went into winter quarters; furnishing heavy details for outpost and picket duty.

On the 28th of December, the total number of men, belonging to the Seventh Regiment, present with the army, was two hundred and forty-nine. Of these, two hundred and eleven re-enlisted as veterans, under General Orders of the War Department. On the 31st, two hundred and twenty-seven of the Sixth Regiment also re-enlisted, and at various dates during the month forty members of the Second had re-enlisted. The veterans of the Sixth and Seventh were remustered into the service on the 1st of January, and those of the Second shortly afterward. The non-veterans of these regiments having been temporarily transferred to other organizations, the re-enlisted men of the Seventh left Culpepper, by rail, on the 4th of January, 1864, and arrived on the 12th at Madison, Wisconsin, where they received veteran furloughs for thirty days, at the expiration of which time they were ordered to report at Racine. They were followed by the veterans of the Sixth Regiment, who left Culpepper, Va., on the 7th, arriving at Milwaukee on the 14th. The re-enlisted men of the Second arrived at Madison on the 28th. On receiving their furloughs, these veterans of many battles dispersed to their homes in various parts of the State to enjoy their short respite from duty.

During the absence of the re-enlisted men of the Wisconsin organizations, the Second Regiment, with the non-veterans of the brigade, participated, on the 6th and 7th of February, in a reconnaissance to the Rapidan river, during which they advanced to Raccoon Ford, burned the village and returned, without loss to camp.

The Veteran Seventh rendezvoused on the 11th of February at Racine, and again left the State for the seat of war on the 15th, arriving on the 24th in camp near Culpepper. The Sixth left the regimental rendezvous at Milwaukee on the 22d, and rejoined their comrades in arms on the 28th. The veterans of the Second followed shortly afterwards.

Thenceforward, until the opening of the campaign, the Iron Brigade was thoroughly drilled in all the details of the school of the soldier; and in the organization of the army was, in March, assigned to position as the First Brigade, Fourth Division, Fifth Army Corps, with which they have since been identified.

Accompanying the grand forward movement of the Army of the Potomac, under Gen. Grant and Meade, the Iron Brigade, commanded by Brig. Gen. Cutler, formerly colonel of the Sixth Wisconsin, broke camp at Culpepper at midnight of the 3d of May, and marching all night, crossed the Rapidan at Germania Ford on the following morning, and taking the plank road in the direction of Chancellorville, bivouacked at Old Wilderness Tavern. On the morning of the 5th they diverged from the plank road a mile to the right, where line of battle was formed in the Wilderness, the Second being placed on the right of the Seventh, which was in the front line on the left of the brigade. The Sixth was held in the rear as reserve to the brigade. Shortly afterwards, at the command to move forward, they advanced by companies, through a heavy growth of pine and underbrush, a distance of nearly a mile, when at noon they encountered the enemy's line, in position, covered by the forest and thick underbrush, with his skirmish line but a few paces in advance. At a distance of forty paces, the enemy, directly in front, poured in a terrible fire, which was at once returned with such effect as to throw the rebels into disorder. Our troops immediately charged with the bayonet, and at this point Corporal George A. Smith, of Company H, Seventh Regiment, rushed forward, capturing the battle flag of the Forty-eighth Virginia, which was in their front*. The brigade steadily advanced, driving the enemy to his second line, which was also routed, "the severe fire from our ranks strewing the ground with dead and dying," when the rebels were reinforced by A. P. Hill's Corps. At this time our troops had driven the enemy a mile and a half through the timber, and the line on the left of the brigade having given way, they were, by a flank attack, in turn driven back in disorder, but without panic, to their original position, where the line was reformed. At six in the evening, they moved to the left, near the Fredericksburg and Orange C. H. road, to support the Second Corps, which had been fiercely attacked by the enemy. About dusk they advanced to within seventy-five yards of the rebel lines, in which position they lay on their arms during the night.

The battle was resumed at daylight on the following morning. Acting as support to the Second Corps, they participated in the grand charge upon the rebels in front, (A. P. Hill's Corps,) forcing the enemy steadily back until he was reinforced by the arrival of his artillery and a part of Longstreet's Corps. Owing to the nature of the field, it was impossible to bring our artillery into position, and the troops were compelled to fall back to the line which they had occupied during the night. During the day, two other unsuccessful attempts were made to advance our lines on the left, after which the enemy, having massed his troops, made a determined assault upon our lines, which, after a severe contest, was repulsed with great slaughter. In the third assault upon the enemy, Gen. Wadsworth, the Division Commander, was killed, when the command of the division devolved upon Gen. Cutler, Col. Robinson, of the Seventh, assuming command of the brigade, and Lieut. Col. Finniettum taking charge of the regiment. On the same day, Col. Bragg, of the Sixth, was placed in command of the Third Brigade, which position he retained until the 10th of June, when it was transferred to another division, and Col. Bragg took command of the First (Iron) Brigade.

The 7th of May was principally spent in effecting certain changes of position. In the evening commenced the movement in the direction of Spottsylvania C. H.; marching all night by way of Shady Grove Church and Todd's Tavern; they arrived at ten next morning at Laurel Hill. Near this place the troops were halted, and while preparing breakfast were again ordered forward. Forming line of battle under the fire of the enemy's artillery, with the Sixth Wisconsin on the right, and the Seventh on the left of the brigade front, they immediately advanced to the assault of the enemy's entrenchments. After a severe contest, they were compelled to fall back half a mile, when they rallied and again advanced, driving the enemy over the ground where they had just fought, and taking a strong position within three hundred yards of the enemy's works, which they fortified and held, successfully resisting several attempts to dislodge them. On the evening of the 9th, the enemy advanced, driving in the pickets on the left of the brigade front; and succeeded in establishing a body of sharpshooters in a thick wood, within about fifty yards of the breastworks. These sharpshooters were driven out the same evening by a detachment of sixty men from the Seventh regiment, who volunteered for that purpose. On the following day they again advanced to charge the enemy's works in front, the Seventh holding the extreme left of the brigade. The troops on their left having given way, under the severe fire to which they were exposed, this regiment deployed out in heavy skirmish line, covering a space equal to three times its front, and the attack being repulsed, the brigade retired under fire in good order to the breastworks. The 11th was occupied in shelling and skirmishing on both sides. On this day, the Second Wisconsin sin, having been reduced to less than one hundred men present for duty, and having lost both field officers, who were wounded and in the hands of the enemy, was detailed as provost guard of the Fourth Division, Fifth Army Corps, thus severing its connection with the Iron Brigade, with which the regiment had been identified since its organization in 1861.

At nine in the morning, of the 12th, the brigade again took part in an unsuccessful assault upon the rebel works, shortly after which they moved about three miles to the left to the support of the Second Corps, which had gallantly carried an important part of the enemy's line, in the charge of the morning. Here they occupied position on the right of Gen. Hancock's troops, standing in deep mud and keeping up a constant fire for the protection of the troops who were at work on the fortifications. From constant firing, the muskets became so foul that it became necessary to send details of men to wash the guns, while their comrades kept up the fire. In many instances, also, the weariness of the men was so overpowering, having been under fire day and night since the morning of the 8th, that they lay down in the mud and slept under the enemy's fire, notwithstanding the exertions of the officers to keep them awake. Early on the following morning the brigade was relieved, and marched back to position near Laurel Hill, rejoining the Fifth Corps.

Participating in the general movement of our army to the left, they marched from this place late in the evening, and having forded the Po river twice during the night, occupied position at five in the morning of the 14th, on the right of Burnside's Corps, one and a half miles from Spottsylvania C. H., where field works were thrown up in front of the enemy, and the brigade remained engaged in picket and guard duty, with occasional artillery duels and shelling from the enemy, until the 21st, when the flank movement of the army was resumed. Marching in a south easterly direction, they crossed the Po river and the Richmond and Fredericksburg railroad, halting on the following day at a point five miles southeast from Guinea's Station, where breastworks were erected and the brigade remained as guard until the trains had passed, when they again pushed forward in pursuit of Ewell's Corps to Bull Church, near the Mat river.

March was resumed on the morning of the 23d. The brigade crossed the North Anna at Jericho Ford in the afternoon, and moved forward to a point one mile from the river, where line of battle was formed—the Sixth on the left of the brigade, with the Seventh next on the right. While the line was yet incomplete, at six in the evening, the enemy attacked in front and flank, forcing the line back half a mile, when they were reinforced by two batteries of artillery, and the brigade rallied, the Seventh being placed on the right of a battery, holding the extreme right of the line. After a severe conflict, lasting upwards of two hours, the rebels were driven from the field in disorder. The squadnet of the brigade in this action was highly complimented by the officers of the army. During the following day, they remained upon the field of battle, occasionally skirmishing with the enemy, and on the morning of the 25th, they moved three miles to the left, taking position on the left of the Sixth Corps, where they were employed in severe skirmish and guard duty during the day. They were again in motion on the following day. Proceeding by way of Magnolia Church, they crossed the Pamunkey river on the 28th, and moving forward about a mile, erected breastworks which they occupied during the passage of the river by the army, and next morning marched three miles, part of the way on the "double quick," to reinforce Griffin's Division—the rebel attack upon which was repulsed—when the brigade, moving to position on the right of the division, threw up slight breastworks, and bivouacked in line of battle, near the grave of Patrick Henry.

On the 30th, they moved two miles to the front, and constructed earthworks under a heavy shell fire from the enemy's batteries. This position was retained until the 1st of June, when the brigade moved forward in the evening, under severe artillery fire, to support some batteries of artillery which were planted in an exposed position, after which, under cover of the darkness, they advanced the lines on their front, within four hundred yards of the rebel works. Here they remained, exposed day and night to continuous fire of artillery and musketry, until the evening of the 5th, when they were again put in motion to the left, and traveling all night, arrived at four in the morning at Cold Harbor. On the 7th they marched to the Chickahominy, and were stationed one and a half miles above the crossing of the Richmond and West Point railroad, where they were employed in picket duty until the 12th, when they again changed position to the left. Marching late in the evening they crossed the Chickahominy river at Long Bridge, and pushed forward to Charles City Court House, about a mile from which place they encamped on the 14th, near Wilcox's Landing on the James river. Here they crossed the James on the morning of the 16th, and pressing forward by way of Prince George Court House, erected breastworks in front of the enemy before Petersburg on the 17th, the Sixth Wisconsin, which was on the left of the brigade, constituting the extreme left flank of the army of the Potomac. The day was occupied in constant skirmishing with the enemy, and at five on the following morning they moved forward in line of battle, with skirmishers deployed in advance, the Sixth on the left and the Seventh on the right of the brigade front. They advanced, forcing the enemy to his earthworks one mile from Petersburg, when the skirmishers were recalled, and shortly after three in the afternoon, charged the enemy in his earthworks. The brigade, on the extreme left of the line, advanced steadily under a withering fire of artillery and musketry, to a position within pistol shot of the enemy's works, which they held until compelled by an attack in flank to fall back one hundred and fifty yards. In the evening and night, works were constructed within five hundred yards of the enemy's line, since which time, they have been constantly engaged in the duties of the siege.

They remained in the front line on the left of Petersburg, until the 18th of August, when they marched six miles to Yellow House on the Weldon railroad, accompanying the movement to the support of the First Division, which had obtained possession of the railroad at that point. In the battle of the following day, the brigade was deployed as skirmishers, the line extending from the right of the line of battle of the Fifth Corps to the Second Corps, in the main works before Petersburg, the Seventh regiment occupying the extreme right of the skirmish line. The skirmish line was pierced by the enemy, on the left of the Seventh Wisconsin, which retained the position during the night, capturing twenty-six prisoners without sustaining loss. In the evening of the 20th, this regiment rejoined the brigade on the west side of the railroad, where breastworks were thrown up. On the following morning, the line in front of the railroad, consisting of the First and Second brigades, was attacked by a large force of the enemy, whose assault was gallantly repulsed with great slaughter, the Seventh Wisconsin capturing the battle flag of the Sixteenth Mississippi, with all its field officers.

Since this date, the brigade has been engaged in guarding the position on the Weldon railroad, gradually extending the lines towards the South-side railroad.

SECOND REGIMENT.

After the battle of Laurel Hill, the Second regiment having become so reduced that less than one hundred men were present for duty, was permanently detached, on the 11th of May, 1864, from the celebrated brigade, whose movements they had accompanied from its organization, and to whose reputation their valor had so signally contributed. Thenceforward they were employed as provost guard of the Fourth Division, Fifth Army Corps, and following the march of that division, in the grand movement to the left, crossing the North Anna river on the 23d, and arriving on the 6th of June at Bottom's Bridge, on the Chickahominy, where they remained until the expiration of their term of service as soldiers in the army of the United States. The following graceful valedictory from the Division Commander, himself a citizen of Wisconsin, needs neither preface nor comment :

" HEADQUARTERS, FOURTH DIVISION,
FIFTH ARMY CORPS, June 10th, 1864.

"The Second Wisconsin Volunteers, having served their full term of three years in this army, and being about to leave for their homes, the General Commanding deems it proper for himself, and in behalf of those of their comrades who remain behind, to address the officers and men of that command a few parting words.

"Three years ago you entered the service more than a thousand strong. You now leave us with one hundred and thirty-three, all told. Where are they? O'Connor, Stevens, Colwell, Randolph and many others, both officers and men, are mustered with the hosts on high. Others are disabled for life. Others still are in rebel prisons.

"Among all these things you have always been true to your flag and your country. You have never failed in any duty required of you. You have a right to be proud of your record: the State has reason to be proud of you. You leave with the best wishes of all your comrades, and to that I wish to add my most cordial desire for your future honor and prosperity, collectively and individually.

"(Signed)

L. CUTLER,
"Brig. General Commanding."

Members of the regiment, on "detached duty" in the various departments of the army, were recalled, and on the morning of the 11th of June, the remnant of the Second Wisconsin was finally relieved from the front and marched to White House Landing, where they embarked. They arrived in Washington on the 13th, and proceeding thence by rail arrived on the 18th at Madison, Wisconsin. They were greeted at the Capital of the State with an enthusiastic welcome from the State authorities and citizens, and after a delay of some days, awaiting the arrival of the necessary papers from Washington, the last company was finally mustered out of service on the 2d of July.

INDEPENDENT BATTALION, SECOND REGIMENT.

By order of the Division commander, the members of the Second Wisconsin, who had joined the regiment after its original organization, were organized on the 11th of June, 1864, as an Independent Battalion of two companies, under command of Capt. Dennis B. Dailey, of Company B. — The battalion was assigned to duty as provost guard of the Fourth Division, Fifth Army Corps, Capt. Dailey being appointed Provost Marshal, and Lieut. Morgan assuming the immediate command of the battalion. They left Bottom's Bridge on the night of the 12th of June, as rear guard of the division, and crossing the Chickahominy river, accompanied the general movement of the corps by way of Charles City Court House, to the vicinity of Wilcox's Landing, where they encamped on the 14th.

Crossing the James river at this point on the 16th, they marched by way of Prince George's Court House, in the advance upon Petersburg, and took part on the 18th in the battle before that place, with a loss of two men wounded. From this date they remained on provost duty at division headquarters, on the Petersburg and Norfolk railroad, four miles from the former place, until the 17th of August, when they were again put in motion, accompanying the movement of the corps to Yellow House on the Weldon railroad. Here they were deployed in the rear of the division, and participated in the action of the following day, losing one man wounded. In the battle of the 19th, they were again engaged, and Lieut. Morgan, having been severely wounded, the command devolved upon Lieut. Naegeli. They were employed on the following day in building entrenchments on the left of the railroad, and on the 21st assisted in repulsing the enemy's attack upon our line. In this action the casualties were four wounded, including Capt. Dailey, who was severely wounded and sent to General Hospital. The Fourth Division having been temporarily broken up, they were assigned on the 24th, to provost duty at corps headquarters, where they remained until the 1st of September.

At this date, they were assigned to the First Brigade of the Third Division, and have since been employed in the performance of guard and picket duty. Lieut. Morgan rejoined and took command of the battalion on the 27th of September; Capt. Dailey, who returned to duty on the same day having been detailed on staff duty.

The battalion is now encamped in line of breastworks near the Weldon railroad, one mile from Yellow House, Va.

The Third regiment, attached to the Third Brigade, First Division, Twelfth Army Corps, left Columbus, O., en route for the Army of the Cumberland, on the 30th of September, 1863, proceeding by rail to Stevenson, Ala., where they arrived on the 3d of October. At this place, orders were received assigning the regiment to the performance of guard duty on the line of the Nashville and Chattanooga railroad, in compliance with which they left Stevenson on the following morning, returning to Decatur, Tenn., at the junction of the branch railroad to Fayetteville with the main line. From this point they moved during the month from place to place on the railroad, remaining but a short time at each until the 27th, when they moved by rail to Wartrace, Tenn., and went into camp at that place, at the junction of the Shelbyville branch railroad, and were employed in guard duty.

On the 21st of December, three-fourths of the regiment re-enlisted as veterans, under General Orders from the War Department, and the veteran Third left Wartrace, on the 25th, en route for Madison, Wis., where they arrived on the 28th. From this city the men dispersed to their respective homes, in the enjoyment of their short leave of absence, and the regiment having reassembled at Madison on the 1st of February, 1864, they again took their departure from the State on the 4th, arriving on the 9th at Tullahoma, Tenn. After a short rest of two days they left Tullahoma on the 12th, and proceeding by way of Mulberry, arrived on the 13th at Fayetteville, where they again went into camp. While stationed at this place, the principal duty of the regiment consisted in the performance of guard duty, and in the restoration of law and order in the county. Upwards of sixteen hundred citizens of Lincoln county took the oath of amnesty, and various bands of guerillas were suppressed. Here they were joined by the recruits which had enlisted for the regiment during the winter, increasing their numbers to five hundred and seventy-five. In the latter part of April, upon the re-organization of the Army of the Cumberland, the Eleventh and Twelfth Corps were consolidated, forming the Twentieth, in which the regiment was assigned to the Second Brigade, of the First Division.

vision, the brigade being placed under command of Gen. Thomas H. Ruger, formerly Colonel of the Third Wisconsin.

Participating in the general movement for the concentration of the army previous to the advance upon Atlanta, they left Fayetteville on the 27th of April, under orders to join their brigade, which was already in motion. They arrived at Tullahoma on the 30th of April, and pushing forward next day, joined the brigade on the 8th of May near Buzzard Roost, Ga., having marched a distance of one hundred and twenty-two miles. Participating in the forward movement of the army, they marched on the 10th sixteen miles to Snake Creek Gap, where they remained until the 13th, at which date the march was resumed, the regiment on the same day taking position in column before the enemy at Resaca. On the following day, they marched with the Twentieth Corps, to the left to support a division of the Fourth Corps. In this movement, although brisk skirmishing was kept up and the attempt of the enemy to turn our left, completely foiled, the regiment suffered no loss. On the morning of the 15th they moved still farther to the left and front, and took position in line of battle. Skirmishers were deployed two hundred yards in front and immediately engaged the enemy. Temporary works of rails and logs were hastily erected in front of the main line, but before these slight preparations were completed, the enemy charged upon the position with an entire division, forcing back the skirmishers, and advancing within one hundred and fifty yards of the main line. Our troops withheld their fire until the enemy was within easy range, when they poured in such a withering volley as to cause the rebels to waver, and finally to retire in disorder. At this moment the order to advance was given, and our troops rushed forward with a cheer, the Third capturing forty prisoners. In this brilliant engagement the loss of the regiment was three killed, twenty-seven wounded and one missing.

The enemy having abandoned his position at Resaca, during the night, our troops pressed forward on the 16th upon his line of retreat, and crossing the Coosawatee river on the following morning, marched eight miles further towards Calhoun, and bivouacked for the night. On the 18th, they moved forward by way of Kingston to Cassville, at which place they encamped on the following day, having skirmished slightly with the enemy, but sustained no casualties during the march of forty miles from Resaca. After a rest of four days at Cassville, the forward movement of the army was resumed on the 23d, when the regiment crossed the Etowah river, and marching in the direction of Marietta, came up with the enemy on the 25th, posted in a strongly entrenched position at the crossing of the Marietta and Ackworth roads, near Dallas. Here the regiment, in the centre of the brigade, formed in line of battle, and advanced, on the right of the Marietta road, directly upon the enemy's works. In the hard-fought battle which followed no decided advantage was gained, other than ascertaining the strength of the enemy, who was well entrenched, with superior numbers, in a well chosen position. The officers and men of the regiment fought with a heroism never excelled by any troops, and I take pleasure in adding that in this engagement, as well as in that near Resaca, not a single instance of bad conduct came under my observation, or has been since reported. Notwithstanding that upwards of one-half the regiment consisted of recruits, who had never before been under fire, the list of casualties showed a loss of fourteen killed and ninety-seven wounded, of whom five were officers."* By the evening the Third was relieved and withdrawn from its exposed position, and the troops remained near the battlefield until the 1st of June, when they took position in line of battle four miles to the left, which they retained three days.

Their division having been ordered to the left, the Third Wisconsin took the advance on the 4th, and proceeding slowly in front of the enemy, and constantly skirmishing as they advanced, took position, on the 6th, in front of the enemy's entrenchments at Pine Knob, which they retained, with slight change and under the incessant fire of the enemy, until the 15th, when the line was advanced two miles to position in front of the enemy, who had abandoned his entrenchments at Pine Knob, during the previous night. In the evening, the Third was placed in line of battle on the right of the brigade, and two hundred yards from the rebel works. During the night temporary earthworks were erected and the regiment retained the position, exposed to the enemy's fire, with a loss of seven men wounded, until the 17th, when a forward movement was ordered, the enemy having again fallen back during the preceding night. During the next three days, the regiment, constantly in front, advanced from point to point, as the enemy's lines were slowly forced back, and on the 21st was ordered to advance on the Powder Spring Road. On proceeding one and a half miles towards the position indicated, the rebels were encountered in superior numbers, and after a sharp skirmish, Col. Hawley deeming it imprudent to advance farther with his small force, the regiment halted, and upon the arrival of reinforcements, again advanced, forcing the enemy back and occupying the position, until the advance of the corps next morning. Loss, one killed and seven wounded. In this vicinity they were constantly employed in picket and skirmish duty, with occasional changes of position, until the 3d of July, when they moved forward three miles, taking position in front of the enemy's works at Kenesaw Mountain. In the operations against this strong position, which resulted in the enemy's abandonment of the works, the troops were almost constantly in line of battle and exposed to the enemy's fire, and sustained a loss of one killed and seventeen wounded, of whom three died shortly after.

On the 17th, following the rebel line of retreat, they crossed the Chattahoochee river, and pressing forward, crossed Peach Tree Creek on the 20th, under fire of the enemy's artillery, and took position on the right of the brigade, protected by earthworks, which they completed and strengthened, retaining the position with a loss of two killed and five wounded, until the 22d, when our forces advanced two miles, and the Third took position in front, and in sight of Atlanta. Here they were employed in heavy picket and siege duty, and constantly exposed to the enemy's fire, until the 25th of August, when they withdrew to the railroad bridge on the Chattahoochee river, and constructed earthworks, which they occupied until the 28th, when Col. Hawley, with a small force, consisting of five companies of the Third, with one company of a New York regiment, was ordered to effect a reconnoissance in the direction of Atlanta, which was effected, with a loss of one man wounded. The rebels having evacuated Atlanta on the night of the 1st of September, the regiment entered the city on the following day, and encamped near the Augusta railroad, the list of casualties during the operations before the place showing a loss of five killed and twenty-one wounded. From the beginning of May, the men of the regiment had been almost constantly under arms and exposed to the enemy's fire, with a total loss, during the campaign, of twenty-three killed, one hundred and sixty-two wounded, and one missing.

The regiment has since been stationed at Atlanta.

On the 1st of October, 1863, the Fifth Regiment was on duty in the State of New York, seven companies at Albany, and three companies, E, G and H, at Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Troy, respectively. The draft having passed off quietly at these places, the main body of the regiment, under command of Col. Allen, moved, on the 8th, to Goshen, in Orange county, where they "were treated in a princely manner by the inhabitants, and a pleasant intercourse kept up," until the 13th, when six companies of the regiment, including those stationed at Troy, Poughkeepsie and Kingston, moved to Governor's Island, at which place they were joined, on the 17th, by the balance of the regiment. Next morning the whole regiment left Governor's Island, and arrived, on the 20th, at Fairfax Station, Va., on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, from which place they marched on the following day, rejoining the Third Brigade, First Division, Sixth Corps, while en route to Warrenton, where they went into camp.

Accompanying the movement of the Sixth Corps, they marched on the 7th of November, fifteen miles to Rappahannock Station, and in the afternoon acted a prominent part in the brilliant charge made by the Sixth Maine and Fifth Wisconsin, supported at some distance by portions of two brigades. When the order to charge was given, these two regiments, carrying their knapsacks, with eight days' rations, moved gallantly forward on the "double-quick," across an open space half a mile wide, under a withering fire of grape, canister and musketry, stormed and carried the main fort and redoubts at the point of the bayonet, capturing seven pieces of artillery, and flanking the enemy's position in such a manner as to prevent his escape. The results of this charge were the capture of eight regiments, with their colors, and the withdrawal of the rebel forces from our front. The Fifth sustained a loss of ten killed and fourteen wounded. They immediately pressed forward in pursuit of the retreating enemy as far as Brandy Station, where they went into camp.

On the 24th, they were again in motion, accompanying the general movement of our army in the direction of Mine Run, and crossing the Rapidan on the 26th, took part in the engagement at Locust Grove, where they lost two men wounded. After a difficult march of upwards of fifty miles in very unfavorable weather, during which they suffered greatly from fatigue and exposure, they returned on the 2d of December to Brandy Station, where they went into winter quarters. On the 27th of February, 1864, they left camp on a reconnoissance, and marched to Robinson's Run, at which point they remained, acting as support to a cavalry force at that place, until the 3d of March, when they returned to camp at Brandy Station. From this time they were occupied in the performance of camp and drill duty, with occasional short expeditions to various points in the vicinity until the opening of the Spring campaign, under Gen. Grant.

On the 4th of May, the Fifth Regiment, under command of Lieut. Col. Catlin, left Brandy Station, carrying six days' rations and fifty rounds of ammunition. Crossing the Rapidan at Germania Ford, they bivouacked for the night eighteen miles from Brandy Station, and on the following morning took part in the famous battle of the Wilderness. The right wing of the regiment, under Major Totten, was deployed as skirmishers on the right of our line, and the engagement soon became general. Shortly afterwards, a rebel force which had advanced through the heavy undergrowth, succeeded in forcing back a portion of the line on the left of the regiment. At this juncture, companies D and G, commanded by Captains White and Halton, attacked the flank of the advancing rebels, and captured the entire Twenty-fifth Virginia with its colors. The right wing was heavily engaged on the skirmish line during the day, the left wing, at the same time, engaging the enemy in line with the brigade. The loss of the regiment was one hundred and four killed and wounded. The battle was continued on the 6th; the regiment being heavily engaged, and losing thirty-eight in killed and wounded. During the night the enemy succeeded in turning the right flank of the Sixth corps, forcing back in confusion a portion of the Third division. The Fifth regiment, under Maj. Totten, was ordered to stay the tide. This was done in the most gallant manner; and they held the position until the remainder of the division came up, when the advancing rebels were checked and routed.

Early next morning they accompanied the movement of the corps six miles to the left, and took position near Chancellorville, repulsing the enemy's attacks during the day, with slight loss. On the 8th they moved to Spottsylvania, where they were engaged two days in the rifle pits, and on the evening of the 10th were ordered forward in the second line, in a charge upon a rebel battery and line of rifle pits. The front line having given way, they charged through them, and took possession of the works, but owing to lack of proper support, were compelled to abandon them, having sustained a loss of seventy men killed and wounded. Among the latter, Sergeant-Major James R. Strong, who was mortally wounded, deserves particular mention for gallantry. On the 12th, they were again engaged and under heavy fire for upwards of eight hours, and having expended their ammunition, held the position with the bayonet, until darkness closed the battle. A field piece, which had been deserted, was manned by a squad of men from the regiment, and in their hands performed effective service. Loss during the day, fifty-one men killed and wounded.

The general movement to the left was resumed next day. The regiment was employed in destroying the track of the Virginia Central railroad, with occasional skirmishing, as they advanced, until the 1st of June, when they arrived "barefooted, ragged and almost exhausted with fatigue and lack of sleep," at Cold Harbor, and immediately moved forward in a charge against the enemy's works at that place, capturing the entrenchments with a number of prisoners. During the night, slight works were thrown up with bayonets and tin plates, and the regiment remained in this vicinity, constantly exposed to the enemy's fire, until the evening of the 12th, when they were again put in motion and marched twenty-five miles during the night. They were occupied a short time in building a bridge across the James river, and on the 16th moved by transport to Bermuda Hundred, from which place they marched on the 19th and took position in the trenches before Petersburg. They participated in the charge of the 22d, capturing a portion of the enemy's works, with a few prisoners, and on the 29th moved to Ream's Station on the Weldon railroad, ten miles south of Petersburg. Here they were occupied in fatigue and picket duty, until the 11th of July, when they moved to the James river, and embarked under orders to proceed to Washington, to assist in the defence of that city, then menaced by the rebel forces under Breckenridge.

They arrived next day at Washington, and moved at once to the front, taking position in the fortifications near Fort Stephenson. On this day, the three year's term of service of the regiment having expired, they volunteered to remain so long as their services were necessary for the defence of the national capital. The enemy having retreated, they left Washington on the 16th en route for Wisconsin, to be formally mustered out of service. They arrived in Madison on the 22d, where they received a cordial welcome at the hands of the State authorities, and after a delay of some days, while awaiting the reception of the necessary papers from Washington, their muster out of service was finally completed on the 3d of August.

INDEPENDENT BATTALION—Fifth Regiment.

On the 18th of July, 1864, the re-enlisted veterans of the Fifth Regiment, together with those recruits who had joined by enlistment since its primary organization, were organized into an "Independent Battalion" of three companies, under command of Capt. Charles M. Kempf, of Company C, and left Washington on the same day, accompanying the movement of the Sixth Corps into the Shenandoah Valley. During this march they participated in the engagement at Snicker's Gap, on the 18th, and on two days afterwards set out on the return to Washington, where they were allowed a short rest. They again left Washington on the 26th, arriving at Harper's Ferry on the 29th. Marching thence, shortly afterwards they took part in the movements of our troops in Maryland and the Shenandoah Valley, during which they participated in the action at Charlestown, Va., where they lost one man wounded. They were subsequently stationed at Bolivar Heights, from which they moved on the 30th and went into camp at Charlestown, where they were occupied in the performance of picket and guard duty, with frequent reconnoissances and skirmishing with the enemy, until the 19th of September, when they moved forward to the Opequan and took part in the celebrated battle of Cedar Creek, with a loss of four killed and eleven wounded. The brigade was highly complimented by the commanding General for their behavior on this occasion, after which they were ordered to garrison Winchester, where the battalion is now stationed.

FIFTH REGIMENT—REORGANIZED.

Immediately upon the muster out of service of the "Old Fifth," the necessary steps were taken for its reorganization. Under the supervision of Col. Allen, who was recommissioned colonel of the regiment; seven companies were rapidly recruited and organized, the last of which was mustered into the United States service on the 1st of October. They left Camp Randall on the following day, en route to join the Battalion at Winchester, Va.

The Eighth Wisconsin, attached to the Second Brigade, Third Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, remained in position at Big Black River bridge, Miss., in the performance of guard and picket duty on the Vicksburg and Jackson railroad, until the 18th of October, 1863. At this date they marched, accompanying the movement of a force of 10,000 men, under command of Maj. Gen. McPherson, which was ordered upon a reconnoissance in the direction of Canton, Miss., to ascertain the position and numbers of the enemy, who were reported in force east of the Big Black river.

At Brownsville, on the following day, they encountered a small body of rebel cavalry, which was dispersed after a sharp skirmish, lasting an hour and a half. The advance was resumed on the 15th, and the enemy again routed and pursued some distance, when, finding the rebel force too small to warrant farther advance, the General commanding ordered a return, and proceeding by way of Clinton and Champion Hills, the Eighth arrived in camp at Black river on the 19th; having marched a distance of eighty-five miles.

On the 7th of November, the regiment moved by rail to Vicksburg, at which place they embarked, proceeding up the river to Memphis, Tenn., where they landed on the 13th, and moved by rail to La Grange, Tenn., on the Memphis and Charleston railroad, and went into camp. From this place, companies A, D, E, G and K, were detached from the main body on the 20th and moved to Saulsbury, nine miles distant. At these stations the regiment was engaged in the performance of guard duty, until the 2d of December, when they marched with an expedition towards Pocahontas, in search of the rebel forces under Forrest. Proceeding by way of Saulsbury, where the regiment was joined by the companies stationed at that place, they proceeded towards Pocahontas, and after several skirmishes with detached portions of the enemy, returned on the following day to La Grange, having marched fifty miles over very bad roads. On the 4th, companies A, D, E, G and K were again ordered to Saulsbury, where they were joined on the 14th by the balance of the regiment, Col. Jefferson being assigned to the command of the post. Here they were constantly employed in guard and fatigue duty, and during the greater part of the time, were under arms to guard against attack, from Forrest's forces which were known to be in the vicinity.

On the 27th of January, 1864, they marched to La Grange, from which place they proceeded by rail on the following day to Memphis. Here they bivouacked for two days, awaiting transportation, and embarking on the 30th, proceeded down the river to Vicksburg, where they arrived on the 3d of February, and next day, marched to Black River Bridge and encamped. Participating in Gen. Sherman's expedition through the interior of Mississippi, they left Big Black on the 27th, and having marched as far as Canton, returned, on the 3d of March to Black River Bridge, and moving thence on the following day, encamped on the 5th at Vicksburg, having marched a distance of one hundred and twenty-five miles. After the return of this expedition it was expected that they would return to Wisconsin on furlough, as a Veteran regiment, but in accordance with Gen. Sherman's request, they remained to take part in Gen. A. J. Smith's projected expedition into Southern Louisiana. Accordingly they embarked at Vicksburg on the 9th and proceeding down the Mississippi and up the Red and Atchafalaya rivers, landed on the 13th at Simmsport, La. The Second brigade immediately marched to and assaulted Fort Scurry, four miles from Simmsport, at the confluence of Yellow Bayou and Bayou de Glaise, capturing a number of prisoners and a quantity of army stores. Having pursued the retreating garrison for several miles they returned to Simmsport on the following day, and marched at noon with the army, in pursuit. Following the course of Bayou de Glaise, for a distance of thirty-five miles, they formed in front of Fort de Russy, on the Red river, at four in the afternoon of the 15th. The fort was immediately invested, and carried by assault, the garrison of three hundred men being captured, together with eleven large guns, and a large amount of stores and small arms. At this point they were joined by the fleet, and proceeded next morning to Alexandria, which the enemy evacuated on their approach.

While awaiting the arrival of Gen. Banks at this place, the Second brigade was detached from the main force, and under command of Gen. Mower, marched on the 21st, along Bayou Rapide, over very muddy roads, a distance of twenty miles, to Henderson's Hill, where the enemy was discovered in strong position, defended by artillery. Upon arriving at this place, it was found impracticable to attack the enemy in front, and while a small force was left in position in front of the rebels, Gen. Mower, with a force of four regiments, including the Eighth Wisconsin, made a detour of fifteen miles, through cane swamps, and at midnight came upon the enemy, capturing his entire force, three hundred and fifty strong, with four guns, four hundred horses, and a supply of ammunition and stores. This brilliant affair was accomplished, notwithstanding the exhaustion of the men from their previous march, by rapid movement through swamps, where the enemy supposed a passage could not be effected, and by isolating the force at Henderson's Hill from the main body, 12,000 strong, under Gen. "Dick" Taylor, who was only four miles distant.

The expedition returned on the following day to Alexandria, and on the 26th were again in motion, proceeding thirty-three miles to Point Comfort on the Red river, where they halted to allow the passage of Gen. Banks's army, and on the morning of the 2d of April, the Eighth, with Gen. Smith's force, embarked on transports, proceeding up Red river for Grand Ecore, eighty miles distant, where the enemy was reported in strong position. They arrived opposite the place on the evening of the following day, when companies A, D and F, were deployed as skirmishers, and the rebels retired with slight show of resistance. At this time the river was falling rapidly, endangering their communications, and Gen. Banks's army having passed on in advance towards Pleasant Hill and Mansfield, for Shreveport, Gen. Smith's forces marched in the same direction on the morning of the 7th, and having toiled upwards of thirty miles through the rain and over horrible roads, arrived on the following day at Pleasant Hill. During the early part of the day, a portion of Gen. Banks's army had been defeated at Sabine Cross Roads, and driven back in the direction of Pleasant Hill, when Gen. Smith's army was at once placed in position to rally our retreating forces and check the advance of the enemy, who attacked our lines vigorously on the 9th, and after a severe contest, lasting four hours, was repulsed at all points and driven from the field. The Eighth having been posted to prevent a flank movement of the enemy, was double-thunked to the front, and joined in the pursuit. After the battle, a retreat was ordered, and the army returned on the 11th to Grand Ecore.

On the 21st the whole army commenced the retreat from this place upon Alexandria, eighty miles distant. At Natchitoches the Eighth was thrown to the left and front, where they held a bridge against the enemy who had attempted to obtain position on the line of retreat, and on the morning of the 24th, assisted in repelling the rebel attack upon our rear. In the evening, while Gen. Smith's army halted at Cloutiersville, awaiting the farther advance of Gen. Banks's army, in their front, the column was again vigorously assailed in rear by a large body of the enemy, and the brigade was marched rapidly one and a half miles to the rear and right. While executing this movement, as the Eighth Wisconsin had just crossed a large open field, and skirmishers were deploying in the timber in front, they were attacked by the enemy with artillery and musketry, and after a stubborn contest of an hour in length, he was driven back in confusion. The march was continued day and night, towards Alexandria, where they arrived on the 26th, after a most difficult march, which was performed under very trying circumstances, and while they were subsisting on short rations.

The evacuation of the river, being now determined upon, Gen. Smith's army moved up Bayou Rapide to hold the enemy in check, during the time occupied in the construction of the celebrated dam, by which, through the engineering skill of Col. Bailey, of the Fourth Wisconsin, our fleet was saved. On the 3d of May they moved southward ten miles along Bayou Robert, and on the following day, the regiment was deployed as skirmishers, covering the front of the army, and constantly skirmishing with the enemy, they advanced to Bayou La Moore, where they were kept constantly under fire and were frequently engaged with the enemy, until the 13th, when the retreat of the army was resumed. The regiment was sent in the evening to guard a bridge in the rear, over which the army was to pass, and participating next day in the general movement, marched down the river and skirmishing frequently with the enemy, arrived late in the evening of the 15th at Fort De Russy. After a rest of two hours they were again put in motion, and acting as rear guard marched by daylight, six miles to Marksville, where the advance was engaging the enemy in front. General Smith's army was at once deployed to the right, the Eighth being on the extreme left of the line.

The troops advanced in this manner to Mansurara, where the enemy occupied position in force. In the battle which followed, our forces advanced directly upon the enemy across an open prairie three miles wide, and forced the enemy to retire, leaving his killed and wounded upon the field. Again on the 17th, they took part in the engagements at Calhoun's plantation and Bayou de Glaise, in which the enemy's movements to interfere with the progress of our forces were handsomely repulsed. On the 19th they moved to within four miles of Simmsport, where they had debarked in March, and the forces in front having nearly completed the crossing of the Atchafalaya, they crossed the river on a pontoon bridge, when it was determined to give battle for the purpose of checking the enemy's farther pursuit. Accordingly, a portion of Gen. Smith's army was put in motion to the rear, the Eighth Wisconsin taking the advance and covering the movement. A short but hotly-contested conflict immediately took place, in which the enemy was repulsed and driven three miles from the field, with a loss of three hundred and twenty-five killed and wounded, and leaving two hundred and fifty prisoners in our hands.

On the following day they crossed the Atchafalaya, arriving at the mouth of the river on the 21st, where they immediately embarked on transports, and proceeding up the Mississippi river, landed on the 24th at Vicksburg, Miss., where they went into camp. Here the regiment remained one week, and on the 3d of June, they again embarked.

and having learned, during their progress up the river, that the rebels under Marmaduke, had established a blockade at Greenville, Miss., their division, commanded by Gen. Mower, landed some distance below that place, and having bivouacked for the night, June 5th, on the river bank, they advanced on the following day with the whole force against the enemy. In the battle of Lake Chicot which followed, the enemy was routed and driven from his position in disorder, the loss of the Eighth being three killed and sixteen wounded. After the battle, the march was continued to Columbia, Ark., twenty miles above, where they again embarked on the 7th, and proceeding up the river, landed on the morning of the 10th at Memphis, Tenn., where the troops went into camp. On the 17th, the veterans of the Eighth left Memphis on furlough, arriving on the 21st at Madison, whence on the 24th the men dispersed to their homes throughout the State.

The non-veterans of the regiment, who had been left at Memphis, Tenn., under command of Capt. Williams, were shortly afterward removed to La Grange, Tenn., where they were stationed as railroad guard until the 5th of July, at which date they marched; forming part of an expedition into the interior of Mississippi, and having participated in several engagements near Tupelo on the 13th and 14th, returned on the 22d, after a march of two hundred and sixty miles, to Memphis, Tenn. The veterans left the regimental rendezvous at Camp Randall on the 27th, and proceeding by rail to St. Louis, embarked at that place, and rejoined their comrades in arms on the 31st at Memphis, where they went into camp.

On the 2d of August the whole regiment marched with Gen. A. J. Smith's expedition into Mississippi, from which they returned on the 29th to Memphis.

Forming a portion of an expedition under command of Gen. Mower, they embarked at Memphis on the 2d of September, and proceeding down the Mississippi, to the White river, ascended the latter stream to St. Charles, Ark., where they landed on the 5th, and resuming the movement on the 8th, continued up the river, landing at Duval's Bluff. From this point, they marched on the 10th, arriving next day at Brownsville, Ark., twenty-eight miles distant. As a portion of the celebrated expedition in pursuit of the rebel Gen. Price, they left Brownsville on the 17th, and after an extremely laborious march of three hundred and forty-seven miles through Arkansas and Missouri, they arrived on the 5th of October at Cape Girardeau, Mo.

The Ninth (German) regiment remained at Helena, Ark., until the 10th of October, 1863, at which date they were put in motion en route for Little Rock. On the march of fifty-two miles from Helena to Clarendon, where they encamped on the 13th, the regiment was constantly annoyed by attacks from guerillas and irregular troops. Resuming the march on the 18th they crossed the White river at Clarendon, and proceeding by way of Duval's Bluff and Brownsville, arrived on the 22d at Little Rock, where they went into camp. Shortly afterwards the regiment was assigned to the First Brigade, First Division, Seventh Army Corps, under command of Maj. Gen. F. Steele. On the 26th they were sent on a reconnoissance to Benton, twenty-five miles distant, and pushed forward twenty miles farther to Rockford, returning on the 1st of November to camp at Little Rock, where they went into winter quarters, and remained during the winter, occupied in the performance of guard and fatigue duty, with work upon the fortifications, and furnishing occasional details for escort to forage trains through the surrounding country. Early in January, 1864, Company F, under command of Capt. Voegelé, was detailed to serve as an artillery company. During this month, also, two hundred and thirteen members of the regiment re-enlisted as veterans, a part of whom, Companies C and K, left Little Rock on veteran furlough on the 8d of February.

In order to co-operate with the Red River expedition under Generals Banks and Smith, the Ninth Wisconsin, participating in the movement of Gen. Steele's forces, left Little Rock on the 23d of March en route to Shreveport, La. Crossing the Saline river at Benton and the Washita at Rockport, they proceeded by easy marches to Arkadelphia, where they remained until the 1st of April, awaiting the arrival of Gen. Thayer's force from Fort Smith. The march was resumed at this date, and the troops bivouacked at Spoonville, near which place, at Terre Noire, the rear of the advancing column was attacked at noon on the following day by Shelby's cavalry. In the action which followed, repulsing the enemy's attack, Company F (artillery), rendered efficient service and was highly complimented. The regiment lost ten killed and a number wounded. On the 3d they marched to Elkins' Ferry, on the Little Missouri river, where they remained two days, and crossing the river on the 6th, encamped at a point four miles beyond. Here they were joined on the 9th by Gen. Thayer's command, and resuming the march on the following morning, soon encountered the enemy who was driven back after a sharp skirmish. On the 11th our forces gained possession of the rebel entrenchments, on the Washington road, when the direction of the march was changed, and the army moved as rapidly as possible in the direction of Camden. The roads in the river bottoms which they were now traversing were very bad owing to late rains, and marching was very difficult and laborious.

The First brigade was urged forward, on the night of the 14th, to occupy position at the intersection of the Washington road, with that upon which our army was advancing, in order to intercept the anticipated movement of the enemy to occupy Camden before the arrival of our forces.—Early on the following morning, they met the rebel forces under Marmaduke, at Poison Springs, and an engagement followed in which the Ninth lost one killed and three wounded. Our troops occupied Camden in the evening, and preparations were made for a farther advance. On the 16th, the regiment was detailed to guard the pontoon bridge across the Washita river at this point, from which duty they were relieved on the 23d and removed to a fort two miles east of the town. At this time information was received of the abandonment of the Red River expedition, and the rebel forces having crossed the Washita river some distance below, had succeeded in establishing themselves in the rear of Gen. Steele's forces, and interrupting his line of supplies.

It was therefore determined to fall back to Little Rock, and at one in the morning of the 26th, the movement commenced. Crossing the Washita river, they proceeded by way of Princeton and encamped two miles west of the Saline river on the 29th. Next morning as our forces were preparing to cross the river, the rear of the column was assaulted by the enemy in greatly superior numbers, and the battle of Jenkins' Ferry commenced. The First brigade acting as rearguard repulsed the first attack, capturing three guns and a number of prisoners. Shortly afterwards, the enemy's main force having arrived, a second attack was made upon the whole line, which was again repulsed, Company B of the Ninth, capturing a battle flag. During this assault, while Gen. Rice was in the act of complimenting the regiment for their gallant behavior, he was struck and instantly killed, when Col. Salomon took command of the brigade, leaving Major Schlueter in charge of the regiment. A third assault was also repulsed by the determined gallantry of our troops, when the enemy abandoned the contest leaving his killed and wounded on the field. In the afternoon the regiment, with the army, crossed the Saline and bivouacked about two miles east of the stream, having lost during the day fourteen killed and seventy wounded. On the 1st of May, they were again in motion, and marching by way of Collegeville, they entered Little Rock on the 3d, and after a short rest, resumed the performance of guard and picket duty with labor on the fortifications. Companies C and K rejoined the regiment from veteran furlough on the 4th of June and Companies H and I, left the regiment for Wisconsin on the 21st of July.

The regiment has since been stationed at Little Rock.

TENTH REGIMENT.

The Tenth remained in camp at Chattanooga, employed in guard duty and labor on the fortifications, until the movement of our forces, in the latter part of November, against Mission Ridge and Lookout Mountain. The regiment, at that time attached to the First Brigade, First Division, Fourteenth Army Corps, acted as support to Loomis's Battery, during the assault upon Mission Ridge, after which they returned to camp at Chattanooga. In the demonstration against Tunnel Hill and Buzzard Roost, on the 22d of February, 1864, they led the advance of our line, and subsequently went into camp at Tyler's Station, Tenn., nine miles from Chattanooga, on the East Tennessee and Georgia railroad.

Here they were employed in railroad guard duty, until the 24th of May, about which time they rejoined the division, and took position in the army under Gen. Sherman, then advancing towards Atlanta. With the Fourteenth Corps, they accompanied the general advance of the army, and participated in the battles at Dallas, Kenesaw Mountain and Peach Tree Creek, and upon the abandonment of the line of the Chattahoochee river by the rebels, the regiment was detached from the brigade and stationed as guard at Marietta, Ga., where they remain at this date.

The recruits who had joined the regiment since its organization, having been transferred by orders of the War Department to the Twenty-first Wisconsin, the Tenth regiment, which had completed its term of service, left Marietta on the 16th of October, and after a delay of some days at Nashville, arrived on the 25th at Milwaukee, Wis., where they were subsequently mustered out of service.

No report has been received from this regiment.

From the 26th of September, 1863, when they moved from Brashear City to Berwick, the Eleventh regiment, attached to the Second Brigade, First Division, Thirteenth Army Corps, was employed until the 3d of October, in preparations for the projected expedition into the interior of Louisiana, subsequently known as the "Second Teche Campaign." At this date, they broke camp at Berwick City and marching by Pattersonville, Cenerville and Franklin, a distance of fifty-two miles, encamped on the 6th at New Iberia, remaining while the Nineteenth Corps, which had the advance, reconnoitered the strength and position of the enemy in front.

The column again moved forward on the 9th, and having marched a short distance beyond New Iberia, the First and Second brigades were detached from the main force, taking the road to St. Martinsville, northwest of that leading to Vermillion Bayou, for the purpose of flanking the enemy who was reported in force at the latter place. As they approached St. Martinsville, after a march of nineteen miles, under a scorching sun, the advance guard, company C of the Eleventh, encountered a strong rebel picket at the outskirts of the town. The regiment was formed in line, and having advanced a short distance was deployed as skirmishers, covering the column on both sides of the road, and advancing in this manner, entered the town in the afternoon, capturing five prisoners, of whom two were officers. Companies G and K were ordered to search the town for arms and ammunition, while the main body moved forward. Having completed the search and seized a quantity of contraband goods, the regiment marched twelve miles farther to Bayou La Tortue, where they bivouacked for the night, moving forward on the following morning, ten miles, to Vermillion Bayou. Owing to the scarcity of supplies, they were detained at this point until the 23d, when the movement was resumed, and marching over wretched roads in a cold and drenching rain a distance of thirty-two miles, encamped next day at Opelousas. At this point they remained, occasionally skirmishing with the enemy, for three days, when the expedition was abandoned.

The return commenced on the 27th, and moving by way of Carrion Crow Bayou, where they remained one day, our troops encamped on the 30th at New Iberia. During this march of forty-seven miles, on account of the incessant rain, the roads were almost impassable, and the men suffered severely from fatigue and exposure. Here Lieut. Colonel Whittlesey joined and took charge of the regiment, which up to this time had been commanded by Major Miller. Early on the morning of the 6th of November, the brigade marched two miles north and were formed in line of battle to repel the expected attack of the enemy, and having remained all day under arms, exposed to a violent rain storm, returned late in the afternoon to camp. This was repeated on the following day, but no enemy was discovered. They were again put in motion on the 8th, and marching by way of Franklin and Pattersonville, they re-entered Berwick City and encamped on the 10th, having performed a toilsome march of upwards of two hundred and fifteen miles over bad roads through a difficult country, during very cold and stormy weather.

On the 17th they crossed Berwick Bay to Brashear City, whence they proceeded by rail to Algiers. Here they embarked on the 19th, and proceeding down the Mississippi to the Gulf of Mexico, arrived on the 23d at Brazos Santiago, Texas, six hundred miles from New Orleans. Four companies, A, C, E and G, under command of Lieut. Colonel Whittlesey, landed at Point Isabel, when a violent storm arose, and the transport, with the balance of the regiment, put to sea; and while steaming along the coast, on the following morning, received orders to proceed at once to reinforce Gen. Banks at Arkansas Pass. The storm still continuing, they were compelled to proceed without the companies which had landed on the day previous, and arrived at Arkansas Pass on the 25th. Here they disembarked on Mustang Island, and encamped on the sand hills, until the 27th, when they crossed Arkansas Pass, and bivouacked on St. Joseph's Island, under orders to reinforce Gen. Washburn, who had advanced on Fort Esperanza two days previous. During the night a "Norther" sprang up, accompanied with rain and sleet. The men were without shelter, and there being no wood on the island they suffered greatly from cold and exposure. On the following day commenced the march through the deep sand, carrying five days' rations and eighty rounds of ammunition. After a very fatiguing march of upwards of fifty miles, they arrived at Fort Esperanza on the 2d of December, too late to assist in its reduction, the enemy having evacuated the position during the preceding night. Here they re-remained until the 7th, when they were joined by their comrades who had been left at Brazos Santiago, and the whole regiment moved across to Decrow's Point on Matagorda Peninsula, where they received their camp and garrison equipage, and went into camp. At this place they were employed in picket duty until the 12th, when they embarked and proceeding up Matagorda Bay, on the following day took possession of Indianola, and returned to camp.

From this time they were employed in the performance of guard and picket duty, with labor on fortifications, until the 3d of January, 1864, when they again moved up the bay, landing next day at Indianola. On the 6th, the Eleventh Wisconsin marched four miles to Old Indianola, to which place they had been ordered on outpost duty. On their arrival, strong picket lines were established and the men quartered in the town. Small bodies of the enemy's forces were occasionally discovered in the vicinity, but they kept a respectful distance, and were easily driven off. On the 13th they were joined by the balance of the brigade from the lower town, and on the 28th, the Major-General commanding the United States' forces in Texas, issued an order complimenting the regiment, of which the following is a

[COPY.]

"HEADQUARTERS, U. S. FORCES, TEXAS,
Pass Cavallo, Jan. 28, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS }
No 12. }

"The field officer of the day, for January 23, 1864, has called the attention of the Major-General commanding, to the perfection of instruction discovered in the picket line and guards of the Eleventh Wisconsin Volunteers.

"The Commanding General acknowledges the great pleasure he feels at recognizing in these soldiers the qualities which he has heretofore heard they possessed.

"Such proficiency reflects honor on the officers and proves the existence of an esprit du corps, which not only makes their state but the North West feel proud.

By order of Major General N. J. T. Dana.

HUGH G. BROWN,

Capt. and Assistant Adjutant General."

Upwards of three-fourths of the regiment having re-enlisted, they were relieved from duty on the 11th of February, and Col. Harris resumed command; having been relieved from the command of the Second brigade, which had been under his direction since leaving New Orleans; the non-veterans of the regiment were also temporarily transferred to the Twenty-Third Wisconsin. The Eleventh was remustered into the United States service as a veteran organization, on the 13th, and on the following day, escorted by the Twenty-second Iowa, they marched to Indianola, where they embarked and started for home amid the cheers of their companions in arms. From Decrow's Point where they bivouacked for the night, the left wing of the regiment, under command of Lt. Col. Whittlessey, embarked at noon on the following day, and after a very rough passage, arrived on the 21st at New Orleans, where they were joined on the 23d, by the balance of the regiment.

Here they remained some weeks awaiting transportation to the North, and having participated on the 4th of March in the inauguration of Gov. Hahn of Louisiana, left New Orleans on the 10th, and ascending the Mississippi, disembarked at Cairo on the 19th. Proceeding thence by rail they arrived late in the evening of the 21st in Madison, Wisconsin, where a formal reception by the state authorities took place on the following day, and a new stand of colors was presented to the regiment. The men, whose soldierly appearance was highly applauded, received furloughs during the afternoon and dispersed to their homes, under orders to rendezvous at Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, where the regiment reassembled on the 28d of April. They again left the state on the 25th and proceeding by way of Chicago to Cairo, where they embarked on the 27th, landed on the 29th at Memphis, Tenn., at which place they were detained by Maj. Gen. Washburn, and went into camp two miles west of the city.

Participating in Gen. Sturges' expedition through Western Tennessee and Northern Mississippi, they left Memphis on the 2d of May, carrying five days rations and without tents or baggage, and marching by way of Moscow and Bolivar, where they took part in a skirmish with Forrest's cavalry on the 4th, advanced to within a short distance of Salem, where a farther advance was abandoned, and the troops reentered camp near Memphis on the 9th, having marched upwards of one hundred miles. The journey southward was resumed on the 11th, and proceeding by steamer down the Mississippi, they encamped on the 15th at Carrollton, La., six miles from New Orleans. Here they remained until the 19th, when they crossed the river to Algiers, proceeding thence by rail to Brashear City, the terminus of the New Orleans and Great Western railroad. Col. Harris was placed in command of this important post and the regiment was employed in the performance of guard and outpost duty.

From this point, company D was detached on the 26th to Bayou Louisa, and company E (on the 31st) to Tigerville, where they were reinforced on the 8th of June, by company K, and were stationed as guard on the line of the railroad. On the 10th of June, the regiment, with the exception of companies D, E and K, left Brashear City taking part in an expedition against a body of the enemy's cavalry which had been annoying our pickets for some time previous. Having proceeded about four miles up Bayou Teche, the expedition landed, and shortly afterwards encountered a body of cavalry, whom they soon put to flight, and having pursued them to Pattersonville, returned the same evening to camp.

Since this date, detachments from the regiment have been frequently dispatched on reconnoitering expeditions through the surrounding country. On the 16th, companies E and K, under command of Capt. Lewis, left Tigerville, on a scouting expedition, during which they captured a small party of rebel cavalry who had been dispatched to destroy the railroads and telegraph communications. Capt. Lewis brought his command, with the prisoners, into camp at Tigerville late in the evening, having marched upwards of thirty miles through swamps, and acquired thorough information as to the designs of the rebel force in his vicinity. On the 19th, company B was placed in garrison at Fort Brashear, where they were daily drilled as an artillery company. Company K rejoined the regiment on the 23d, and on the 30th, companies A and G, with a part of company I, the whole under command of Major Miller, were sent up Bayou Long with orders to seize and destroy every description of craft which could be made available by the enemy for the transportation of troops, which having been effected, they returned to camp. On the 20th of July, companies D and E were relieved from duty at Bayou Louis and Tigerville, and rejoined the regiment at Brashear City, and on the 23th, company F, commanded by Lieut. McConnell, embarked on a gunboat and proceeding to the head of Grand Lake, dispersed a party of rebels who were engaged in constructing flat boats at that point, and having destroyed the partially completed boats, returned to camp in the evening. Again on the 27th, companies E and K, with a detachment of company D, the whole under command of Capt. Lewis, embarked at three in the morning, and having reconnoitered the country around Grand Lake, without finding an enemy, returned on the following day to camp. On the 8th of September companies B and G, under command of Capt. Wyman, were ordered to effect a reconnoissance on the Grand River, and having proceeded upwards of forty-five miles, returned next day to camp, bringing two prisoners, twenty horses, with a quantity of equipments and stores. A similar expedition, consisting of companies A, C and H, with a detachment from company I, was sent out and returned on the 13th, without finding the enemy.

On the 26th, two detachments, under command of Major Miller and Capt. Wyman, embarked on gunboats, and operating in connection with a force of cavalry, moved to Grand river, and having effected a thorough reconnoissance of the country and seized a barge laden with two hundred and twenty bales of cotton, returned on the 28th to Brashear City where the regiment is now employed in grand guard and picket duty.

Since being stationed at this place, they have been employed in digging rifle pits, performing guard and provost duty, and have frequently been required to take part in reconnoitering expeditions up the Teche, and the many other bayous which connect with Berwick Bay, by which the aggregation of any considerable force of the rebels in their vicinity has been prevented. The line picketed by the regiment extends in a circuitous direction four miles North and five miles South of the city. Since the 10th of August, at which date Lieut. Col. Whittlesey was detached to New Orleans as Assistant Provost Marshal General of the Department, the regiment has been under the command of Major Miller.

The Twelfth Wisconsin remained at Natchez, Miss., until the 22d of November, 1863, when they proceeded by steamer up the Mississippi, and landing at Vicksburg, marched thence ten miles, northeast to Bovina Station, where they went into camp on the 26th, as guard to the railroad near the Black river. Under orders to join an expeditionary force under Gen. Gresham, they broke camp at Bovina on the 4th of December, and proceeding down the river from Vicksburg, landed early in the morning of the 6th, at Natchez. Here they joined the other forces assigned to the expedition, and immediately marched in pursuit of Wirt Adams' rebel command. Failing to discover any considerable force of the enemy, they returned on the 8th to Natchez, remaining in camp at that place until the 21st, when they again marched on a scouting expedition to Fayette, Miss., from which they returned on the 23d, and went into camp on the Pine Ridge road, near the fortifications. Embarking at Natchez on the 23d of January, 1864, they landed at Vicksburg on the following day, and marching thence ten miles in a northeasterly direction, encamped on the 25th, at Hebron, where the Twelfth was reorganized as a veteran regiment.

Of six hundred and sixty-seven present with the regiment, six hundred and two had been in service upwards of two years, the remaining sixty-five having joined by enlistment since its organization. Five hundred and twenty of those whose term of service permitted re-enlisted, and were again mustered into the service for three years. Of the others, forty-eight promised to re-enlist on the expiration of two years from their respective dates of enrolment.

On the 3d of February, they left camp at Hebron, accompanying the celebrated Meridian expedition under command of Gen. Sherman. On the following day, they took part in the action at Bolton, Miss., with a loss of three killed and four wounded. The enemy was forced back a distance of two miles across Baker's Creek, where the regiment repaired and held the bridge, until relieved on the morning of the 5th by the arrival of the Third Division. With the advance of the expedition, they marched through Jackson, Hillsboro and Decatur, to Meridian, and thence to Enterprise and Quitman, destroying the railroad track, bridges, storehouses, and other rebel property on their route. Returning by way of Decatur, Canton and Black River Bridge, they re-entered camp at Hebron on the 4th of March, having marched in thirty-one days about four hundred and sixteen miles. The veterans of the regiment left Hebron on the 13th of March, and embarking at Vicksburg, proceeded up the Mississippi to Cairo, Ill., and thence by rail to Madison, Wis., where they arrived on the 21st. After a public reception at the capital by the State authorities and members of the Legislature, they remained at Camp Randall until the 31st, when the men received their pay and dispersed to their homes, in the enjoyment of veteran furlough.

The Veteran Twelfth left the regimental rendezvous at Camp Randall on the 30th of April, and arrived on the 3d of May at Cairo, Ill., where they were joined by the non-veteran portion of the regiment, which had been left at Hebron, Miss. Accompanying the forces of Gen. Gresham, they embarked at Cairo on the 10th, with the First Brigade, to which they had been transferred, and proceeding up the Tennessee River, landed on the 14th at Clifton, Tenn. They left Clifton next day, marching via Huntsville and Decatur, Ala., and Rome, Ga., a distance of nearly three hundred miles, they joined the Army of the Tennessee, with Gen. Sherman's forces, at Ackworth, Ga., on the 8th of June. They moved forward to Big Shanty on the 10th, and next day formed line of battle, and charged two miles through the timber, capturing the first skirmish line of the enemy in front of Kenasaw Mountain, before which the regiment was constantly employed in picket and fatigue duty with frequent engagements with the enemy, during the remainder of the month, sustaining a loss of thirty-four men, in killed, wounded and missing.

Participating in Gen. McPherson's celebrated movement to the right of the army, they moved from position before Kenasaw Mountain on the evening of the 2d of July, and marching during the night by a circuitous route, took position near the Chattahoochie river, at the mouth of Nickajack Creek. On the 5th, forming a part of our line, they advanced towards the creek, driving the enemy from a strong line of rifle pits and forcing him across the stream, to his main works. They fortified the point thus gained and advanced the picket line to the bank of the creek, occupying the position, until the night of the 8th, when bridges were built and the skirmish line thrown across the stream, and established in rifle pits on the opposite bank. During the succeeding night, the enemy abandoned his entire works on the right bank of the Chattahoochie and fell back to the south side of the river. At this time the regiment was transferred to the First Brigade, Third Division, Seventeenth Army Corps, with which they have since been identified. On the 17th of July, they were again put in motion towards the left with the Army of the Tennessee. Crossing the Chattahoochie at Roswell's Mills, they passed through Decatur, on the Georgia railroad, six miles north-east of Atlanta, on the 19th, and crossing the railroad which they destroyed at this point, advanced, on the following day towards Atlanta. Forcing back the enemy's skirmishers, as they advanced, they bivouacked in line during the night, and on the 21st, as part of a storming party, carried a high fortified ridge in front, about four miles from Atlanta, which they held, although suffering severely from an enfilading fire on the right, repulsing the enemy's repeated attempts to recover the position. In this action the Twelfth captured forty-eight prisoners and five hundred stand of arms, sustaining a loss during the day of one hundred and fifty-four in killed, wounded and missing.

During the night, the rebels evacuated their works on the right, which were next morning occupied by our troops. About noon, the enemy in great force fell upon the left of the line, outflanking and forcing back the Fourth division, which held the extreme flank of our army, and pushing rapidly forward to position in rear and within three hundred yards of the works occupied by the Twelfth Wisconsin. While pressing forward to the assault, the Sixteenth corps, which arrived at this juncture on the field of battle, fell in turn upon the rebel rear, and with the Seventeenth corps, succeeded in capturing nearly the whole attacking force. The general commanding the brigade having been wounded early in the action, Col. Bryant took charge of the brigade, Lt. Col. Prouditt assuming command of the regiment. "During this battle the Twelfth fought some time in two wings back to back, with the enemy on both fronts and one flank, one wing of the regiment being unprotected by works. The regiment held all its ground, but the rebels continued the engagement outside of the works on the left and point of the ridge during the night, fighting companies B and G over the works at a distance of eight to ten feet until near daylight, when they finally retired. In this engagement the loss of the regiment was thirty four in killed and wounded. On the morning of the 23d, the ground in their front was almost literally covered with the rebel dead and badly wounded, so fierce and desperate were the repeated attempts of their generals, Cleburne and Walker, to dislodge our troops from the hill so gallantly captured on the preceding day."*

In the general movements of the army, as it closed upon Atlanta, they marched on the evening of the 26th, with the Army of the Tennessee around the rear of the Army of the Cumberland, which they joined on its right next day, advancing by the left towards the city. Having taken part in several slight skirmishes as they advanced, the regiment bivouacked in line for the night. The movement was continued on the morning of the 28th until ten o'clock, when their corps halted, the Fifteenth corps on their right still moving forward. At noon, a large force of the enemy attacked the latter, which was then nearly two miles in advance. The Twelfth, which was immediately ordered to the extreme right, advanced on the "double quick," outstripping all other reinforcements, and arrived just in time to meet and check the rebel force, which had succeeded in out-flanking our troops. The regiment at once took position on the right, where they were soon joined by other troops. The battle continued with great fury, until sunset, when the rebels withdrew from the field; their successive charges on various points of our line having been repulsed with great slaughter. During the day, the Twelfth lost nineteen killed and wounded. Next morning they were relieved and took position in the brigade line, in the trenches before Atlanta, where they were employed in picket and fatigue duty, and constantly exposed to the rebel fire, until the 26th of August, when they left the trenches, marching with the Army of the Tennessee towards Sandtown on the right. Next day the direction of the march was changed to the southeast, the army arriving on the 28th at Fairburn, on the Atlanta and West Point railroad.

Having destroyed the railroad at this point, they again advanced on the 30th, arriving next day in the vicinity of Jonesboro, twenty-two miles from Atlanta, on the Macon and Western railroad. Having been engaged in heavy skirmishing as they moved to position, the regiment formed in line on the left of the Eighteenth, and right of the Seventeenth corps. Shortly after noon, the enemy attacked in heavy force, and after a severe battle, the assault was repulsed, our troops occupying the ground during the night. During the battle at this point on the 1st of September, the regiment occupied position on the extreme right of the Seventeenth corps and sustained but slight loss. Next day, they marched in pursuit of the enemy, who had retreated during the night, leaving his wounded, with many stragglers upon the field. Having advanced six miles to Lovejoy, where the rebels had occupied a new position, strongly fortified, the regiment was ordered forward and drove the enemy's skirmishers from a wooded hill, upon which they had been posted, to the main force, when line of battle was formed, in which the regiment retained position until the 5th. At this date, they marched on the return to Atlanta, near which they went into camp on the 8th, and have since remained.

In the latter part of October, 1863, the Thirteenth Wisconsin moved from Stevenson, Ala., to Nashville, Tenn., going into camp at Edgefield, on the opposite bank of the Cumberland river. During the month of January, of the present year, a large proportion of the regiment re-enlisted, and leaving Nashville in the beginning of February, arrived on the 17th at Janesville, Wis. On the expiration of the veteran furlough, they returned to Nashville, Tenn. in the latter part of March, and shortly afterwards, having been assigned to the First Brigade, Fourth Division, Twentieth Army Corps, removed to Stevenson, Ala., the junction of the Nashville and Chattanooga with the Memphis and Charleston railroad. In June the regiment was ordered to Claysville, Ala., on the Tennessee river, at which place they were employed in guarding the river from Whitesburg to Thorn's Landing, a distance of forty miles. From this point they marched in the latter part of September to Brownsville, Ala., where they have since been stationed.

Early in the present year, the Fourteenth was divided, the non-veterans of the regiment, under command of Major Worden, being transferred to the army under Gen. Sherman's command, with which they have since been identified. The reenlisted men of the regiment, under Col. Ward, upon their return to Vicksburg, from veteran furlough, were assigned to the Fourth Division, Seventeenth Army Corps, to which they are now attached. In the absence of any report, I am compelled to refer to the record of the Thirty-third Infantry, for a general idea of the services of the veteran portion of the regiment.

The Fifteenth Regiment was stationed at Chattanooga, and engaged in work upon the fortifications, until the 18th of October, 1863, when a portion of the regiment was detached, under orders to escort a supply train to Stevenson, Ala. On the 18th, the balance of the regiment moved to the north bank of the Tennessee, near Chattanooga, where they were employed.

in cutting and rafting timber for pontoon bridges across the river at Chattanooga. While engaged in this duty they were joined by the detachment which had been sent to Stevenson, and on the 8th of November rejoined the brigade, going into garrison at Fort Wood.

Under command of Capt. Gordon, they took part in the storm of Mission Ridge, on the 25th of November, when six of their number were wounded, and participating in the general movement which followed this battle, they left Chattanooga on the 28th, to reinforce Gen. Burnside's forces at Knoxville, East Tennessee. After an extremely fatiguing march of one hundred and ten miles, with scanty rations, they arrived at that place on the 7th of December, and next day marched sixteen miles south to Marysville, where they remained two days, returning on the 11th to Knoxville. Here a short time was allowed for rest, and on the 16th they marched thirteen miles in a northerly direction to Blane's Cross Roads, where they were employed in picket and guard duty until the 25th, at which date they marched six miles to Strawberry Plains, seventeen miles from Knoxville, on the East Tennessee and Virginia Railroad. At this point, holding position in the extreme right of the Army of the Ohio, the regiment was employed in rebuilding the railroad bridge across the Holston river, and in general guard duty. They left Strawberry Plains on the 14th of January, and marching eighteen miles, arrived on the following day at Dandridge, where they were joined in the evening by a detachment of convalescents, which had been left at Chattanooga at their departure from that place on the 28th of November. While en route, the detachment took part in a severe engagement with Wheeler's cavalry at Charleston, Tenn., which resulted in the defeat of the enemy, with a loss of ten killed and one hundred and sixty-seven wounded and prisoners.

The regiment left Dandridge on the night of the 18th, arriving on the 21st at Knoxville, marching thence on the 24th by way of Marysville, to McKee's Ferry, whence they returned during the night of the 29th to Marysville, under orders to proceed to Wisconsin on veteran furlough. They reached Loudon, twenty-eight miles distant on the 31st, and owing to the threatening movements of the enemy, were met by orders to return immediately to Marysville, where they again encamped on the evening of 1st of February, having suffered greatly from fatigue during the march. They remained in the performance of guard duty at this place, until the evening of the 16th, when they were put in motion, arriving next day at Knoxville, where they remained a week, marching on the 24th to Strawberry Plains. Leaving this place on the 27th, they crossed the Holston river, and proceeding by way of New Market, arrived on the 29th at Morristown. They returned to New Market on the 3d of March, and thence, on the 9th, to Strawberry Plains, where the regiment was stationed as guard to the railroad bridge, and employed in picket duty and labor on the fortifications, until the 7th of April, when they left Strawberry Plains, under orders to join the Army of the Cumberland, and having marched a distance of one hundred and eight miles, encamped on the 16th at McDonald Station, Tenn., on the East Tennessee and Georgia Railroad, between Chattanooga and Cleveland.

Here thorough preparations were made for the Spring campaign, and on the 3d of May, they left McDonald, and accompanying the movement of the Fourth Corps, joined Gen. Sherman's army on the 5th, near Ringgold, Ga. From this place, the army was put in motion on the 7th, and after severe skirmishing during the day, our troops occupied Tunnel Hill in the evening. The Fifteenth Wisconsin was employed during the night on picket duty in front of Willieh's Brigade, and next morning were ordered forward to reconnoitre the enemy's position on Rocky Ridge, near Dalton. The regiment advanced, with four companies, under Capt. Gordon, deployed in front as skirmishers, and, after a severe skirmish, succeeded in dislodging the enemy from his strong position on the summit of the ridge, which was immediately occupied by the reserve companies, and retained by the regiment until relieved on the morning of the 13th, when the troops were hurried forward in pursuit of the enemy, who had evacuated Dalton during the night. On the following day, they came up with the rebels at Resaca, when a charge was ordered and a fierce action ensued, in which the first line of rebel entrenchments was carried, the Fifteenth sustaining a loss of four killed and fourteen wounded.

During the night of the 16th, the enemy evacuated his position at Resaca, burning the railroad bridge as he withdrew. On the 17th of May, our troops moved forward in pursuit, the Fifteenth crossing the Coosawattee at noon, and pressing forward, with constant skirmishing, as the enemy retreated, arrived on the 25th before the enemy's position at Dallas. The Fourth Corps immediately moved to the support of the advance, under Gen. Hooker, which had been engaged in a severe fight with the enemy. They arrived on the battlefield near midnight, and next morning moved into position, which they proceeded to fortify. On the 27th, the Third Division, to which the regiment belonged, was relieved from this position, and immediately moved to the extreme left of the army, where they were ordered to attack the enemy's works. In this, "the most desperate charge of the campaign," many of the regiment were killed on the rebel fortifications, and our line was established within fifteen yards of the enemy, sheltered from his fire only by the slope of the hill upon which his batteries were planted. Although exposed to a galling fire of musketry, they retained this position for five hours, when the enemy was reinforced and charged upon their weakened ranks, forcing them to retire, leaving their dead and mortally wounded in the hands of the rebels. In this sanguinary engagement, the regiment, which went into action with one hundred and sixty muskets, lost eighty-three officers and men, killed, wounded and prisoners.

They afterwards accompanied the movements of the army towards Macon, almost constantly under fire, and forcing the enemy slowly back from their front. On the 28th of June, they participated in the assault upon the enemy's position on Kenesaw Mountain, with a loss of six killed and eleven wounded. They remained in the trenches before these works until the 3d of July, when they again moved forward in pursuit of the enemy, who had withdrawn from his works during the previous night. They crossed the Chattahoochee on the 17th, and accompanied the general movement of our forces to Atlanta, before which place they were employed in siege and fatigue duty, near the extreme left of our line, until the evening of the 26th of August, when they left the trenches, accompanying Gen. Sherman's movement to intercept the enemy's communications on the south and east of Atlanta. Having marched about forty miles in a circuitous direction, they arrived on the 31st at Jonesboro, twenty-two miles from Atlanta, where temporary entrenchments were thrown up, and the troops bivouacked for the night.

They participated in the engagement at this place on the 1st of September, after which they marched through the town in pursuit of the retreating enemy, and encamped on the 3d near Lovejoy's Station. They broke camp on the evening of the 5th, and marched on the return to Atlanta, going into camp on the 8th, four miles from the city, on the Atlanta and Augusta Railroad. On the 29th they left camp near Atlanta, under orders to report at Chattanooga, Tenn., at which place they arrived on the 1st of October.

The Sixteenth Wisconsin, at date of the last annual report, was attached to the First Brigade, First Division, Seventeenth Army Corps, and stationed at Redbone, Miss., a small village, twelve miles southeast of Vicksburg, to which point they had been ordered for the purpose of guarding the fords on Big Black River in the vicinity, and also for the protection of the citizens, many of whom had given substantial evidence of their loyalty to the Government. During the winter, detachments of the regiment had frequent skirmishes with various bands of Wirt Adams' rebel cavalry, in which the rebels were uniformly defeated.

They were engaged in the performance of this duty until the 5th of February, 1864, when the regiment marched to Vicksburg, and encamped within the fortifications, as part of the garrison of that important post. Here they were joined on the 4th of March, by three full companies, F, H, and K, which had been recruited in Wisconsin for the regiment, and on the 6th, the old companies, A, C, E, G and I, having re-enlisted, left Vicksburg on veteran furlough. Proceeding up the Mississippi to Cairo, Ill., and thence by rail to Wisconsin, they arrived at Madison on the 16th, and next day received a public welcome at the Capital by the State Officers and Members of the Legislature, after which the men dispersed to their homes throughout the State.

Companies F, H and K, which had been left at Vicksburg, with the non-veterans of the regiment, moved on the 19th of March to Black River bridge, where they remained as railroad guard, until the 5th of April, at which date they returned to Vicksburg. Here they embarked on the following day and proceeding up the Mississippi, disembarked at Columbus, Ky., in anticipation of an attack upon that place. They were stationed at Columbus, in the performance of guard and picket duty, until the 18th, when they proceeded by steam to Cairo, Ill.

Meanwhile, the veterans of the regiment had rendezvoused at Madison on the 18th of April, and proceeding thence by rail on the 20th, arrived on the 22d at Cairo, Ill., where they joined the non-veterans with companies F, H and K, and also company B, which had been recruited and sent forward from Wisconsin, some days previous, thus augmenting the force of the regiment to nine companies. While here the regiment was assigned to the First Brigade, Third Division, Seventeenth Corps, with which they left Cairo on the 4th of May, proceeding by transports up the Tennessee river to Clifton, Tenn., where they remained until joined by the balance of the division. With the whole force they left Clifton on the 15th, under command of General Leggett, and marching across the country, arrived on the 23d at Huntsville, Ala. The march was resumed on the 25th, and moving in a south-easterly direction, they arrived at Warrenton, Ala, on the 30th, having marched one hundred and ninety miles from Clifton. They left Warrenton on the following day, and marching by way of Van Buren, reached Rome, Ga., on the evening of the 5th of June, and proceeding thence next day arrived on the 8th at Aokworth, thirty-five miles from Atlanta, on the Western and Atlantic railroad.

Here they joined the forces under General Sherman, and on the 10th moved forward to the front, the division taking position on the extreme left of the army, which was then in front of the enemy's entrenchments on Lost and Kenesaw Mountains. The Sixteenth remained in the trenches, constantly engaged in skirmishing, until the 19th, when the division moved forward and occupied Brush Mountain, east of Kenesaw, without severe opposition. On the 23d, the regiment accompanied the brigade, in a reconnoissance to the left, and on the 28th, took part with the division in the demonstration against the enemy's right, after which they returned to Brush Mountain.

Accompanying the celebrated movement of the army of the Tennessee, under General McPherson, to the right, they left Brush Mountain on the evening of the 2d of July, marching during that night and the following day towards the mouth of Nickajack Creek, and threatening the enemy's communications at Turner's Ferry across the Chattahoochee. This movement having resulted in the enemy's retreat from Kenesaw, the regiment on the 4th, accompanied the brigade on a reconnoissance to the extreme right to ascertain the enemy's position, which having been effected, they rejoined the corps on the following morning and took position on the extreme right of our army, nearly a mile from the Chattahoochee river. On the 10th they moved to Sweetwater Creek, where they remained as guard until the 16th, at which date they marched towards Marietta, and crossing the Chattahoochee on the following day, encamped three miles south of the river. They passed through Decatur on the 20th, taking position in line of battle before Atlanta, with the extreme left of the army, and next day charged upon and carried the enemy's works on Bald Hill by assault, with a loss of seventy-eight men, killed and wounded. They were engaged during the 22d in defending these works against the repeated efforts of the rebels to retake the position, sustaining a loss of twelve killed, twenty-six wounded and seven missing. They were thenceforward occupied in strengthening the works, and gradually advancing towards the enemy's defences, until the 26th, when they moved to the right, taking position on the left centre of the investing force.

They were occupied in siege and fatigue duty at this point, until the 26th of August, when they left the trenches, to accompany the movement to the right of the army of the Tennessee, and moving in a circuitous route, by way of Sandtown, struck the West Point railroad above Fairburn on the 28th and destroying the railroad in their advance, arrived at Jonesboro on the 30th, where they assisted in repulsing the attack of the enemy on the following day. On the 2d of September, they moved forward in pursuit of the enemy, participating in the skirmish near Lovejoy Station, after which they retained the position until the 5th, when they commenced the return march to Atlanta, at which place they went into camp on the 9th, and have since been stationed.

The Seventeenth Regiment remained at Natchez, Miss., participating in frequent scouting parties and skirmishes with guerillas, until the latter part of October, 1863, when they embarked, and proceeded up the river to Vicksburg, at which place they were occupied during the winter in camp and guard duty, with occasional expeditions through the surrounding country. During the month of January, 1864, seven-eighths of the regiment re-enlisted for three years, and on the 8th of March, the Veteran Seventeenth left Vicksburg on transports, en route for home. They arrived at Madison on the 18th, and after a cordial welcome on the part of the State authorities and citizens, the members of the regiment dispersed to their homes in various parts of the State.

On the 20th of April, they re-assembled at Camp Washburn, in Milwaukee, and next day again took their departure for the front. They arrived on the 22d at Cairo, Ill., where they were assigned to the Second Brigade of the forces temporarily organized under command of Gen. Gresham for an expedition through Tennessee. Col. Malloy having been placed in command of the brigade, the command of the regiment devolved upon Lieut. Col. McMahon. They left Cairo on the 4th of May, proceeding thence by steamer to Clifton, Tenn., on the Tennessee river, from which place they marched on the 15th, and arrived on the 23d at Huntsville, Ala., fifty miles from Clifton. At this place the Seventeenth Corps was re-organized, and the regiment assigned to the Third Brigade, Third Division, with which they have since been identified. Col. Malloy was placed in command of the brigade. They were again put in motion on the 5th of May to join Gen. Sherman's forces, which were then advancing upon Atlanta. They arrived, on the 30th, at Warrenton, Ga., and resuming the march on the following day, reached Rome on the 5th of June.

Moving thence by way of Kingston, the regiment arrived on the 8th at Ackworth, where they joined the army under Gen. Sherman, and, on the 10th, took position near Big Shanty in front of the enemy, the division occupying the extreme left of the line. They were constantly occupied in heavy skirmishing until the 19th, when the division advanced, taking position on Brush Mountain, east of the enemy's entrenchments on Kenesaw Mountain. On the 22d, they participated in a demonstration on the enemy's right, carrying two lines of rifle pits, and after sustaining a heavy fire from the enemy's artillery for upwards of three hours, returned to the position on Brush Mountain. The enemy having shortly afterwards abandoned his position on Kenesaw Mountain, the regiment was constantly engaged in skirmishing, with frequent changes of position during the subsequent operations near the Chattahoochee river, which they crossed on the 17th of July, encamping three miles south of the river. They again moved forward on the 20th, passing through Decatur, and occupying a position in the trenches before Atlanta.

The portion of our works occupied by their division was assaulted on the 22d by the rebels in greatly superior numbers, and notwithstanding that the position was nearly surrounded during this formidable assault, the determined valor of our force was sufficient to repulse all attempts to dislodge them, and finally to drive the enemy from the field in utter confusion. Thenceforward, they were constantly occupied in the duties of the siege, until the 26th of August, at which date they marched with the Army of the Tennessee, participating in the movement to the rear of Atlanta. They crossed the Montgomery and West Point Railroad on the 28th, and pressing forward to the Macon and Western Railroad, participated on the 31st in the engagement near Jonesboro, during which they formed a portion of the support to the Fifteenth Corps. On the 2d of September, they took part in the action at Lovejoy's Station, near which they remained until the 5th, when they moved towards Atlanta, going into camp on the 9th at East Point, on the Macon and Western Railroad, six miles from Atlanta, where they are yet stationed.

The Eighteenth Wisconsin, attached to the First Brigade, Third Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, left Memphis, Tenn., on the 6th of October, 1863, proceeding by rail to Corinth, Miss, whence they marched nine miles on the following day and encamped at Glendale on the Memphis and Charleston railroad. From this place they marched on the 17th, participating in the movement of Gen. Sherman's forces to the relief of Chattanooga, and proceeding by way of Iuka, arrived on the 23d at Dickson, Ala., where they remained until the movement was resumed on the 29th. They crossed the Tennessee river at Waterloo, Ala., on the 31st, and marching via Florence, Fayetteville and Winchester, Tenn., reached Bridgeport, Ala., on the 15th of November. Crossing the Tennessee at this point on the 18th, they marched all night, and encamped on the following day in rear of Chattanooga, Tenn., having marched through Northern Mississippi and Alabama and Southern Tennessee, a distance of upwards of two hundred and fifty miles from Burnsville, Miss.

Participating in the movement of the Army of the Cumberland, to which they were now attached, they crossed the Tennessee river at midnight on the 24th, and next morning took part in the attack on Mission Ridge, immediately after which they were ordered forward in pursuit of the retreating enemy, and having marched on the 27th as far as Graysville, Ga., returned on the following day to camp near Chattanooga. On the 3d of December they marched to Whiteside, Ala., thirteen miles from Chattanooga on the Nashville and Chattanooga railroad, and thence on the following day to Bridgeport, Ala., where they were employed in guard duty, and remained until the 21st. Marching at this date, they proceeded by way of Larkinsville and Woodville to Huntsville, Ala., where they went into camp on the 25th. The regiment remained at Huntsville, employed in guard, outpost and provost duty, until the 1st of May, 1864, when they marched to Whitesburg, Ala., on the Tennessee river, to which post they had been assigned for guard duty.

On the 19th of June, they were again in motion, and marching through Brownsboro and Larkinsville, arrived on the 25th at Stevenson, Ala., the junction of the Nashville and Chattanooga, with the Memphis and Charleston railroad. After a delay of five days at this place, they moved by rail to Chattanooga and marching thence on the 6th of July, by way of Dalton, Resaca and Kingston, arrived on the 18th at Allatoona, nearly ninety miles from Chattanooga, and forty miles from Atlanta, on the Western and Atlantic railroad. Companies E, F and I, were detached from the regiment and stationed two miles south of the town to guard the railroad bridge over Allatoona creek. The remaining seven companies were occupied in camp and garrison duty at Allatoona, until the 22d of August, when they marched, arriving at Chattanooga on the 25th. From this place, they were immediately sent into Eastern Tennessee in pursuit of the rebel forces under Wheeler, and having marched to Loudon, returned on the 30th to Chattanooga.

They were ordered thence to Cowan, Tenn., on the Nashville and Chattanooga railroad, from which place detachments were sent out as railroad guards, and stationed at various points, guarding a line twenty-two miles in length, until the 19th of September, when they were relieved and ordered to rejoin their brigade. They arrived at Allatoona on the 22d, and have since been stationed at that place, in the discharge of garrison and guard duty, three companies of the regiment still occupying position two miles south, defending the railroad bridge across Allatoona creek.

The Nineteenth Wisconsin, having been relieved from duty at Newport News, Va., embarked at that place on the 8th of October, 1863, and arrived on the 11th at Newbern, N. C., on the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad. Under the direction of Gen. Palmer, commanding the defences, the regiment was assigned to outpost and picket duty: company A being detached and stationed at Evans' Mills, eight miles from Newbern, a fortified outpost consisting of a small earthwork and block-house, defended by one field piece: company B at Brier Creek, two miles from Newbern, with two field pieces, and company F at Havelock Station, twenty miles from Newbern, with one field piece. The balance of the regiment was placed in barracks on the south side of Trent river, half a mile from the town. Lieut. Col. Strong taking command of the defences on that side of the river.

On the 1st of February, 1864, Newbern was attacked by the enemy in force. The assault on the south was repulsed by the forces under Col. Strong, consisting of that portion of the regiment stationed there, assisted by a battery of artillery, and Capt. York's command at Brier Creek. Company A was attacked on the following day, at Evans' Mills, by the enemy, in greatly superior numbers, but held their position, until reinforced, when the rebels abandoned the attack. The posts at Evans' Mills and Havelock Station, having been outflanked by the rebel forces, our small force at those places was withdrawn on the 3d, and next day Capt. Tator's command reoccupied Evans' Mills, company F remaining with the regiment until the 6th, when they were ordered to Fort Spinola, and took charge of the heavy guns. On the 20th, company E was ordered to Fort Gaston, for the performance of similar duty, remaining until relieved by company H on the 28th of March.

Six companies of the Nineteenth left Newbern on the 19th of April, under orders to reinforce the garrison of Plymouth, N. C., then severely pressed by the enemy, but were unable to reach that place before its surrender, and after a short time spent upon Roanoke Island, in anticipation of an attack, returned on the 24th, to camp. Two days afterwards, (April 26) the regiment left Newbern, under orders to report at Yorktown, Va., where they landed on the 28th, and were assigned to the Third Brigade, First Division, Eighteenth Army Corps. Col. Sanders being placed in command of the brigade, Lieut. Col. Strong took charge of the regiment. On the 4th of May, they again embarked and proceeding up the James river, landed next day at Bermuda Hundreds, whence they marched on the 6th to Point of Rocks, at which place they were employed in building entrenchments, until the 9th, when they took the advance in the movement to Walthall Junction and Swift Creek. Our forces succeeded next day in obtaining possession of the Richmond and Petersburg railroad near this point, and having destroyed three miles of the track, returned in the evening to camp.

On the 12th, the right wing of the regiment, companies A, C, D, E and F, participated in the movement upon Fort Darling. This portion of the regiment took the advance as skirmishers, covering the Third brigade, and lay in skirmish line during the night. Early next morning our lines were advanced, six men of the Nineteenth being wounded, while charging on a brick house protecting a point in the rebel line, and occupied by sharpshooters. During the night they occupied the advance line. On the 14th they accompanied the general advance of our troops, by which the first line of the enemy's works was carried, losing five of their number wounded, after which they were ordered to occupy a road in the rear of Fort Jackson, at which place they were joined on the following day by the left wing of the regiment which had meanwhile been engaged in picket duty. The enemy on the 16th, having massed a heavy force in our front, while concealed by a dense fog, commenced a furious assault upon our advance line forcing it back until supported by the main body. The Nineteenth fell back nearly a mile and a half, and took position, from which they were ordered in the afternoon to drive the enemy's skirmishers from a wood in their front, in the performance of which, they lost twenty-five men killed and wounded. In the evening they returned to entrenched camp at Point of Rocks, where companies B, C and I were detached for duty at Gen. Butler's Headquarters, the balance of the regiment remaining on picket duty, until the 17th of June, when they took part in Gen. Turner's "raid" on the Petersburg and Richmond railroad, and having destroyed three miles of track, returned to camp, having marched twelve miles. On the 20th of June the regiment was transferred to the Second Brigade of the Second Division, and subsequently accompanied the advance of Gen. Grant's army upon Petersburg, occupying a position in the trenches before that place until the 30th, when they acted as a portion of the support of the Ninth corps, in the celebrated assault upon the enemy's works, after which they resumed the performance of siege and fatigue duty in the trenches, near New Market Race Course.

On the 18th of August, the re-enlisted men of the regiment, two hundred and fifty in number, were relieved from duty at the front, and left our entrenchments on Veteran furlough, arriving on the 22d at Madison, Wisconsin, whence the soldiers dispersed to their homes in various parts of the State. The Veteran Nineteenth again left the State for the front on the 7th of October, taking position in our lines before Petersburg in the Third brigade of their former division.

The Twentieth regiment returned on the 1st of October, 1863, from Morgans to Carrollton, La., where they were occupied in preparations for the winter campaign, until the 23d, when orders were received to embark. Accompanying the Texas expedition, they left New Orleans on the 26th, crossed the bar at the mouth of the Mississippi on the following day, and after a stormy voyage, arrived on the 1st of November at Brazos Santiago. The attempt to land on the 8d at the mouth of the Rio Grande was unsuccessful, and disembarking on the following day, near Brasos Santiago, they encamped on the 9th at Brownville, on the Rio Grande, nearly opposite Matamoras, in Mexico. Here they were employed in the performance of garrison, fatigue and picket duty at Fort Brown. On the 12th of January, 1864, they crossed the river to Matamoras, under command of Col. Bertram, who was ordered to protect the United States consul, and assist in the removal of property belonging to our citizens. They returned on the 14th to Fort Brown where they remained until the evacuation of Brownville by our forces on the 28th of July. They embarked at Brazos Santiago on the 1st of August, and landed on the 5th at Carrollton, La., where camp was established on the following day.

They again embarked on the 7th, forming a portion of the land forces, which accompanied Admiral Farragut's celebrated expedition against the forts commanding the mouth of Mobile harbor, and landed on the 10th on Mobile Point. The land forces, under command of Bvt. Brig. Gen. Bailey of the Fourth Wisconsin, immediately moved to the rear of Fort Morgan and commenced the investment of the place. They were constantly occupied in picket and fatigue duties in the trenches, until the surrender of the fort on the 23d, when the Twentieth Wisconsin, with an Iowa regiment, received the garrison as prisoners of war. For sanitary reasons, camp was removed on the 1st of September to the southwestern extremity of Mobile Point, where the regiment has since been stationed.

The First and Twenty-first Regiments, attached to the Third Brigade, First Division, Fourteenth Army Corps, were stationed at Chattanooga, Tenn., and employed in picket duty and labor on the fortifications, until the 23d of November, 1863. At this date they left the fortifications, participating on the 25th in the celebrated assault upon Mission Ridge, during which they acted as reserve to the First Division, sustaining no loss. On the 80th, they accompanied the movement of the brigade, which was ordered to effect a reconnoissance on the crest of Lookout Mountain, and having proceeded as far as Cooper's Gap, they returned on the 3d of December to camp at Chattanooga without having encountered the enemy. On the following day, the Twenty-first Wisconsin, with another regiment of the brigade, marched to and encamped on the summit of Lookout Mountain, three miles from Chattanooga, where they were stationed in the performance of outpost and picket duty, until the opening of the Spring campaign.

The First Regiment, with the exception of Company "F," which had been detached on the 14th of November, to take charge of a steamer on the Tennessee river, remained at Chattanooga, engaged in picket duty and labor on the fortifications, until the 22d of February, 1864. At this date, they left Chattanooga, accompanying the movement of the Fourteenth Corps towards Dalton, near which place they remained in camp, until the 22d, when camp was removed to Tyner's Station, nine miles from Chattanooga, on the East Tennessee and Georgia Railroad, whence they marched, on the 19th of March, encamping at Graysville, Ga. At this place, they were employed in drill and guard duty, until the 2d of May, at which date, the Twenty-first rejoined them, both regiments having been transferred from the Third to the First Brigade. On the following day, participating in the movements of the army preparatory to resuming active operations, they marched, with the division, to Ringgold, Ga., twenty-two miles south of Chattanooga, where they remained in camp, until the 7th, at which date commenced the grand forward movement of the Army of the Cumberland, in the direction of Atlanta. On the following day, they occupied position in front of the enemy at Buzzard Roost, and the 9th was occupied in a reconnoissance to the south of the Gap, along the base of a ridge, on the crest of which the enemy's skirmishers were posted.

They remained in this vicinity, exposed to occasional fire from the enemy, until the 12th, when they removed southward, and passing through Snake Creek Gap, took position, on the 14th of May, before the rebel entrenchments at Resaca, on the Western and Atlantic Railroad, fifty-six miles from Chattanooga. At this place the brigade formed in two lines, with the Twenty-first Wisconsin in front, advanced at ten in the morning across an open field, to assault the enemy's works, but being unsupported, were unable to gain the entrenchments, and established themselves in position close to the enemy, from which a spirited fire was kept up until the troops were relieved in the evening. The loss of the Twenty-first in this charge was nine killed and thirty-eight wounded; the First, being held in reserve, lost five men wounded. The rebels having evacuated Resaca during the night of the 15th, our troops took possession of the town on the following day, remaining until the 17th, when the march was resumed, and crossing the Coosa river, the troops proceeded by way of Alpine to Kingston, five miles south of which place they bivouacked on the 19th, and remained four days, marching on the 23d down the valley of the Etowah river to Island Ford, where they crossed the stream, and encamped eleven miles from the ford.

During the next three days, they moved in the rear of the Fourth Corps, advancing, under almost incessant skirmish firing, about fifteen miles, and on the 27th occupied position on the left of the Fourth Corps, on Pumpkin Vine Creek, near Dallas. On the following day, they advanced, driving the rebel skirmishers from a strong position on a timbered ridge, where a new line was established, with skirmishers two hundred yards in advance, the opposing pickets occupying the same crest within twenty-five yards of each other. On the 30th, that part of the line in which the Twenty-first was stationed, was attacked by a part of Hood's Corps, which advanced from the rebel works, in line of battle. After a severe engagement, the enemy fell back, leaving his dead and wounded on the field. This regiment was relieved from the front on the 2d of June, and placed in reserve, having sustained a loss, during the preceding six days, of four killed and twenty-eight wounded. The First had also lost four killed and twenty-one wounded.

On the 6th of June, they moved to position within three miles of Ackworth, where they remained, changing position from day to day and always in line of battle, until the 17th, when they took part in a severe skirmish of the picket lines near Big Shanty. On the following day, the skirmish line of the brigade charged upon the enemy's rifle pits, driving his skirmishers to the main line and capturing several prisoners. The enemy having farther retreated on the following day, our troops, on the 19th, moved forward, and occupied position in front of the enemy at Kenesaw Mountain, two miles from Marietta, and about twenty miles from Atlanta. Here they were constantly exposed to a severe fire of artillery and musketry, and with frequent changes of position on the line of attack, until the 3d of July, when the rebels having again evacuated their entrenchments, they marched through Marietta in pursuit. On the following day our line was advanced to a point four miles south of Marietta. The Twenty-first, deployed as skirmishers, led the column, engaging the enemy's skirmishers, compelling them to retire. On the 5th, having advanced a short distance with the main column, the Twenty-first and Tenth Wisconsin were sent to effect a reconnoissance on a road leading to the right from that on which the main column was moving. With fifty men of the Tenth thrown out as skirmishers, the detachment moved forward two miles upon what proved to be the principal road to Atlanta. The rebel entrenchments were discovered near the Chattahoochee river, behind which the enemy was posted in force. Here the detachment halted, and were relieved at three in the afternoon by the arrival of the division, when the Twenty-first rejoined the brigade, having killed two of the enemy's skirmishers and taken two prisoners.

Position was again taken at this place, in front of the enemy's works, and the troops were constantly employed in skirmishing and fatigue duty, until the 17th, when they crossed the Chattahoochee in the rear of the retreating rebels, who had abandoned their works on the day previous, and retired to a strong position in front of Atlanta, against which our troops again advanced to the attack. Approaching slowly from point to point, the troops were continually occupied in skirmish and fatigue duty until the 20th, when the enemy furiously assaulted our line at Peach Tree Creek, overpowering and forcing back an Illinois regiment which was posted some distance in advance of the main line. At this point, the Twenty-first on the right and the Tenth Wisconsin on the left, charged, with a loud shout, upon the enemy, who fled in confusion, leaving his dead and wounded on the field.

On the 22d the line was advanced towards Atlanta, our regiments occupying position within three miles of the city. From this time forward they were constantly employed in fatigue and skirmish duty, during the gradual advance of our troops against the enemy's position, until the 7th of August, when the Twenty-first charged upon the rebel skirmishers, forcing them back to the main line, and capturing twelve prisoners, including a captain. In this affair the regiment lost thirteen wounded. They were thenceforward constantly employed in siege and fatigue duty, until the 26th, when they left the trenches, and participating in the movement around the enemy's left, marched by a circuitous route to the Atlanta and West Point railroad, which they reached on the 28th, eleven miles southwest of Atlanta. On the following day the Twenty-first, deployed as skirmishers, advanced towards Atlanta, forcing the enemy's cavalry back a distance of two miles, the troops in the rear of the Twenty-first meanwhile destroying the railroad as they advanced. Having completed the destruction of the railroad, they marched on the 30th, in a southeasterly direction towards Jonesboro, in the vicinity of which the brigade arrived on the 1st of September, having been detained on the march in consequence of orders to escort the army train.

In the battle at this place, the First regiment, which had been engaged during the night in destroying the railroad track, rejoined the brigade, taking position in the second line. A portion of the first line having failed to respond to the order to move forward, this regiment, led by Major Green, rapidly advanced under a severe fire, drove the rebels from the brigade front, and held the position until darkness terminated the action.

They subsequently lay in line of battle at Jonesboro, until the movement towards Atlanta commenced on the 6th, when the brigade, acting as rear guard, was attacked by the enemy. The attacking force was kept at a respectful distance, and during the action, the brigade fell back in line two miles, with a loss to the Twenty-first, of one man wounded. Continuing the march without further interruption, the brigade went into camp on the 8th at Atlanta, where the Twenty-first regiment has since been stationed.

- For the information which follows relative to the subsequent movements of the "Old First," I am indebted to Mr. H. F. Stone, formerly Sergeant-Major of the regiment, whose communication has been received since the above was written.

On the 16th of September orders were received from the War Department, assigning the First Wisconsin, whose term of service was about to expire, to the Fourth Division of the Twentieth Corps, and at the same time directing the transfer of all veterans, drafted men and recruits, who had joined by enlistment since the original organization, to the Twenty-first regiment, thereby augmenting the numbers of the latter to nine hundred and forty-one. The transfer of these men, numbering three hundred and sixty-eight, having been completed on the 21st, the First regiment left Atlanta on that day, en route to join their new division, which was then at Tullahoma, Tenn. They arrived on the 24th at Bridgeport, Ala., where orders were received directing the regiment to report at Stevenson, Ala., from which place they moved immediately by rail arriving on the following day at Nashville, Tenn., where they went into camp.

The term of service of the regiment having expired, they left Nashville on the 6th of October, and proceeding thence by rail, arrived on the 8th at Milwaukee. Here the necessary rolls were completed, and the muster out of service of the last company effected at Camp Washburn on the 21st of October. The field and staff officers were mustered out on the 18th of November, to date from the 13th of October, at which time the first Company was discharged.

The Twenty-second remained at Murfreesboro, Tenn., in the performance of guard and provost duty at that place until the middle of February of the present year, when they were assigned to the Second Brigade, First Division, Eleventh Army Corps, and ordered to Nashville, where the regiment remained in camp until ordered to take part in the preliminary movements of our forces, preparatory to the opening of the spring campaign under Gen. Sherman. Having been assigned to the Second Brigade, Third Division, Twentieth Army Corps, they left Nashville in April and moved to camp in Lookout Valley, near Chattanooga.

On the 3d of May, they left Lookout Valley, with the brigade, joining the Third division at Ringgold, Ga., and on the 7th took position in front of Buzzard Roost, which they retained until the 11th. They were put in motion at daylight, and marching ten miles to the right, arrived at Snake Creek Gap, where they were employed during the day in widening and improving the road through the pass. Pressing forward next day, they arrived on the 13th before Resaca, where they were formed in line and held in reserve during the assault upon the rebel fortifications, in the afternoon. On the 15th they moved to the extreme left of the army, where the Third division was selected to storm a line of rebel entrenchments, defended by artillery. The first line of works was gallantly carried, but it was found impossible to dislodge the enemy from his main entrenchments, which were placed in a commanding position and separated from the first line by a deep ravine covered with a dense growth of timber. In this engagement, the regiment sustained a loss of eleven killed and sixty-four wounded, ten of whom subsequently died. The enemy having evacuated his works at Resaca during the night, they moved forward next day in pursuit, advancing by way of Calhoun and Cassville, and crossing the Etowah river on the 23d, were formed in line on the 25th, in front of the rebel works at Dallas.

In the early part of the engagement at this place, they were held in reserve, and subsequently advanced to the front line, in which they held position until dark, with a loss of one killed and ten wounded. During the night, they fortified the position, which was retained, under the incessant fire of the rebel sharpshooters, until the 1st of June, when they were relieved and accompanied the movement of the Twentieth Corps, in its march towards the left. On the 3d, they took position in front of the enemy's lines on Pine Knob and Lost Mountain, where they remained, during the heavy rains which followed, until the 15th, at which date they again moved forward, the enemy having evacuated his position during the preceding night, and contracted his lines in a strong position on Kenesaw Mountain. Having advanced two miles, the Third brigade, to which the Twenty-second Wisconsin was attached, formed in line of battle as support to the First brigade, which advanced upon the enemy, near Golgotha Church, forcing him to his main works. At dark the regiment took position in the front line, which they strengthened during the night, and held next day, with a loss of three killed and nine wounded.

On the 17th, the rebels having again withdrawn from their front, the regiment moved forward, taking position under a severe skirmish fire, at Nose's Creek, in front of the rebel entrenchments on Kenesaw Mountain. Here works were hastily thrown up during the night, and occupied by the regiment, with a loss of one killed and three wounded, until the 19th, when they again moved forward four miles, taking a new position in front of the enemy. On the 22d, moving with the division, they advanced our lines to within sixty rods of the rebel works, under a severe fire of musketry. While engaged in constructing hasty defences at this point, the rebels charged upon the line, and were repulsed with loss, the Twenty-second losing two killed and eleven wounded. The regiment on the 23d, took position near the Marietta turnpike, which they retained until the enemy's abandonment of Kenesaw Mountain, during the night of the 2d of July. On the following day Col. Utley bade farewell to the regiment, which under command of Lieut. Col. Bloodgood, marched in pursuit of the retreating rebels.

On the 14th of July, the enemy occupied his last line of works north of the Chattahoochee river, before which the Twenty-second took position on the 6th. The rebel army withdrew across the river on the night of the 7th, and next day, the pickets of the Twenty-second were advanced to the bank of the stream, the enemy holding the south side. After a short rest from the fatigues of active campaigning, they crossed the Chattahoochee, on the 17th, near the railroad bridge, and pressing forward slowly towards Atlanta, participated on the 20th, in the battle of Peach Tree Creek. Crossing the stream with their division at nine in the morning, the brigade was formed near the left of the Third division, which joined the Fourth Corps on its right. The Twenty-second, deployed as skirmishers in front of the division line, was shortly afterwards ordered to advance, and drove the rebel skirmishers from a hill in front of which they had been posted. Early in the afternoon, the enemy advanced in force upon the position, and forcing back a portion of the Fourth Corps, threatened to outflank the line on the left. At this moment the Third division was ordered forward. Upon the advance of the line, the Twenty-second, which had meanwhile gallantly held their position under a murderous fire, formed in line with the brigade, and after a sanguinary engagement the rebel assault was finally repulsed, with great slaughter and the loss of a large number of prisoners. The loss of the regiment during the day was five killed and thirty-seven wounded. Their gallantry in this decisive action was highly praised by the corps commander, Gen. Hooker. Next day they remained upon the battle field, occupying position half a mile from a strong line of fortifications, held in force by the enemy. During the night the rebels withdrew, and on the 23d, our regiment moved forward, taking position in front of the defences of Atlanta.

They were thenceforward occupied in siege and fatigue duty in the trenches, until the 25th of August, when, accompanying the movement of the Twentieth Corps, they withdrew from the trenches in the evening, and marched to Turner's Ferry on the Chattahoochee river, where strong entrenchments were thrown up to defend the pontoon bridge, thrown across the stream at that place. Here they were stationed until the 2d of September, when they marched to and occupied Atlanta, where the regiment is now encamped.

A partial report has been received from this regiment.

TWENTY-THIRD REGIMENT.

The Twenty-third regiment left Carrollton, La., on the 5d of October, 1863, and proceeding down the Mississippi on transports landed at Algiers, opposite New Orleans, from which place they moved by rail, arriving at Berwick City, late on the following day. Participating with the Thirtieth Army Corps, in the expedition towards Opelousas, they were put in motion on the 7th, and passing through Franklin, Centreville and New Iberia, encamped on the afternoon of the 10th, within three miles of Vermilion, having marched seventy-two miles in four days. On the 15th, their brigade, acting as guard to a supply train, marched sixteen miles to Bayou Bourdeaux, and on their arrival took position two miles in advance of the line occupied by the Nineteenth Corps. The enemy being now in close proximity, the men slept on their arms, and next day went into camp, remaining until called upon to participate in the reconnoissance of the 19th, when they moved forward with a force of cavalry and artillery. The enemy's pickets were driven in and the position of his main line discovered, when the troops withdrew to camp, having accomplished the object of the reconnoissance. The Twenty-third sustained no loss.

The general advance was resumed on the 21st, when the regiment, encountering but slight resistance from the enemy's skirmishers in front, reached Opelousas at noon, and proceeding thence nine miles in an easterly direction, encamped in the evening at Barre's Landing. While remaining at this point, the farther advance of the whole expedition was abandoned, and the regiment, accompanying the rear of the column, commenced the return march on the 1st of November. On the 3d, the brigade was attacked by a vastly superior force of the enemy at Carrion Crow Bayou, sixteen miles from Barre's Landing. The enemy's infantry advanced against the right of the brigade, at the same time that his cavalry appeared in front. The regiment was immediately ordered to the right, and formed line in a belt of timber. Two regiments in their front were successively driven back through their line by the rapid advance of the enemy, but the Twenty-third gallantly held the position, keeping up a rapid fire, until they were flanked on both sides, when the order was given to fall back. This movement was executed without panic, and upon the arrival of reinforcements, they again advanced in line, forcing the enemy back and regaining possession of the field, occupied in the morning. The regiment, at the beginning of the action numbered two hundred and twenty officers and men, of whom one hundred and twenty-eight were lost in killed, wounded and prisoners, the latter including Col. Guppy and Capt. Sorenson, who were severely wounded. The gallantry displayed in this action elicited the warmest praise from the general commanding; who publicly tendered his thanks to the officers and men of the regiment for the unflinching courage which held the enemy's greatly superior numbers in check, until the arrival of reinforcements.

In the evening, under command of Lieut. Col. Hill, they retired nearly four miles, and on the 5th, moved to Vermilion Bayou, where they remained one day and resuming the march on the 7th, encamped on the following day at New Iberia. Lieut. Col. Hill was placed in command of the post, and the regiment was occupied in provost duty until the 18th, when they were relieved and encamped within the fortifications. They were again put in motion on the 7th of December, and marching by way of Franklin and Pattersonville, a distance of forty-four miles, arrived on the 10th, at Berwick. They crossed Berwick Bay on the morning of the 18th, to Braithear City, and proceeding thence by rail, encamped on the same evening at Algiers, under orders to join the Texas expedition. They embarked on the 25th at New Orleans, and arrived on the 29th in Matagorda Bay, off Decrow's Point, Texas, where they landed on the 1st of January, 1864, and established camp. During the month, they were joined at this place by their comrades who had been captured by the enemy at Carrion Crow Bayou, and the regiment was employed in garrison and guard duty until the 20th, when they left camp on a reconnoissance to the northern part of Matagorda Peninsula, and having marched upwards of one hundred miles, returned, on the 24th, to Decrow's Point. Companies A and C were detached on the 28th, for special guard duty at the landing, and rejoined the regiment on the 3d of February.

On the 22d the regiment again embarked and arrived on the 26th at Algiers, La., from which place they moved by rail to Brashear City, and thence across Berwick Bay to Berwick City, where they encamped on the following day. Participating in the celebrated Red River expedition, they left Berwick on the 7th of March, and encamped next day at Burns' Plantation, four miles beyond Franklin, from which place they marched on the 16th and passing through New Iberia, Vermilion and Opelousas, encamped on the 20th near Washington, having accomplished a distance of seventy-seven miles in four days. The march was resumed on the 22d, and proceeding via Cheneyville, the Twenty-third encamped on the 26th, three miles northwest of Alexandria on Bayou Rapide. Two days afterwards they set out for Natchitoches, eighty miles distant, where they arrived on the 2d of April and were employed in provost duty until the 6th, at which date they were again put in motion, arriving at Pleasant Hill, thirty-five miles distant, on the following day.

Early on the 8th of April, the regiment on the lead of the marching column, encountered the enemy's skirmishers, who were steadily forced back about eight miles, the Twenty-third, which was deployed as skirmishers, covering the advance of the brigade, having thus far lost one man killed. At three in the afternoon, the enemy in greatly superior numbers charged upon our lines, and the action, since known as the battle of Sabine Cross Roads, became general. The Twenty-third, stationed on the extreme left of our line, retained the position until there was danger of being surrounded and captured, when they withdrew to a second position sheltered by timber, where the advance of the enemy was temporarily checked, covering the retreat of our line, and the regiment, the last to leave the field, retired slowly, contesting every step, to the position held by the Nineteenth Corps, where the enemy's farther advance was finally arrested. In this disastrous affair, the regiment sustained a loss of seven killed, fourteen wounded and forty-three prisoners. During the night they returned to Pleasant Hill, where Gen. Banks' forces rejoined Gen. Smith's command, and the whole army marched on the following day towards the Red River. Participating in the movement, they arrived on the 11th at Grand Ecure, where they were employed in guarding prisoners, and labor on the fortifications until the 22d, when the retreat was resumed. On the following day they participated in the action near Cloutierville, in which the enemy was driven from his position on the Cane river, and encamped on the 25th, on Bayou Rapide, three miles from Alexandria, having marched through a very difficult country, nearly one hundred miles from Grand Ecore. They took part in the skirmish on the 29th at this place, and changed position on the 7th of May to Middle Bayou, from which place the retreat was continued on the 13th, and marching day and night with little rest, they arrived on the 17th at Simmsport on the Atchafalaya river. Crossing the river at this place on the 20th they reached Morganzia on the 22d. having marched one hundred and seventy-five miles from Alexandria.

They embarked at Morganzia on the 24th, and proceeding down the Mississippi, landed next day at Baton Rouge, where they went into camp, and remained until the 8th of July, when they moved down the river to Algiers, at which place they disembarked and encamped on the following day. On the 26th, they again embarked, and proceeding up the Mississippi, encamped next day at Morganzia, where they were employed in guard and outpost duty, until the 18th of August, when the regiment was transferred to the Third Brigade, Second Division, Nineteenth Army Corps, Col. Guppy being placed in command of the brigade. They left Morganzia on the 20th, for New Orleans, where they reembarked on the 22d, and sailing down the river to its mouth, landed on the 24th near Pilot Town on Mobile Point, Ala. On the following day, accompanying an expedition under command of Col. Guppy, they embarked for Cedar Point, fifteen miles distant, and effected a landing on the same day. Upon their approach, the enemy evacuated a fort which had been built on the Point, leaving one gun in our possession. The forts commanding the entrance to Mobile harbor having been surrendered to our forces, the regiment again embarked on the 2d of September, under orders to return to Morganzia, La., at which place they again encamped on the 8th, resuming the discharge of garrison and post duty, with frequent reconnoissances through the surrounding country.

The regiment is yet stationed at Morganzia, La.

After the battle of Chickamunga, the Twenty-fourth Wisconsin remained in camp at Chattanooga, Tenn., engaged in guard duty and labor on the fortifications, until the 23d of November, 1863, when they broke camp and took position in line of battle on the left of the Dalton road, a short distance from Chattanooga. At half past two on the following morning, they moved half a mile to the left and shortly after noon on the 25th, advanced to the storm of the enemy's position on Mission Ridge. Having captured the first line of defences near the base of the ridge, the men were allowed a short rest, after which they began the ascent, under an extremely heavy fire from the enemy's works on the summit. "The fighting was severe, but owing to the formation of the ground, the men were able to screen themselves partially from the deadly volleys, which were hurled at them every step as they advanced. During the ascent, they were several times compelled to halt from exhaustion, but at length, after two hours' steady fighting, succeeded in carrying the enemy's position on the crest of the ridge. Having remained about four hours in the captured works, they marched down the opposite side of the ridge a distance of nearly three miles, where they halted during the night. Next morning, they marched three miles to Chickamauga, and thence to Chattanooga, where they went into camp." * In this celebrated engagement the loss of the regiment was four killed and thirty-three wounded. The official report makes special mention of Capt. Howard Green and Lieut. Robert J. Chivas, both of whom were instantly killed while cheering on the advancing lines. Capt. Austin, Lieut. Balding and Adj't McArthur, are also mentioned as having displayed distinguished gallantry on the field. The two first named officers were severely wounded, and the latter, "when the color bearer was exhausted, carried the flag in front of the regiment, encouraging the men to follow him up the ridge." *

Accompanying the movement of the Fourth Corps, they left Chattanooga on the 28th of November, and marching by way of Loudon, Tenn., a distance of one hundred and thirty miles, arrived on the 7th of December at Knoxville, Tenn., raising the siege of that place, which had been closely invested by the rebels under Longstreet. They remained in camp opposite Nashville three days, when they were ordered to Walland's Mill, thirteen miles distant, which they were directed to put in running order for the supply of rations to the brigade. They arrived at the mills on the evening of the 10th, and had just established quarters when they were ordered to return immediately to Knoxville. Marching at daylight next morning they again encamped on the following evening near Knoxville. On the 12th, they moved eighteen miles to Brutson's Mills, where they remained three days, and marching in return on the 16th, arrived next day at Knoxville, at which place they received rations and ammunition preparatory to going to the front. They proceeded by rail a distance of eight miles, when they bivouacked for the night, and resuming the march on the 18th, arrived in the afternoon at Blane's Cross Roads, eighteen miles from Knoxville, where they went into camp.

Here the regiment was employed in guard duty, until the 15th of January, 1864, when they were again put in motion, and crossing the Holston river at Strawberry Plains, arrived on the afternoon of the 16th, at Dandridge, having marched twenty-five miles. Upon their arrival, occasional firing was heard on the picket line, and the regiment was at once ordered to the front, where they took position on the right of the Forty-fourth Illinois, and advanced about a mile in line of battle, companies F and H being deployed in front as skirmishers. Soon afterwards they were ordered by Gen. Sheridan to charge a rebel battery of two guns, and to dislodge the enemy from a piece of woods, which commanded the advance. This was gallantly accomplished, without loss, but the enemy succeeded in withdrawing his guns, and effected a hasty retreat from the field. Company D having been ordered forward to strengthen the skirmish line, the regiment lay in line of battle on the field until dark, when they were ordered to camp. On the following evening (17th) a retrograde movement was ordered, and the regiment marched all night, and during the following day under a drenching rain, going into camp on the roadside at four in the afternoon. On the morning of the 21st they continued the march to Knoxville, whence they moved on the 23d, arriving on the 25th at Loudon, Tenn., twenty-eight miles from Knoxville, on the East Tennessee and Georgia railroad.

At this point the regiment was stationed, and employed in the performance of provost duty, until the commencement of the spring campaign, under Gen. Sherman, when they joined the army under his command, and subsequently took part with the Fourth Corps in the movements and engagements which preceded the fall of Atlanta. After the occupation of Atlanta by our forces, they remained in camp near the city until the latter part of September, when they proceeded by rail to Chattanooga, Tenn., at which place they are now encamped.

Of their movements since leaving Loudon, Tenn., no report has been received at this office.

The Twenty-fifth Regiment remained at Helena, Ark., employed principally in provost duty, until the 1st of February, 1864, when they embarked, and proceeding down the Mississippi, landed on the following day at Vicksburg, Miss. Marching with the celebrated Meridian Expedition, under command of Gen. Sherman, they left Vicksburg on the 3d, and moving in an easterly direction across the State of Mississippi, reached Meridian, Miss., on the 14th. After a delay of two days at this point, the march was resumed, and the regiment arrived on the 26th at Canton, Miss., at the junction of the New Orleans and Jackson, and Mississippi Central railroads, having marched a distance of two hundred and seventy-five miles from Vicksburg. They left Canton on the 1st of March, and marching by way of Livingston, Brownsville and Big Black River, arrived on the 4th at Vicksburg, where they went into camp, and remained until the 13th, at which date they embarked, and proceeding up the Mississippi, arrived on the 20th at Cairo, Ill. On the 24th, they were ordered to Columbus, Ky., the terminus of the Mobile and Ohio railroad, and had preceded by rail to within a short distance of Union City, when orders were received to return immediately to Cairo, at which place they again encamped late in the evening.

Re-embarking at Cairo on the 26th, they proceeded up the Tennessee river to Clump's Landing, at which place they landed on the evening of the 29th, and bivouacked for the night. On the following day, they marched a distance of thirteen miles to Purdy, Tenn., where they arrived at noon, having routed during the march a body of rebel cavalry, under Col. Wisdom. They returned on the 31st to the transports, and resuming their progress up the river on the following day, landed on the 2d of April at Waterloo, Ala., and marching thence by way of Florence and Athens, arrived on the 9th at Mooresville, Ala., seventy-eight miles from Stevenson, on the Memphis and Charleston railroad. On the evening of the 16th, they marched five miles to Decatur, the junction of the Tennessee and Alabama Central railroads, where they had a sharp skirmish with the enemy on the following day, losing two men wounded. At this point the regiment was stationed for the performance of guard duty, until the 1st of May, when they marched to Huntsville, whence they proceeded by rail, on the 4th, to Chattanooga, Tenn., arriving at the latter place on the 5th. They immediately moved forward to join our forces under Gen. Sherman, and, marching by Gordon's and Maddock's Gap, formed in line of battle on the 9th, at the bluffs near Resaca, under the fire of the rebel batteries.

From this time until the evacuation of Resaca by the rebels, they were constantly under fire, and employed in the entrenchments before the position. They participated in the battles of the 13th, 14th and 15th of May, and after the evacuation crossed the Calhoun river on the 16th, and having advanced about five miles, encamped at three in the afternoon. An hour afterwards their picket line was driven in by the enemy, when the regiment promptly formed in line, retaining the position until the forward movement was resumed, on the afternoon of the following day. Passing through Adairsville on the 18th, they encamped on the following day near Kingston, where they remained until the 24th, at which date they were again put in motion, and proceeding by way of Vanwirt, arrived on the 26th within two and a half miles of Dallas. Forming in line shortly before noon, they were engaged in skirmishing until five in the evening, when they advanced through Dallas, which had been abandoned by the enemy, and bivouacked for the night a short distance south of the town. On the 27th, they advanced to the front, and were engaged during the three following days in heavy skirmishing with the enemy, repulsing his attacks upon the picket line with heavy loss.

They occupied position in the front line until the 1st of June, when they were withdrawn from the trenches before daylight, and participating in the general movement to the left to turn the rebel position at Allatoona Pass, marched six miles to Pumpkin Vine Creek, near which they bivouacked for the night, and on the afternoon of the following day changed position a mile to the right, where they were attacked by the enemy's batteries, which were soon silenced by our artillery. Crossing the stream on the 3d, they advanced four miles, and having erected breast-works during the night, occupied the position until the afternoon of the 5th, when they moved four miles to the right. Next day they were again put in motion, and passing through Ackworth, encamped nearly a mile from the town, remaining until the 10th, when they advanced four miles, accompanying the Army of the Tennessee in the movement to break the rebel lines between Kenesaw and Pine Mountains. On the following day, taking the lead of the Second brigade, they advanced two miles to the railroad, where line of battle was formed with the enemy on their flank and front. While holding this position, company C was detailed at three in the morning of the 12th, to build rifle pits in front, which they finished by daylight, and next day company D was employed in opening a road through the woods in their rear for more convenient access to the teams. In the evening companies C, H and K, occupied the front line of rifle pits, and on the 15th, companies B, D, F, G and I were thrown forward on the skirmish line, under command of Lieut. Col. Rusk, the balance of the regiment taking position in the evening, in the front line, whence they afterwards moved forward to support the picket line against the anticipated advance of the enemy.

The enemy having abandoned his line on Lost Mountain on the 17th, they advanced on the 19th, across the rebel works in their front, and in the afternoon, advanced still farther towards Kenesaw Mountain, establishing position on the crest of a hill, which they proceeded to fortify. Here they were engaged in siege and fatigue duty, constantly exposed to the enemy's fire, until the morning of the 3d of July, when they were put in motion to accompany the movement of the Army of the Tennessee on the right of our forces. Marching on the road between Kenesaw and Lost Mountains, they advanced three miles, where they constructed breast-works, and were ordered to support a battery, under heavy fire from the rebel artillery. They subsequently occupied the works in their front, which were abandoned by the enemy, and on the 5th continued the movement to the right. Marching on the Sandtown road, they encamped in the evening two and a half miles from the Chattahoochee river, remaining until the 7th, when they advanced two miles towards the river. They again moved on the 9th, and passing through Marietta, where they bivouacked for the night, forded the Chattahoochee on the following day, going into camp on the south side of the river.

Participating in the general advance of the army, they marched at noon on the 17th, and crossing the railroad next day, passed through Decatur on the 19th, encamping on the right of the Army of the Tennessee, in rear of Gen. Logan's command, on the following day. On the 21st, with a section of artillery, they moved back to Decatur, under orders to guard the flank of the army trains, and next day companies B, E, F and I, of the Twenty-fifth, with four companies of an Ohio regiment, moved forward on a reconnoissance, the enemy having been reported in heavy force on their front. Companies D and G being detached on picket duty, the remaining companies, C, H and K, with a battery of artillery, under command of Major Joslyn, were left in charge of the camp. The enemy having advanced in greatly superior force, (two divisions of Wheeler's Corps,) Col. Montgomery's command fell back to camp, and after a gallant resistance, the whole force retired to the town, and subsequently half a mile beyond, where the advance of the rebels was finally checked. The train was saved, but the regiment sustained a loss of fifteen killed, fifty-seven wounded, twenty-five missing, and three prisoners, among the latter of whom was Col. Montgomery, who was also severely wounded. On the 23d, having buried the dead, and provided for the wants of the wounded, they marched through the town, and proceeding two miles on the Atlanta road, erected breastworks and bivouacked until the 25th, when they advanced three miles, encamping in line, protected by breastworks.

They were thenceforward constantly occupied in the active duties of the siege, until the evening of the 26th, when they were put in motion, accompanying the movement of the Army of the Tennessee. Continuing the march, they struck the Atlanta and West Point railroad near Fairburn on the 28th, and having spent the next day in destroying the road, they resumed the march on the morning of the 30th, and advancing towards the Macon railroad, bivouacked for the night near Jonesboro. They were next day present at the battle of Jonesboro, but were not actively engaged. On the 2d of September, they moved forward eight miles in pursuit of the retreating enemy, when they fortified position near Lovejoy Station, and remained until the 5th, at which date the return march was commenced. They arrived on the 8th at East Point, six miles from Atlanta, on the Macon and Western railroad, where they have since been stationed.

The Twenty-sixth regiment, composed almost exclusively of Germans, was recruited principally during the month of August, 1862. The several companies were ordered to rendezvous on the 5th of September at Camp Sigel, Milwaukee, where the regimental organization was effected, under the superintendence of Col. Wm. H. Jacobs, and the regiment mustered into United States service on the 17th. They remained in camp until the 6th of October, when they left the state for service in the field. Upon their arrival in Washington, they went into camp on Arlington Heights, whence they marched on the 15th to Fairfax Court House, fifteen miles distant. At this place they were assigned to the Second Brigade, Third Division, Eleventh Army Corps, and were occupied constantly in drill and picket duty, until the 2d of November, when the regiment accompanied the march of the division by way of Centreville to Thoroughfare Gap, where they encamped on the following day. On the 7th they marched through the Gap to New Baltimore, and thence on the 9th to Gainesville, where they remained in the performance of picket duty, until the 18th, at which date, they returned to camp at Centreville.

Participating in the movement of the Eleventh Corps to reinforce the army under Gen. Burnside, who was then preparing for the assault upon Fredericksburg, they left Centreville on the 9th of December, and marching in very unfavorable weather, by way of Dumfries and Stafford Court House, arrived on the 14th at Falmouth, on the Rappahannock river, opposite Fredericksburg. On the 17th they withdrew nine miles to Stafford Court House, where winter quarters were erected, and the regiment remained until the 19th of January, 1863, when orders were received to move to Beriah Church. They returned on the 4th of February to Stafford Court House, near which place they again erected winter quarters and were occupied in acquiring thorough knowledge of drill and discipline, with the usual routine of picket and fatigue duty, until the opening of the spring campaign.

In the general movement of the army, under the direction of Gen. Hooker, they broke camp on the 27th of April, and arrived on the following day at Kelly's Ford on the Rappahannock. They crossed the river at midnight, and continuing the march on the 29th, crossed the Rapidan at Germania Ford, arriving at Locust Grove, near Chancellorville early on the following morning. The Eleventh Corps, to which they were attached here formed the extreme right of the army of the Potomac, and on the 1st of May the regiment was posted in the second line, which was placed in position to repel the expected attack of the enemy on our right. Early next morning their brigade was withdrawn from this position, and formed in line to protect the flank of the army, at right angles with the main line, and somewhat retired from the extreme right. The Twenty-sixth took position in the first line, in an open space, about seventy-five yards from the heavy timber in their front, in which was deployed a heavy line of skirmishers. At five in the afternoon, the enemy in heavy force, commenced a furious assault at this point, his line extending so as to attack simultaneously our right and rear. The skirmishers were at once driven in or captured by the rapid advance of the enemy, and the troops on the extreme right of our main line having given way, the rebels advanced directly upon the position held by the Twenty-sixth Wisconsin, with a New York regiment. Although suffering severely from the enemy's fire, these two regiments gallantly held the position, until there was danger of being surrounded, when they were ordered to retreat, and withdrew about a mile, leaving nearly two hundred of their number on the field.

On the morning of the 3rd, they were placed in position on the left of the army near United States Ford, where a portion of the regiment was engaged as skirmishers during the day, without loss, and next morning they changed position to the right, remaining until the 6th, when they recrossed the Rappahannock and returned to camp near Stafford Court House. During this disastrous movement, the regiment had lost thirty-seven killed, one hundred and seventeen wounded, twenty taken prisoners and three missing. On the 16th, camp was removed to the vicinity of Brooks' Station on the Fredericksburg railroad, where they remained until called upon to participate in the general movement of the Army of the Potomac to meet and turn back the rebel invasion of Maryland and Pennsylvania.

They left Brooks' Station on the 12th of June and proceeding by way of Catlett's Station and Centreville, encamped near the Potomac on the 17th. The movement was resumed on the 24th, when they crossed the river at Edwards' Ferry, and marching through Middletown, Frederick and Emmetsburg, arrived on the morning of the 1st of July, at Gettysburg, Penn. About noon they took position in the second line of battle of their division which was deployed in a wheat field a short distance northwest of the town, occupying the extreme right of our line. After a delay of half an hour in this position, the order was given to move forward. The first line had just reached a strip of timber two hundred yards in advance, when it was assaulted with great fury by a superior force of the enemy, and gave way in disorder, falling back through the second line, which was immediately pressed forward, the Twenty-sixth deploying into line of battle about one hundred yards from the rapidly advancing enemy. They were at once hotly engaged, and after sustaining the position with great gallantry for a short time against the overwhelming force of the enemy in their front, they were ordered to withdraw. Acting as rear guard to the retreating column, they fell back through the town to Cemetery Hill, on which they went into position behind a low stone wall, and remained without being again engaged, during the following day. In this celebrated battle, the losses of the regiment were, forty one killed; one hundred and thirty-seven wounded; twenty-six prisoners and six missing, but four officers escaping unhurt. On the morning of the 4th, the Twenty-sixth Wisconsin, with another regiment effected a reconnoissance to the eastward of Cemetery Hill, and having discovered that the enemy had retreated, returned to camp, bringing in a number of prisoners. Next morning they were put in motion on the track of the retreating rebels and proceeding by way of Emmetsburg and Middleton, crossed the Katoctin mountains on the 7th, and pressed forward on the following day to Boonsboro, where the enemy had attacked our cavalry under Gen. Kilpatrick.

On the 12th, they occupied position in front of the enemy, between Funkstown and Hagerstown, following him thence on the 14th to Williamsport, where the pursuit was abandoned, and the regiment commenced the return march to Virginia on the following day. They crossed the Potomac on the 19th, and proceeding by slow marches through the Loudon valley encamped on the 25th at Warrenton Junction, Va., the intersection of the Warrenton Branch with the Orange and Alexandria railroad. They were stationed at this place, engaged in picket and patrol duty, with occasional short expeditions through the surrounding country until the 17th of September, when the brigade was removed to Rappahannock Station. At this place they took the cars on the 24th and proceeding by way of Indianapolis, Louisville and Nashville, Tenn., joined the Army of the Cumberland on the 2d of October at Bridgeport, Ala., where they went into camp. Late on the evening of the 9th they left Bridgeport by rail, arriving on the following morning at the tunnel near Cowan, Tenn., where a party of raiders had previously succeeded in overpowering the guard and obstructing the track. Having removed the obstructions and thoroughly patrolled the vicinity without finding the enemy, they returned to Bridgeport in the evening where they were constantly occupied in picket and fatigue duty, with frequent reconnoitring expeditions in the vicinity until the 27th, when the Eleventh Corps was put in motion towards Chattanooga, Tenn. Crossing the Tennessee river at Bridgeport, they marched along the line of the railroad, and on the following day took part in a skirmish with the enemy near Brown's Ferry. From this time the regiment was moved from point to point in the Lookout Valley, occupied in picket and patrol duty, with labor on fortifications until the 11th of November, when they went into camp.

On the 22d they marched with three days' rations and without knapsacks to Chattanooga, and next day participated in the movement against the enemy on Mission Ridge. During the first day's action, the regiment was held in reserve as support to the first line. On the second day (24th) they were temporarily detached from the brigade, and taking position in the front line, advanced against the enemy's skirmishers who were steadily forced back during the day. Early on the 25th, they rejoined the brigade and marched around Mission Ridge, taking position to guard against a flank attack, on the extreme left of the army near Chickamauga creek, and next morning started in pursuit of the enemy, who had been driven from his position on Mission Ridge. Following the line of the East Tennessee and Georgia railroad, they marched by way of Charleston, Athens and Loudon, and arrived on the 5th of December at Little river fifteen miles from Knoxville where farther pursuit was abandoned. The return march commenced on the 7th and the regiment reentered camp in Lookout Valley on the 17th.

During this short campaign they had sustained no losses at the hands of the enemy, but the hardships they endured were unusually great. A number of the men were destitute of blankets and at the conclusion of the march, many had no shoes. Subsistence was gathered from the country through which they passed and was frequently scanty and of inferior quality. They remained in Lookout Valley until the 25th of January, 1864 when camp was moved to Whiteside, Ala., thirteen miles from Chattanooga, on the Nashville and Chattanooga railroad. During the winter they were employed principally in picket and guard duty, occasionally furnishing heavy details for labor on the railroads and fortifications.

On the 23d of April they marched to Lookout Valley, joining at that place the Third Brigade, Third Division Twentieth Army Corps, to which they had been assigned in the organization of the army for the spring campaign. Participating in the general movement of the army under Gen. Sherman they left Lookout Valley on the 2d of May, and marching slowly by way of Taylor's Ridge and Gordon's Springs, bivouacked, on the 7th, in Dogwood Valley. Next morning they marched on a reconnoissance to Buzzard Roost, three miles distant where they first encountered the enemy. A skirmish ensued which continued till dark, the Twenty-sixth losing two men wounded. They returned on the 9th to Dogwood Valley, from which the forward movement was resumed on the 11th, and passing through Snake Creek Gap, the regiment took position on the 13th, before the enemy's entrenchments at Resaca. Skirmishing was sustained from noon until dark, when the regiment was placed in the front line of battle and bivouacked for the night. Next morning skirmishers were pushed forward, and the position was held during the day, with a loss of one killed and three wounded. They were relieved at midnight, and after a short rest, marched on the morning of the 15th, to the extreme left of the army, where dispositions were made for the assault.

The Twenty-sixth was placed in the front line on the right of the brigade, and ordered to take a hill in front. Skirmishers were thrown forward, and supported by the main body of the regiment, succeeded in driving the rebel skirmishers from their breastworks, and occupied the position. The enemy's main line of fortifications was situated on a ridge parallel to that which they now occupied, and separated from it by a narrow valley, covered with a dense growth of young pines. Shortly afterwards they again advanced, forcing the enemy's skirmishers back to his works, and pressed forward to the assault. The enemy's fire was very destructive, and the works proved to be very difficult of access. The dense timber rendered it impossible to preserve a compact line, so that although the works were actually gained in some places, the general assault proved unsuccessful. The troops reformed in the valley and again advanced to the assault, but with the same result. The order was then given to fall back to the first ridge, where the regiment reassembled and repulsed the enemy's attempt to retake the position. The casualties during the day were six killed and forty wounded. The rebels having evacuated Resaca during the night, they marched in pursuit next morning. They crossed the Coosawatee river in the evening, and marching in a southwesterly direction, by way of Calhoun, encountered the enemy on the 19th near Cassville. The enemy was driven to his main works, and the regiment encamped before the place, until the 28d, when they were again put in motion to the southward, and crossing the Etowah river, pressed forward next day to 'Burnt Hickory.'

On the 25th of May they took part in the battle near Dallas. In this action, our regiment sustained a loss of five killed, thirty-two wounded and two missing. It was found that the enemy's position was too strong to be carried by assault, and entrenchments were built, in which they were employed in fatigue and siege duty, until the 1st of June, when they accompanied the movement of their corps towards the left. They pressed slowly forward, as the enemy retreated on their front, and on the 3d, occupied a position in front of the rebel entrenchments on Pine Knob. In this vicinity they remained until the 15th, when they again moved forward, following the course of the enemy, who had evacuated Pine Knob during the previous night, and occupied position two miles southward. On the night of the 16th, the enemy again withdrew, closely followed next morning by our forces. In a skirmish with his rear guard the Twenty-sixth captured a battle flag, and on the 19th took position in our works before the rebel position on Kenesaw Mountain. On the 22d, the brigade was ordered forward, and after a severe action, in which our regiment lost nine killed and thirty wounded, captured the enemy's line of rifle pits in their front. Next day, they moved to the right and occupied position on the Powder Spring road, which they retained under an incessant fire, until the 3d of July, when they again followed the line of the retreating enemy to Nickajack Creek. On the 5th, they were again in motion to the southward, and encamped next day, two miles from the Chattahoochee river, where they were allowed a few days' rest.

They crossed the Chattahoochee on the 17th, and pressing slowly forward towards Atlanta, participated on the 20th, in the battle of Peach Tree Creek. Shortly after the action commenced, the troops on their left retired, from which time the regiment occupied the extreme left of the line. In a dense wood, sixty yards to the left, the enemy had established a body of troops, who opened a severe enfilading fire on our lines as his forces advanced in front. Under these circumstances, the position was gallantly held, until the attacking force in front broke and fled in confusion, closely pursued by our victorious troops. The Twenty-sixth captured the battle flag of the Thirty-third Mississippi, together with forty prisoners of that regiment, whose retreat they had intercepted. The loss of the regiment was nine killed and thirty-six wounded, and having expended all their ammunition, they were relieved by fresh troops. The following finds an appropriate place in their record: "Where all behaved well, it may be regarded as invidious to call attention to individuals, yet it seems to me that I cannot discharge my whole duty in this report without pointing out for especial commendation, the conduct of the 26th Wis. Vol. Inf'y, and its brave and able commander. The position of this regiment in the line was such that the brunt of the attack on this brigade fell upon it. The brave, skilful and determined manner in which it met the attack, rolled back the onset and pressed forward in a counter-charge and drove back the enemy, could not be excelled by the troops in this or any other army, and is worthy of the highest commendation and praise. It is to be hoped that such conduct will be held up as an example for others, and will meet its appropriate reward." *

During the 21st, they remained on the battle field half a mile from the enemy's first line of fortifications, which he abandoned during the night, and on the following day, the Twenty-sixth moved forward, taking position near the main defences of Atlanta. On the 3d of August, they were placed in the front line, which they occupied, constantly engaged in siege and fatigue duty, until the evening of the 25th, when they silently withdrew from the trenches, and marched in a westerly direction to Turner's Ferry, on the Chattahoochee, where a pontoon bridge was thrown across the river, and fortifications built to defend the ferry. Here they remained until the 4th of September, when they entered Atlanta upon the retreat of the enemy's forces, and have since been stationed at that place.

The Twenty-seventh regiment remained in camp at Little Rock, Ark., until the 28d of March, 1864, at which date, marching with the Third Brigade, Third Division of the Seventh Corps, to which they had been attached, they left Little Rock, accompanying the movement of our forces in Arkansas, designed to co-operate with the celebrated Red River Expedition, under command of Gen. Banks. After a seven days' march they arrived on the 29th at Arkadelphia, Ark., where they were allowed a short rest, and resuming the march on the 1st of April, they proceeded by way of Spoonville to Okolona, thirty-two miles from Arkadelphia, near the Little Missouri river, near which place the regiment was engaged on the 3d, in a severe skirmish with the enemy, sustaining a loss of three killed and three wounded. Having repulsed the rebel attack, they returned on the 4th to Spoonville, whence they marched on the following morning, and crossing the Little Missouri on the 4th, joined the main army at Elkins' Ferry in the evening.

Resuming the march on the 10th, they participated in the action at Prairie d'Ane, with a loss of one killed and three wounded. They were again in motion on the 12th, and proceeding across the prairie by way of Moscow, arrived on the 16th at Camden. Here the farther advance of the expedition was abandoned, and the regiment left Camden on the morning of the 27th on their return to Little Rock. After a toilsome march in rainy weather, and over horrible roads, they arrived on the 29th at Jenkins' Ferry, on the Saline river. Next day they took part in the battle at this place, which secured the passage of the river by our forces, during which they lost five killed and fourteen wounded.

Crossing the river on the 1st of May, they marched without farther interruption to Little Rock, where the regiment has since been stationed as a part of the Second Brigade, First Division, Seventh Army Corps, with which they have been identified since the 14th of May, 1864.

A partial report only has been received from this regiment.

The Twenty-eighth regiment, remained at Little Rock, Ark., until the 26th of October, 1863, when they accompanied the march of the brigade in pursuit of Marmaduke's forces, who had been defeated by our troops at Pine Bluff. On the following day they arrived at Benton on the Saline river, relieving at that place a force of cavalry, which was sent in pursuit of the enemy. On the 29th, they advanced to Rockport, on the Washita, where farther pursuit was abandoned, and returning by way of Benton, they re-entered camp at Little Rock on the 1st of November, having marched about one hundred miles.

The regiment was detached from the Second brigade on the 7th of November and ordered to join Col. Clayton's command at Pine Bluff, sixty miles distant on the Arkansas river, where they arrived on the 10th. At this place, comfortable winter quarters were erected, and the regiment was occupied in post and garrison duty until the 27th of March, 1864. Lieut. Col. Gray was placed in command of this post, and companies A, D, F, G, H and I, under command of Capt. L. J. Smith, with an additional force of infantry and cavalry, left Pine Bluff on an expedition, intended to destroy the pontoon bridge at Longview on the Saline river. On the following day the expedition arrived at Mount Elba, at which place the infantry was left to guard the bridge laid at that point, while cavalry pushed forward to Longview. The infantry, less than five hundred in number were attacked, on the 30th at Mount Elba by a force of the enemy, fifteen hundred strong. The six companies of the Twenty-eighth, deployed as skirmishers, held the enemy in check, until recalled to the main body. Shortly afterwards, the rebel charge was gallantly repulsed, the enemy leaving one hundred killed and wounded on the field. At this juncture the cavalry, which had been sent to Longview, came up, and the enemy was closely pursued a distance of ten miles, to Centreville. Next day the expedition returned to Pine Bluff, bringing in three hundred and twenty prisoners, the infantry having marched eighty-two miles.

A detachment of three hundred and fifty men of the regiment, under Lieut. Col. Gray, left Pine Bluff on the 28th of April, under orders to proceed to Mount Elba, lay a pontoon bridge across the Saline river, and guard the pass until the arrival of the expedition intended to convey supplies to our forces at Camden. Information having been received, that Gen. Steele's forces were retreating in the direction of Little Rock, the regiment returned to Pine Bluff on the 30th. Since the re-establishment of the army on the line of the Arkansas, the regiment has furnished heavy details for outpost and guard duty, and during the months of June and July, they were occupied day and night in labor on the defences of the post.

The regiment is yet stationed at Pine Bluff, Ark.

The Twenty-ninth Wisconsin, which had been stationed some days on the shore of Berwick Bay, opposite Brashear City, broke camp on the 3d of October, 1863, and commenced the movement to Opelousas. They arrived on the 6th at New Iberia, sixty miles from Berwick, and on the 10th, marched twenty-four miles to Vermilion Bayou and thence on the 15th, eighteen miles to Grand Chateau Bayou. The march was resumed on the 21st, when they met the enemy at Opelousas, and after a skirmish in which they sustained no loss, pressed forward to Barre's Landing, eight miles beyond Opelousas, where they went into camp and were employed in picket and guard duty until the 29th, at which date they returned to Opelousas. On the 1st of November they marched ten miles to Carrion Crow Bayou, and on the 3d were ordered up to reinforce Gen. Burbridge's command four miles distant, which had been attacked by the enemy. During the battle they acted as support to a Missouri battery, but were not actively engaged, and returned on the same evening to camp on Carrion Crow Bayou.

They moved on the 5th to Vermilion Bayou, from which place they marched, on the 16th, and proceeding by way of Spanish Lake, arrived on the following day at New Iberia. On the 20th, they accompanied the brigade, with a small additional force of cavalry and artillery, on a secret expedition, which resulted in the capture of one hundred and fourteen prisoners at Spanish Lake. They returned on the same day to New Iberia, where they were employed in picket duty and guarding forage trains, until the 19th of December, when they were again put in motion, and passing through Franklin and Centreville, arrived on the 21st at Berwick, having marched, during the whole expedition, about two hundred and sixteen miles. They crossed Berwick Bay on the following day, and moving by rail from Brashear City, went into camp on the 25th at Algiers.

Participating in the celebrated "Texas Expedition," they embarked at Algiers on the 5th of January, 1864, and arrived on the 11th off Pass Cavallo, Texas, where they disembarked on the following day, and encamped on Decrow's Point, near the mouth of the Rio Grande. At this place they were employed in guard duty, until the 20th of February, when they reembarked, on their return to Louisiana. They arrived at New Orleans on the 23d, and next day went into camp at Algiers, where they were stationed until the 5th of March, at which date they proceeded by rail to Brashear, and crossing Berwick Bay, encamped on the following day at Berwick.

The spring campaign commenced on the 13th, at which date they left Berwick, forming part of the celebrated Red River expedition. Proceeding by way of Opelousas, they reached Washington on the 20th, and two days afterwards, resumed the movement up Bayou Boeuf, and passing through Holmesville and Cheneyville, arrived on the 26th at Alexandria, on the Red river, ninety miles distant from Washington. On the morning of the 28th they marched to Cane river, where the movement was delayed a short time awaiting the completion of a pontoon bridge. Crossing the river on the 31st, they passed through Cloutierville, and on the following day, marched twenty-three miles in six and a half hours, going into camp at Natchitoches at noon. They were again put in motion on the 6th, and next day arrived at Pleasant Hill, having marched thirty six miles.— On the 8th, they marched eighteen miles, when they met the enemy, and took part in the battle at Sabine Cross Roads. But five companies, B, D, E, G and H, were engaged, the remainder having been detailed to the rear as guard to the train, and out of one hundred and eighty-three men engaged, sixty-three were reported killed, wounded and missing. During the night they accompanied the retrograde movement of the army to Pleasant Hill, at which place Gen. A. J. Smith's forces had just arrived. Next morning the retreat was resumed, and marching day and night, they arrived on the 11th at Grand Ecore, where they were employed in fatigue and picket duty until the 22d, when the march was resumed towards Alexandria. Having marched thirty-six miles, they arrived at two on the following morning at Cloutierville, where the enemy was posted in rifle pits, defended by artillery, to dispute the passage of Cane river at that point.

The Twenty-ninth accompanying the movement of the Thirteenth and Nineteenth Corps, forded the stream some distance above the enemy's position, which they attacked in the rear, and after a stubborn engagement, lasting two hours, drove the enemy from the field. Our regiment, being held as reserve, sustained no loss. They bivouacked for the night on Cane river, and resuming the march next day, arrived on the 25th, at Alexandria, encamping two miles from the town. While remaining here they were frequently employed on reconnoissances through the surrounding country, during which they participated in several skirmishes, with small bodies of the enemy, and on the 6th of May were ordered to report to Lieut. Col. Bailey, of the Fourth Wisconsin, who was then engaged in constructing the famous dam across the Red river. The regiment was engaged on this work, day and night, until the 12th, when our fleet passed the rapids in safety. March was resumed on the following morning, and our forces reached Marksville on the 16th. Being held in reserve during the engagement of the next day, they sustained no loss. They arrived at Simmsport on the 17th, and next day took part in the battle at that place. Crossing the Atchafalaya river on the 19th, they pressed forward to the Mississippi, and went into camp on the 22d at Morganzia.

At this point they were employed in guard and picket duty, with frequent expeditions against guerillas, until the 13th of June, when they embarked, and proceeding down the Mississippi, landed next day at Carrollton where they went into camp. On the 21st, they moved sixteen miles to Kinnersville, and thence on the 26th to Thibodeaux, where they were stationed for the performance of outpost and guard duty. On the 8th of July, Col. Greene was appointed post commandant, and company K of the regiment detailed as provost guard. The same evening orders were received to move immediately to Algiers, where they arrived on the following day. Here all transportation was turned over and every preparation made for transfer to the Army of the Potomac. The regiment was assigned to the First Brigade, Provisional Division, and while awaiting the final order to move, the brigade was ordered to Morganzia, and embarking on the morning of the 26th, reached that place on the following day. On the 28th, they took part in a reconnoissance to the Atchafalaya river, and after a severe skirmish with the enemy, who was advantageously posted on the opposite bank, they returned to camp, having sustained a loss of one killed and one wounded. While stationed at this place, the regiment was assigned on the 13th of August, to the Second Brigade, Second Division, Nineteenth Army Corps, with which they have since been identified.

Embarking on the 28d of August, they ascended the river to Port Hudson, where they landed next day, and late in the afternoon, took up the line of march for Clinton, La. Marching all night over roads which recent rains had rendered almost impassable, they arrived at Clinton on the 25th, too late to assist in the capture of the place, which had been taken by a force sent from Baton Rouge. During their advance from Port Hudson they had marched for twenty-four hours, with but twenty minutes rest and the men suffered greatly from the heat and exhaustion. After a short rest, they were again put in motion on the evening of the 27th and arrived on the 29th at Port Hudson, where they reembarked, and proceeding down the Mississippi, arrived in the evening at Morganzia.

On the 3d of September, they were again placed on transports, with the Second division, and moving up the Mississippi on the following day, arrived on the 8th at the mouth of White river, near which they landed and encamped in a cotton field. They again embarked on the 10th, and proceeded up the White river to St Charles, Ark., where they have since been stationed, in the performance of guard duty, and frequently called upon to participate in expeditions against the guerillas, which infest the surrounding country.

The Thirtieth regiment moved from Camp Randall in the month of December, 1863, to Camp Washburn, and subsequently to Camp Reno, at Milwaukee, where the headquarters of the regiment were established. In the month of March, 1864, detachments of the regiment were ordered to various posts in Dacotah Territory and Northwestern Minnesota, and in Gen. Sully's campaign against the Indians, moved from point to point during the summer, performing many long and difficult marches through an extremely wild country, and participating in several engagements.

The several companies of the regiment are now stationed as follows: companies A, C, F and H, at Fort Rice; companies B, E, G and K, near Couteau de Prairie; company D at Fort Sully, in Dacotah Territory.—Company I, from which no return for September has been received, was, on the 31st of August, at Fort Union, D. T.

No report has been received from this regiment.

Companies A, B, C, D, E and F, of the Thirty-first Regiment were recruited principally during the month of August, 1862, and ordered to rendezvous on the 23d of September at Prairie du Chien, where they were organized under the supervision of Col. Isaac E. Messmore, and mustered into United States' service on the 9th of October. The battalion, thus organized, was stationed at Prairie du Chien, employed in drill duty and guarding prisoners, until the 14th of November, when companies A, D and F, were ordered to Camp Utley, Racine, and companies B, C and E, were ordered to Camp Randall, Madison, to take charge of camps of rendezvous for drafted men at those places. On the 20th of December, the detachment at Camp Randall was moved to Camp Utley, at which place companies G, H, I and K, were organized and mustered into United States' service on the 24th of December, and the final organization and muster of the regiment completed on the 13th of January, 1863.

They were thenceforward occupied in acquiring drill and discipline, until their departure from the State on the 1st of March, when they left Camp Utley for active service, arriving on the 3d at Cairo, Ill. At this point, they immediately embarked, and proceeding down the Mississippi twenty miles, landed at Columbus, Ky., the terminus of the Mobile and Ohio railroad, where they were assigned to the Sixth Division, Sixteenth Army Corps, and ordered into camp at Fort Halleck. While here they were engaged in the performance of various duties, furnishing daily large details for picket and provost duty, besides which they were frequently called upon for guards to transports on the Mississippi river. Parts of the regiment were also despatched on various reconnoissances through the surrounding country, during which they occasionally met the enemy in small force, but sustained little loss.

In the movements of our forces which followed the battle of Chickamauga, they left Columbus on the 24th of September, and proceeding by way of Cairo and Louisville, Ky., arrived on the 27th at Nashville, Tenn., near which place they went into camp. They broke camp at Nashville on the 5th of October, and marched sixteen miles to Laverne, on the Nashville and Chattanooga railroad, where they were employed in guard duty until the 25th, at which date they marched to Murfreesboro, sixteen miles distant. Shortly afterwards, companies B, G and K, under command of Capt. R. B. Stephenson, were detached from the regiment, and stationed at the crossing of Stone river, where they remained, building fortifications and guarding the railroad bridge until the 2d of April, 1864, when they rejoined the regiment at Murfreesboro. On the 14th of April, the regiment was assigned to the Fourth Division, Twentieth Corps, and on the 16th, was divided into detachments, which were stationed at various points on the Nashville and Chattanooga railroad, from Normandy to Murfreesboro, a distance of thirty miles. At this time, in addition to picket duty and guarding important points, the regiment patrolled the railroad from near Tullahoma to Murfreesboro. From the 1st of March to the latter part of June, a detachment of the regiment was mounted, and under command of Lieut. Thomas Beattie, of company B, performed much valuable service in Middle Tennessee. On the 6th of June, the regiment was ordered to Murfreesboro, where they arrived on the 8th, and immediately pressed forward to Nashville, at which place they encamped on the 10th.

Here the regiment was assigned to the Post command, and employed on provost guard duty in the city. On the 3d of July, the regiment was transferred to the Third Brigade, First Division, Twentieth Army Corps, with which they have since been identified.

In pursuance of orders to join the brigade at the front, they left Nashville on the 16th of July, proceeding by rail to Marietta, Ga., from which place they marched, joining the brigade on the 21st, in its position on the south side of the Chattahoochee river, in the trenches before Atlanta. From this time they were constantly under fire, and engaged in siege and fatigue duty, until the 25th of August, when they accompanied the movement of the division to position near the railroad bridge at the crossing of the Chattahoochee river. This position was retained until the evacuation of Atlanta by the enemy; after which, on the 4th of September, they marched to the city, and were assigned to camp in the fortifications, where they are now stationed.

The Thirty-second, which had been stationed at Memphis, Tenn., in the performance of provost duty, left that place on the 26th of November, 1863, arriving on the 30th at La Grange, forty-nine miles distant, on the Memphis and Charleston railroad. At the time of the rebel Gen. Lee's attack upon Moscow, on the 2d of December they received orders to proceed at once to that place, and with their brigade, marched nine miles in less than two hours, arriving in time to repulse the attack and save Col. Hatch's cavalry from capture. During the month, they moved from point to point in Tennessee and Northern Mississippi, going into camp about the 1st of January, 1864, at Grand Junction, Tenn., the intersection of the Memphis and Charleston and Mississippi Central railroads, having marched during the month a distance of two hundred and forty-seven miles.

They subsequently moved to Vicksburg, Miss., arriving at that place on the 2d of February, and marching with the brigade (2d Brig. 4th Div. 16th Army Corps) joined the forces comprising Gen. Sherman's "Meridian Expedition" six miles from the city. Next day, the brigade, under command of Col. Howe, moved forward to Messenger's Ford, on the Big Black river, which they held until the expedition had passed. They reached Jackson on the 7th, patrolling the city and holding the pontoon bridge across the Pearl river, which the enemy, in his hasty retreat, had no time to destroy. After the passage of our forces, they destroyed the bridge and rejoined the expedition at Brandon, from which point the march was continued, without serious interruption to Meridian, where the expedition arrived on the 14th, having marched one hundred and eighty-seven miles from Vicksburg. Next day, the destruction of the Mobile and Ohio railroad from this point commenced, and on the 16th, while the regiment, with five companies of an Indiana regiment, were engaged in this labor, they sustained an attack from a brigade of rebel cavalry, which was handsomely repulsed, after which the brigade moved to and occupied Marion, six miles from Meridian, where camp was temporarily established. The return march commenced on the 20th, and moving by way of Union, Hillsboro and Baton, a distance of one hundred and forty-two miles, the regiment on the 27th entered Canton, where they remained until the 1st of March, at which date the movement was resumed, and passing through Livingston and Brownville, they arrived on the 4th at Vicksburg, having marched sixty miles from Canton.

Embarking at Vicksburg on the 12th, they proceeded up the Mississippi, landing on the 14th at Memphis, Tenn., and after a delay of five days at this point, re-embarked on the 19th and landed on the 21st at Cairo, Ill. On the 24th they moved to Union City, Tenn., and returning on the night of the 26th to Cairo, immediately proceeded thence up the Ohio to Paducah, Ky., at the mouth of the Tennessee, arriving on the morning of the 27th, too late to meet the rebel Gen. Forrest's command. They re-embarked in the evening, and proceeding up the Tennessee river about two hundred miles, landed on the evening of the 29th at Clump's Landing, whence they marched on the following day, eighteen miles to Purdy, Tenn., returning on the 31st to the Landing, where they again embarked late in the evening. Next day, they sailed up the Tennessee, landing on the 2d of April at Waterloo, Ala., whence they marched on the following day and proceeding via Florence, Masonville and Rogersville, a distance of ninety-three miles, encamped on the 7th at Prospect, Tenn. Marching thence on the 9th, thirty-six miles through Athens, Ala., they arrived on the 10th at Decatur, Ala., on the Memphis and Charleston railroad, at the junction of the Tennessee and Alabama Central. Here they were employed in guard duty and building fortifications, with the Third brigade, to which they had been transferred during the month.

On the 25th of May companies A, C, D and F, with a small additional force moved out on the Courtland road, and meeting a considerable body of the rebels, were—after a brisk skirmish—compelled to return. Next day the Third brigade, with an additional force of cavalry and artillery, under command of Col. Howe, moved out on the same road, and having marched seven miles, encountered the rebel skirmishers. The Thirty-second, having the lead, were at once deployed as skirmishers, and supported by an Indiana regiment, forced back the enemy's skirmishers a distance of seven miles to his main force, under command of Gens. Roddy and fluence of the two rivers. In the evening they were put in motion towards Fort De Russy, before which place, after a severe march of thirty-two miles, they arrived late on the following day, and were immediately drawn up in line of battle to protect the rear of the army. On the 15th, they entered the fort and were employed in the performance of picket duty, until the 18th, when they reembarked, proceeding up the stream to Alexandria on the Red river, on the north bank of which they landed and encamped. They crossed to the south bank on the night of the 21st, and marched on the 26th, arriving next day at Bayou Cotile, twenty-eight miles from Alexandria. They embarked at this place on the 2d of April, arriving next day at Grand Ecore, and on the 5th proceeded up the river twenty miles to Campti, one hundred and ten miles from Alexandria. At this point they landed, and having effected a reconnoissance, returned in the evening to Grand Ecore.

At this point, Gen. T. K. Smith's division of the Seventeenth Army Corps, to which the Thirty-third belonged, was detached from the main force, and ordered to proceed up the Red river as guard to the transport fleet containing an immense amount of ammunition and stores, destined for the future use of the expedition. The regiment accordingly left Grand Ecore on the 7th of April, ascending the river to Campti, where they landed, and after a reconnoissance, in which no enemy was discovered they returned to the boats, and next morning, proceeded up the river twenty miles, bivouacking for the night on the north bank of the stream as reserve to the Second brigade, which had been landed and sent forward to reconnoitre. The progress up the river was resumed on the 10th, when they advanced thirty miles to Loggy Bayou, at which point the enemy had obstructed farther passage, by sinking a steamer across the channel. The entire division here landed, the Thirty-third taking the advance, with companies A, B and F, deployed in front as skirmishers: the whole movement for the purpose of effecting a careful reconnoissance to Springfield, six miles distant, where it was intended to form a junction with the main body of the expeditionary force. Having advanced a mile they were met by a courier from Gen. Banks, bringing information of the disaster at Sabine Cross Roads, on the 8th, and the subsequent retreat of the main force to Grand Ecore. Gen. Smith was directed to return at once with the fleet, as the army was nearly destitute of forage and rations. Accordingly the troops immediately reembarked, and the fleet of twenty-six transports headed down stream, several of the larger steamers, having to move seven miles before finding a place of sufficient width to enable them to turn.

On the 12th, when near Coushattes Chute, they were fired upon by the enemy and lost one killed and two wounded. In the evening, while engaged in assisting one of our fleet, which had got aground at Pleasant Hill Landing, they were attacked by a force of the enemy, estimated at nearly 2,000 strong, with a battery of artillery. Three charges of the enemy were successfully repulsed by the steady fire of our troops, and he was finally forced to fall back, with the loss of Gen. Green, commanding the force, and a large number killed and wounded. In the report of this action special mention is made of the platoon under Sergeant Ewbank, of company D, which was stationed upon one of the transports, close to the enemy, and rendered very effective service. The loss of the regiment was one killed and one wounded. During the night they continued down the river without further interruption, joining the fleet at daylight on the 18th, and arriving at Grand Ecore on the following day. Here they landed on the 15th, and encamped in the woods until the 20th, when they marched to Natchitoches. Late on the following day they left Natchitoches, crossed Old river, and took position on the road, which they retained until the march was resumed on the morning of the 22d, when they pressed forward thirty-two miles, arriving early next morning at Cloutierville.

The regiment had advanced about two miles from this place, when they were ordered to the rear to reinforce our cavalry, which had been compelled to fall back on the infantry. After a severe skirmish, during which they lost two men wounded, the rebel attack was repulsed, when the regiment marched four miles and encamped on Cane river. Early on the 24th, the enemy renewed the attack, which, after a severe engagement of two hours, was handsomely repulsed at all points. The Thirty-third sustained a loss of two killed and eleven wounded, and after the battle marched twenty miles to Bayou Coteau, without farther molestation. The movement was continued on the following day, and marching by way of Bayou Rapide, they arrived on the 26th at Alexandria. During the action at this place on the 28th, they were held in reserve, sustaining no loss, and on the 30th marched five miles to the Louisiana Military Institution, near which they took position on the left of the line. Companies E, H and K, were employed in reconnoitering on the 1st of May, returning to camp without meeting the enemy, and next day the regiment marched at two in the morning, to Alexandria, where they remained in line in anticipation of attack until daylight, when they returned to camp. Shortly afterwards, they were ordered to move out on the Opelousas road as support to the Thirteenth Corps, and at noon formed in the rear line of battle on the Bayou Coteau, where they remained under arms during the night.

On the 3d, they were stationed at the intersection of the Opelousas and Cheneyville road, and at daylight on the following morning were ordered to reinforce Gen. Mower's command on Gov. Moore's plantation, nearly five miles distant. In the afternoon of the 6th, they took position in the front line of battle, and participated in the engagement near this place, forcing the enemy steadily back a distance of six miles. Next day they marched to the junction of Bayou La Maire and Bayou Boeuf, and thence, late at night, returned to camp on Gov. Moore's plantation, where they remained until the 14th, repulsing the enemy's frequent attacks upon the picket line. They arrived near Fort De Russy on the 15th, and while advancing next day met the enemy in force near Marksville, and took part in the engagement which followed, losing one man wounded. Continuing the march on the 17th, they crossed Yellow Bayou next day. In the battle at this place, companies A, B, F and G were deployed as skirmishers on the left of the line, the remaining companies taking position on the right of Gen. Mower's command as support to a Vermont battery. Shortly afterwards, upon being relieved by an Illinois regiment, they took position on the left covering the flank of the line, which they retained until ordered to fall back in the evening.

They marched to and crossed the Atchafalaya, on the 20th, and next day reached the Mississippi, a short distance below the mouth of the Red river, where they embarked on the 22d, and proceeding up the Mississippi river, landed on the 24th at Vicksburg. Col. Moore having been placed in command of the division, the command of the regiment during the Red River Expedition, devolved upon Major Virgin. After a short delay at Vicksburg, the regiment moved up the river to Memphis, Tenn., where they went into camp on the 30th of May, and were allowed to remain there till the 22d of June.

At this date, the regiment, under command of Lieut. Col. Lovell, left Memphis, accompanying an expedition to the interior of Mississippi, with the forces under command of Gen. A. J. Smith. They reached Moscow on the 24th, and La Grange, Tenn., on the 27th, at which place the forces were finally concentrated, and having obtained the necessary supplies, they cut all communications and left La Grange on the 31st of July. Marching in extremely hot weather, on roads almost suffocating with dust, they arrived on the 11th, in the vicinity of Pontotoc, where the enemy made a stand against our cavalry. The infantry was immediately formed in line, and leading the advance with the brigade, the Thirty-third entered Pontotoc, marched a mile beyond the Tupelo road, and encamped on the road leading to Okalona. (This manoeuvre having effected its object in causing the enemy to concentrate his forces on the Okalona road, the expedition, on the morning of the 18th, counter-marched one mile and proceeding on the Tupelo road, left the enemy in the rear.)

During this day's march the First brigade acted as train guard, the Thirty-third Wisconsin marching in rear of the supply train. About noon, the enemy pushed forward, threatening the right flank of the marching column, and shortly afterwards attacked the train near Germargo Cross Roads. A detachment of about two hundred men from the Fourteenth Wisconsin, guarding the rear of the train, was nearly overwhelmed by the greatly superior forces of the enemy, fifteen hundred strong, and the train thrown into confusion. At this juncture, the Thirty-third was ordered forward, and advancing in line through a cornfield to within one hundred yards of the enemy, threw in a withering volley, followed by a well sustained fire, by which the rebels were thrown into confusion and routed, leaving their dead and wounded with a stand of colors upon the field. The loss of the regiment was one killed and six wounded. A desperate attack of the rebels was easily repulsed, and then march continued to Harrisburg, where they bivouacked for the night. Early on the following morning, July 26th, the whole force moved up in line of battle near Tupelo, to resist the enemy's attack. The Thirty-third holding the extreme right of the front line. The battle commenced by driving in our skirmishers, when the enemy, 8,000 strong, massed in front of our lines, and, after a furious fire, lasting about fifteen minutes, the charge. Our troops retained their fire, until the rebels had approached within one hundred yards, when they opened with such effect, that the rebel line was broken and driven back in disorder. The enemy found the colors were taken from the field by an officer of the Fourteenth Wisconsin, and are still retained by that regiment.

near the woods, about a mile distant, and again advanced with the same result. On the third assault, they again wavered upon receiving our fire, when the first line was ordered to charge, and six regiments, including the Thirty-third, immediately advanced, driving them from the field, upon which lay their dead and most of the wounded. In the evening, the enemy again made a feeble attack, which was repulsed without difficulty, and our troops bivouacked for the night at Tupelo. The provisions being nearly exhausted, the return march of the expedition was commenced on the 15th. In the evening, when about to encamp, five miles from Tupelo, at Old Town Creek, the enemy attempted a surprise, but our troops were soon formed in line, and advancing under a severe fire across a long bridge and causeway, attacked and drove him from his position with great loss. The march was resumed on the following day and continued without farther molestation, the regiment arriving at LaGrange, Tenn., on the 21st, and proceeding next day to Memphis, where they went into camp. During this expedition they had lost six men killed and thirty-six wounded, two of whom subsequently died of wounds, "Too much praise cannot be awarded to officers and men for their gallantry, and it is stated with pride that during these actions not a man straggled from the regiment."*

After a brief period of rest at Memphis, they again embarked on the 3d of August, and proceeding down the Mississippi on the following day to the mouth of White river, ascended the latter stream to St. Charles, Ark., where they landed on the 6th, and were employed in guard duty and building fortifications at that point. On the 1st of September, they proceeded up the river to Duval's Bluff and thence on the 8th to Brownsville, Ark., at which place they remained until the 17th. At this date, accompanying the march of the division, which was attached to Gen. Mower's command, they were put in motion, in pursuit of the rebel Gen. Price, leaving their camp and garrison equipage with the sick and convalescent at Brownsville. Marching in a north easterly direction, through Austin and Stony Point, they forded the Little Red river, on the evening of the 19th at Searcy, the county seat of White county, and on the 21st reached the White river at Sulphur Rock, midway between Batesville and Jacksonport. Forging the river on the following morning, they continued the march to Elgin, on the Black river, near which they bivouacked for the night. It being found impossible to ford the river at this point, on account of the depth of the water, the forces were at once set to work, and by noon on the 23d, a bridge, three hundred and seventy-five feet in length spanned the stream.

They crossed the Black river in the afternoon, and marching along the valley, on its left bank, through a fertile country, furnishing abundant forage for their jaded animals, they bivouacked, on the evening of the 26th, opposite Pocahontas. Passing over a rough bridge, which had been hastily constructed by felling trees across the stream, they crossed the Black river near the State line on the 28th, and marching through swamps, over which they experienced much difficulty in passing the train, they forded the St. Francis river at Greenville, Mo., on the 2d of October. Their supplies being exhausted, they made a forced march on the 4th of twenty-nine miles, through a severe rain storm, "many of the men being barefooted and footsore." In the evening they met a train of supplies from Cape Girardeau, which point they reached on the 5th, having on ten days' rations, marched three hundred and twenty-four miles, in nineteen days, built two bridges and forded four rivers.

The Thirty-fifth regiment, in process of organization at the date of the last Annual Report, was completed and finally mustered into United States' service in February, 1864, under the superintendence of Col. Henry Orff. The intervening time having been spent in acquiring drill and discipline, they left the regimental rendezvous at Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, in the latter part of April, under orders to join Gen. Steele's forces at Alexandria, La., Having remained some days at Benton Barracks, near St. Louis, Mo., where the regiment was thoroughly equipped for active service, they proceeded down the Mississippi, and failing to find transportation at the mouth of Red river, continued on to New Orleans, where they remained two days without landing.

From New Orleans they were ordered to Port Hudson, La., where they landed on the 7th of May, and went into camp, within the fortifications. Here the regiment was employed in guard duty, until the 27th of June, when they embarked, and proceeding up the Mississippi, landed in the evening at Morganzia, La., where they went into camp. Shortly afterwards, camp was moved three miles south, where the regiment was employed in guard duty. They again embarked about the middle of July, and after a few days' delay at the mouth of the White river, ascended the stream on the 22d, to St. Charles, Ark. Here they were employed in guard duty and labor on the fortifications, with occasional expeditions through the surrounding country, until the 6th of August, when they re-embarked, and descending the White and Mississippi rivers, landed on the 12th at Morganzia, La., where they have since been stationed.

No report has been received from this regiment.

The Thirty-sixth regiment, recruited under the call of February 1st, 1864, for 500,000 men, was rapidly filled to the maximum, and organized under the superintendence of Col. Frank A. Haskell, previously Adjutant of the Sixth Wisconsin, whose muster into service as colonel dates from the 23d of March. After a short time employed in acquiring familiarity with their duties as soldiers, they left Camp Randall on the 10th of May. From Washington they proceeded on the 16th to the front, taking position on the 18th in the First Brigade, Second Division, Second Army Corps, the movements of which they have since accompanied.

It would be doing gross injustice to the gallant conduct of this, as well as other Wisconsin regiments to attempt a detailed statement of their services, in the absence of the data furnished by a regimental report, the lack of which may perhaps, in this instance, be explained by the peculiar fortunes of the regiment, alluded to in another place. I am therefore compelled to postpone their record for another year.

The Thirty-sixth is now with the Army of the Potomac, before Petersburg, Va.

The Thirty-seventh regiment, authorized under the call of February 1st, 1864, for 500,000 men, was organized under the superintendence of Col. Samuel Harriman, formerly of the Thirtieth Wisconsin. On the 28th of April, six companies, which had been recruited during the latter part of March, left Camp Randall under command of Major Kershaw, arriving at Washington on the 1st of May, at which place they were joined, on the 17th, by companies H and L. Embarking at Washington on the 30th, they proceeded by steamer to White House, Va., then the base of supplies for the Army of the Potomac, where they arrived on the 2d of June. As guard to a wagon train, they marched on the 10th, to Cold Harbor, where they joined the Army of the Potomac, and were assigned by Gen. Burnside, on the following day, to the First Brigade, Third Division, Ninth Army Corps, with which they have since been identified.

They entered the first line of works near Cold Harbor on the 12th, and on the same day accompanied the general movement of the army by forced marches towards the James river, which they crossed on the evening of the 15th, continuing the march until their arrival before the enemy's lines at Petersburg. They participated on the 17th in the charge upon the rebel lines, during which they were compelled, after a severe engagement, to retire with heavy loss. The assault was repeated next day, when our troops occupied the first line of works. The attempt to dislodge the enemy from his main line having proved unsuccessful, the regiment occupied the ground gained and threw up entrenchments, having sustained, in their first battle, a loss of one hundred and fifty-two, killed and wounded. Thenceforward, until the 10th of July, they were employed in picket and fatigue duty in the front line of rifle pits, and exposed without intermission to a heavy fire. At this date they were joined by company G, and retired from the extreme front.

After a week's comparative rest, they again took position, on the 17th, in the front line of rifle pits, in which they were employed until ordered out to take part in the terrible charge of the 30th of July. During the preceding night, large bodies of troops had been concentrated on the right, left and rear of their position, directly opposite to a large rebel fort, which had been previously undermined, and was blown up at daylight. Immediately after the explosion, they accompanied the advance of the Third Division, under a very severe enfilading fire, which grew heavier as the rebels recovered from the panic occasioned by the explosion of the mine. The Thirty-seventh was among the last to cross our works, and under the severest fire, occupied the ruined fort, but owing to lack of support, were unable to advance, the troops which were sent to their assistance being thrown into disorder by the concentric fire from the enemy's forts. With a portion of the Third Division, our regiment held the crater formed by the explosion, gallantly repulsing the repeated attempts of the enemy to dislodge them, until all hope of continuing the contest successfully, or of receiving support was abandoned, when they retired to our rifle pits.

In this unfortunate affair, out of two hundred and fifty who advanced to the assault in the morning, one hundred and fifty-five are reported as killed, wounded and missing, the regiment numbering but little over ninety when assembled in the evening. After a short rest, they again took position in the trenches, from which, after a night spent in severe labor on Fort Schenck, they moved, on the morning of the 19th of August, a forced march, through rain and mud, to a point near the Weldon railroad, brought them up with the brigade, which had preceded them during the night. While endeavoring to obtain a short rest on the battle field of the previous day, they were ordered to the front, which had been again attacked by the enemy. The rebels retired as they advanced through the woods, and upon emerging into an open field on the left, the regiment was assailed by a force which had been placed in ambush at that point. They finally took position farther to the left, which was retained until dark, the regiment having sustained a loss during the day of ten men killed and wounded. In the night they changed position to the front, and during the following day were moved from point to point as portions of our line were menaced by the enemy. At daybreak on the 21st, the regiment was set to work constructing a line of works across the Weldon railroad and facing towards the southwest. They had scarcely completed the defences, when the rebels made another determined effort to regain the road. In the engagement which ensued, the Thirty-seventh was ordered to support a battery on the left of the line, and suffered severely from the fire of a rebel battery which the enemy had planted to the left and rear of the line. Having repulsed the rebel attack, they built a fortification commanding the approach to the railroad, within which they encamped, remaining until the afternoon of the 25th, when they proceeded with the brigade, by forced march, to reinforce the Second Corps, which was severely engaged at Reams' Station. As they approached the field of battle, a part of the brigade was ordered to remain as rear guard, to intercept stragglers, while the remainder, with the Thirty-seventh, pressed forward to the front, arriving near the scene of battle after dark. A strong picket was thrown out to prevent surprise, while the wearied soldiers of the Second Corps withdrew, after which the regiment returned and bivouacked within our lines.

On the 27th, they constructed new works and went into camp near Bluck Station, where they remained until the 24th of September, at which date camp was removed a half mile to the rear, whence they moved on the 29th, and bivouacked for the night near the Gurley House. Next morning, Major Kershaw assumed command of the regiment, Col. Harriman taking charge of the brigade. They marched with the brigade to within one and a half miles of the Southside railroad, where the brigade formed as reserve for the Second brigade, which had been ordered to assault the enemy's works in front. The assault was unsuccessful, and the Second brigade, returning in some disorder, partly broke the line of the First, which had been hastily formed for the support of a battery ordered up to check the advance of the enemy, who was rapidly advancing in pursuit of the retreating brigade. The partial derangement of the line thus occasioned was increased by the conduct of the battery, which moved rapidly to the rear as the enemy emerged from the woods. The Thirty-seventh, which was posted on the right of the line, being at this time without support, retired to the cover of a fence a few rods in the rear, where they reformed, and poured into the ranks of the advancing enemy so heavy and well-sustained a fire as to compel him to fall back to the cover of the woods to reform. A second assault was met in a similar manner.

By this time reinforcements had arrived, the line was reformed and strengthened, and disaster averted. The regiment held this position until night, when they were withdrawn about a mile, at which point they threw up entrenchments, and went into bivouac.

The regiment is now stationed near Pegram's Farm.

Four companies, A, B, C and D, of the Thirty-eighth regiment, recruited principally during the latter part of March, were mustered into United States service on the 15th of April, 1864, at Madison, and with short time allowed for preparatory drill and discipline, left Camp Randall on the 3d of May under command of Lieut. Col. Pier, and arrived on the 7th at Washington. They were ordered into camp on Arlington Heights, Va., where they were furnished with arms and equipments on the 11th, and assigned to the Provisional Brigade, commanded by Gen. Casey. In compliance with orders, they left Camp Casey on the 30th, and proceeding by transport down the Potomac, the battalion landed on the 1st of June at White House, Va., where they were assigned to the Fourth Provisional Brigade. On the 5th, they marched fifteen miles to the front as escort to a wagon train and returned next day to camp, where they remained three days, again marching on the 9th as guard to a supply train to Cold Harbor, where the battalion was transferred to the Army of the Potomac, and assigned by Gen. Meade, to the Third Brigade, First Division, Ninth Army Corps. On the 11th, they were ordered out on picket duty, from which they were relieved late in the evening and transferred to the First brigade, to which they have since been attached. Next day, they were ordered into the front line of trenches, where they were exposed during the day, for the first time to the enemy's fire, and lost two men killed.

Participating in the general movement of the army under Gen. Grant, they left Cold Harbor in the evening, and proceeding by forced march, arrived on the 14th of June, at James River, near Charles' City Court House, and having remained here one day, crossed the river on a pontoon bridge, and marched twenty-five miles to the enemy's works before Petersburg, in front of which they took position on the evening of the 16th.— Their brigade was immediately formed in line, and shortly after nightfall moved under a very severe fire to position on the extreme front. Next morning they moved out of the entrenchments which had been constructed during the night and lay exposed to the enemy's fire until the order was given at one o'clock to advance, when they charged upon the enemy's outer line of entrenchments, capturing them at the point of the bayonet. The battalion then lay exposed to a severe, and at some points enfilading, fire until eight in the evening, when they were again ordered to charge, and accompanied the general advance of the line, capturing a second line of the rebel works, with a number of prisoners. They occupied this line constantly under fire, until the afternoon of the 18th, when the order to charge was again given. To accomplish this movement they advanced over an open field and across the Norfolk and Petersburg railroad, at a point where the road runs through a deep "cut" forming an almost perpendicular wall upon which the enemy had thrown up entrenchments. To climb this bank when exposed to a heavy fire seemed nearly impossible, but digging steps in the sandy earth and assisting each other, the men almost one by one succeeded in making the ascent, and did not falter for a moment, until the entrenchments were captured, and the enemy forced back to his main line of defences. During these engagements, the battalion sustained a loss of nine killed and forty-three wounded.

They were thenceforward kept in the front line of the besieging forces, employed in picket and fatigue duty, until the 4th of July, when they were relieved from the extreme front, and retired a short distance to the rear in which position, although within range of the enemy's guns, the overworked troops were allowed a season of comparative rest. They again moved into the trenches on the 17th of July, where they were joined, on the 26th, by company E of the regiment, augmenting their numbers by three officers and sixty-six men for duty. On the morning of the 30th, companies B and E, were stationed on the extreme front, the remaining three companies, occupying position in the second line. Immediately upon the explosion of the mine, when the order was given to advance; the regiment which had been designated to lead the charge, faltered, and these two companies, B and E, under command of Lieut. Ballard and Capt. Ferris, respectively, were ordered to lead. Although numbering less than one hundred men, they sprang over their works without hesitation and advanced upon the enemy's works. Under the terrific fire which swept their ranks, Capt. Ferris was soon mortally and Lieut. Holton, severely wounded, leaving Lieut. Ballard alone in command. They occupied the captured line, until three in the afternoon, when they returned under a very heavy cross fire to position in the trenches, having lost seven killed, thirteen wounded and nine missing, during the day.

Thenceforward they were constantly occupied in siege and picket duty, until the 19th of August, when they accompanied the movement to the left, for the capture of the Weldon railroad. After a fatiguing march through mud and rain they met the enemy in the afternoon, and in the action which ensued, captured a number of prisoners. Early on the 22d, they moved forward, and rapidly threw up a line of entrenchments, the battalion occupying position directly across the track. Before noon the enemy attacked the position from three directions simultaneously, but after severe engagement lasting two hours the assault was repulsed, and our troops fortified the position. In these actions the Battalion lost two killed and twenty-three wounded and missing.

Since this date they have been employed in siege and fatigue duty on the left wing of the army before Petersburg, and are now (Sept. 30) stationed near Poplar Grove Church.

At the departure of the first four companies of the Thirty-eighth regiment, Col. Bintliff remained at Camp Randall, to superintend the recruiting and complete the organization of his regiment. Company E was sent forward in the month of July, and on the 22d of September the remaining companies, under command of Col. Bintliff, left Camp Randall, under orders to join their comrades in the trenches before Petersburg.

The Thirty-ninth, Fortieth and Forty-first regiments of infantry, comprising Wisconsin's contribution to the "Hundred days" service, were recruited principally in the latter part of May and beginning of June, and organized under the supervision of Col. Edwin Buttrick of Milwaukee, Col. W. Augustus Ray of Delavan and Lieut. Col. George B. Goodwin of Menasha respectively.

The Thirty-ninth left Camp Washburn, at Milwaukee, on the 13th of June, and was followed on the 15th by the Forty-first. Proceeding by way of Cairo, Ill., they arrived on the 17th at Memphis, Tenn., where both regiments were assigned to the Third Brigade, which was placed under command of Col. Buttrick.

The Fortieth left Camp Randall on the 14th of June, and moving by rail to Alton, Ill., proceeded thence by steamer, down the Mississippi, landing on the 19th at Memphis, Tenn., where they were assigned to the Second Brigade, District of Memphis.

The regiments were placed in camp within the fortifications, and employed principally in garrison, picket and railroad guard duty, participating in occasional skirmishes on the picket line. On the 21st of August, the rebel Gen. Forrest, with a force of about five thousand cavalry made a dash upon the city at daylight, and succeeded at one point in passing through the lines. Our regiments were promptly hurried to the front, and in the action which ensued, behaved with gallantry, sustaining slight loss. The rebels soon retired, with a few prisoners whom they had captured, and after a march of two miles, our troops returned in the afternoon to camp.

The term of service of these troops having expired in the beginning of September, they were ordered to return to Wisconsin for muster out of service. The Thirty-ninth and Forty-first were discharged at Camp Washburn and the Fortieth, which arrived on the 14th of September, was soon afterwards mustered out at Camp Randall.

With the exception of the Fortieth, no reports have been received from these regiments.

CO. G, 1st UNITED STATES SHARP SHOOTERS.

The 1st of October, 1863, found the company attached to the Third Brigade, First Division, Third Army Corps, and encamped on the Sperryville pike, two and a half miles west of Culpepper. On the 5th, camp was twice changed, the company finally occupying log cabins and shanties in a wood about a mile farther west. They were occasionally called upon to perform picket duty, and on the 10th moved with the army, taking position on the flank, where scouts were thrown forward, it being evident that the enemy was moving. In about an hour they were recalled, rejoining the brigade, and after some time occupied in manœuvring, were finally drawn up in line of battle in an open field, in which position they rested for the night.

On the following day, taking part in the movement of the army to intercept the enemy's threatened attack upon our rear, they commenced falling back towards Washington. Crossing the rivers Hazel and Headsman, they bivouacked for the night within a mile of the latter stream, having been employed as scouts, and capturing one prisoner during the march. They withdrew on the 18th still farther towards Warrenton Junction, near which place line of battle was formed, and company G, with another company sent out as scouts. They were soon recalled, and hurrying up at "double quick" to rejoin the regiment, arrived in time to take part in the action at Auburn, where the enemy had been discovered and an engagement was in progress. The Sharpshooters, moving by the right flank, formed in line facin a wood two hundred and fifty yards distant. On being ordered to advance, they charged rapidly across the intervening space, dislodging a party of the enemy's dismounted cavalry, and pursuing their advantage, formed a strong skirmish line, being the first to enter Greenwich at the head of the column, about nine in the evening. Here they bivouacked in the field, having marched upwards of twenty-six miles during the day.

Next day, the march was resumed in the direction of Bull Run, the company acting as flankers. Having forded Bull Run, they took position on the heights near Centreville, in the afternoon, from which position they witnessed the action at Bristoe Station, where the enemy's advance was checked by the Second Corps. On the 15th they went into temporary camp near Fairfax Station, in the vicinity of which place they remained until the 19th, when they again took up the line of march at four in the morning, following the line of the Orange and Alexandria railroad, by way of Bristoe Station and Greenwich, encamped near the latter place and were employed for some days by details in repairing the railroad, and on the 26th were advanced to position in the picket line near Cedar Run. Here they bivouacked in a wood, and were employed in the discharge of picket and outpost duty until the 7th of November, when they were in motion before daylight. They arrived in the vicinity of Kelly's Ford about noon, and forming line of skirmishers, the regiment advanced on the ford under sharp fire, driving the enemy across the river, and by their rapid and well-sustained fire, preventing his reinforcements from coming up. After engaging the rebels about an hour they were ordered to cross the river and capture the enemy's rifle pits. This was gallantly accomplished, companies G and B covering the advance, and following as soon as a landing was effected on the opposite side. The enemy's works were soon captured with 500 prisoners, including several officers of high rank. The sharpshooters pressed forward, and the main body of our troops crossed the river in force, and bivouacked on the field. For the gallantry displayed in this action, the Sharpshooters were highly complimented by their companions in arms.

The enemy having disappeared from the front, march was resumed on the 8th, the troops pressing forward to Brandy Station, where they joined the other corps of the army, and went into camp on the 10th, on the farm of Hon. John M. Botta, where winter quarters were erected, and the com

On the morning of the 7th of May the Sharpshooters were sent forward, deployed as skirmishers to reconnoitre the position of the enemy, which having been accomplished, they fell back a short distance, forming strong picket line, and remaining in position until after dark, when they moved to the Orange road, taking position behind breastworks, where they remained during the night, furnishing details for the videttes in the front. Soon after daylight next morning they were relieved by a squad of cavalry, and retired silently through the brush to the Brook road, along which they moved to the left, acting as rear guard, the main body of the division having preceded them, and arriving about noon at Todd's Tavern, where they rejoined the division. Early in the afternoon, they were placed in position on a timbered hill where log breastworks were erected. Here a sharp fight took place between our advance line and the enemy, during which Lieut. Perrin C. Judkins, of company G was mortally wounded by a piece of shell. He had been employed on staff duty since the 3d of January, and met his death while encouraging our troops to retain their position.

Our company was again sent to the front on the 9th, but were soon withdrawn, and continued the movement to the left, crossing the Po river late in the afternoon, and proceeding slowly over very dusty roads, until about nine in the evening, when they bivouacked for the night in an open field, remaining until the afternoon of the following day, when they participated in the battle of the Po river. They occupied position on the left of the division line, in the beginning of the action, but were subsequently moved to the right, where they were exposed to flank fire from the enemy's batteries, rendering necessary a change of position. They finally moved to the left again and rested for the night behind breastworks, having been exposed to sharp artillery fire during the whole afternoon. Early on the morning of the 11th, the Sharpshooters were again sent to the front, where they formed squads around buildings and in rude rifle pits, hastily dug with bayonets and plates, and remained in position during the day. In the evening under orders for special duty at Division Headquarters, they were detached from the brigade, and spent most of the night on the march, accompanying the general movement of our forces to the left.

Allowed but a short rest on the damp ground, they were at an early hour again in motion, acting as 'flankers' in the advance upon Spottsylvania; and shortly afterwards participated in the brilliant charge of the Second Corps, which resulted in the defeat of the enemy and our capture of "7,000 prisoners, including two general officers, two lines of works and eighteen cannon." During the day the impetuous attempts of the enemy to regain possession of the works thus taken were gallantly repulsed. On the evening of the 13th, they were sent out to establish new picket lines on the right, where they were posted on the following day. Moving to the left on the 15th, they were placed in rude earthworks in front of our lines, to watch the movements of the enemy, and retained the position during the day, under severe musketry and artillery fire. Next day, both regiments of sharpshooters, were sent out in the afternoon to retake a line on our right, which had been abandoned. They went forward under fire, driving the rebel line back and taking possession of the works, which they held until relieved by infantry in the evening.

With various changes of position and frequently called on for the performance of picket duty, they remained in the vicinity of Spottsylvania, until the 21st of May, when the general movement to the left was resumed. Marching at one in the morning, they proceeded by way of Bowling Green, halting in the evening two miles south of Milford, on the Richmond and Petersburg railroad. Here the Sharpshooters were charged with the establishment of the picket line, in which they remained on duty during the night. On the 22d they were again in the front, and shortly after sunrise next morning marched about two miles south of Chesterfield, where they took part in the battle of the North Anna. Company G, with another company, was sent to the front as support to a battery. Taking position in advance of the battery, they remained during the day, exposed to fire from both sides. On the 23d they were posted in rifle pits on the river bank, where they protected the bridge and covered the passage of our troops across the stream. The crossing of the river was effected and the rebels driven from their works, half a mile to the woods in the rear. Shortly afterwards a detail of forty men, under Lieut. Stevens, was sent forward to capture and hold some small buildings close to the rebel line. This was gallantly accomplished and the buildings held until late in the evening, when, having exhausted their ammunition, they were relieved.

They rejoined the brigade on the 25th, remaining quiet until the 27th, when the movement to the left was again resumed. Crossing the Pamunkey at Hanover town, they pressed forward, taking part on the 30th in the battle at Tolapota moy Creek. The Sharpshooters were posted in a wood on the edge of a ravine, and after erecting temporary breastworks, were kept busy 'sharpshooting' all day, when the enemy having been driven from his works, our forces crossed the river next morning, our company, with others, deployed as skirmishers, advancing rapidly to the position assigned beyond the works, where they captured a few prisoners and remained under fire during the day.

On the 1st of June, the Sharpshooters occupied position on the right in the works vacated by the Sixth Corps, with occasional exchanges of shots by the videttes. Falling back during the night by way of Salem Cross Roads, they marched on the left to Cold Harbor, where they arrived in the forenoon. On the 3d, their division was held in reserve during the battle of Cold Harbor, company G, with others, being sent to the front of Gen. Gibbon's division, where they were engaged during the day with rebel riflemen and cannoniers, while our troops in their rear were employed in constructing earthworks. Thenceforward they were almost constantly employed in picket duty at various parts of our lines, until the evening of the 12th, when they moved to the left, crossing the Obio kahominy at Long Bridge, early in the morning. Marching by way of Charles City Court House, they crossed the James river at Wilcox's Landing, and took position with our forces before Petersburg, late on the evening of the 15th. During the week following, the Sharpshooters were almost constantly engaged in the front as our troops fought to advance the line and establish themselves in position before the place. On the 18th they took part in the action at Hare's Farm, and on the 22d participated in the battle of the Jerusalem Plank Road, in which the enemy's efforts to check the advance of the Second Corps on the left of our line, were gallantly repulsed.

Our line being now established, company G was assigned to position near the Chimneys, where they remained, as a part of the reserve, furnishing details for fatigue duty until the 26th of July. Participating in the movement of the Second Corps, they broke camp in the evening, and marching rapidly and silently by the City Point Road, they crossed the Appomattox, and pressing steadily forward, crossed the James river at Jones' Neck, at three in the morning. After a short rest at Curl's Neck, they were ordered forward and took part in the battle of Deep Bottom, which resulted in the capture of an important rebel work with guns and prisoners, and the advance of the line on our right front. Company G was employed as sharpshooters and skirmishers and was withdrawn late in the evening. They returned by forced march to their old position near the 'Chimneys' and participated in the action on Gen. Burnside's front on the 30th, during which our company lost one killed and one wounded. After this action they were again placed in the reserve.

On the 12th of August, they again broke camp and marched to City Point, seven miles distant, where they embarked on the following day, and steamed down the river. Returning in the night, they landed at daybreak on the 14th above Bermuda Hundreds, and marching over Strawberry Plains, took part next day in the battle of Deep Run. During the early part of the action, the Sharpshooters advanced on the right of our line, driving the enemy's pickets and gradually advancing our line, until they reached the Charles City road, where they remained in position until evening. The contest was resumed on the 16th, and our company was again engaged. After performing good service as 'flankers,' they were ordered to report to Gen. Birney, under whose orders they were posted on a wooded hill, where they were on duty until dark. Company G lost one man killed. During the night of the 18th, they marched to near their former position before Petersburg, and in the morning were posted on the picket line, in some places within sixty yards of the enemy. They were withdrawn from the picket line on the 24th, and encamped in pine woods on the left of the corps. They were shortly afterwards posted behind breastworks on the front line before Petersburg, employed in daily picket duty, and were at times under very severe fire, the picket lines of the opposing forces being posted within a distance of from sixty to one hundred and fifty yards of each other.

Their term of service having expired, the company was finally mustered out of service in the field on the 22d of September, the re-enlisted veterans, and recruits which had joined since organization, having been transferred to other companies in the regiment.

On the 1st of October, 1863, the effective force of the the First Cavalry, leaving the sick and inefficient in camp at Bridgeport, Ala., marched with the brigade (2d Brig., 1st Div., Cav. Corps.) to Jasper, Tenn., a small town in the valley of the Sequatchie river. On the following day, while the regiment was moving in advance of the brigade, information was received that Wheeler's command, a few miles in advance, had burned a supply train near Anderson's Gap, on the Nashville and Chattanooga railroad. The regiment was at once ordered forward to reconnoitre, and if prudent, to attack the enemy.

The advance guard, under command of Capt. Smith, moved rapidly forward, and encountered the rebel rear guard a short distance from the burning train. "The enemy retreated steadily, skirmishing constantly with our advance, which pressed him closely for about two miles, capturing a lieutenant and ten men, and liberating a Federal surgeon and some others, whom the enemy had captured and was attempting to carry off in an ambulance. On passing the burning train, the explosion of ammunition was terrific, and farther on, sutlers' stores were strewn about in tempting profusion, but the officers were strict in their orders and no straggling occurred. About a mile from the train, Martin's rebel brigade was encountered, and engaged by the advance, until the main body of the regiment came up, when four companies were dismounted and thrown forward rapidly as skirmishers, a mounted company being sent to each flank, and the remainder of the regiment kept within supporting distance. Taking advantage of the nature of the ground, and moving rapidly from cover to cover, our skirmishers drove the enemy two miles, with a loss of twelve killed and a considerable num-her wounded. Four men of company D were ordered to charge a squad of five rebel sharpshooters, who had remained in the road behind the retreating column, and killed several horses at the head of our mounted column. Privates Troxell and Richter overtook them a few rods from the rebel line, killed two with their sabres and wounded and captured two others, whom they brought back to our advance, escaping unharmed a heavy volley from the astonished rebels. Near this point, the enemy, in attempting to form, was thrown into confusion by the fire of our skirmishers, and at the proper moment, our reserve charged and scattered his wavering ranks in the wildest rout. Thirty-seven of the enemy were killed and wounded and forty-two made prisoners, among the latter of whom were two captains, a lieutenant, and two majors, of Wheeler's staff. Gen. Wheeler himself was closely pursued and narrowly escaped capture. Nearly all the wounds were inflicted with the sabre. Major Torrey, Capt. Smith and Capt. Howland, particularly distinguished themselves. Capt. LaGrange, alone, captured a squad of four rebels fully armed. Private Hewitt, of company A, pursued a captain and lieutenant half a mile, mortally wounding the lieutenant, and bringing both prisoners to camp. Sergeant Major Cleveland, Sergeants Townsend and Duham, of company C, and Private Jones, of company A, deserve special mention."* In this gallant affair the loss of the regiment was four wounded, one prisoner and three missing. The pursuit was continued two miles farther, when darkness set in and the troops lay on their arms during the night.

They remained at this point until the morning of 4th of October, when they accompanied the movement of the division, in pursuit of the enemy, and marching by way of Dunlap, across the Cumberland mountains, arrived on the 5th, at McMinnville. Marching thence through Unionville, Lewisburg and Pulaaki, they entered Rogersville on the 9th, and resuming the march next day, they proceeded, via Athens and Huntsville, to Maysville, Ala., at which place, on the evening of the 13th, they took part in a skirmish with the advance of Roddy's command. On the following day they joined in the pursuit of Roddy's forces in the direction of Kelly's Ferry, returning in the afternoon to Kelly's Mills. On the 16th, they marched to Salem, Tenn., and next day moved farther north, going into camp near Winchester, Tenn.

Here they remained until the 20th of November, when they were put in motion, and marching by way of Murfreesboro, arrived next day at Alexandria, where they remained a week, and resuming the march on the 28th, crossed 'Capey Forks' on the 30th, arriving at Sparta on the 3d of December. They left Sparta on the 7th, and having crossed the mountains into East Tennessee, encamped on the 11th four miles from Kingston. On the 14th, they crossed the Tennessee river on pontoons, and passing through Kingston on the following day, encamped, on the 16th, near Knoxville. Next day they moved to Strawberry Plains, near which place they forded the Holston river on the 23d, and marched to New Market. Here the enemy was encountered, and skirmishing took place, in which the regiment was not engaged until night, when company L, under command of Capt. Harnden, drove in the rebel picket after a sharp action. On the 24th, the pany remained until the 26th, at which date they were again put in motion, and crossing the Rapidan at Jacob's Mills, participated on the following day in the battle of Locust Grove, which resulted in driving the enemy from his position with severe loss. The casualties to company G, in this engagement, were one killed and three wounded. For the next two days they were almost constantly engaged in picket duty on the left of the line, and on the 30th, took position in front, forming the extreme advance in the unsuccessful demonstration against the enemy's works on Mine Run, occupying a position within three hundred yards of the rebel works. The attack being abandoned, they were withdrawn and moved with the division on the evening of the 1st of December. Marching nearly all night, they crossed the Rapidan at Culpepper Mine Ford, at daybreak, and after resting a while for stragglers to rejoin their commands, left the line of the Rapidan and marched towards Brandy Station, reentering camp on Botts' farm, early on the morning of the 3d, after an extremely fatiguing campaign of eight days.

In this camp the regiment went into winter quarters, remaining in the performance of guard, picket and drill duty, with occasional interruptions, when called upon to accompany scouting and reconnoitring parties, until the 11th of January, 1864, when they removed to Camp Bullock, three miles from Culpepper. Having been transferred to the Second Brigade, Third Division, Second Army Corps, they moved, on the 31st, into an old rebel camp, near Brandy Station.

Participating in the general movement of the Army of the Potomac, under Gens. Grant and Meade, the Sharpshooters broke camp, in the evening of the 3d of May, and accompanying their brigade, crossed the Rapidan at Ely's Ford next morning. Having rested a short time to allow the balance of the division to come up, they marched on during the day, entering in the afternoon the scene of the battle of Chancellorsville where they had been engaged one year previous, and bivouacked for the night on the battle ground. The march was resumed on the morning of the 5th, the Sharpshooters being thrown out as flankers, and advancing with their division, until the afternoon, when they entered the battlefield of the Wilderness, where the contending armies were already hotly engaged. They were at once sent forward as scouts to ascertain the position of the enemy in front. Having performed this duty, during which the Major commanding the regiment was captured by the enemy, they withdrew to the road, and lay behind hastily constructed breastworks, until night, when they rejoined the brigade. Next morning, deployed as skirmishers, they advanced to the front, and after holding an exposed position for some time, moved to the left, crossing the Orange road, and obtaining temporary cover behind rude breastworks, constructed of half rotten logs and brush, from which position they again moved forward, firing as rapidly as 'sight' could be obtained in the dense smoke which soon enveloped the field. Shortly afterwards, owing to the enemy's success on their left, the division was exposed to a flank fire and compelled to fall back, our company taking position at a line of works along the Brook road, where the farther advance of the enemy was checked, and the tired troops bivouacked for the night. Capt. Marble being detailed for staff duty, the command of the company devolved upon Lieut. Stevens.

regiment was engaged during the day, with a loss of one killed and four wounded. After a severe skirmish, the enemy was driven across Mossy Creek, near which the regiment went into camp. On the following day, the First Wisconsin, by a flank movement, attacked the enemy's rear, and carried his position, returning in the evening to camp, with a number of prisoners.

They moved on the 29th towards Dandridge, but were recalled to meet the rebel force which had again advanced at Mossy Creek. A sharp engagement followed, in which the enemy was again driven across the stream, with the loss of a number of prisoners, after which our regiment again encamped at that place. Here they were employed in guard and picket duty, with occasional skirmishes with detached bodies of the enemy, until the 14th of January, 1864, when they moved to Dandridge. They participated, on the 17th, in the battle at this place, sustaining a loss of thirty-two men killed, wounded and missing. During the night, they fell back towards Knoxville, through which they passed on the 19th, encamping on the road to Sevierville. On the 21st, camp was moved sixteen miles beyond the latter place, on the Fairgarden road, from which point, having effected a reconnoissance of the surrounding country, they returned on the 25th, with a number of prisoners, to Sevierville. In the engagement near this place on the 27th, the regiment occupied the extreme left of our line, and sustained but trifling loss. During the next three days, they marched to various points in the vicinity, going into camp on the 31st at Marysville, where the regiment was stationed as guard until the 9th of February, at which date they moved to Motley's Ford on the Little Tennessee river.

On the 24th, they marched to Madisonville, and moving thence on the 10th of March, by way of Calhoun and Athens, encamped on the 12th at Cleveland, where they were joined, on the 26th, by Lieut. Col. Torrey with a large number of recruits from Wisconsin. Here the regiment was employed in guard duty, with frequent reconnoissances as skirmishers with the enemy, until the 8d of May, when they marched with the division, arriving on the 7th at Varnell's Station, on the Cleveland and Dalton railroad. On the 9th, the Second brigade, under command of Col. LaGrange, was ordered forward to develop the position of the enemy on the railroad, three miles from Varnell's. Nearly the whole of Gen. Wheeler's force, supported by a division of infantry, were drawn up in a strong position, and after a severe engagement our forces returned to camp, the principal loss sustained being prisoners captured by the rebels.

Thenceforward, the regiment, with the First Cavalry division, accompanied the march of Gen. Sherman's forces, covering the left flank of our army, and taking part in daily actions with the enemy. On the 26th, five companies, with a portion of an Indiana regiment, attacked a brigade of rebel cavalry near Burnt Hickory, seven miles from Dallas, routing the enemy with great loss, and capturing three officers and forty-four men, and on the 4th of June, a detachment of the regiment occupied Ackworth, having previously defeated a small body of rebels who held the place. On the 6th, with the brigade, they participated in a sharp skirmish, and occupied Big Shanty, whence they marched on the 9th, on a reconnoissance to the front, and on the 16th, moved with the left of the army to position before the enemy's lines on Lost Mountain, in which vicinity they remained, taking part in frequent engagements until the 1st of July, at which date they moved to Howell's Ferry on the Sweetwater river. On the 8d, they participated in a sharp skirmish near the Chattahoochie river, and next day returned to position near Lost Mountain. After the enemy's retreat across the river, they were employed in several reconnoissances and scouting expeditions on the left of the army, and crossing the Chattahoochie on the 22d near the railroad bridge, took part in a skirmish with the enemy, on the right flank of the army, three miles south of Beachtown Creek.

Forming a part of Gen. McCook's expedition to the rear of Atlanta, they crossed the Chattahoochie on the 27th and marching in a southwesterly direction, recrossed the river six miles below Campbelltown, where the regiment was detached from the main body, and passing through the town, attacked the advance of the rebel Gen. Armstrong's forces, 2,000 strong, at a point two and a half miles east of Campbelltown, on the Atlanta and West Point railroad. After a severe engagement, they were compelled to withdraw, and returned to Marietta on the 31st, as escort to a pontoon train and battery, having sustained during the raid a loss of thirty-one men. From Marietta, they moved ten miles southwest, where they were stationed, covering the return of stragglers from Gen. McCook's forces, until the 7th of August, when they marched to the railroad bridge across the Chattahoochie. On the 10th, they were put in motion towards Cartersville, at which place they arrived on the 12th, and have since been stationed, employed in scouting and forage duty.

At Fort Leavenworth, Ks, where the regiment arrived on the 27th of May, 1862, Col. Barstow was appointed Provost Marshal General of Kansas, and the entire regiment shortly afterwards, ordered upon provost duty. Four companies, C, F, I and M, were ordered to Fort Scott, under command of Major Henning, from whose report I compile the following sketch of their movements.

The Second battalion, companies C, F, I and M, left Fort Leavenworth on the 12th of June, 1862, and arrived at Fort Scott on the 17th, having accomplished the march of one hundred and thirty miles in less than five days, without the loss of a man or horse. At this point Major Henning took command of the post, which is situated in the southeast corner of Kansas, four miles west of the Missouri line and about the same distance north of the lands of the Cherokee Indians, and which at that time was the extreme outpost of our forces. Company I, under command of Capt. Conkey, occupied Carthage, Mo., sixty-five miles from Fort Scott, with orders to protect the Union people, disperse gangs of guerillas, and keep a careful watch for the appearance of the enemy, who was then collecting his forces in Arkansas. At Fort Scott, the companies were engaged in pursuing bushwhackers and other predatory bands, with such success, that within a month, comparative quiet was restored to the vicinity. Company C was stationed in the discharge of similar duty at Trading Post, thirty-five miles north of Fort Scott on the border. On the last of July, Col. Barstow, arrived at Fort Scott, with an escort of thirty men, on a tour of inspection, and on the following day, set out for Humboldt. During the night, information was received of the concentration of a large rebel force at "Church in the woods," six miles southeast of Montevallo, Mo., in consequence of which Col. Barstow returned to the fort.

In the plan of operations which was decided upon, it was arranged that Capt. Conkey, who was then at Fort Scott, should return immediately to Carthage, and march with his command to the "Church," meeting a detachment of the forces from Fort Scott, at that place on the night of the 4th of August. Despatches were also sent to the commander of a force of Iowa cavalry at Butler, requesting his cooperation in the proposed attack upon the rebels. Upon his return to Carthage, Capt. Conkey found that the enemy, numbering about fifteen hundred, under Col. Shelby, had passed north in the direction of Montevallo. He immediately evacuated Carthage, and gathering the Union citizens, who augmented his force to about one hundred and twenty-five, set out on the 3d of August, and keeping close to the enemy's rear, discovered at night, that the rebels, two thousand strong, were encamped at "Church in the woods," the designated rendezvous for the forces selected to make the attack. Capt. Conkey, therefore, just before daylight on the following morning, having collected his force, charged directly through the rebel camp, escaping without loss. Pushing forward to inform the approaching troops, he was missed by Col. Barstow, who had taken another road with his detachment of one hundred and fifty men, proceeding to Montevallo, where he engaged the enemy in a sharp skirmish, and after occupying the place a short time fell back towards Fort Scott. While en route he was attacked in flank by a greatly superior body of the enemy, who succeeded in capturing four prisoners, with all the transportation. They returned next day to Fort Scott, where the whole force was soon afterwards assembled, in anticipation of an attack.

On the 9th and 10th, the forces of Gen. Salomon, who was then returning from the Indian country, arrived and assured the safety of the post. Shortly afterwards, upon the arrival of Gen. Blunt, two expeditions were organized for the pursuit of the enemy, the first of which, accompanied by companies F and I of the Third Wisconsin, set out on the 14th of August, marching in the direction of Montevallo. This was followed on the evening of the 15th, by an additional force, under Gen. Blunt, whose escort was composed of detachments from several companies, under command of Lieut. Willets, of company I, Major Henning accompanying as volunteer aid. The march continued ten days, during which the troops were frequently engaged. Company I had the front in the action at Taberville, and acquitted themselves with great gallantry, their conduct obtaining special notice in the official report of Col. Cloud. They also participated in the action at Coon Creek, where our forces, numbering six hundred, routed fifteen hundred of the enemy.

The regiment was assembled at Fort Scott early in September, when companies C and F were relieved from the command of Major Henning, leaving at the fort companies I and M. Until January, 1863, these companies were employed in constant duty, engaged in scouting expeditions and escorting trains to Gen. Blunt's army, which was then in southwest Missouri. In December companies C and G were added to this command, and formed a part of the garrison until July, when company G was ordered to report to Lieut. Col. White, at that time commanding the regiment.

Of the First and Third battalions, the following is compiled from the report of Major Schroeling, now in command of the regiment. In the as-assignment of detachments of the regiment to various posts in June, 1862, company D was ordered to Atchinson, company G to Shawnee and company L to Aubrey; companies B and H being assigned to post duty at Fort Leavenworth. The remaining companies, A, E and K, were employed on provost duty at Leavenworth City, and in addition were engaged, during the summer in various scouting expeditions through the border counties of Missouri, which were then infested with Quantrell's guerillas, with whom they had many encounters.

On the 13th of September, six companies were ordered to the front and marched by way of Fort Scott to Indian Creek, in southwestern Missouri, where they were attached to the First brigade, of the Army of Missouri, under command of Gen. Salomon. They thence accompanied the movements of our forces through Keittaville and Cassville to Camp Babcock, Ark., and were engaged on the last of November in the battle of Cane Hill. They also participated on the 7th of December in the battle of Prairie Grove, and proceeded thence by forced marches through Carroll and Marion counties in northwestern Arkansas. During this march they were continually engaged with guerilla parties of the enemy, the men and horses suffering greatly for lack of supplies. Upon arriving at Forsyth, Mo., they were ordered to march by way of Yellville, Dubuque and West Plains, to Springfield, Mo., a distance of two hundred and fifty-six miles, which was accomplished in four days, the command marching without rations or forage. They subsequently moved to Hartsville, and thence to Salem, where orders were received on the 20th of June to proceed to Fort Scott, at which post they arrived on the 5th of July.

During the month of May preceding, companies B, G, H, I and M, under command of Capt. Stout, marched to Fort Blunt, in the Cherokee Nation, as escort to the post supply train. They were attacked on the 30th of May, four miles from the fort, by fifteen hundred Texans and Indians, under the rebel Gen. Cooper, whom they repulsed with slaughter, the detachment losing five men killed and wounded. On the 4th of June they set out from Fort Blunt as escort to the returning train, and on the 20th, again took the road for Fort Blunt, as a portion of one thousand men, forming the escort to a large supply train. The train was attacked on the 27th at Cabin Creek, in the Cherokee Nation, by a greatly superior force of rebels under command of Gen. Cooper. The enemy was totally defeated and driven a distance of fifty miles across the Verdigris river. Upon arriving at Fort Blunt, they were attached to the Third brigade, Army of the Frontier, and on the 16th of July, marched southwards under command of Gen. Blunt. On the following day, they took part in the battle of Honey Springs, in which the rebels, under Gens. Cooper and Standwaite, were utterly routed, with the loss of a large number of prisoners, and all their artillery. They returned on the 19th with the army to Fort Blunt.

This detachment accompanied the army in another forward movement which commenced on the 22d of August, during which they were constantly in advance, and rendered important services in skirmishing and scouting. Following the retreating army of Gens. Cooper and Steele for five days, they captured large quantities of rebel stores and supplies, and sixty miles from the Red river, fired the last shots at the flying enemy as he evacuated Perryville, which was captured and burned. They left Perryville on the 27th of August and marched to Schulleysville, the capital of the Choctaw Nation, from which point they were frequently despatched as scouting parties and had almost daily encounters with bands of guerillas. On the 6th of October, they marched to Van Buren, Ark., at which place they were soon afterwards joined by companies E and K, and on the 16th, the whole detachment made a raid to Waldron, Ark., encountering a superior force of the enemy, whom they routed, capturing thirteen prisoners. On the following day, they moved into the Choctaw Nation, and coming upon a large force of rebel Indians, attacked the camp, captured their stores and put the whole force to flight, after which they returned to Van Buren.

They were again put in motion on the 5th of November, marching via Ozark and through the Mulberry Mountains, to Clarksville. In the mountains they encountered the rebel Col. Brooks, with one thousand men, whom they attacked and drove across the Arkansas river, after a sharp fight, in which a large number of the enemy were captured. They returned to Van Buren on the 12th, and two days afterward, with a scouting party, accompanied by artillery, made a raid to Waldron and Dallas, Ark., during which they captured the rebel Col. Alexander, with fourteen of his men, and returned on the 22d to Van Buren. In December, a scouting party penetrated the enemy's lines to Red river and returned without the loss of a man, bringing in many prisoners. These seven companies of the regiment, were stationed at Van Buren from November, 1863, to February, 1864, and during that time rendered important services in escorting trains, guarding the telegraph line and scouting through the enemy's country.

On the 6th of October, 1863, company I, which at that time was serving as escort to Gen. Blunt, was attacked at Baxter's Springs, in the Cherokee Nation, by a force of five hundred rebels under Quantrell; and after a gallant resistance, which secured the safety of the commanding general and most of his staff, they were finally overpowered by the superior forces of the rebels and compelled to retreat, with a loss of twenty-two killed and four wounded, several of the men having been slain after surrender. "This was the most serious loss that any company of the regiment ever sustained. Of the regimental band, which accompanied Gen. Blunt at the time, not a man escaped, the rebels giving no quarter, and not only robbing and murdering their prisoners, but causing their bodies to be burned."*

During the month of January, 1864, the first re-enlistments took place in the regiment. These re-enlistments continued during the two months following, until the number exceeded three-fourths of the entire strength of the command. On the 30th of March, they left Van Buren and arrived on the 16th of April at Little Rock, Ark., whence the veterans of the regiment were furnished transportation to Madison, Wis., where they arrived on the 13th of May.

The veteran Third Cavalry, comprising companies B, E, G, H, I, K and L, left Madison on the 16th of June, under orders to report at Little Rock, Ark. Proceeding by way of Chicago, Ill., they arrived on the 18th at St.

* Official Report.

Louis, Mo., where they were assigned temporary quarters in Benton Barracks. On the 26th, Lieut. Brown of company H, with forty-two men, was ordered to Memphis, Tenn., in charge of Government horses, with orders to await the arrival of the balance of the command at that place. The whole command having been thoroughly re-equipped on the 29th, companies B and K, under command of Major Schroeling, and companies G, H and L, under command of Lieut. Col. Calkins, left St. Louis, in transports on the 7th of July. They were followed on the 10th, by companies E and I, under Major Derry. The transports joined company at Memphis, where Lieut. Brown rejoined the regiment. They left Memphis on the evening of the 11th of June, and proceeding down the Mississippi, remained a short time at the mouth of White river, awaiting the arrival of a convoy of gunboats. The whole fleet set out on the 15th and ascending the White river, arrived on the 19th at Duval's Bluff, one hundred and eighty miles from its mouth. Here they went into camp and remained until the 24th, when Capt. Perry of company L, with a detachment of the regiment as guard, was sent in charge of public property by railroad to Huntersville Post, on the Arkansas river, opposite Little Rock.

The balance of the command left Duval's Bluff on the same day, and marching by way of Brownsville, arrived on the 27th at Huntersville, where camp was established. They were employed on picket duty, in the vicinity of Little Rock and Huntersville, until the 6th of August, when they joined the expedition under Gen. West, and were engaged in scouting between the Arkansas and White rivers. They frequently engaged portions of Shelby's men, and on the 17th, returned to Huntersville, where they resumed picket duty, and were also employed as escort to trains between that place and Duval's Bluff. On the 28th of August, Major Derry, with two other officers and one hundred and four men, accompanied an expedition of eight hundred mounted men, in pursuit of the rebel Shelby's forces. At Bull Creek, forty-five miles from Huntersville, they encountered on the 27th a body of rebel cavalry, numbering twelve hundred, which they routed after a severe skirmish, and pursued upwards of a mile, our regiment sustaining no loss. Reinforcements of cavalry and artillery having arrived on the following day, they marched in pursuit of Shelby's whole force, estimated at five thousand. The pursuit was continued with varied success, and frequent skirmishes with bushwhackers and guerillas, until the 5th of September, when they marched in return to camp, resuming picket duty near Little Rock, on the 7th. On the 17th, camp was removed from Huntersville to the "Mammelle Road," one mile west of Little Rock, where they have since been stationed, with the exception of a detachment of one hundred and forty-one men, under Major Derry, who left camp on the 25th, as part of an expedition to Fort Smith, and had not returned at the date of report.

The remaining companies of the regiment are stationed in Kansas and Missouri as follows: company A. at Balltown, Mo. where they have been employed as picket guard since the 26th of July; company C, on the 2d of August, was at Fort McKean, Mo.; company D. is at Fort Hamer, Mo.; company F. at Fort Insley, Mo., and company M, at Pawnee, Ks.—These companies have been almost constantly employed by detachments, in scouting, picket, forage and escort duty, and "but few, if any, troops in the service have done an equal amount of duty, involving much that is considered the most dangerous, and certainly is the most irksome, * * * and I believe the reputation of that portion of the Third Wisconsin cavalry stationed in this department, is as high as it is possible for troops to stand, * * especially with the commanding officers of the district and department."*

It is due to Majors Schroeling and Henning, as well as Capt. Carpenter and Lieuts. Pond, Porter and Bernard, to express my acknowledgments for reports furnished.

During the past year, the Fourth Cavalry has been stationed, with short exceptions, at Baton Rouge, La. "On the 11th of October, companies F and K, Capt. Craigue commanding, were detached for duty along the left bank of the Mississippi, from Baton Rouge to opposite Donaldsonville, to prevent contraband trade, protect navigation and telegraphic communication, carry dispatches, &c., and have done excellent service, seized large quantities of goods intended for the enemy, and captured eighty-five confederate soldiers, with a loss of eight men taken prisoners and two wounded. They have recently constructed an excellent defence to their post, called Highland Stockade. On the 29th of October, company A was detached for the post of Plaquemine, for duty as scouts, pickets, gouriers, &c., where they remained until the 3d of February, 1864, at which date, they were relieved by company E. They captured twelve rebel soldiers without loss.

Since the change to cavalry, the regiment has been constantly active in scouting, picketing and foraging; its operations having generally been in the country lying between the Comite, Amite and Mississippi rivers, extending as far south as Manchac Pass, though parties have frequently been ten and fifteen miles beyond the Comite, thirty and forty miles from Baton Rouge. They have been most successful, having several times captured nearly their number of the enemy, killed and wounded many, and have averaged one rebel prisoner each day for five months, having taken in all over one hundred and fifty, exclusive of those captured by detached companies, with a loss of one killed, four wounded and seventeen prisoners.

Two expeditions have been to Rosedale, on Bayou Grosse Tete. The first, commanded by Col. Boardman, started from Baton Rouge on the 4th of February at four o'clock A. M. on steamer Black Hawk, consisting of eighty-six cavalry, and thirty six infantry; by daylight landed at Lobdell's Landing, and thence took the old plank road, crossing the Lake and Bayou Thomas reaching Rosedale at eleven A. M.; routed and captured the rebels there, then crossed Bayou Grosse Tete and proceeded nine miles up the right bank to Gov. Johnson's Plantation, returning at night to Rosedale. Early on the 5th, they started for Baton Rouge, and reached camp at four in the afternoon, with twelve rebel soldiers, including one Major, one Captain and one Lieutenant, and many arms, horses, mules, &c. The second, composed of one hundred and fifty cavalry, Capt. Keefe commanding, left Baton Rouge at five in the morning of the 14th of February, on the steamer John Warren, landed at Lobdell's Landing, twelve miles above, and from that point took a most difficult road, through a low wet cypress wood to Rosedale, reaching there at noon; then followed the left bank of Bayou Grosse Tete three miles to Lieut. Slack's Plantation, where they seized horses, cattle and mules, and at four in the afternoon, bivouacked three miles farther down on the right bank of the bayou, until midnight of the 20th, when they started towards Plaquemine by way of Indian Village, with one hundred and fifty heeves, twenty mules, twelve horses and four rebel prisoners. As they started, the rebels opened fire from across the bayou, with hideous yells, which was most vigorously returned, with good effect, killing four and wounding several, with the loss of but three horses and one mule. Indian Village was reached before daylight, but, with flatboat transportation, they were occupied until ten o'clock in crossing Bayou Plaquemine and reached Plaquemine at noon. They took the steamer Iberville and arrived at Baton Rouge at six on the following afternoon."*

In the month of June, the regiment moved up the Mississippi forty miles, to Morganzia, at which point they were stationed until the 9th of August, when they returned to Baton Rouge. Marching thence with the expedition to Clinton, La., forty miles distant, they took part on the 25th in the skirmish near that place, with a loss of ten wounded. Having occupied Clinton a short time, they returned to Baton Rouge, where the regiment has since been stationed.

No report has been received from this regiment.

FIRST BATTERY.

Captain—DANIEL WEBSTER.

First Lieutenant—Oscar F. Nutting.
Jun. First Lieut.—

Second Lieutenant—Ephraim L. Hackett.
Jun. Second Lieut.—

The First Battery, on the 7th of October, 1863, left Berwick City La., where they had been some time in camp, and crossed Berwick Bay to Bra-shear City, the terminus of the New Orleans and Great Western railroad, near which they went into camp, and remained until December, during which month they were ordered to New Orleans, and were assigned position in the defences of the city. Of their demeanor and reputation while stationed in the city, the following extract from the report of a commission appointed for the inspection of all quarters in the city occupied by Government troops, sufficiently speaks: "The appearance of the quarters of this battery is highly commendable, both to officers and men. * * * The floors are tidy, and the men bright, clean and respectful to their officers. * * * Another feature we deem worthy of especial mention, viz: the enlisted men of this battery contribute each five cents daily, which amount is expended in supplying themselves with an excellent variety of newspapers and periodicals from various parts of the country. Your Committee take great pleasure in awarding the justly deserved credit, due to the officers of this battery. A more self-sustaining, self-reliant body of men cannot be found in the United States Army."

In transmitting a copy of this report to Lieut. Webster, the commanding general added an endorsement, of which the following is a

"The Major General Commanding is proud to recognize in this company, the matériel and characteristics of good soldiers. Strict observance of order and discipline is alike creditable to officers and men.

The expenditure of labor to secure comfort and cleanliness, and the means adopted for mutual improvement and mental culture are highly commended, and evince a determination to merit the proud distinction due to true soldiers who learn their whole duty and perform it.

As a part of the celebrated Red River Expedition, they left New Orleans on the 22d of April, and proceeding up the Mississippi and Red Rivers, landed on the 28th at Alexandria, and immediately took position in the front near the town. They participated in the engagements which took place near Alexandria from the 2d to the 7th, and on the 10th, Lieut. Hackett, with the centre section, was detached to the cavalry division, in which capacity they formed part of the rear guard, in the retrograde movement of our forces which commenced on the 13th. On the evening of the 17th, the battery reached the Atchafalaya, which they crossed on the 20th, and marching all night, struck the Mississippi river on the following morning. Following the right bank of the river, ten miles in a southerly direction, they went into camp at Morgansia Bend, where they remained during the month, returning early in June to camp in New Orleans.

In the month of August they moved up the river to Baton Rouge, from which place two sections of the battery set out on the 25th as a portion of an expedition to Clinton, La. Having taken part in the engagement at that place, they rejoined the command on the 27th at Baton Rouge, where the battery has since been stationed.

SECOND BATTERY.

Captain—CHARLES BAKER.

First Lieutenant—
Jun. First Lieut.—

Second Lieutenant—Charles Saupe.
Jun. Second Lieut.—Edward Hansen.

The Second Battery remained in the fortifications at Yorktown, Va., until the 20th of January, 1864, when they embarked at that place, and proceeded by steamer to Point Lookout, Md. Here they were rejoined on the last of February, by forty-one of their number who had previously reenlisted and left the battery at Yorktown, on veteran furlough.

The battery has since been stationed at Point Lookout, as guard to the camp of rebel prisoners at that place.

THIRD BATTERY.

Captain—

First Lieutenant—Hiram F. Hubbard.
Jun. First Lieut.—

Second Lieutenant—Joseph W. Wait.
Jun. Second Lieut.—

During the past year the Third Battery has been stationed at Fort Phelps, Chattanooga, Tenn., and is attached to the First Brigade, Second Division, of the Reserve Artillery.

FOURTH BATTERY.

Captain—DORMAN L. NOGGLE.

First Lieutenant—Burr Maxwell.
Jun. First Lieut.—Robert Campbell.

Second Lieutenant—Delcan H. Gady.
Jun. Second Lieut.—Benjamin Brown.

The Fourth Battery, on the 1st of October, 1863, was stationed at Gloucester Point, Va., and out of an aggregate strength of one hundred and twenty-four, reported but four enlisted men for duty, the remainder being on the sick list. The battery left Gloucester Point on the 11th and arrived next day at Portsmouth Va., where they were attached to Gen. Getty's command, and assigned to permanent duty. On the 4th of March, 1864, accompanying the command of Gen. Hickman, the left section marched to Suffolk on a reconnoissance, and returned on the 7th to camp. Again on the 13th of April, the right section, under command of Lieut. McDevitt, marched at daylight to Suffolk, and the left and centre sections, under command of Capt. Easterly, embarked on transports. They landed on the following day at Cherry Grove, on Chukatuuk Creek, from which they accompanied a reconnoissance to Smithfield, Va., and reembarkeing on the 16th, descended the James river to Portsmouth, where they were joined by the left section, which returned on the same day from Suffolk.

On the 20th of April, the battery embarked, under orders to report at Washington, N. C., but on the following day, when at Fortress Monroe, these orders were countermanded, and the battery directed to proceed to Yorktown, Va., where they joined Gen. W. F. Smith's command, and were assigned on the 23d, to the "Artillery Brigade," First Division, Eighteenth Army Corps. They marched to Newport News on the 3d of May, and embarking at this point on the evening of the 7th, proceeded up the James river during the night. Landing at Bermuda Hundreds on the following day, they immediately moved to the front, and early on the morning of the 9th, moved with the Third brigade, on the left bank of the Appomattox river, in the direction of Petersburg. Before noon they took position in front of, and nearly two thousand five hundred yards from, the rebel Fort Clifton, situated at the junction of Swift Creek with the Appomattox, silencing the enemy's fire from the fort in less than half an hour. On the 10th, having occupied various positions in the engagements during the two days previous, they returned to position near Bermuda Hundreds, and on the 13th, marched on the Richmond and Petersburg turnpike to Proctor's Run, near Drury's Bluff, where they were under fire during the whole of the following day, engaging the enemy's fortifications, and sustained a loss of one man wounded. They maintained this position on the 15th, and next day retired with our forces one mile to the rear, the battery covering the movement and acting as rear guard. In the evening, they occupied position in the entrenchments near Bermuda Hundreds, where the battery remained until the 4th of June, at which date they were attached to Kautz's Cavalry Division, with which they participated on the 15th in the battle at Petersburg, engaging the enemy, protected by his entrenchments, from four different positions during the day, and were at one time exposed for two hours, to a concentric fire of fourteen guns. Loss, during the day, three men wounded. On the 16th, they occupied position with the cavalry, in rear of the Ninth Corps, during its first assault upon Petersburg, and returned next day to camp near Bermuda Hundreds, where the battery was stationed until the 5th of July, at which date camp was removed to Jones's Landing on the James river. On the 8th, by order of Gen. Butler, the entire battery was converted into Horse Artillery, all the cannoneers being mounted, and on the 27th of July, the left section moved with the cavalry to the right bank of the James, and having participated in the engagement at Malvern Hill, returned on the 30th to camp. On the same day, the right section set out with an expedition for the Norfolk and Petersburg railroad, moving thence on the following day to Lighthouse Point on the James river, where they were joined on the 11th of August by the other sections from Jones' Landing. Two days afterwards, the battery marched to Prince George's Court House, remaining at that point until the 26th, when camp was moved to our lines before Petersburg, the battery taking position in rear of the Ninth Corps.

On the 16th of September, they accompanied the cavalry on an expedition sent in pursuit of the rebel cavalry, which had captured a herd of cattle. They returned next day to camp, and on the 27th moved to Jones' Landing. Marching at daylight on the 28th, they approached the suburbs of Richmond, and were, during the day, under a heavy fire from the enemy's inner line of defences, bivouacking for the night one thousand yards from the rebel works. Next day, the battery moved with the cavalry around Richmond, in full view of the city, and under a continued fire from the works. The right section, under Lieut. Nogle, detached with the Second brigade, while moving on the Charles City road, engaged a small force of the enemy and drove them into the city, approaching within eight hundred yards of the main line of defences. On the 30th, the battery repulsed a cavalry charge of the rebels, and at night moved to position in the rear, distant four miles from Richmond.

FIFTH BATTERY.

Captain.—JOSEPH MCKNIGHT.

First Lieutenant.—George Lafferty.

Second Lieutenant.—Elijah Booth, Jr.

Adj. First Lieut..—Daniel Titus.

Jun. Second Lieut..—John Dickson.

Surgeon.—Robert G. James.

The Fifth Battery remained at North Chickamauga, Tenn., near Chattanooga, until the 20th of November, 1863, when they were ordered to report at Caldwell's Ferry, and in the evening marched three miles to the ferry, taking position on the bank of the Tennessee river. They were presently directed to retire from the bank and bivouac in a ravine, out of sight of the enemy, from which they moved forward on the morning of the 23d, taking position on the bank of the river at Caldwell's Ferry. Here they remained until the 27th, when two sections returned to camp, the other section having been detached for service across the river. This section shortly afterwards, rejoined the battery, which subsequently moved to Chattanooga, at which place a large proportion of the members re-enlisted, and were remustered as veterans on the 2d of January, 1864.

Leaving Chattanooga soon afterwards, the Veteran Fifth battery arrived on the 16th at Madison, Wis., whence the men dispersed to their homes in various parts of the State. Having reassembled at Camp Randall, they left Madison on the 23d of February, and proceeding by way of Nashville, Tenn., where they were detained some time awaiting transportation, arrived on the 3d of March at Chattanooga, at which place they rejoined the non-veteran portion of the battery. On the 22d, they joined the Second Division, Fourteenth Army Corps, near Rossville, Ga., seven miles from Chattanooga, where they were fully equipped for the approaching Spring campaign, and remained until the 2d of May, at which date they accompanied the advance of our forces, moving forward ten miles to Ringgold, and encamping near the bank of South Chickamauga Creek. On the 5th, they marched to Cherokee Springs, and two days afterwards to Tunnel Hill, whence they moved on the 9th, taking position in front of Rocky Face Ridge, which they retained until the evening of the 12th. Moving a short distance to the right, they passed through Snake Creek Gap during the night, and on the afternoon of the following day, moved forward with the Second, to the support of the First division, which was heavily engaged with the enemy six miles in advance.

At the battle of Resaca, on the 14th, the battery was ordered into position at three in the afternoon, five hundred yards from, and partially enfilading the enemy's main works, and kept up a rapid fire, until night terminated the engagement, when they withdrew, and early next morning relieved an Ohio battery, half a mile to the right of the former position. From this point they kept up a slow fire upon the rebel works during the day, and on the 16th were put in motion, accompanying the forward movement of the division to Rome, within two miles of which place, they participated in a severe skirmish on the afternoon of the following day. They entered the town on the 21st, and remained here in camp three days, when the march was resumed, and crossing the Oosha river on the 23d, arrived on the 26th at Dallas. During the operations against the rebel works near this point, the battery occupied various positions on our line, and upon the evacuation of the entrenchments on the 5th of June were posted five miles north of Dallas. They again moved with the division on the 10th, taking position on the 15th before the enemy's first line in front of Kenesaw Mountain, which was retained until the enemy, on the 19th, withdrew to his main works on the mountain.

On the morning of the 23d of June, they took possession of earthworks which had been constructed during the preceding night, on our new line of trenches in front of Kenesaw. Having dismounted the ammunition chests and sent the horses and caissons to the rear, they occupied this position until the evening of the 2d of July, when they were put in motion, accompanying the movement to the left, the enemy having on the previous night evacuated his strong position on Kenesaw Mountain. Marching all night towards Marietta, they passed through that town on the following day and bivouacked in an open field near the front line of battle. On the morning of the 4th, they were assigned position near the skirmish line, where slight works were thrown up, and the battery opened fire on the rebel rifle pits and main works, which was kept up, without intermission, during the afternoon. During the night the enemy fell back to the line of the Chattahoochee river, followed closely next day by our forces. The Fifth battery went into position in front of his works on the north side of the river, which was retained, keeping up a steady fire, until the enemy fell back, on the evening of the 9th, across the Chattahoochee river.

With the general advance of the army, the Fifth battery crossed the Chattahoochee on the 17th of July, and fording Peach Tree Creek on the 20th, went into position on a commanding hill from which they shelled the rebels out of their pits, in front of a portion of the Second division. With this division, which was then on the right of our army, they advanced on the 22d, going into position within two miles of Atlanta. Here earthworks were constructed, and the battery remained in line, without farther change of position, until the 28th, when they were transferred to the line of the First division. They were relieved from the latter position on the evening of the 3d of August, when they moved four miles to the right and were held in reserve until the 6th, at which date, they relieved another battery one mile farther to the right, and again went into position on a hill within two hundred yards of the rebel skirmish line. They at once opened fire, completely silencing a rebel battery in front, and covering the advance of our infantry, which carried two lines of rifle pits and captured a large number of prisoners. During the night, earthworks were constructed, and the battery retained the position until the evening of the 26th, when they withdrew from the trenches, and accompanying the movement of the Fourteenth Corps to the rear of Atlanta, they crossed the Montgomery railroad on the 28th, encamping on the 30th, eighteen miles from Atlanta, and four miles north of Jonesboro, on the Macon and Western railroad.

In the afternoon of the 31st of August, camp was moved to a point one mile east and two miles south, where they bivouacked for the night, and early on the 1st of September, advanced with their division to the left of the Army of the Tennessee, then engaged with the enemy at Jonesboro. The battery was soon placed in position and was engaged for three hours, when the enemy, repulsed at all points, abandoned the field. On the following day they entered Jonesboro, and on the 6th, set out with the army on its return to Atlanta, at which place they are now stationed.

SIXTH BATTERY.

Captain—THOMAS R. HOOD.

First Lieutenant—JOHN JENAWAIN.

Second Lieutenant—JAMES G. SIMMONS.

Jun. First Lieut.—ALBA S. SWEET.

Jun. Second Lieut.—SYLVESTER E. SWEET.

Surgeon—CLARKSON MILLER.

The Sixth Battery, which had previously been assigned for the ensuing campaign to the First Brigade, Third Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, left Memphis, Tenn., on the 6th of October, 1863, proceeding by rail to Glendale, Miss., a distance of one hundred and five miles. From Glendale, they marched with the celebrated expedition under Gen. Sherman, and moving by easy marches, along the line of the Memphis and Charleston railroad, halted some days at Dickson Station, Ala., the progress of the advance division being disputed by the enemy near Tusculumbia. On the 29th they marched to Chickasaw, Ala., where, with the assistance of gunboats, they crossed the Tennessee river on the following day, and resuming the progress eastward, passed through Florence and Ragersville, Ala., to the Elk river, which, owing to recent rains, was found to be unfordable at this point. The direction of the march was therefore changed to the northward, and crossing the Elk river at Fayetteville, Tenn., they passed through Winchester, and across the Cumberland Mountains at Cowan, reaching Bridgeport, Ala., on the 15th of November. They left Bridgeport on the 18th, and encamped on the north bank of the Tennessee, three miles above Chattanooga on the 20th, having marched from Glendale, Miss., a distance of two hundred and fifty miles.

Participating in the movement against Mission Ridge, they crossed the Tennessee river on the 24th of November, planting two guns on a portion of the ridge during the night. In the celebrated assault of the following day, they were engaged without loss, and on the retreat of the rebel force, moved next day in pursuit as far as Grayville, Ga., whence they returned on the 29th to camp near Chattanooga. Owing to the lack of horses, many of which had died or been rendered unserviceable during the long march from Glendale, the old guns of the battery, which had been condemned at Vicksburg, were on the 2d of December, turned over to the Ordnance office at Chattanooga, by order of Gen. Smith; and marching next day without rations, they went into camp on the 5th at Bridgeport. The company left Bridgeport on the 22d, and marching thirty miles over almost impassable roads, encamped on the 27th at Larkinsville, Ala., where they remained until the 7th January, 1864, at which date they again marched, encamping on the 9th at Huntsville, Ala., on the Memphis and Charleston railroad.

While stationed at this place, the battery was thoroughly re-equipped, and supplied with horses and six new 12-pounder Napoleon guns. The number of men belonging to the battery was also augmented by the arrival of fifty-three recruits from Wisconsin, who accompanied on their return from furlough, the veterans of the battery, thirty-two of whom had re-enlisted for three years.

During the months of March and April, one section of the battery, under command of Lieut. Hood, was stationed at Whitesburg, on the Tennessee river, twelve miles from Huntsville, where they were occasionally engaged with the enemy, who occupied the opposite bank of the river. On the 21st of April, the armament of the battery was reduced to four guns, and on the 12th of May the battery was ordered from Huntsville, in pursuit of a rebel force, which had captured and burned Madison Station, twelve miles distant. The pursuit was abandoned at the Tennessee river, and the battery returned to camp. Accompanying the movement of the division, the Sixth battery left Huntsville on the 22d of June. They reached Stevenson on the 25th, and proceeding thence by rail on the 29th, arrived on the 30th at Kingston, Ga., where they remained in camp until the 12th of July, at which date they moved forward thirteen miles, and took position in the fort commanding the bridge across the Etowah river near Cartersville, where the battery has since been stationed.

SEVENTH BATTERY—VETERAN.

Captain—HENRY S. LEE.

First Lieutenant—Arthur B. Wheelock.
Jun. First Lieut.—William E. Hearsay.

Second Lieutenant—James H. Bridgeman.
Jun. Second Lieut.—Moses Jerome.

During the past year the Seventh battery has been stationed at Memphis, Tenn. The requisite number of men belonging to the battery having re-enlisted, the Veteran Seventh was ordered on the 25th of February to proceed to Wisconsin on thirty days' furlough, and arrived on the 29th at Milwaukee. On the expiration of this short leave of absence, they again left the State and reported for duty on the 9th of April, at Memphis, where the battery has since remained. On the 1st of May the right section left camp with an expedition against the rebel Gen. Forrest, and returned on the 11th, having marched two hundred miles. The left section, on the 1st of June, set out from Memphis with a similar expedition, and returned to camp on the 12th, after a march of two hundred and twenty-five miles. In the march of this expedition, the enemy was found strongly posted near Guntown, Miss., and after a severe engagement, lasting eight hours, our forces were compelled to retreat, our section of the Seventh losing its guns and five men captured by the rebels.

In the celebrated 'raid' of the rebels on Memphis, on the 21st of August, the battery was surprised by Gen. Forrest's forces, and the guns temporarily falling in the enemy's hands, no effectual resistance could be offered. A portion of the men effected their escape, and subsequently obtaining possession of the guns, turned them upon the enemy, with good effect. In this affair, the loss of the battery was four killed, two wounded and nine prisoners.

The battery is now at Memphis, Tenn

EIGHTH BATTERY—VETERAN.

Captain—HENRY E. STILES.

First Lieutenant—Obadiah German.
Jun. First Lieut.—John D. McLean.

Second Lieutenant—Henry L. Wheeler.
Jun. Second Lieut.—Thomas B. McNair.

The Eighth Battery, which had been stationed since the battle of Chickamauga, at Chattanooga, Tenn., was engaged on the 24th and 25th of November, 1863, in the movement against Mission Ridge and Lookout Mountain, and on the 5th of December left Chattanooga, under orders to report at Nashville, where they arrived on the 8th, and were assigned to the Second Division, Artillery Reserve. Here they received new guns and equipments, and on the 26th of January, 1864, were remustered into service as 'Veterans,' eighty-two members of the battery having re-enlisted. The Veteran Eighth Battery left Nashville on the 12th of March, and on the 15th arrived at Madison, Wisconsin, where the men received thirty days' furlough, and dispersed to their homes.

The battery assembled at Camp Utley, Racine, on the 16th of April, and a second time left the State on the 20th, arriving on the 25th at Murfreeseboro, Tenn., at which place they joined the non-veteran portion of the battery, which had meanwhile moved from Nashville. The battery was assigned position in Fortress Rosecrans, in the defences of Murfreesboro, where they have since been stationed.

NINTH BATTERY.

Captain—JAMES H. DODGE.

First Lieutenant—Watson D. Crocker.
Jun. First Lieut.—John A. Edington.

Second Lieutenant—Henry A. Hicks.
Jun. Second Lieut.—Albert Helliwell.

Of the Ninth Battery, the right and centre sections were, at date of the last annual report, stationed at Fort Lyon in Colorado Territory; and the left section at Fort Larned, Kansas. The several sections occupied these positions respectively during the winter and until the 17th of April, 1864, when the right and centre sections were relieved from duty at Fort Lyon. On the same day, one section, commanded by Capt. Dodge, was ordered out with a scouting party to assist in the capture of Government stock, which had been stolen by the Indians. Having marched a distance of one hundred and seventy miles, they returned to camp on the 21st, and on the 26th, these two sections left Fort Lyon, en route for Council Grove, Kansas, at which place they arrived on the 18th of May, having meanwhile marched nearly four hundred and fifty miles.

The right section, under command of Lieut. Edington, left Council Grove on the 24th of July, arriving on the following day at Salina, seventy-five miles distant, where a detachment of the battery was left, under command of Lieut. Hicks, the remainder of the section, with Lieut. Edington, marching thence as part of an expedition under Gen. Curtis, with whose forces they are now serving. The detachment under Lieut. Hicks has since been stationed at Salina.

The second section, under Capt. Dodge, left Council Grove on the 24th of July, marching in the direction of Fort Larned, to relieve Government trains, which had been attacked en route by Indians, and having marched one hundred and ninety-five miles, they returned on the 31st to camp. This section subsequently moved to Fort Riley, Ks., where it is now stationed.

The left section, under Lieut. Crocker, is still stationed at Fort Larned.

A partial report has been received from the battery.

TENTH BATTERY.

Captain—YATES V. BEECHE.

First Lieutenant—Phil. M. Groesbeck.
Jun. First Lieut.—Lester W. Stedson.

Second Lieutenant—Albert W. Fowler.
Jun. Second Lieut.—Oscar A. Clark.

The Tenth Battery, recruited and organized at New Lisbon, under the superintendence of Capt. Yates V. Beebe, was mustered into United States service at Milwaukee on the 10th of February, 1862, while en route to Camp Utley, Racine, where the battery remained, until the 18th of March, when they left the State for active service. They arrived on the 20th at St. Louis, Mo., and went into camp at Benton Barracks, where on the 1st of April, Lieut. Toner, with twenty-five men, was transferred to the Eighth battery, and Lieut. Hicks, with forty-five men, was transferred to the Ninth battery, by order of Gen. Halleck, thus leaving an aggregate, with the Tenth, of but forty-seven men. They were joined on the 18th of April by twenty-four recruits from Wisconsin, and having meanwhile been armed and equipped, they left St. Louis on the 30th, and proceeding up the Tennessee river, debarked on the 4th of May, at Pittsburg Landing, Tenn., where they were assigned to the Reserve Artillery. They took part in the action before Corinth, on the 28th, with a loss of two men killed and wounded, and several horses.

After the evacuation of Corinth by the rebels, they marched in pursuit as far as Boonville, and on their return, encamped on Tusculum Creek, near Corinth. While stationed at this place, they were assigned on the 5th of July, to the First Brigade, First Division of the Army of the Mississippi, and twenty-four men from the brigade were temporarily attached to the battery, thus lightening their labors, which had previously been very arduous, the company performing the duty of a full battery, while on an active campaign, with less than half the complement of men. On the 21st of July, they marched to Iuka, twenty-two miles east of Corinth, on the Memphis and Charleston railroad, from which, on the 12th of August, they began the march with the division, to join the Army of the Tennessee, then in the vicinity of Nashville. From Iuka, they moved to Tusculum, Ala., whence on the 17th, they resumed the march, and following the line of the Memphis and Charleston railroad, arrived on the 20th at Courtland, where one section of the battery was left, under command of Lieut. Groesbeck, the balance of the battery continuing the movement to Decatur, Ala., on the Tennessee river, ninety-five miles from Corinth. Lieut. Groesbeck's command rejoined the battery at this place on the 3d of September, and on the 5th, they crossed the river, having previously burned the tents and surplus baggage. Proceeding northwards by forced marches on scanty rations, they bivouacked on the 7th at Athens, awaiting the arrival of the Second brigade, which had crossed the river at Florence, and on the following day the movement was resumed by the whole command.

At Columbia, Tenn., they met and routed a body of Van Dorn's rebel cavalry, and arrived on the 14th of September, at Nashville, Tenn., where they went into camp. Here the battery was almost daily employed by sections, in escorting forage trains, the whole command subsisting on the country, and participated, on the 5th of November, in a skirmish on the Murfreesboro pike, before the city. Next day the army, under command of Gen. Rosecrans, returned to Nashville, from the Kentucky campaign, and the battery was reinforced by the arrival of Lieuts. Clark and Fowler, with fifty recruits from Wisconsin. The men previously attached were now returned to their regiments and the Tenth battery has since that time "done its own duty with its own men." While stationed at this post they were frequently ordered out as escort to forage trains, and on the 12th of December, were assigned to the Second Brigade, Seventh Division, Fourteenth Army Corps, and on the 2d of January, 1863, were ordered with a brigade to escort a supply train to Murfreesboro. On arriving at the front, the battery was temporarily detached from the brigade and participated on the 5th in the battle of Stone River.

They rejoined the brigade on the 8th at Nashville, where they were employed in garrison duty until the 8th of April, at which date they moved ten miles south to Brentwood. Here they were employed in railroad guard duty, until ordered on the 8d of June to return to Nashville, from which place, on the 16th of July, they moved to Murfreesboro, where they encamped as a portion of the garrison. They left Murfreesboro on the 19th of August, marching by way of Shelbyville to Columbia, Tenn., from which place they moved on the 26th, going into camp at Athens, Ala. On the 1st of September, they marched to Huntsville, and moving thence on the 3d, by way of Flint River Station, they arrived on the 4th at Stevenson, the junction of the Memphis and Charleston and Nashville and Chattanooga railroads. On the 10th, one section was ordered to Caperton's Ferry to guard the pontoon bridges at that place, and on the 18th rejoined the battery, which moved on the 20th to Bridgeport, Tenn., encamping at that place on an island in the Tennessee river, where they were employed in guarding bridges, until the 10th of October, at which date they moved to Anderson's Cross Roads in the Sequatchie Valley.

Here they were employed in guarding trains on Waldron's Ridge, and on the 18th, marched to Dallas Landing, on the Tennessee river, from which on the 21st, one section was ordered forty miles up the stream to Smith's Ferry. The battery remained in these positions, guarding the river at various points from Chattanooga to Knoxville, until the 1st of January, 1864, when one section crossed the Tennessee, marching to Calhoun on the Hiwassee river, where they were joined by the other sections of the battery in the beginning of February, and employed in guarding the railroad bridge, until the 27th of April, when they marched to Cleveland, Tenn., joining at that place the Second Division of the Fourth Corps, to which they had been temporarily attached. On the 3d of May they marched twenty-seven miles to Oatoosa Spring, where the battery was permanently assigned to the Third Cavalry Division of the Army of the Cumberland, and marching on the 7th, proceeded by way of Tunnel Hill to Dogwood Valley, where they joined the division on the 9th and reported to Gen. Kilpatrick for duty. Next day, they marched through Snake Creek Gap, to Sugar Valley, and on the 18th were heavily engaged with the enemy before Resaca, Ga., while the cavalry held the enemy in check to permit our infantry to form in line.

On the 14th, the battery was engaged during the day at Calhoun Ferry, where they lost one man wounded and a gun disabled by the rebel fire. A portion of the battery was also engaged next day at a ford between Calhoun Ferry and Resaca. In these engagements the battery was highly praised by the division commander for "energy, prompt manœuvring and accurate firing." Crossing the Oostenauga river on the 16th, they marched by way of Adairsville to Kingston, near which place they bivouacked on the evening of the 19th, in line of battle between Gen. Hooker's and Gen. Howard's Corps. On the following day, they moved to Gen. Sherman's Headquarters, and on the 22d, returned to Adairsville, where they were posted as railroad guard, until the 7th of June, when they moved forward ten miles to Kingston. On the 2d of July, they marched twelve miles to Cartersville, where they were stationed as guard to the communications of the army, until the 3d of August, at which date they marched to Sandtown.

From this point, they set out on the 11th, as a part of the forces which accompanied Gen. Kilpatrick, in his celebrated raid on the communications of Atlanta. On the 19th, they struck the Atlanta and West Point railroad at Red Oak, engaged the enemy, silenced his battery and destroyed about two miles of the track. In the afternoon, they cut the Macon and Western railroad at Jonesboro, where they again engaged the rebels with the same result, burned the depot, rolling stock and public buildings and destroyed three miles of the track. On the following day, closely followed by a rebel brigade under Gen. Ross, they again struck the Macon railroad at Lovejoy's, where they encountered a division of the enemy under Gen. Reynolds. Our battery at once opened fire, attacking the rebels vigorously, with a portion of our force, while a detachment destroyed the railroad and burned the depot. In the meantime the force in their rear had rapidly closed up, and as soon as the object of the raid was accomplished, Gen. Kilpatrick quickly massed his force and charged through the rebel brigade. In this action, the Tenth battery lost four wounded and one missing. The expedition marched around Atlanta, passing through McDonough and Decatur, and returning on the 23d to Sandtown, having in five days, marched one hundred and forty-six miles and fought three battles.

On the 27th, they moved to Camp Creek and on the following day again engaged the enemy at Red Oak, where they silenced his battery. In the morning of the 30th, the enemy was encountered six miles east of Red Oak, and after three engagements, in which he was each time dislodged from his position, he was finally driven in the afternoon to Jonesboro.

Accompanying the movement of the cavalry, they marched next day one and a half miles southwest to Burnt Bridge on Flint river, where fire was opened by one section of the battery on the rebel position. At three in the afternoon they were attacked by Gen. Claiborne's division, when the whole battery was brought into action, and held the position until their ammunition was expended, and the whole command ordered to fall back. They again advanced to Burnt Bridge on the 1st of September and shelled the rebel position at intervals, until three in the afternoon, when the cavalry was relieved by the Seventeenth Corps, and next day they moved six miles down the stream to Glass's Bridge, where they dislodged the enemy after a sharp engagement. On the 3d, they moved about five miles and encamped on the right of the Seventeenth Corps near Lovejoy's Station, and participating in the general movement of our forces towards Atlanta, they fell back on the 5th to Burnt Bridge.

They fired the last shot of the campaign on the 7th of September and marched during the day to camp, midway between Sandtown and Atlanta, where they have since remained.

ELEVENTH BATTERY.

*Captain—JOHN ROBERT.First Lieutenant—John McAfee.
Jun. First Lieut.—Charles Bagley.Second Lieutenant—William L. McKessie.
Jun. Second Lieut.—Michael Cunningham.*

The Eleventh Battery, then stationed at Petersburg, W. Va., was frequently employed, during the month of October, 1863, on scouting parties through the country, being mounted as cavalry for that purpose, and on the 8th of November a section of the battery, commanded by Lieut. McAfee, marched towards Monterey with ten days' rations, to join Gen. Averill, and returned by way of Franklin to camp on the 14th, having marched one hundred and ten miles. On the 10th of December, one section marched with Gen. Averill's command towards the Virginia and Tennessee Central railroad, and at McDowell, this portion of the battery, with an additional force of infantry, held the rebel forces of Imboden in check, while our cavalry destroyed the road. After a march of one hundred and thirty-six miles over mountainous and difficult roads, they returned on the 24th to Petersburg.

At the advance of the rebel forces, under Gen. Early, against Petersburg, they left that place on the evening of the 30th of January, 1864, and retreated across the mountains to New Creek, where they went into camp on the 1st of February, after a most fatiguing march, during which three of their number were captured by the enemy. On the 3d of April a section of the battery, commanded by Lieut. Bagley, was detached from New Creek and occupied position at Greenland Gap. Upon the promotion of Lieut. Cunningham, he was assigned to the command of this section, and Lieut. Bagley took command of the battery at Petersburg, whence he marched on the 5th of May to Piedmont, in command of a detachment of infantry and one gun, for the purpose of intercepting a rebel force under McNeil, who was engaged in a raid on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at that place. Lieut. Bagley's command came up with the enemy at Bloomington, and having routed his force, returned in the evening without loss to camp.

On the 3d of July, the left section of the battery, under command of Lieut. Cunningham, was ordered to retire from Greenland Gap, then threatened by the advance of a large force of the enemy under Early and Breckenridge. Marching over rocky and mountainous roads, almost impassable for artillery, they arrived on the 4th at New Creek. On the 6th, this section was again ordered to Greenland Gap, where they remained until the 25th, when the post was finally abandoned in obedience to orders, and the section returned to New Creek. On the 31st, the centre section, under Lieut. McKessie, marched to Cumberland, Md., where they were ordered to assist in the defence of that place against a considerable force of the enemy then approaching, under McCausland and Bradley Johnson. The enemy was attacked on the 1st of August at Folok's Mills, and after an obstinate contest, lasting five hours, was finally driven from the field with severe loss, leaving in our hands several horses, caissons and a quantity of ammunition. Loss of the battery, one man severely wounded. This force subsequently appeared on the 4th of August before New Creek, where the left section was stationed, and was again defeated, the rebels retiring in disorder from the field, abandoning their killed and wounded.

The several sections of the battery were united on the 10th of September by the return of the force from Cumberland, and on the 27th the right section, under command of Lieut. Bagley, moved to Clarksburg. The centre section, under Lieut. Cunningham, moved on the 29th to Grafton, at which points respectively, they are now stationed.

TWELFTH BATTERY.

Captain—WILLIAM ZICKERICK.

First Lieutenant—Edward G. Harlow.

Second Lieutenant—Philauder H. Gody.

Jun. First Lieut.—Sylvester C. Cheney.

Jun. Second Lieut.—

The Twelfth Battery remained in camp at Memphis, Tenn., until the 6th of October, 1863, when they proceeded by rail to Corinth, Miss., and on the following day marched eight miles to Glendale, Miss., where they were employed in guarding the line of the Memphis and Charleston railroad. As a portion of the troops under command of Gen. Sherman, in his celebrated movement to the relief of Chattanooga and Knoxville, they left Glendale on the 18th, proceeding by way of Burns to Iuka, where they arrived on the 20th; and resuming the march thence on the 22d, arrived on the 24th at Dickson's Station, Ala., twenty-two miles east of Iuka, on the Memphis and Charleston railroad. They marched thence on the 29th, and crossing the Tennessee at Chickasaw Landing on the morning of the 1st of November, proceeded by way of Florence, Ala., Fayetteville and Cowan, Tenn., to Bridgeport, Ala., at which place they encamped on the 15th. On the 18th, they crossed the Tennessee river at this place, and recrossing the river during the march, encamped within two miles of Chattanooga. Early on the morning of the 20th, camp was moved three miles towards the front, and on the evening of the 23d, the battery took position on the bank of the Tennessee to cover the passage of our infantry, in the movement against Mission Ridge and Lookout Mountain.

They subsequently moved on the evening of the 26th to position near the upper pontoon bridge, and on the 3d of December, broke camp at this place, marching towards Bridgeport, where they encamped on the 5th, and remained in garrison until the 22d, at which date they were again put in motion, going into camp on the 26th at Larkinsville, Ala. They left Larkinsville on the 7th of January, 1864, and arrived on the 9th at Huntsville, where Winter quarters were erected, and the battery employed in garrison duty.

Shortly afterwards, they were furnished with three inch Rodman guns in exchange for their former armament of ten pounders, and the battery remained at this post as permanent garrison until the 22d of June, when they left Huntsville, and marching through Larkinsville and Bellefonte, to Stevenson, Ala., from which place they proceeded by rail, through Chattanooga, arriving on the 30th at Kingston, Ga. Here they remained until the 13th of July, when they again moved forward, taking position on the following day as a part of the garrison of Allatoona, Ga., where the battery has since been stationed.

THIRTEENTH BATTERY.¹

Captain.—RICHARD R. GRIFFITH.

First Lieutenant.—William W. Perrine.
Jun. First Lieut.—

Second Lieutenant.—William M. Bristoll.
Jun. Second Lieut.—Frank Fox.

The Thirteenth Battery, of which seventy-one men, with a first lieutenant, were mustered into service on the 4th of November, 1863, was subsequently recruited to the maximum, under the superintendence of Capt. Richard R. Griffith, and finally mustered into United States service on the 29th of December. They remained at Camp Washburn, until the 28th of January, 1864, at which date they left Milwaukee for field service, under orders to report at New Orleans, La., and moving by rail via Chicago, they arrived on the morning of the 30th at Cairo, Ill. Here they immediately embarked, and proceeding down the Mississippi, landed on the 1st of February at Memphis, Tenn. After a delay of some days at this point, awaiting transportation, they again embarked on the 5th, and resuming their progress down the river, arrived on the 12th at New Orleans, where orders were received on the 17th to report at Baton Rouge, La., at which place they landed next day.

Here the battery, as yet unprovided with arms, was assigned to duty in Fort Williams, an earthwork surrounding the arsenal, and on the 16th of March the men were armed with Springfield muskets, for guard and other duty, until equipped as light artillery. On the 24th, they were placed in charge of six heavy guns in the fort, and were thenceforward engaged in duty as heavy artillery, until the 17th of June, when they were ordered to the performance of provost duty in the city of Baton Rouge. They were relieved from this duty on the 8th of July, and returned to Fort Williams, where they took charge of seven barbette guns, and on the 10th the battery was completely equipped as light artillery, taking the armament and equipments of a Vermont battery, whose term of service had expired.

They went into camp on the 15th, a short distance from the fort, and on the 4th of August, two sections of the battery, accompanying a body of cavalry, moved seven miles south to Highland Stockade, in anticipation of an attack upon that post. These two sections returned to camp on the 6th, without having encountered the rebels. The right section was subsequently ordered to return to Highland Stockade, and rejoined the battery on the 9th at Baton Rouge, where they have since been stationed.

At the date of the last Annual Report, companies C and D were recruiting for the First Battalion of Heavy Artillery, the organization of which had been previously authorized by the War Department, and were subsequently mustered into United States service, on the 1st of October and 7th of November, 1863, respectively.

Battery A moved in October, 1863, from Fort Worth, to Battery Rodgers, where they remained until May, 1864, during which month they were transferred to Fort Willard. They subsequently returned in August to Battery Rodgers, Va., where they are now stationed.

Battery B, which had been previously organized, left Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, in October, 1863, and was assigned to duty at Fort Terrell, Munfordsville, Tenn. Here they remained until the 4th of January, 1864, at which date they moved to Lexington, Ky., taking position Fort Clay, where they have since been stationed.

Battery C was mustered into United States service on the 1st of October, 1863, and left Camp Washburn for active service on the 30th, and proceeding by way of Indianapolis, was assigned position in Fort Wood, Chattanooga, Tenn. They moved in January, 1864, to Fort Creighton, and subsequently, in May, to Fort Sherman, Chattanooga, where they have since remained.

Battery D, which was mustered into service on the 7th of November, 1863, left Camp Washburn, on the 1st of February, 1864, under orders to report at New Orleans, La., where they arrived on the 9th. Re-embarking on the 18th, they proceeded down the Mississippi to Fort Jackson, where they landed on the following day and took position as garrison of the post. They left Fort Jackson on the 23d of July, 1864, and on the 26th, were assigned position in Fort Berwick, near Brashear City, La., in which place they are now stationed.

In pursuance of General Orders No. 21, from this office, dated September 14th, 1864, the work of recruiting eight companies, the number necessary to complete the regimental organization, was at once commenced. At this date (Oct. 1) companies E, F, H, L and M, have been completed and mustered into United States service, the remaining companies* are nearly full.

Batteries L and M left Camp Randall for active service on the 30th of September. The other companies are nearly ready for muster and expect to follow within a short time.

STATE MILITIA.

The State Militia organization, does not present a very prosperous or hopeful condition. So far as the companies of the "Organized Militia" are concerned, there is to record but little enthusiasm, and but ten (10) reported minimum companies. It was with no little degree of confidence, that the order calling for one hundred day troops, made the State Militia companies the basis of four regiments for that service, but it did not, as an organization, constitute any appreciable part of those troops.

The results obtained under the Militia Law of 1863, and which, at the date of my last report, gave promise of success, appear in some, if not many instances, to have been founded upon an idea which had gained prevalence, that service in the State Militia would by some means release them from United States' service.

This, and the fact, that these companies of State Militia were generally composed of those persons subject to service in the forces of the General Government, and from whose ranks a full proportion of the volunteers and drafted men, under the calls of the past year have been raised, thereby disorganizing the companies, affords the reason, undoubtedly, for the present lack of interest manifested.

It is not an easy matter—while we as a people are so engaged in actual warfare—to create any degree of enthusiasm in what, under the circumstances, appears but mimicry.

While I still deem it a matter of much importance, I do not expect an efficient organization under the present law. The Legislature of last winter adopted sundry amendments recommended in the report of last year, but omitted the vital point, to wit, compensation to members of the organized militia. I do not repeat the recommendation, although if it is deemed best to make any exertions to keep up a State militia, my views of the necessity of compensation are unchanged.

In the absence of a military pride and enthusiasm, some motive must be presented to encourage organizations, and that, in my opinion, must be a reasonable compensation for time actually spent. In all other States where an effective State Militia is maintained, payment is made for specified service, and is its acknowledged life.

Of the forty-four companies nominally constituting the organized militia of the State, four have, during the past year, been disbanded, two of which,

* Since completed and mustered into service.

the La Fayette County Guards and the Benton Union Guards, were consolidated to form one company, the La Fayette County Guards.

The Badger State Guards, at Cascade, Sheboygan county, and the Green Yagers of Waukesha county, have, at their own request, been disbanded.

Of the forty remaining companies of infantry and artillery, I have received the semi-annual report of muster required by the statute, from fourteen companies only.

The total number of men reported for the four regiments of infantry and two batteries of artillery, is eight hundred and seventy-nine, (879.) I have appended in schedule F, a roster, giving the numerical strength of companies and regiments at date of last semi-annual muster, to which reference is respectfully made for detailed information of their present condition.

Section 59 of the present Militia Law provides as follows:

"SECTION 59. If the number of volunteer companies of the militia of this State shall not, within three months from the passage of this act, amount to a force equivalent to three full regiments of organized militia, the commander-in-chief may proceed to draft and organize from the enrolled militia of the State a force equal to such number of regiments, in the same manner and with like effect as provided in this act for drafting enrolled militia for active service; and all the provisions of this act are hereby made applicable to the enrolled militia so drafted and organized, to the end that there shall always be a force of organized militia of the State equal to three regiments."

Such a course is, in my opinion, at the present time impracticable without incurring a heavy and unwarranted expense, owing to the frequent calls of the General Government for recruits from the State for active service in the field, by which action the State organizations would be as frequently destroyed, and render a draft for State Militia a necessity as frequent as the call of the General Government. And although, as is evident, we have not the military force required by law, I would recommend the delay of a State draft at least another season, it being deemed within the discretion of the Executive.

In view of the probable necessity for a draft of State Militia to maintain the organization, and owing to the many changes since the enrollment of 1862, it was deemed best to make a new enrollment the present year under the provisions of section 8 of the Militia Law, and blanks for the purpose were sent from this office early in May last. From the returns of the several assessors so far received, it appears that there were in the State last June eighty-two thousand nine hundred and eighty-one (82,981) persons between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years subject to military duty, from which the required force may at any time be drafted for State service. A schedule showing the enrollment by counties is appended in paper G.

In view of the expense attending the enrollment, amounting the present year to over six thousand dollars, and in view of the fact that any draft for State purposes is at present improbable, I respectfully recommend the omission of a further enrollment until a more immediate occasion shall demand.

I have said more than I contemplated at the commencement relative to the State Militia, deeming it, as I do, in its present condition more farical than otherwise. I do not think that there is among the people enough interest in the matter to maintain a volunteer organization under the present law. In the future, should immediate dangers threaten us, or, what is more probable, when those who are now being made familiar with the science of warfare by experience, and who have learned to love it by "the dangers they have passed," shall again return among us, it may confidently be hoped that we shall have an organization worthy of the name. Meanwhile, I most earnestly recommend the passage of an act authorizing the appointment by the Governor of a Military Commission composed of three members, from residents of this State best qualified for the duty, who shall be instructed to avail themselves of all necessary information for the purpose of preparing a militia law which can be rendered practicable and operative in this State.

MUSTER AND DESCRIPTIVE ROLLS OF VOLUNTEER ORGANIZATIONS.

While the mass of records pertaining to the volunteer organizations in the service of the General Government are constantly accumulating, and are properly filed for future reference, it is a matter of regret that we lack complete muster and descriptive rolls of many of the regiments from this State. We have original muster rolls of all the organizations now in the service, but it is found that the character of all is not such as to make them reliable authority for the purposes for which they are intended. The great importance of these records in the future, is known by very few persons. I think it was not recognized by our Legislature the past year. Their importance should be understood, in the fact that it is from the evidence presented in these records that the bounties and premiums are allowed and paid by the United States to discharged and invalid soldiers, and to the widows and children of those who have died in the service. The frequent inquiries from the War Department during the past summer for this information, led me, while at Washington in August, to investigate this subject to some extent. I found that the Department has some records that we have not, but am satisfied that this office is now possessed of more information in regard to our troops than the War Department, and that neither, or both together, have such complete records as the requirements of the future will render imperative.

In my report of last year I recommended such measures and such expense, under the direction and approval of the Executive, as should be necessary to correct and complete the records. I respectfully renew that request. Justice to the soldiers in the field, and the families of those who have died in the service demand it. And if in the future, through failure in this respect, the records of this office shall be found incomplete, I desire that this report may bear witness to my sense of its importance, and of my urgent recommendation of such action as shall secure the result.

MONTHLY RETURNS.

The monthly returns of the regiments required by the statute providing aid to families from the war fund, are, with two exceptions only, as regularly received as could be expected in the frequent movements and actions of the troops. Measures are now being taken through the War Department to secure the proper returns from the Fourteenth Infantry, and Third Cavalry, noted as exceptions. By these returns only, can the five dollars per month be paid to the families of soldiers from the war fund, and the promptitude of the officers generally in forwarding the necessary evidence is as gratifying as it is commendable and humane.

ALLOTMENTS.

Although not specially within the province of this report, it is thought that the matter of allotment might be properly included, and through the courtesy of Hon. S. D. Hastings, State Treasurer, in charge of the fund, the following information is mainly gathered. The fund was created by act of the Legislature in 1862 in the following section, to wit:

SEC. 3. "The State Treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to receive such sums of money as may be placed in his hands by a volunteer making an allotment, and shall dispose of the same according to the order and direction of such volunteers."

The following extract is copied from the report of the State Treasurer for 1862, to illustrate the manner in which the allotment is conducted:

"There are two systems by which the money is thus transmitted. One is for the United States paymaster, at the time he pays the regiment, to hand to each man who has made an allotment, the amount of the same in a draft on New York, payable to the order of the individual to whom the money has been allotted. In the other system those in a particular company agree upon some individual in their own State as a distributor, to whom the whole amount allotted by the company is sent in a single draft by the paymaster who pays the regiment, and upon the receipt of the same the distributor forwards the amount to the various persons to whom it has been allotted. This last system is the one that has been adopted by the most of the Wisconsin regiments; is the one recommended by the Paymaster General of the United States, and is the one which, in the practical operation, is found to be altogether preferable."

Allotment rolls have been deposited with the State Treasurer from the following named regiments; to wit: the Fifth, Seventh, Eighth, Twentieth, Twenty-first, Twenty-second; the Twenty-fourth, to Twenty-seventh inclusive, and from the Twenty-ninth to the Thirty-third inclusive of infantry; the First battalion of the Second Cavalry and Fourth regiment of cavalry; the Third, and from the Fifth to the Tenth, inclusive, with the Twelfth batteries. The number of names on the allotment rolls of the above named organizations, are nineteen thousand and fifty-seven, (19,057, from whom the total receipts for the past three years are as follows:

For the fiscal year, ending September 30, 1862,	$17,526 99
do do do 1863,	482,005 86
do do do 1864,	367,374 44
Total,	$866,907 29

Nearly one million of dollars, the larger portion of which is a direct saving to the families of the soldier, and to the finances of the State, which would otherwise, in numberless instances, have been lost or carelessly squandered.

STATE AGENTS.

The reports of State Agents, of whom there are now four in the field, are made directly to the State Executive, and so far as of general interest, have been given to the public upon their receipt, through the medium of the press. Those now engaged in such capacity, are Mrs. C. A. P. Harvey, headquarters at Vicksburg, district for visitation from Memphis to New Orleans; Geo. W. Sturges, headquarters at St. Louis, district from Cairo to Keokuk, including hospitals at Paducah, Mound City and Jefferson Barracks; E. L. Jones, headquarters at Nashville, district from Louisville to Chattanooga; W. Y. Selleck, headquarters Washington, district—Philadelphia, Baltimore and Annapolis.

It is respectfully suggested, that an enlarged and more liberal policy is desirable in the provision for the care of our sick and disabled soldiers, through these agencies; the fund placed at the disposition of the Executive affording but a limited expenditure for this purpose.

A personal observation, during the past summer at Washington, of the interest evinced, and the measures adopted by other States generally, for the care and comfort of their troops, together with the wants expressed by our men, impressed me with the necessity for a more liberal provision for the wants and comfort of our soldiers, especially at that point, and at Louisville or Nashville. The duties of a State Agent should not, in my opinion, be confined in any degree to a visitation of the hospital, to secure lacking descriptive rolls, furloughs for proper cases and that class of labor alone. There should be an office, with a clerk, if need be, to render it accessible at all reasonable hours. There should be not only the ordinary sanitary supplies, but a supply of under clothing, socks, &c., and arrangements by which to furnish furloughed or discharged invalid soldiers, with proper food for their journey, and to supply the thousand little comforts, the lack of which the invalid feels so keenly. While these may be generally, and are perhaps all eventually, supplied from the rooms of the Sanitary Commission, yet, an active State Agency for the immediate distribution of such stores, would save much discomfort necessarily attendant upon delay, and sometimes the lives of men.

In some instances, the agents of two or more States occupy one office, thereby dispensing with one clerk, and perhaps any. With means at their disposal, an arrangement of like character could, if necessary, undoubtedly be effected by our State Agents.

The knowledge throughout our State of such agencies, would soon fill the shelves with all needed articles, without perceptibly diminishing the general sanitary labor, and would be of incalculable benefit in their proper conduct.

In my opinion, not only justice to the soldier, but also in some degree, the honor of the State, render some further provision of this character necessary.

HOSPITALS.

Hospital accommodations for sick and wounded soldiers are now provided by the General Government at Madison, Milwaukee and Prairie du Chien, under the immediate superintendence of Surgeon Eben Swift, U. S. A., Medical Director of the Department.

That at Milwaukee is designed mainly as an officer's hospital, with beds for from one hundred and fifty to two hundred persons. A. A. Surgeon, A. Kelly, U. S. A., in charge.

That at Prairie du Chien, is but lately established, and is designed for accommodation of four hundred persons. A. A. Surgeon, F. W. Kelly, U. S. A., in charge.

The Harvey U. S. A. General Hospital at Madison, including the Branch Hospital at Camp Randall, is of larger capacity than either of the others, most admirably constructed and conducted under the supervision of Surgeon H. Culbertson U. S. V., and Assistants Favill, Brown and Henderson—and will accommodate five hundred and eighty patients. Those at Milwaukee and Prairie du Chien having been lately opened, I have not visited them, but presume that in common with the one established here, there is careful attention to the wants, and full supplies of stores for the necessities and comforts of the inmates. By the kindness of Major Culbertson, I am enabled to give the following statement of the number received and discharged from the latter named hospital since its opening for the reception of patients :

HARVEY U. S. A. GENERAL HOSPITAL,
MADISON, WIS., Dec. 31st, 1864.

GENERAL:—I have the honor to transmit herewith, in compliance with your request, a table, showing the number of soldiers admitted into this Hospital and its Branch, from its organization, October 27th, 1863, to the 31st of December, 1864, inclusive; also the number returned to duty, transferred to the Veteran Reserve Corps, transferred to other hospitals, furloughed, deserted, discharged the service and died during the same time :

Number Admitted—sick and wounded	No. transferred to Vet. Res. Corps.	No. transferred to other Hospitals.	Number furloughed.	Number deserted.	Number discharged.	Number died.	Number returned to duty.	No. re-admitted from furlough and desertion.	Number remaining.

Very respectfully,

Your obt. servant,

H. CULBERTSON,

Surgeon U. S. Vol's in charge.

Brigadier General A. GAYLORD,
Adjutant General, Wisconsin.

In connection with this subject, the services of Gen. E. B. Wolcott, Surgeon General of the State, deserve special mention. Not only Wisconsin troops, but many a soldier of other States will long and gratefully remember his cheering words and presence, and the results of his eminent skill and experience bestowed upon them after the engagements of our troops in the Department of the Cumberland and the "Wilderness".

The beneficent results of his energetic labors are in some degree apparent in the Surgeon General's report which has been submitted to your Excellency.

AID SOCIETIES.

The praiseworthy efforts of the women of Wisconsin for the relief of sick and wounded soldiers, and the care of their families at home, through organized societies and private munificence, are entitled to more than a passing mention.

The encouragement given to it by the general government, and the systematic manner in which it is now conducted, has recommended and made the sanitary commission an acceptable mode of sending to our armies the needed hospital comforts.

The Soldiers' Aid Society at Milwaukee, under the very efficient management of the ladies of that city, and in the fact of its being the centre of a larger population than any other locality of the state, has been made the depot, and channel for distribution of sanitary stores from a large area of the state.

A very interesting report of their labors for the past six months, has just been issued, giving statistical results, and making an appeal, which should have thorough circulation in the state. This society does not, however, by any means represent the labors of the women of Wisconsin.

Nearly every city, town and village has its weekly gathering, where busy hands prepare comforts, sending them direct by private hands, or through the Christian Commission, or other channels, to swell the tribute of gratitude for our suffering soldiers in hospitals.

An English gentleman, now an officer in our army, in writing me, says: "There is no one thing in the whole course of the war, that has impressed me more strongly, than the unselfish and noble manner in which the wives, mothers and daughters of America have taken up their share of the burthen, and the brave and uncomplaining way in which they have sustained it. God bless them for it." The beneficent influence of their action has mitigated the sufferings, and cheered the heart of many a one "ready to perish," giving encouragement for still continued and needed labor.

OFFICE MATTERS.

The assumption by the general government of much of the labor heretofore devolved upon the state authorities in the manner of raising troops, has in some measure changed, although it has not lessened the labors of this office.

While the State has less to do with the original formation of regiments, the course pursued by the War Department renders the keeping of proper records much more complex and laborious, which with the labors incidental to the increase of regiments from the State, has rendered an increased and uniform assistance necessary during the entire year.

There have been sixteen hundred and sixty-five commissions; thirty general, and fifty-three special orders issued during the year, and almost numberless certificates in connection with the death, muster out, pensions and back pay, county and town bounties, or State aid of those formerly, or now in the service.

I here take occasion to again acknowledge the faithfulness and efficiency of the gentlemen engaged in this office, whose ability and readiness in the unintermitting and oft times perplexing labor, has lightened many a burthen of official duty.

In this connection it also affords me pleasure to record the pleasant and courteous relations which have existed between this department, and the United States officers stationed in the State, with whom I have been brought in official contact.

No especial duties have devolved upon me as Inspector General of the State rendering a report necessary.

CONCLUSION.

In closing my report for the year, I can but refer your Excellency to the record which our State presents in a review of the past three and a half years. Over seventy-five thousand of her sons, within a fraction of one-tenth of her entire population—brave and true men—have responded to the call of the General Government, offering their lives if such need be, for the maintenance of its power and supremacy, in the resistance of an armed rebellion.

For three and a half years,—side by side they have borne the national colors and the flag of our own Badger State—upon the banks of the Rio Grande—in the forests of Dacotah—in the mountains of Tennessee—upon the fertile plains of Alabama and Georgia—and the now devastated fields of the once venerated "Old Dominion."

On the march, in the conflict, wherever they have been, the state may point to their record with a true maternal pride, claiming them as her sons. Many have fallen upon the field of battle, sealing their devotion to their country in their own life's blood. Others have lingered in hospitals, or wasted under untold sufferings in southern prisons.

Others there be in all portions of our state bearing honorable and honored scars of conflict. Others still whose three years of service have expired, without the realization of their too sanguine hopes,—after a faithful performance of duty have returned, and again quietly resume their stations,—honored citizens in the business walks of civil life,—while the many still press forward in the ranks of our army, bearing high the banners of victory. Heroes, are they all,—the living and the dead are alike to be honored.

Another year closes around us, the strife yet continued and our hopes yet unfulfilled. A year more than any other full of interest in the history of the state and the nation—during which the heart of the people more than in any other of this rebellion, has vibrated between hopes and fears—yet pressing right onward through the darkness and dangers, is through the late achievements of our arms, made to rejoice in the brightening dawn of returning peace.

Trusting that the incoming year, opening so auspiciously, may record its glorious consummation throughout all our borders.

I have the honor to be

Very Respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

WHEREAS, It appears by special information from the Provost Marshal of the Fourth Congressional District, that the copy of the enrollment of men of the first class, subject to military duty in the towns of Waupun, Fond du Lac county, and of Chester, in Dodge county, originally returned to this office, was incorrect, inasmuch as it represents 45 in the town of Waupun, and 148 in the town of Chester :

And whereas, it now appears from his certified report, that the actual number of men of the first class, subject to military duty, in the town of Waupun is 128, and in the town of Chester 65:

It is ordered, that the quotas heretofore assigned to the towns of Waupun and Chester, by General Order No. 21, series of 1863, from this office, be changed ; and the following are hereby assigned :

Town of Waupun..... 18
Town of Chester..... 9

By order of the Governor.

AUG. GAYLORD,

HEADQUARTERS STATE OF WISCONSIN,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Madison, Feb. 10, 1864.

General Orders }
No. 2. }

Authority having been given by the War Department to raise another regiment of Infantry from this State, the Governor directs :

I. The immediate organization of one regiment, to be designated as the Thirty-sixth Regiment of Infantry, to serve for three years or the war, unless sooner discharged.

The company and regimental organization to conform to the provisions of General Orders No 110, from the War Department, April 23d, 1863.

II. Appointments will be made by the Governor, giving authority to recruit companies for this regiment, reserving the power to revoke such appointments or to commission persons holding them in such positions as he shall deem just and proper. A second lieutenant will be commissioned and immediately mustered for each company, under the provisions of General Orders No. 75, series of 1862, from the War Department. Instructions will be issued with each appointment, governing the recruiting service.

III. Volunteers in this organization will receive the three hundred dollars ($300) bounty from the General Government, and those having families dependent, will receive the benefits provided by the State from the War Fund.

IV. The premium of fifteen dollars for new recruits, and twenty-five dollars for veterans, will be paid to any person, other than a commissioned officer, or person holding a recruiting appointment, who shall present an accepted and mustered recruit.

Such recruit must be presented, free of expense, to either of the District Provost Marshals of the State, or to either of the second lieutenants before mentioned, who will be authorized to muster the recruit and issue certificates entitling the holder to the premium, and payment of which will be made by the U. S. Mustering and Disbursing Officer.

V. Recruits for this regiment will be credited to the various localities in the State, in the same manner as if enlisted for other organizations.

VI. The camp of rendezvous is hereby designated at Camp Randall, in the city of Madison.

VII. All communications pertaining to the organization of the regiment should be addressed to the Adjutant General of the State.

VIII. The Governor appeals with confidence to the patriotic citizens of the State for a prompt response and early completion of this organization.

By order of the Governor :

AUG. GAYLORD,
Adjutant General.

HEADQUARTERS STATE OF WISCONSIN,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Madison, Feb. 11, 1864.

General Orders, {
No. 3. }

For the information of the public on subjects of frequent inquiry at this office, the following statements are published :

I. No quota has yet been assigned to this State by the War Department under the last call of the President, dated February 1, 1864. When the quota shall be assigned to the Congressional Districts of the State, it will, under the present order of the War Department, be assigned by the Board of Enrollment in each district to the several towns and wards of the district. The quota of each town or ward can be closely approximated by adding two-thirds of the number already assigned in General Orders No. 21 from this office, as the quota under the call of October 17, 1863, for three hundred thousand; and the people of each community are urgently advised to continue the enlistment of volunteers upon that basis, that there may be less to accomplish in the short time that will elapse between the receipt of information and the day of the draft.

II. No information can at present be given from this office as to the credits due to the towns and wards of the State for volunteers enlisted under this call. Such information is being prepared as speedily as possible, and will contain all credits, whether of veterans or recruits, so far as reports are received at this office; but cannot be given to the public before the 20th inst.

III. Persons applying for certificates of residence for volunteers must state the regiment in which the recruit was enlisted, and the date of muster. The present business of the office will not admit of reply to letters omitting the items above given.

IV. The premium of fifteen dollars for new recruits, and twenty-five dollars for veterans, will be paid to any person other than a commissioned officer, or person holding a recruiting appointment, who shall present an accepted and mustered recruit for the 35th Regiment Wis. Vol. Infantry, now organizing at Camp Washburn, Milwaukee. Such recruit must be presented free of expense to either of the District Provost Marshals of the State, or to some commissioned officer authorized to muster recruits, and issue certificates entitling the holder thereof to the premium. Volunteers in this regiment also receive the three hundred dollars bounty paid to new recruits, the same as in all other organizations.

V. The payment of the two dollars premium for recruits for volunteer organizations has been discontinued by orders from the War Department.

The Governor confidently expects that Wisconsin will promptly furnish the quota of the State under the latest calls of the President. To accomplish this in the limited time yet remaining will require earnest and constant labor throughout the State. In the absence of information as to the exact quota of localities, let the people approximate as nearly as possible and secure the number of recruits necessary to clear them from the draft. Let the sacredness of the cause we would render triumphantly successful, and the waning strength of the rebellion inspire us anew with a fervid devotion, and secure a response from Wisconsin which shall aid in the speedy overthrow of traitors and the return of peace to the land.

Also, the following extract from telegram to Col J. D. Greene, Assistant Provost Marshal General of this State, under date of February 29 :

"Be fully prepared to commence the draft on the tenth (10th) of March, and to make it in every sub-district which shall not have raised its quota."

In publishing the above information, the Governor would congratulate the people of the State upon the success which has attended their efforts in recruiting within the past month, and the probabilities that, with the same exertions within the time limited, the entire quota of the State will be raised, and the draft rendered unnecessary in any district of the State. Many sub-districts have not yet filled their quotas, and the further extension of bounties gives ample opportunity to secure this result. Immediate and energetic action will accomplish the work, to which all are urgently advised.

It appearing from evidence presented, that many citizens from the border counties of our State, have been enlisted for volunteer organizations of adjoining States, by which means those localities fail to receive credit, upon their quotas for volunteers heretofore furnished; and in order to secure, so far as possible, all proper credits to the several localities, the Governor requests:

I. That the boards of supervisors, or justices of the peace of the several towns shall prepare and forward to this office statements, supported by affidavits, in relation to the case of every volunteer known to have been in the service, as a member of any organization out of the State, and not already credited to some locality within the State.

II. Each affidavit must state the full name of the volunteer for whom credit is claimed; the town or ward in which he resided at the time of his enlistment, with the length of time he has been such resident; the company and regiment to which he was assigned, and the State by which such company or regiment was organized, together with the name of the officer by whom he was enlisted.

III. Each affidavit, so prepared, must be made out singly, upon letter paper or legal cap, which should be properly folded, and endorsed with the name of the volunteer, his company and regiment; and the name of the town or ward making the claim of such volunteer. Such other facts as would substantiate the residence of the volunteer might also properly form a portion of the affidavit. For instance, the fact of his having paid poll, or other tax in the town, the residence of his family, and whether the town or county bounty had been paid them.

IV. All affidavits, as above indicated, must be filed in this office on or before the first day of May next, after which date effort will be made to secure all proper credits for this class of volunteers not heretofore given to the several localities.

V. The attention of communities interested in this matter, is solicited at the earliest practicable moment.

The following extracts will indicate Gen. Sherman's orders :

"All regiments belonging to the armies of the Ohio and Cumberland to come direct to Nashville, and those of the army of the Tennessee, to Cairo, where they will learn where their brigades are, and receive further orders."

"Not a day should be lost, and no excuse can be entertained, such as waiting for more recruits. I will hold commanders of regiments to a strict account for absence a single day."

I. The General Government will accept volunteers from this state for service of one hundred days as United States troops, provided they are offered within fifteen days from date. The limited time remaining in which to complete the organization of these troops, will require immediate and energetic action. This service is voluntary. Opportunity is herein given to those citizens of the state, whose duties have heretofore prevented their enlistment for the longer terms of active service, to unite their energies with those of our regiments already in the field; and by relieving our veteran troops from posts and fortifications, to share in the glory of an endeavor to render the immediate campaign both successful and decisive.

II. The present State militia organization will be made the basis of four regiments, should they tender their services, in which case the present regimental and company commanders are requested to take immediate steps to recruit the companies to the minimum prescribed by existing regulations of the War Department, to wit :

1 Captain,	4 Sergeants,
1 First Lieutenant,	8 Corporals,
1 Second Lieutenant,	2 Musicians,
1 First Sergeant,	1 Wagoner, and not less than sixty-four (64) privates. When complete to a minimum the commanding officer of each company will immediately report the fact to this office and to the Colonel commanding the regiment.

III. Companies and recruits for the First and Second regiments will rendezvous at Camp Washburne, Milwaukee, and for the Third and Fourth at Camp Randall, in Madison. Persons not connected with either of the regiments, desiring to enter this service, can report at either of the above named camps, at which mustering officers will be stationed for the receipt, subsistence and muster of recruits for this service.

IV. These troops are to be organized, clothed, armed, equipped, subsisted, transported and paid as other United States Infantry Volunteers.— They will be mustered into the service of the United States by regiments when the regiments are filled to the minimum strength, and are to serve in fortifications or wherever their services may be required within or without this state. No bounty will be paid these troops, nor the service charged or credited on any draft; and soldiers in this service will be subject to draft for three years' service should such draft be ordered; but should any officer or soldier be drafted while in this special service, he will be credited for the service already rendered.

V. Contracts for subsistence of recruits while at company rendezvous must be made, subject to the approval of the Superintendent of the recruiting service, Col. J. D. Greene, 8th U. S. Infantry, Madison, Wis., and conform to provisions of G. O. No. 131, War Department. Transportation for companies or squads will be furnished upon application to this office.

VI. All communications pertaining to the organization of these forces, should be addressed to the Adjutant General, as the proper medium of communication with the Commander-in-chief.

The proposition on the part of the Governors of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa, to furnish extra men for service of one hundred days originated in an ardent desire on their part to put the success of the approaching campaign beyond question, and thus speedily crush the rebellion which has so long cursed our land; and although no one will be compelled to go upon this extra service, yet, believing that this will be the last great struggle; that the rebels are about to make a last desperate effort; that a heavy and well directed blow at this time may and probably will close the war, and save us much sacrifice in the future; the Governor hopes and desires to see Wisconsin add new glory to the fame she has already acquired, by promptly furnishing at least five thousand of her sons to take part in what he trusts will prove the decisive and closing campaign of the war.

No. 18. }

I. The failure of commanding officers of companies to furnish descriptive lists to men detailed from, or sent to hospital from their commands, has become a matter of serious complaint, involving, in numerous cases, much hardship and suffering. By request of, and authority from the War Department, the commanding officers of all companies of Wisconsin organizations, are hereby directed to forward at once, Descriptive Lists of all men transferred to the Veteran Reserve Corps, which have not been already furnished, to General J. B. Fry, Provost Marshal General, at Washington, D. C.

By order of the Governor :

AUG. GAYLORD,
Adjutant General.

HEADQUARTERS STATE OF WISCONSIN,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Madison, July 30, 1864.

General Orders, }
No. 14. }

Under the call of the President of the United States, dated July 18th, 1864, for 500,000 volunteers, the quota assigned to Wisconsin is 19,032. This number may be raised by voluntary enlistments in any of the old regiments or batteries, or in the Forty-second regiment of volunteer infantry hereby authorized. If the quota above given is not filled by voluntary enlistments, a draft is ordered by the General Government on the 5th day of September proximo, to supply the deficiency then existing.

The quotas of the several towns and wards in the State, under the call, will be assigned by the District Provost Marshals of the respective districts, and will be announced as soon as completed.

Authority having been given by the War Department for the organization of new regiments of infantry from this State, the Governor directs—

I. The immediate organization of a regiment to be designated as the Forty-second Regiment of Infantry, to serve for three years or the war, unless sooner discharged; the company and regimental organization to conform to the provisions of General Orders No. 110, series of 1863, from the War Department.

II. Appointments will be made by the Governor giving authority to recruit companies for this regiment, reserving the power to revoke such appointments, or to commission persons holding them in such positions as he shall deem just and proper. A Second Lieutenant will be commissioned and conditionally mustered for each company, under the provisions of General Orders No. 131, current series, from the War Department. Instructions from the Superintendent of Recruiting Service will be issued with each appointment, governing the service.

III. Volunteers in this regiment will receive the bounty provided by the General Government, of Three Hundred Dollars ($300); or for enlistment in either of the old regiments for the term of one, two or three years, the bounties of One hundred, Two hundred, or Three hundred dollars respectively, and those having families dependent will receive the benefits provided by the State from the War Fund.

IV. Volunteers in the old or new organizations will be credited to the various sub-districts of the State, which they may give as a residence at the time of enlistment.

V. The camp of rendezvous is hereby designated at Camp Randall in the city of Madison.

In again calling upon the State to contribute from her sons to fill the ranks of our army, the Governor remembers with pride the response which has ever been made to the call of the General Government and the evidence therein given that Wisconsin still maintains her place among the foremost in loyalty and devotion to the Union.

He again appeals with confidence to the unwearied patriotism of the people for a prompt response by voluntary enlistment to this call, with the hope that the new accessions thereby secured to our national forces shall result in the speedy overthrow of rebellion, the supremacy of the Government, and the establishment of peace and prosperity throughout all the land.

I. The re-organization of the Fifth Wisconsin Infantry under the following named officers, to wit:

Colonel—THOMAS S. ALLEN

Lieut. Colonel—ANDREW S. BENNETT.

Major—C. W. KEMPF.

Adjutant—

Quartermaster—ALEX. SAMUELS.

Surgeon—C. E. CRANE.

1st Ass't Surgeon—

2d Ass't Surgeon—

all officers of the old organization.

II. Seven companies will be recruited under existing regulations, which, with the three veteran companies now in service, will complete the regimental organization; the recruitment of these companies to be complete by Sept. 5th, otherwise the recruits to be formed into as many companies as the number will allow.

III. Recruiting appointments will be issued by the Governor to members of the old regiment, and to civilians, for recruiting this regiment, with the same provisions as those heretofore issued for new organizations. Instructions and enlistment blanks will be furnished on application to Lieut. Col. C. S. Lovell, Sup't Recruiting Service.

IV. Volunteers can enlist in this regiment for one, two or three years, and receive the bounties provided by the General Government, of one, two and three hundred dollars for each term respectively; and those having families dependent, the benefit of the bounty provided by the State from the War Fund.

V. Volunteers in this regiment will be credited to such sub districts of the State as they shall give as their residence at the time of enlistment.

VI. The camp of rendezvous is hereby designated at Camp Randall in Madison.

The correction of the enrollment of the State, as directed by the War Department, and re-assignment of the quota accordingly, will necessarily postpone the draft beyond the 5th inst., and give still farther time for sub-districts to fill their quotas by volunteering. The Governor is authorized to say that volunteers will be accepted and counted on the quotas of the present call up to the last practicable moment before the draft, and that the present bounties will be paid to such volunteers.

The corrected enrollment, and the credits obtained from the War Department, materially lessening the number to be raised from this State under the present call, together with the delay occasioned in making corrections, give ample opportunity for sub-districts to fill their quotas by voluntary enlistments.

Immediate and energetic action will accomplish the work, to which all are urgently advised.

I. Attention of the commanding officers of the organized militia companies of the State is hereby directed to the following section of the present militia law, to-wit :

"Section 24. It shall be the duty of each and every commanding officer of any organized company in this State, on or before the last Monday of April and September of each year, to muster his company, and to make out in triplicate, muster rolls, setting forth the names and number of the members of his company, the officers in the order of their rank, and the privates in alphabetical order, one of which muster rolls, duly certified, he shall transmit, through his commanding officer, to the Adjutant General of the State. He shall file one in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of his county, and he shall keep the other as a voucher for himself. If such company shall form a part of any organized battalion or regiment, the commanding officer thereof shall transmit the same, with a muster roll of the field and staff officers of his battalion or regiment, to the Adjutant General of the State. It shall also be the duty of every such commanding officer of a company, at the time of making said muster rolls, to make duplicate lists of all arms, accoutrements, ordnance and ordnance stores, and other property belonging to the State, in his possession, one of which lists duly certified, he shall transmit through his commanding officer to the Quartermaster General, and he shall keep the other as a voucher for himself. If such company shall form a part of an organized battalion or regiment, the commanding officer thereof shall transmit the same, with a list of all the military property of the State in his possession, to the Quartermaster General."

II. In the absence of the regimental officers, now on duty in the volunteer service, commandants of companies will transmit the copy of muster roll designed for this office, to the Adjutant General direct, and the lists of arms, ordnance, ordnance stores, and accoutrements designed for the Quartermaster General, to that officer direct, at Madison.

III. Blanks will be forwarded immediately, and officers in charge will report in obedience to the above requirement without delay, giving the actual condition of each company at the date of muster.

IV. In the absence of commissioned officers, the senior non-commissioned officer will be held to the performance of this duty.

Complaint is made of improper conduct on the part of recruiting officers in their endeavor to secure recruits, by the enlistment of drafted men, in some instances known to be such, and crediting with a residence other than that from which they were drafted, in order to secure a bounty as Volunteers. The following extract of a telegram from the War Department determines the position of the drafted man, to wit: "The man is holden by the draft, even if he has not received official notification, and his subsequent enlistment as a Volunteer does not release him." Such action on the part of recruiting officers must be stopped at once. Proof of antedated enlistments to secure such credits will forfeit the commission of the recruiting officer, and subject the volunteer to the penalty of being reported a deserter, and suffering accordingly, as provided in the twenty-second Article of War.

All bounties paid by the people of sub-districts to secure such credits, will, of course, be a loss, and they are, therefore, urgently advised against the purchase of such credits, without evidence that the recruit is not already a drafted man.

I. In publishing the following order from the President of the United States, the Governor, in behalf of the State, desires to add thereto an expression of thanks to the volunteers constituting the "one hundred day" regiments, for their alacrity in responding to the call for this special service, and for their efficient and faithful performance of a duty which has contributed to such grand results, reflecting such honor upon themselves and the State, and which is thus gratefully acknowledged by the Chief Executive of the nation:

"EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON CITY, D. C., October 1, 1864. }

"Special Executive order returning thanks to the Volunteers for one hundred days, from the States of Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin:

"The time of one hundred days, for which volunteers from the States of Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin volunteered, under the call of their respective Governors, in the months of May and June, to aid in the recent campaign of Gen. Sherman, having expired, the President directs an official acknowledgment to be made of their patriotic services. It was their good fortune to render efficient service in the south-west, and to contribute to the victories of the national arms over the rebel forces in Georgia under command of Johnston and Hood; and on all occasions and in every service to which they were assigned their duty as patriotic volunteers was performed with alacrity and courage, for which they are entitled, and are hereby tendered the national thanks, through the Governors of their respective States.

"The Secretary of War is directed to transmit a copy of this order to the Governors of Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin, and to cause a certificate of their valuable services to be delivered to the officers and soldiers of the States above named who recently served in the military force of the United States as volunteers for one hundred days."

(Signed)

ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
Quartermaster General of the State of Wisconsin,
FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING SEPTEMBER 30, 1864.

STATE OF WISCONSIN,
QUARTERMASTER GENERAL'S OFFICE,
MADISON, Oct 1st, 1864.

To His Excellency, JAMES T. LEWIS,
Governor and Commander-in-Chief:

SIR:—I have the honor to submit to your Excellency the report of the transactions of this department for the fiscal year, ending September 30th, 1864.

Very respectfully your ob't servant,
N. F. LUND,
Quartermaster General.

REPORT.

The duties required of the Quartermaster General as enumerated in section 2, chapter 407 of the General Laws of 1864, are as follows:

“The Quartermaster General shall discharge the customary duties of his office, and in addition thereto such duties as pertain to the office of Commissary General and Chief of Ordnance. He shall have the charge of the military property of the State, and it shall be his duty to carefully guard all such property as may at any time be in his possession, to repair, to preserve, and account for the same. He shall also keep an account of all moneys received and expended by him. The manner of keeping such accounts shall be directed by the Commander-in-Chief, and shall always be subject to his inspection. He shall, on or before the first day of October, in each year, make to the Governor, to be by him laid before the legislature, a report of all the transactions of his department since his last annual report, containing an account of all moneys received and expended by him, an account of all military property of every description belonging to the State, and remaining on hand at the date of his last annual report, together with such as may have come into his possession subsequently to such date, stating from what source the same had been received, to whom issued or how expended, and on whose order, with the condition of such property on hand; also, a statement exhibiting the possession and condition of all such military property as may have been issued under the military laws of this State, so far as the same may have been reported to him."

In making this, the fourth annual report of the department, the classification of my last report will be retained, and the transactions connected with will first be given.

The few claims against the State contracted under the laws of 1861-2, authorizing the raising and fitting out of volunteers for the service of the United States, and remaining unsettled at the date of my last annual report, have been presented and adjusted as appears in the following:

STATEMENT OF ACCOUNTS ALLOWED.

The total amount of accounts allowed, for which orders have been drawn on Paymaster General, is.....	$765 50
Of the above sum there has been allowed:
For camp equipage.....	$27 00
" equipment.....	123 00
" recruiting.....	72 00
" freight.....	36 11
" Milwaukee expense.....	8 00
" Camp Holton and Sigel.....	288 88
" First Regiment (three months' service).....	17 00
" expense (accounts for other offices).....	193 51
Total.....	$765 50

The property represented in the above accounts has been accounted for in former reports as issued to Wisconsin volunteers.

The claim of A. L. Kane, under his contract for the rent of grounds for Camp Sigel, has been settled in accordance with chapter 457 of the laws of 1864. The amount found to be due him was $288 88, which amount is included in the above "statement of accounts allowed."

I have no knowledge of the existence of any valid claim against the State contracted for the volunteer service which now remains unsettled. Should such claims exist, they can only be allowed under future legislation, as the law limiting to two years the time for presenting such claims would bar all further action by this department in relation to them. The books connected with this service have therefore been balanced and closed.

The following articles of equipage, purchased for fitting out Wisconsin troops, remain on hand, in my possession :

NUMBERS.	ARTICLES.	CONDITION.
4	Artillery guidons.....	New
114	Canteens, (condemned and samples,).....	do

The property issued to Volunteers during the year has been limited to re-supplying regiments with flags, to "replace those worn out or lost in the service," as authorized under chapter 215 of the laws of 1863 and chapter 248 of the laws of 1864.

On the 21st day of January, I received from the office of your Excellency the following flags, (which had been purchased prior to January 1st,) with orders to issue the same to the regiments for which they were intended, viz :

One National Flag for the Tenth Regiment.
 One National do do Eleventh do
 One State do do do do
 One National do do Twenty-seventh Regiment.

The following have been purchased by me since January 21st, on the requisitions of commanding officers and by your orders, viz :

One National Flag for the Twenty-eighth Regiment.
 One State do do do do
 One State Standard for the First Regiment Cavalry.
 One National Flag for the Sixteenth Regiment.
 One State do do do do

The battles in which the regiments had been engaged were in each instance inscribed on the national flag. The property has been issued to the regiments indicated, in compliance with your orders, and the vouchers for it are now on file in this office, with the exception of those for the last three named, which will doubtless soon be received. The purchase accounts for this property have been certified to the Secretary of State for audit, in accordance with the laws under which the expenditure has been made.

The old flags of the regiments re-supplied have nearly all been returned to the State. The following is the list of those now in my possession, viz :

National Flag of the First Regiment.

State Standard of the First Regiment Cavalry

The celebrated live eagle of the Eighth Regiment is now in my possession. The eagle was the property of company C, and was borne by them between the State and National colors through all the campaigns and battles of the regiment for three years. He was presented to the State in September last on the return and "muster out" of the non-veterans of the regiment by Capt. Victor Wolf, in behalf of the company and regiment.

I have also in my possession the following trophies, captured from the rebels, and sent to the State, by Wisconsin Volunteer Regiments, viz :

One 6-pounder S. B. Bronze Field Gun, with carriage, captured by the 14th Regiment at the "battle of Shiloh."

Two Regimental Flags with Stuffs complete, captured by the 15th Regiment at Island No. 10.

One Cavalry Guidon with Staff complete, captured by the 15th Regiment at Union City, Ky.

One Battle Flag, captured by Private Rice, company H, 1st Regiment, at the "battle of Chaplin Hills."

One Battle Flag, captured by Private R. M. Clark, company F, 11th Regiment, at Big Black River Bridge.

One Storm Flag, captured by the 17th Regiment at Fort Beauregard, Vicksburg.

One Regimental and one Battle Flag, captured by the 29th Regiment in the rear of Vicksburg, during the siege.

One Lance and one Pike, captured by the 27th Regiment at Little Rock.

One Battle Flag, captured by Wagoner John Wolhaupt and Private Wm. Ohler, company B, 9th Regiment, at the "battle of Jenkins' Ferry."

One Flag Staff, captured by the 7th Veteran Regiment, on the Weldon Railroad.

The above gives the only record I have of the captured trophies; I only regret that it is not more complete.

The Old Flags of our Regiments, whenever received, have been found torn and shattered by shot and shell—often, all that remained of them being a few "honorable rags." They have been put in the best possible condition that could be devised for their preservation.

These trophies, with those captured from the hands of rebels, attest the daring and courage of Wisconsin soldiers. Each has its history, of the patriotic devotion and self-sacrifice of those who fought and died defending or capturing it, and in returning them to their State, the heroes of Wisconsin have placed in her keeping, the noblest record that can exist, of the bravery of her sons. Thousands have visited them during the past season. This fact alone exhibits the interest attached to them by the people; and I trust a fitting place will soon be provided, where they can be properly preserved.

Upon the return to the State of Regiments, Companies and Batteries of Wisconsin Volunteers on veteran furlough, or on the expiration of their term of service, receptions and entertainments have been provided for them by this department, (whenever notice of their coming has been received,) on the order of your Excellency, as authorized under the provisions of chapter 143, of the laws of 1864. All accounts of expenditures for this purpose have been certified to the Secretary of State for audit; and in no instance has that expenditure exceeded the sum authorized under the act. Much credit is due to the several proprietors of the Railroad Hotel in this city, for the promptness with which they have at all times furnished ample entertainments of excellent quality for our returning troops. It has frequently occurred that commands have arrived during the night; having passed days without other food than the slight ration from the haversack, and that supply often exhausted,—when, but for the provision made by the State, no food could have been procured for hours. Under such circumstances, the hot coffee and bountiful supply of warm meats and vegetables provided, have been most timely and acceptable, and the thanks of officers and men have been freely given to the State, for thus caring for them. I trust this wise provision of the Legislature may be continued until Wisconsin's last volunteer shall have returned to his home. Should anything farther be required, let the appropriation be increased, and the care and honor to be shown our soldiers correspondingly increased. The debt due for their sacrifices may be acknowledged,—to discharge it is impossible.

THE STATE MILITIA.

The transactions connected with this service have been exclusively confined to the Ordnance Department. The accounts and statements herewith appended, exhibit in full these transactions.

"Account A," accounts for the money received by me; being the proceeds of the sale of lumber from the building at Camp Randall, which was fitted up in 1763 for the storage of ordnance. The lumber was sold on the order of your immediate predecessor, Governor Salomon, at its original cost.

"Account B," gives in detail the property that has been received during the year; the greater portion being that returned by the State Militia. That received from the United States on the "quota of arms," was the balance due on the quota of 1863. The United States' ordnance and stores, received from H. I. Curtice, commanding the post at Superior, was "turned over" to the State on the breaking up of that post, by order of Major General Pope, commanding the department, for the protection of the inhabitants of the frontier against the Indians; and is at present in the possession of Captain Washington Ashton, of the "Douglas County Guards," W. S. M.

"Account C," gives in detail the property issued during the year, with the names of the officers and persons to whom it has been issued. The proper bonds and receipts for it have been received and filed in conformity to the Militia Laws, and the property has, in all cases, been issued on the order of the Commander-in-Chief.

"Property Account D," exhibits by items the aggregate amount of each article of property on hand October 1st, 1863, with that subsequently received; the amount issued and expended, and the balance remaining on hand October 1st, 1864. I have not deemed it essential to give a detailed statement of the property remaining on hand October 1st, 1863, as it can readily be found should it be required, by reference to the Property Account in my last Annual Report.

"Statement E," shows the condition of the ordnance stores and arms remaining on hand at the present date.

"Statement F," exhibits the possession of the property which yet remains issued under the Military Laws of the State, together with its present condition, as far as reported to me in the Semi-Annual "Lists of arms, accoutrements, ordnance and stores," which under section 24 of the Militia Law, commanders of companies are required to make on or before the last Monday of September. It will appear on examination, that in a majority of instances no reports have been received. Blanks were forwarded at the proper dates to commanders of companies, for making the "lists," in April and September, but in a large number of cases, the property of the companies has not been reported upon during the year.

"Statement G," gives a recapitulation of the ordnance, arms and military stores belonging to the State.

"Armory Account H," shows in detail the materials and tools purchased and expended, with those remaining on hand October 1st, 1864. The number of muskets, rifled muskets and rifles, repaired and cleaned during the year, amounts to 1,525. This work is all performed without the aid of machinery of any kind, and when the condition in which the arms have been returned to the State is considered, the result is most satisfactory. After being put in good condition, all arms have been properly packed for storage or shipment. I have given daily attention to the work at the armory; but the immediate care of the ordnance, arms and stores, as well as of the repairs, inspection and shipment, has been under the charge of Mr. J. H. McFarland, as Armorer; and most faithfully has he performed all duties required of him. A gunsmith has also been employed during most of the year. All accounts for materials and labor at the armory, and for freights and expenses on arms and stores received and issued, have been examined and certified by me for audit.

The necessity for a State Arsenal, becomes each year, more evident. It is needless to add to the reasons given in my last annual report, showing this necessity; and I will only submit the following statement. As was anticipated at the date of that report, the buildings in use at Camp Randall for the storage of ordnance, were very soon required by the United States for the use of troops encamped there. The Superintendent of Public Property found it impossible to obtain room of sufficient capacity for storing the ordnance; and guns, carriages and caissons have been kept in the Capitol park and at the camp, with only a temporary covering of boards.

I am still under obligations to Capt. N. B. Nan Slyke, A. Q. M. U. S. A., for the privilege of storing the "fixed ammunition" belonging to the State, at Camp Randall.

Of the necessity for a thoroughly organized and efficient State Militia, it is unnecessary to speak. It is a proposition too plain to be argued. But few, comparatively, of the citizens of the State compose the Militia; and it should not be expected of them to maintain the organization, and bear all its burdens without compensation. I have only to add, that after nearly two years of experience under the present military laws; and seeing of late the almost universal desire of commanders and bondsmen to return the arms of companies to the State; I am forced to the conviction, that the State Militia is a total and irremediable failure under our present inadequate laws.

Respectfully submitted,

N. F. LUND,

Quartermaster General.

Statement showing the Condition of the Ordnance, Arms and Military Property remaining on hand at the Armory October 1st, 1864.

Property account ("D") exhibits separately each item of property remaining on hand at Armory, classified under the heads of "serviceable" and "unserviceable."

The ordnance and ordnance stores for artillery, the equipments, appendages and ammunition for infantry and riflemen are in good condition, ready for issuing, (excepting the small amounts classed as "unserviceable,") much of the property being new.

Of the small arms classed as "serviceable," a part require to be thoroughly cleaned, and a small number to be slightly repaired.

The small arms classed as "unserviceable" are in the worst possible condition, being broken and damaged in every conceivable manner. Very few of them can ever be sufficiently repaired to be made serviceable.

The following schedule represents the present condition of the small arms on hand :

Muskets, Rifled Muskets and Rifles.	Number.	Total.
In good condition, ready for issuing.....	1,023	2,266
To be cleaned and repaired.....	667
Unserviceable.....	576
Swords and Sabers.
In good condition, ready for issuing.....	64	138
To be cleaned and repaired.....	50
Unserviceable.....	24

THIRTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
TRUSTEES OF THE WISCONSIN INSTITUTE
FOR THE EDUCATION OF THE DEAF AND DUMB,
FOR THE YEAR 1864.

RULES OF ADMISSION OF PUPILS, ETC.

1. All the deaf and dumb of the state, between the ages of twelve and twenty-five years, are entitled to an education, without charge for board or tuition, in this Institution, upon compliance with the rules. No certificate of any kind is required for admission. Persons, however, desirous of placing a pupil in the school, should write to the superintendent, informing him of the name, age, and residence of the mute; the cause, if known, of deafness, &c. The superintendent will immediately answer, stating the time when the pupil will be received. This course is, in all cases, recommended, though none will be refused who come, at the commencement of the session. Applications in behalf of persons more or less than the required age, will be considered by the trustees, who reserve to themselves the right to accept or reject such applicants as they may deem just and proper.
2. Pupils from other states are received at the rate of one hundred dollars per annum, for board and tuition.
3. The length of the course of instruction is five years; and that the students may become more proficient in their studies, they are allowed and advised to remain one year more. At the end of six years, the superintendent may select such pupils as he may consider would be particularly benefitted by continuing longer at school; and if approved by the board of trustees, they shall be permitted to remain an additional year.
4. Pupils will be admitted on the following conditions: 1st. The pupil, well provided with clothes, is to be brought to the institution punctually, at the commencement of each session, for the period of five years, unless detained at home by his or her sickness. 2d. The pupil is to remain in the school until the last Wednesday in June of each year. 3d. No parent or guardian shall be allowed to take a pupil out of the school without the consent of the board of trustees.

5. It is the intention of the trustees to render the Institution self-supporting, as far as practicable, and that every pupil, on leaving its walls, shall be so proficient in some useful occupation, or trade, as to be able to procure a livelihood, without reliance on the charities of others. In accordance with this design, all the scholars will be required to labor a portion of each day; the girls performing the lighter kinds of housework, and in various kinds of needlework, as plain sewing, ornamental work, dressmaking, or millinery, &c.; and the boys at various trades, the necessary work about the Institute, and the cultivation of the farm and garden.

6. The annual sessions of the school continue ten months, commencing on the first Wednesday in September, and closing on the last Wednesday of June. Every pupil is to come promptly on or before the first day of the session, and is to remain until the last of the same. The only exceptions allowed are cases of sickness, or where leave of absence in writing has been granted, either by the Principal, or in case of the absence of the Principal, the Professor to whom he has delegated the power.

7. No pupil, unless under extraordinary circumstances, can be received at any other time than the commencement of the session.

8. Parents and guardians are required, if possible, to furnish annually, to each pupil, the following supply of clothing:

FOR MALE PUPILS.

WINTER CLOTHING.

2 or 3 coats,	1 pair of boots,
2 or 3 vests,	2 pairs of shoes,
2 or 3 pairs of pantaloons,	2 hats, or 1 hat and 1 cap,
5 shirts,	2 pairs of drawers,
2 flannel shirts,	2 pairs of mittens or gloves.
5 pairs of socks,

Also, for small boys, three or four check or gingham sacks or aprons.

SUMMER CLOTHING.

2 coats,	2 pairs of pantaloons,
2 vests,	1 palm-leaf hat.

ADDITIONAL ARTICLES.

2 ivory combs,	2 pairs suspenders,
2 pairs wooden combs.	4 pocket handkerchiefs.

FOR FEMALE PUPILS.

3 or 4 calico dresses,	2 night gowns,
2 woollen or worsted dresses,	3 pairs of shoes, 1 pair rubbers,
1 Sunday and 1 sun bonnet,	3 or more changes underclothing,
4 pocket h'dkerchiefs, and 1 hood,	2 woollen sacks (colored) or 2 cotton
3 pairs of summer stockings,	flannel underwaists.
4 pairs winter stockings.

Instead of the sacks, little girls might be provided with aprons with long sleeves, and made to come up well on the neck.

ADDITIONAL ARTICLES.

1 shawl or cloak,	1 pair of mittens,
1 coarse and 2 ivory combs,	1 hair brush,
2 hair combs.

In addition to the above outfit, a sum not less than $8 is to be deposited with the Superintendent for incidental expenses.

9. It is not intended that the clothing should be of an expensive kind. For boys' winter apparel, plain, home-made cloth is sufficiently good. For summer wear, country linen will answer for pants, with some kind of dark goods or prints for coats and vests. Light-colored cloth should not be used for the boys' outside garments—it soils so readily and requires so much washing. Girls' calico dresses may be made of a cheap article, which will not fade; and while for older girls, at least one pair of morocco shoes should be furnished, one or both, the other pairs should be of good calfskin. On all articles of clothing which it is possible to mark, the full name of the pupil should be written with indelible ink. For socks and woolen articles, the name can be written on strong, heavy tape, and then sewed on. The woolen sacks, and cotton flannel undershirts, included in the list of clothing for female pupils, are very necessary in cold weather, not only for comfort, but as preventives of colds and coughs. Dresses for winter should always be made to come up well on the neck. Each pupil should be supplied with a trunk or chest.

10. Those persons bringing pupils or taking them away, cannot be furnished with board, lodging or horse keeping at the Institute.

11. All business letters, or letters of inquiry in regard to pupils in the Institute, or those whom it may be designed to place there, should be addressed to Report of the Board of Trustees of the Wisconsin Institute for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb.

Governor of the State of Wisconsin,
To His Excellency, James T. Lewis,

I have the honor to present to you herewith the Thirtieth Annual Report of the Board of Trustees of the Wisconsin Institute for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
N. M. HARRINGTON,
Secretary.

RECEIVED OCT 17 1884

SURGEON'S REPORT.

To the Board of Trustees of the Wisconsin Institute

For the Education of the Deaf and Dumb :

GENTLEMEN : — During the year which has elapsed, since I resumed the duties of Physician to the Institute, the sanitary condition of the pupils has been such as to furnish few data for special report.

In the month of December, five inmates of the Institution suffered from endemic pneumonia, the attack being nearly simultaneous upon the whole number. All recovered and were able to resume study after a suspension of three or four weeks.

In March, Alfred W. Goold, by accident, fell into a cauldron of hot water, severely scalding the right arm, side and breast. From the effects of this he did not recover sufficiently to return to school during the term.

Aside from the above mentioned cases, we have had the usual modicum of transient and chronic ailments, concerning which, it is unnecessary to report in detail.

The same assiduous efforts for the preservation of the health and physical and mental vigor of the pupils, as well as for their comfort when suffering from sickness, which has been a characteristic feature in the domestic management of the Institution still obtains in an eminent degree.

Respectfully submitted,

G. H. BRIGGS,

Physician to Institute, &c.

DELAVER, Oct. 1, 1864.

Received for incidental expenses of pupils, (see cash book, pages —).....	270 22
Received from cabinet shop, (see for items, cash book, page —).....	36 04
Received also from cabinet shop, (see for items, cash book, page —).....	11 50
	<hr/>
	$18,141 04

DISBURSEMENTS.

Balance to my credit at settlement one year ago, (see cash book, page 35).....	$1,748 26
Expended since that time, as appears from the 215 bills and vouchers herewith presented, a schedule of which is appended.....	16,245 01
	<hr/>
Balance in my hands.....	$17,993 27
	$147 77

Indebtedness of Current Fund at present time, after deducting amount in hand, is $857.28. This indebtedness had actually accrued before the beginning of the current year. No appropriation was granted for its payment at that time; and it still remains with no prospect of our being able to liquidate it until special provision is made for it by the Legislature..

INDIGENT PUPILS' FUND.

Balance in hand at last settlement, (see cash book, page 43).....	$98 58
Received of A. G. Ray, on order No. 20, the appropriation of 1864.....	307 00
Received from indigent pupils and their friends.....	32 29
	<hr/>
Expended as per 11 bills and vouchers herewith presented, a schedule of which is appended.....	$430 82
	<hr/>
Balance on hand.....	218 56
	$217 26

N. B. The above balance will be sufficient to provide for the indigent pupils the remaining six months of the appropriation year.

Respectfully submitted,

J. S. OFFICER,

DELAVER, Sept. 1st, 1864.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

To the Hon. the Legislature of the State of Wisconsin:

The Trustees, in submitting to your Honorable Body, their Thirteenth Annual Report of the Wisconsin Institute for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb, desire to congratulate the Legislature and public, on the sound and solid progress of the Institute for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb in its various departments; and to assure the Legislative branch of our State Government, that it was never more prosperous, strong, able and energetic, than at the present period of its history.

Eighty pupils have been in attendance during the past year. There has been expended since the last Annual Report, $18,811 66. There is due from the State, on appropriation of 1864, $3,000. Should there not be a material rise in the various articles used in and about the Institute, this amount may carry us through the Steward's financial year, without leaving any indebtedness for the current year. There is now an indebtedness of $758, which occurred in the two last quarters of the previous financial year: such was the advance in prices of supplies, that it was impossible to make the old appropriation meet the current expenses. The Trustees ask the Legislature to make an appropriation to meet this deficiency.

The last Legislature made an appropriation of $500 for additional barn room. At the time this appropriation was asked for, the estimates were based upon the prices of building materials as they then existed. Since that time, every thing used in building has more than doubled in price, and the Trustees find they are now indebted for building materials, labor, &c., $600, and ask an appropriation to pay the same.

The wants of the Institute require the erection of an outbuilding for the girls, and ask an appropriation of $800 for that purpose.

For the support of indigent pupils, the Legislature made an appropriation of $300 last year; this year an appropriation of $400 will be necessary for the same purpose. This sum is used to clothe pupils whose parents are not able to make them comfortable at the Institute.

For the support of the school for the next financial year, an appropriation of $20,196 will be required as per estimates of the Steward, herewith inserted:

Amount needed for current expenses.....	$19,096 00
do do indigent pupils.....	400 00

These estimates are based upon present prices. Should there be an advance, the appropriations will either have to be increased, or there will be a deficiency at the end of the year.

The Trustees have for several years past, called the attention of the legislature to the necessity of the completion of the Transverse and Lateral wings on the west side of the main or centre building. They have asked for such an appropriation as would erect the walls, and enclose them. The year following, another appropriation would be required, for inside work: the third year would require a further appropriation for the completion of the buildings, suitable for occupation: this would allow three years to erect and finish the buildings. By pursuing this course, the appropriations would be less burdensome to the tax-payers, yearly, and would no doubt secure more durable and substantial buildings. Until these wings are erected and completed, a portion of the Deaf and Dumb of the State will be deprived of the benefits of the Institute, at the age they should enter it.

In the Trustees' last Annual Report, they said "our State has been blessed with an abundant harvest, and, they see no reason why the imperative wants of the Deaf and Dumb should not be cared for." The past year having been so unfavorable to the prosperity of our state, and the large amount of local taxes raised to furnish volunteers for the defence of our country, the Trustees do not urge the appropriations for the completion of the 'Lateral and Transverse wings,' and the heating arrangements as they would under other and more favorable circumstances.

The Trustees ask the Legislature to visit the Institute, and make a thorough examination of the management of its several departments.

For the sanitary condition of the pupils of the Institute for the past year, the Trustees would refer you to the report of the physician, published herewith.

For a detailed exhibit of the expenditures, you are referred to the report of the Steward and Secretary.

The wants of the Deaf and Dumb are second to no class in our state; and the Trustees ask the Legislature to consider the importance of providing liberally for their education, in whose behalf they now appeal to your Honorable body.

In conclusion, the Trustees desire to offer a brief tribute to the memory of a former inmate of the Institute. During the past year the Institute has suffered a great loss in the death of Mrs. M. L. Officer, wife of the Principal. The purity and elevation of her character; the beautiful example of her daily life, speaking so impressively and benignly a language, understood alike by the hearing and the deaf mute; her lively and practical interest in all that pertained to the welfare of the pupils personally, and the Institution at large, have rendered her connection with it, of an importance which can be known only by reckoning the worth of moral, intellectual and social advancement.

TRUSTEES' REPORT.

To His Excellency, JAMES T. LEWIS, Governor of Wisconsin :

In compliance with the laws of the State, the Trustees of the "Wisconsin State Hospital for the Insane" herewith respectfully submit their report for the year ending September 30th, 1864 :

At the date of our last report the sum of $2,105.48 remained in the Hospital Treasury unexpended. Since that date the further sum of $42,500 has been received from the State Treasury, and $50 from other sources, making a total of $44,655.48.

Drawn from the Treasury of the Hospital on the order of the Superintendent and Secretary the sum of $38,622.37, leaving at the date of this report $5,993.11.

Before the time for the annual meeting of the Legislature, this balance will all be expended in purchasing coal, wood, and other supplies, for the use of the hospital. We have endeavored to maintain the strictest economy in our expenditures consistent with that liberal and enlightened philanthropy which we hope ever to see extended towards that unfortunate class over which we are called to preside.

The farm connected with the hospital increases annually in productiveness. The labor being supplied principally from the inmates, while it reduces expenses, serves to divert the minds of patients from the secluded life they would otherwise lead while in the wards. Employment of some kind is considered one of the greatest auxiliaries towards the restoration of diseased minds. We hope with each successive year to present still further improvements.

During the year, 112 patients have been admitted, viz., 59 males and 53 females. The total number that have enjoyed the benefits of the hospital during the year is 300.

At the semi-annual meeting of the board, we instructed the Superintendent to discharge a sufficient number of the incurable cases to make room for all new and recent ones. Under the instructions given, the Superintendent discharged 25. These discharged patients were from those counties that had an excess of their just proportion in the hospital.

Since sending home those old and chronic cases of insanity, all new and recent ones have been received. Here the thought arises: Are we doing what we should and might do for the large number of incurably insane all over our State?

While our buildings are crowded to their largest working capacity, there are a large number of violent lunatics confined in jails, others of a more quiet nature, kept in poor houses. These are a charge upon the several counties. With the increase of our population, in a short time, all the really incurable cases now inmates of our hospital, will necessarily have to be returned to their friends, or to the counties sending them there, to make room for the treatment of new cases. Our institution was designed for a Hospital and not an Asylum. It is of the first importance to cure insanity. When found incurable, it should be the aim of our Christian philanthropy to afford a place of security and retreat where all who are deprived of reason may be kindly cared for. As a matter of economy we think it cheaper for the State to provide for all its insane by the erection of suitable buildings at once, where they can be cared for and the donations relieved of the expense. As a matter of humanity, the expense should not be thought of, when the great benefits are so obvious. Who would bear the thought that an insane friend, (father or son for instance,) was chained to the floor of a cell in one of our county jails, with no hope of the light of reason ever again brightening his life's journey; but to go down to the tomb in darkness. Yet, most of these hopeless maniacs have their friends, and amid the excitement and revolutions of our day, we know not who, or how many may be stricken down. We have no means of knowing how many of the class we are now speaking of there are in the State. The Superintendent, in his report, refers to 21 in one county. There are many yet remaining in the hospital who will have to be removed before many months.

We urge upon the Legislature the importance of taking early steps toward the establishment of an asylum where all the incurably insane may be cared for.

At the date of our last report, Dr. J. P. Clement had proffered his resignation, to take effect January 1st, which was adopted by the Board of Trustees. From January 1st, to April 20th, the hospital was in charge of J. W. Sawyer, the Acting Physician, who was appointed by the Board Acting Superintendent. Dr. Sawyer discharged his duties to our entire satisfaction.

At our semi-annual meeting, Dr. A. H. Van Norstrand was elected Superintendent. We feel that in the selection of this gentleman we have secured one who, with great medical skill and experience in his profession, combines energy of character and business qualifications that eminently qualify him for the position. We refer you to his report herewith appended for valuable suggestions, and also for the practical workings of the institution placed under his charge.

The appended reports of the Treasurer and Superintendent set forth a detailed statement of expenditures during the year.

The expenditures of the hospital up to the time of the assembling of the Legislature, will exceed our estimate made last year. This is a consequence of the advanced price of most of the supplies necessary for its use, as well as the increased number of patients during the year. The cost of maintaining patients since the first organization of the institution in 1861 has been gradually decreased from $4.59 per week in 1861 to $3.57 in '64. And this has been done notwithstanding the great increase of prices.

One of the great needs of the hospital is a suitable library. A large number of the patients have a taste for reading. A suitable library would afford them both amusement and recreation, and we would respectfully suggest to the Legislature the propriety of appropriating a few hundred dollars annually for the purchase of suitable books, periodicals, &c.

At the annual meeting of our Board the Executive Committee were instructed to purchase a suitable tract outside the hospital grounds for a cemetery for the use of the institution. The place now used for that purpose is in plain view of the inmates while out of doors, as well as in sight from the windows of the west wing. In the spring, the bodies of all interred in the present cemetery, will be removed to a new location.

It is a cause of much gratification that we are now able to speak of the success of our institution in all its parts. Our apparatus for warming is in good order, and comes up to the fullest requirements of the building. We shall continue to improve the farm as a vegetable garden, and confidently anticipate that it will yield a full supply for all our wants.

We have a corps of officers in charge in whom is placed entire confidence, and little doubt is now entertained by the Board that the "Wisconsin State Hospital for the Insane" will soon rank with the oldest and best of other states, in its success and adaptation, to meet the wants of the age. Our public charities are our noblest works, and none more noble than the one placed in charge of this Board.

We commend it to the attention of the Legislature and invite the closest scrutiny into our official acts, and respectfully ask an appropriation of $40,000 to defray current expenses the coming year, and $10,000 to pay deficit to January 1, 1865.

H. H. GILES, President.

F. S. LAWRENCE, Secretary.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the Trustees of the Wisconsin State Hospital for the Insane.

GENTLEMEN: Another official year of this Institution has passed, and it is my duty to make the Fifth Annual Report, the performance of which I approach with much diffidence, after having well considered the importance of the duties you have placed in my hands and the avidity with which the people of this State, who have friends here; or whom they desire to place here, will examine and discuss it. I shall rely on the generosity of your character if you should find a barrenness of interest in this, my first report, and expect you will consider that I have had but a few months in which to make myself acquainted with the duties of conducting one of the most important benevolent institutions of our State.

A few of the people of this State have said to you in time past and perhaps are saying the same thing at present, that the institution was hardly accomplishing what they expected of it; that it was not equal to the Utica or some other Asylum that they have known in the east, which have been organized and ably conducted for a quarter or half a century. Now it is well understood by those who have spent their lives in the care of the insane, that the maximum per cent. of cures is not reached for some twenty or twenty-five years from the organization of a hospital, for the obvious reason that when it is first opened to the public, all the cases at that time in the State seek its benefits, without regard to the time which has elapsed since their occurrence or the cause of the disease. The institution is at once filled with cases of from a few months to twenty or more years standing, some epileptic, some idiotic, and some who have already passed through a thorough treatment in some other institution and been discharged incurable. With this unpromising class of patients all new State institutions commence their onward and toilsome career; they do not get freed from this incubus upon their prosperity in less than twenty years; therefore I feel that if the people were fully conversant with this matter, they would not expect so much of our new institution as from those of greater age. Their maximum of cures cannot be reached the first fifteen years, but their climax of usefulness, in relieving the misery and sufferings of this large class of the awfully unfortunate, may be reached in a much less time.

I feel that a conscientious Superintendent of a new institution may solace himself with the amount of suffering he is relieving, although his per cent. of cure is small; but that has not been the case with your hospital. The per cent. of recoveries in this hospital for the last year compares favorably with institutions of its kind in this country and in Europe. I find the average per cent. of recoveries in fifty-four insane institutions of the fol-

Organic disease of brain.....	4
Phthisis.....	4
Exhaustion from Chronic Mania.....	4
Exhaustion from Acute Mania.....	3
General Paralysis.....	2

This entire exemption from the endemic and epidemic diseases of the country can be attributed to the thorough ventilation of our house, excellent drainage, plain but wholesome diet, and regular exercise of our patients.

In accordance with instructions from your board at your semi-annual meeting in April last, I discharged twenty-five of the incurable cases in order to enable us to receive the occurring recent cases,—they were distributed pro rata to those counties that had an excess here,—this reduced the number from 201 to 176, which is within four of the largest working capacity of the house. In carrying out these instructions, we have been enabled to receive every recent case that has applied, but we have been compelled to decline many chronic cases and many violent epileptics, a duty very reluctantly performed. The friends of many of those removed, and of those who sought admission, offered to pay liberally if they could respectively be retained or received, but the room was needed for curable cases, and we were compelled to say, that if the legislature gave us more room, there would be hope in the future. This last sentence brings me to a subject that has been much discussed by that portion of the public who have visited and corresponded with us during the year, viz: Enlargement of our house, so as to furnish room for all the insane within our state,—at least those who are generally or periodically violent, or those who have recently become subjects of the disease; most of this class that are not now provided for here, are inmates of our jails and poor houses, and as a matter of course, a public charge. Now if the public must provide for such cases, is it not more economical to do it at a place specially devoted to that purpose?

But is there not a higher and more worthy view to be taken of this matter, by us, as a Christian people. We can alleviate the miseries and sufferings of this large class of our fellow beings much better in an institution of this character, than is possible in the receptacles above named.—Where is the affectionate father or mother, whether rich or poor, that would consent, if possible to avoid it, to place an insane son or daughter in the tender mercies of a jailor or keeper of a poor-house? In the former to suffer from the cold and damp, and also from association with the vile and wicked, and in the latter from neglect and filth, as is too often the case. I am credibly informed that in one bed room in the poor-house of one of the wealthiest counties in the state, there are three insane females chained to the floor or bedstead, never taken out to walk, or ride, or exercise. In another wealthy county, their quarters are less ventilated and more filthy than an ordinary stable, one of the inmates being chained up in the barn for a long time because she was noisy—possibly she was much more comfortable there than her companions were in the rooms provided by the county. In either case does it not call for a stern expression of public sentiment and a larger provision of Hospital room? In one county, I am informed there are now confined in its jail and poor house, twenty-one insane persons. In 1860, as shown by the United States census, there were in our state 283 insane persons and 257 idiots, in all 540. The great excitement from commercial and political revolution since that time must have largely increased the former class. But should there have been no increase in the last four years, it is very evident that our Insane Hospital is only affording protection to one out of three of these suffering human beings, or more exactly 31.5 per cent. of the whole number. Now as a rule the people must support these persons, either by private or public effort,—if they must be supported by the public, it should be done in such manner as will be most economical and best answer the benevolent wishes of a generous and enlightened people. I trust that I need not say that there is no other way to do this so well as in a well regulated Hospital or Asylum.

We have steadily carried forward the improvements since the last annual report. We have built 423 feet of the open sewer and 890 feet of covered drain, thereby effectually disposing of the surface water at the back of the house, also the unsightly bank of earth in the rear of the building has been nicely graded and sodded to the extent of 2000 square feet,—the clay has been removed to the depth of four inches, from the carriage way, both in front and rear of the house, and broken stone and gravel put in its place, making a beautiful and permanent road. We have made a new drive for carriages from the public highway to the house and thence to the barn, 1630 feet in length, and covered 1390 feet of it with broken stone. We have set out near one hundred dollars worth of fruit trees of the different varieties usually found in orchards and gardens. We have a fine lot of willows and evergreens ready to set this fall on the borders of the new carriage way. We have put up one of Fairbanks' four ton platform scales by which we expect to avoid paying $15 to $30 dollars a year for weighing coal, and also the very disagreeable necessity of buying hay and cattle at "guess weight," a method usually much to the disadvantage of the buyer, also in many ways well known to farmers and business men, we expect it to be useful. We have protected the bank of the lake referred to in the last annual report, by a strong sea wall, and shall hereafter expect to see no more encroachments by water, in that direction. We have built a stone walk from the laundry to the engine room, a work very much needed. We have also built a stone coal house at the side of the engine house, that will hold 300 tons of coal; and one at the depot in Madison, of plank and boards, that will hold 250 tons, thereby avoiding the necessity of unloading the coal, on its arrival, on the ground and exposing it to depredations and the elements. By its use we also expect to be able to move a large portion of it with our own teams, saving thereby enough to more than pay the cost of the building, the first year,—it is built in such a way as to be taken down with little or no injury to the lumber. We have also effectually cleared the ground in the enclosure, about the house, of boulders, to the extent of over 400 loads. We have commenced to grub out and remove decaying and dead trees from the lawn and pasture, some of which were dangerous to the stock frequenting the grounds, the wood of which we needed very much, in the present scarcity and high price of fuel. We have made an open ditch 89 rods in length, from the head of the marsh to the bayou on the border of the lake, thereby rendering many acres of land subject to future use. We found, by observation, that many of the smaller pipes about the house, by use of well water, became filled with mineral matter, mostly carbonate of lime, in two months, so as to be useless; the flues to our boilers become coated in the same manner, so much as to render it impossible to generate a sufficient amount of steam, thereby defeating the great object in expenditure of fuel, and also greatly increasing the consumption. These facts induced me to incur the expense of another cistern, which we have just finished; its capacity is 680 barrels, making in all cistern capacity of 2,710 barrels, receiving all the water falling on our house, a sufficiency to supply the engine, laundry and kitchens; the cisterns being all connected by syphons, so that one pump will empty the whole of them and supply the boilers as quietly as any operation in nature is accomplished.

From actual test it was found that our heating apparatus was defective; it did not give us a reliable supply of heat, the third story being uncomfortably warm so as to render it necessary to open the windows, while the first story was so cold as to be uncomfortable to the patients; the colder the weather and the more effort was made to warm the house, the more impossible it appeared of remedy.

In August we commenced a thorough overhauling of the whole thing. We found some flues entirely stopped up, others going up through the walls of the house and pouring a constant stream of hot air into the garret and thence to the upper part of the ventilating shaft, spending its genial influence on the surrounding country. We also found near 150 of the flues which convey warm air, ending by open mouths 8 by 10 inches square in the bed-rooms of the different wards, those supplying the rooms of the third being of the same dimensions as those of the first story. Now it is well understood that the longest flue, other things being equal, has the greatest draft, the consequence was as before stated, the patients in the upper story uncomfortably warm, those on the lower floor suffering from cold. To remedy all this we have sounded all the flues, removed all rubbish, shut off those which gave their genial warmth to the unappreciating outside world, and at an expense of $72 89, besides our own work, supplied the mouths of the flues to the different rooms with iron doors, and to prevent interference by the patients supplied each door with a lock; thus controlling effectually the supply of warmth to the different stories and rooms. We now feel that we can meet the approaching rigorous winter with a smile, fully confident of the ability to keep our patients from suffering. The sitting room of the lower male ward was useless by reason of the iron guards not being sufficiently strong to prevent the escape of patients, some of the worst cases also causing great destruction of glass; to prevent this and avail ourselves of the use of the room, I purchased, of Mauran & Tuck, of Boston, some strong wire screens which have been placed on the inside of the windows, effectually preventing the accidents referred to.

Our farm is slowly approaching a good state of cultivation. We have raised all the vegetables which have been used in the house this season, and have had abundance. I think, with few exceptions, we shall have enough till we again receive them from the soil, and though the season has been an unfavorable one, we feel that the farm will be at ordinary market rates a source of profit of near $2,000—the exact figures cannot be given till April 1st, 1865, the account of Dr. and Cr. being opened, April, 1, 1864.

In this estimate no charge has been made against the farm for labor of patients, who have really performed two-thirds of the labor on the fields, and also on the improvements, that have been made the past year; they and all the work of making and mending, except the assistance of one have also done much of the work about the laundry, engine room, kitchen, seamstress. The labor has been of much physical benefit to the patients, and in many cases the mental benefit has been equally as great.

We have had the amusements and entertainments usually enjoyed by patients at such institutions, viz.: afternoon and evening tea parties in the Matron's and also in the Superintendents's rooms, services in the chapel as often as convenient, masquerades, dancing, singing in the grove, carriage and sleigh rides, skating parties, boat rides, circus, gymnastic and calisthenic exercises, billiards, bagatelle, walks, swings, cards, checkers, chess, backgammon, dominoes, books, papers, magazines, &c.

The donations to the Institution are hardly equal to those made to our Eastern neighbors. The Rev Mr. Johnson, of Madison, and Rev. Mr. Delany, of Portage, have given us a Sunday religious service. Rev. Mr. Bird has given us a similar entertainment on several occasions. We have received from Hon. Charles D. Robinson, the Green Bay Advocate during the year—this, I believe, comprises the list.

Owing to the stringency of the times, from commercial and political disturbances, we have omitted some purchases and repairs which ought to have been made during the last year.

We need many articles of furniture; much of the wood work, and the floors need repairing. We would be much pleased if we were enabled to add a piano and small library to our other sources of entertainment. We need another water tank, both as a matter of economy, in the use of fuel in pumping, and for use in case of fire; our retort needs to be reconstructed so as to use some material for the manufacture of gas that is within our reach and means of purchase. I think it can, at a small outlay, be arranged so as to use the refuse of kerosene distillation, which is cheap and abundant; as at present arranged, it is totally useless. We are also in need of a proper building for our hogs, poultry and tools.

In the last Annual Report, your attention was solicited to the subject of a new cemetery; the same evil still exists; its present location interferes with our projected improvements of the grounds for the next year; besides it is in full view of the places frequented by the patients in their daily walks and rambles. I think another location can be obtained at very little expense, which will not be subject to the above objections.

More walks and drives should be constructed in our grounds; still we feel assured of the ability to make them, with the help ordinarily employed about the place, and the willing assistance of the patients.

Dr. John W. Sawyer still continues to discharge the duties of assistant physician ably, earnestly and kindly. I feel that he has no superior in his every day, faithful efforts to discharge the arduous duties of his position.

Mrs. Mary O. Halliday still continues to discharge the arduous duties of matron.

The employees are faithfully discharging their several duties; if any have wilfully failed to do this, they have been permitted to seek employment elsewhere. This method will be strictly adhered to in the future.

Several of your board who have visited us frequently during the last year are well acquainted with many of the matters set forth in this report, but others of the trustees, and the public generally, who have visited us less frequently, or not at all, have had less opportunity to observe our efforts to amuse and benefit the unfortunates who have been left in our charge; also our efforts to beautify and adorn and cultivate the grounds about the house; it is to these we commend the perusal of these details:

Appended is the account current for the official year. It shows an expenditure for all purposes of $37,983 50, which is $807 40 less than was expended for the same purposes last year. Now with an average of thirty more patients this year, and an average increase in prices of at least 25 per cent. over those of last year, we feel that we have accomplished all that our most economical friends expected of us. Nor do we feel that this is at the expense of the diet of our patients, their diet having been as varied and abundant as usual.

Nearly, or quite, $1,000 of last year's bills have been paid in this year, while none are left unreckoned at the date of this report—at any rate not to exceed fifty dollars.

The weekly cost of maintaining a patient here has been gradually decreasing notwithstanding the fourfold increase of prices during the last four years, as will be seen by the following table:

Year.	Average number of patients.	Amount of current expense.	Cost per capita per year.	Cost per capita per week.
1861	90½	21602 18	238 70	4 69
1862	117	23073 32	197 20	3 79
1863	159½	31462 23	197 25	3 79
1864	190	35311 12	185 84	3 67

The amount for improvements each year has been deducted from the total expenditures in forming the table.

The total amount for which orders have been drawn is $37,231 31; to this must be added $752 19 of outstanding debts, bills of which have not been presented, making, as above stated, $37,983 50; from this should be deducted $2,672 38 expended for improvements before specified, leaving the sum actually expended for current expenses $35,311 12.

Respectfully,

A. H. VAN NORSTRAND,
Superintendent.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

To the Trustees of the Wisconsin Hospital for the Insane :

The undersigned Treasurer of said Hospital would respectfully

REPORT,

That on the 1st day of October, 1863, as shown in my annual report, there was remaining in the Treasury the sum of.....	$2,105 48
During the year I have received from the State Treasurer the sum of	42,500 00
From other sources.....	50 00

Making a total of.....	$44,655 48
------------------------	-------------

I have paid out during the same period, upon the orders of the Superintendent and Secretary, the sum of.....	88,682 37
Leaving balance in Treasury of.....	$5,993 11

Appended is a detailed statement of disbursements.

SIMEON MILLS, Treasurer.

Madison, Sept. 30. 1864.

For the information of the Board, I deem it proper to state that the above report shows the state of the Treasury on the last day of September,—and since that time there has been paid for the purchase of coal, freight and other bills, which come in since the last of the month, about $5,000, leaving actual cash now in treasury, the sum of $1,000.

SIMEON MILLS,
Treasurer.

October 4, 1864.

*Disbursements of Simeon Mills, Treasurer of the Hospital, from Oct.

ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
SURGEON GENERAL
OF THE
STATE OF WISCONSIN,
FOR THE YEAR ENDING DECEMBER 31, 1864.

MADISON, December 31st, 1864.

To his Excellency, JAMES T. LEWIS,
Governor of Wisconsin:

SIR:—In my first Annual Report for the year 1862, I alluded to the fact, that in the commencement of the war, no adequate conception of the magnitude of the work entered upon, was claimed. Could I have foreseen the vast proportions and desperate character of the struggle, and the length of time it was to occupy, I should have considered the matter much more maturely, before consenting to act as Surgeon General of the State. In order to have done full justice to either myself or the State, a medical bureau should at once have been established, located at the State Capital, to the duties of which my whole time and such assistance as experience proved to be necessary, should have been devoted. This would have involved large additional expense to the State: it is true, but which results, I think, would have fully justified. I do not allude to this subject in a spirit of complaint, but rather of apology, for the want of such interesting and valuable facts as should abound in a Report of this nature, and which, under such circumstances, could easily have been supplied. But the heat and burden of the great day of our regeneration is so far passed, with the bright and cheering prospect of a speedy and glorious termination, already rising before us, that it is too late now to think of radical changes, and in the future as in the past, what time I occupy the place, I shall endeavor to discharge its duties, as well as circumstances and ability will permit.

A thoroughly organized, scientific, practical medical staff, is so indispensable to an army, that neither money nor labor, to any reasonable amount, should stand in the way of securing it. A vigilant, active, competent surgeon, imbued with the importance and responsibility of his trust, by establishing well matured hygienic regulations, can, by the prevention of disease, render services of inestimable value; indeed, it is in this field, perhaps, more than in any other, though less obvious, that the skillful surgeon displays his superiority, by the active co-operation of his commanding officer, which is indispensable to success, in selecting suitable locations for encampments and hospitals, in looking well to the culinary department. I do not hesitate to say, that the proper preparation of food is the most universal and powerful prophylactic at the disposal of the army surgeon, in promoting cheerfulness, by encouraging games and athletic sports, music, dancing, &c. Of course, all this at the proper time and in the proper place, always subordinate to duty. In these and innumerable other ways, that will readily suggest themselves to such a surgeon, will his usefulness be in constant requisition. When to such services we come to add the more indispensable, because more obvious duties of attending to the sick and wounded, what intelligent mind can underrate the services of such a surgeon? Surely none who have witnessed them with our army in the field.

As a general thing, I think, such services are tolerably well appreciated but very poorly paid; and as pay, rank and glory are pretty closely allied, the share of either falling to the surgeon, assuredly, is not the lion's. Here I would say, that I have found many such surgeons distributed throughout all our armies that I have visited, especially during the past year. Whatever else has resulted from the war, one thing is certain, it has furnished a school for military surgery on a larger and more practical scale, which has been more numerously attended and more successful in its teachings, than any institution that has ever preceded it. To have graduated in this college is an honor indeed. In this way, I admit, surgeons may be paid.

In this great school of surgery, Wisconsin has had her full share of students. I have met them every where with our armies, and very generally to be proud of them. May they return in health at the close of the war, and long live to enjoy and dispense the professional benefits derived from the teachings of their great Alma Mater.

APPOINTMENTS AND PROMOTIONS.

The same general policy has been pursued both in appointments and promotions as heretofore, with the exception, that a more rigorous limitation of promotions to the regiment in which the vacancy occurs has been inaugurated. Believing that a modification, to some extent, of the plan is called for by the just claims of parties interested, I would respectfully suggest, that those assistant surgeons who have been longest in the service, all other things being equal, and whose qualifications admit of no doubt, should not only be promoted to vacancies as they occur in the surgeoncy of regiments, already in service, whether they be of that regiment or not, but should also be selected for the surgeoncy of new regiments, should more be called for. It has sometimes happened, and may again, that a vacancy in the surgeoncy of a regiment has occurred very soon after the appointment of an assistant to the same regiment, who, under the rule, if competent, must be promoted to fill the vacancy—perhaps he has not been in the service a month—whilst numerous assistant surgeons, equally as capable when they entered the service, who have endured the hardships and dangers of two or more years' campaigning, and whose faithful and capable services are vouched for by their superior officers, in this way, lose their legitimate chance for promotion, which is the only substantial compliment the State Executive can bestow upon them, for duties long and faithfully performed. I am well aware, that under any management or rule, many most deserving assistant surgeons must be content to serve out their time without promotion, it being impossible for want of vacancies; nevertheless, as far as opportunities do offer, let the honor be bestowed on the most deserving.

UNITED STATES GENERAL HOSPITALS.

From an early period of the war, efforts were made to secure within the limits of the State, United States General Hospitals, that our sick, wounded and disabled soldiers should have the privilege of being as near their friends and homes as possible. After many ineffectual attempts and much delay—through the indefatigable efforts, mainly, of Mrs. L. P. Harvey, the first U. S. General Hospital was established at Madison, and was very properly styled the Harvey Hospital. Somewhere about the middle of October, 1863, it was opened for the reception of inmates, under the care of Asst. Surgeon U. S. A., F. L. Town. Within a month, however, the present Surgeon, Dr. Howard Culbertson, Surgeon U. S. V., was placed in charge.

I have frequently visited the Harvey Hospital and it affords me great pleasure to bear testimony to the untiring zeal and ability of the Surgeon in charge, and the medical officers and subordinates under him.

The essential excellence of a Hospital, consists in the successful results of efforts to restore the inmates to health, or the nearest approximation to it possible. The general police, hygienic regulations, orders, rules, &c., should all tend to this grand result. Viewed in this light, although there are many much more spacious and commodious hospitals in the country, very few will be found superior to the Harvey Hospital. Remediable cases, whether requiring surgical or medicinal means or both, are seasonably and skilfully treated. Another feature, second only in importance to the one above alluded to, is the perfect system of records of cases, so that in the briefest possible manner, compatible with accuracy, all the important facts connected with each individual case, can be seen at a glance, thus leaving a reliable, rich, and convenient legacy to the professional statistician. Those of our gallant sick and wounded boys, who are so fortunate as to be inmates of the Harvey Hospital, have abundant reason for self gratulation, of such, there are at this time, about six hundred and thirty including those at the Branch, Camp Randall.

Through the activity and energy of our present Medical Director, Doctor Swift, Surgeon U. S. Army, two more U. S. General Hospitals have been established within the State, one located at Prairie du Chien and the other at Milwaukee. I was but a few days since at the Prairie du Chien Hospital. A more beautiful and appropriate site cannot be found in the State. The building, although designed for a hotel, being partly unfinished when leased, will, when completed according to the plan explained to me by the Surgeon in charge, Dr. Kelley, be converted into a model hospital, it would require a skilful Hospital Architect, to much improve it, had it been originally designed for its present use. There are already accommodated in this hospital nearly three hundred inmates, and when completed there will be beds for many more.

This hospital is also in the care of an experienced, vigilant, humane Surgeon who will no doubt do credit to the authorities placing him in charge.

The Milwaukee Hospital not yet sufficiently advanced to receive inmates, but progressing rapidly, is situated in the third ward of the city. Its locality is not eminently suited for a hospital. A large portion of what is now the third ward, was but a few years since a marsh, overflowed by the waters of the river and lake at all times, except when the Lake was unusually low. The streets at this locality have been raised by filling about five feet. Under about two-thirds of the hospital building or buildings, is a basement, the bottom of which is but little if any above the surface of the original marsh. It is consequently at all times damp and frequently flooded. Without water works and in the absence of any general and effective system of drainage, if such perfection of police, as should at all times and seasons, exist in and about a hospital, can be maintained here, it will compliment in the highest degree, the science, skill and energy of the surgeon in charge, as well as all others interested. What can be done towards effecting such necessary police, I have no doubt will be accomplished; if successful, I shall be glad to see and acknowledge it, nevertheless, I feel compelled to say, that it is more than can reasonably be expected.

The surroundings are no less objectionable than the immediate hospital site. A convalescent desiring outside air and exercise, must necessarily go immediately into the streets, which lead in all directions to conveniently located saloons, and pretty much all the varieties of drinking establishments, known to modern enterprise, &c., &c. Now, although there can be no difficulty, in a man so disposed, keeping out of all such places, yet it is safer to keep him as far as possible away from temptation. "Lead us not into temptation," will be recognized as forming a prominent feature of a prayer, the soundness of which has never been questioned.

Truth and duty impel me to say thus much on this subject, and without going further into detail, I am now content to leave the matter where it belongs—in the hands of the Medical Department, U. S. Army, where in due time the proper remedy, should any be required, will no doubt be applied.

VISITS TO THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

In the month of May, 1864, during Lieut. Gen. Grant's memorable campaign through the Wilderness, learning through the Surgeon General's office, that the wounded had accumulated to such an extent at Fredericksburg, Va., (the general depot, where they were collected for treatment and distribution to general hospitals at Washington and other points North) as to make outside assistance acceptable. Having obtained permission from your Excellency, being at that time in Washington, I left the capital on the 11th and arrived in Fredericksburg the next day. The railroad from the mouth of Aquia Creek to Fredericksburg, at this time had not been repaired, and all supplies for the army were waggoned across from Belle Plaine, which is a few miles below and twelve miles from Fredericksburg. From Belle Plaine no prospect offered for transportation without too much delay, so we set about organizing a party of twelve, and marched over to Fredericksburg. The day before some stragglers were picked up by guerillas, but none of them appeared on our march. The weather was warm and rainy, and the roads very muddy; nevertheless, we made fair time and altogether had a very interesting walk. The cannonading at the front, which was kept up during the day, became more and more audible every mile, the effect on our unpracticed ears, being an excitement that no doubt considerably mitigated the tediousness of the tramp.

On arriving at Fredericksburg, I immediately reported to Dr. Dalton, Medical Director, for orders. Ascertaining that the 2d, 6th and 7th regiments Wisconsin volunteers were in the 4th division of the 5th army corps, I requested that I might be assigned to duty in that division; which was accordingly done, and I reported to Dr. Ebersole, who was the Surgeon in charge of that division, and who assigned me the position of Consulting Surgeon to the several hospitals in that division. This was very gratifying, as it gave me an opportunity to see all our Wisconsin wounded in the division, and a voice in all important measures in their cases.

In consequence of the bad state of the roads and the distance from Belle Plaine to the army, over which all supplies had to be waggoned, every available means for transportation was required to supply the army. So pressing was this necessity, that for about a week, not even bed sacks and the necessary material for filling them, could be obtained—and the wounded were compelled to lie on floors with nothing under them but their blankets. To this, as to all other privations, they submitted most patiently—knowing that every precaution had been taken to provide all necessities, and nothing but the bad state of the roads and the indispensable necessities of the army at the front, prevented their arrival. Supplies at Belle Plaine, for the Medical Department, had accumulated in large quantities, and with an improvement in the roads, they began to come forward, and the pressing wants of the men were more satisfactorily met. At length, the railroad being repaired, and navigation up the Rappahannock opened, the crowded condition of the hospitals was soon relieved; and notwithstanding large numbers arrived almost daily from the front, still larger numbers were shipped for the North where hospitals, possessing every comfort and even luxuries, awaited them. Finally a change of base to White House being ordered, (which is at the head of navigation of York River) the wounded from the front took that direction, and the newly opened facilities for transportation soon cleared Fredericksburg of the hosts of wounded, all of whom no doubt, made a willing adieu to a place that had offered so little to comfort and assuage their sufferings.

In the meantime I had visited the hospitals of the 2d division of the 6th army corps, in which I found most of the wounded of the Wisconsin 5th regiment. Many of them, however, as was more or less the case with the other regiments, were scattered through other divisions and hospitals, after whom I did not look. As soon as the wounded were reduced within the easy attendance of the Army Medical Staff, I returned to Washington where I determined to await for a time operations at the front, deeming it possible, that further assistance might become acceptable.

On the 6th of June I learned from Col. Barnes, Acting Surgeon General U. S. A., that assistance was again needed at White House. I accordingly left on the 7th, and arrived the next day before noon. On reporting to Medical Director Dalton, was assigned to duty in the Eighteenth Corps. Dr. Fowler, surgeon in charge, gave me to the same duties and position as at Fredericksburg.

Here were abundant supplies—no waggoning over bad roads to prevent their timely arrival. It is due to Surgeon General Barnes to say that the delay that occurred at Fredericksburg was not attributable to any neglect or mistake connected with his department—every essential article having been seasonably landed at Belle Plaine—but solely to the want of transportation from that point. Again, at the end of a week the number of the wounded was so far diminished, and the determination to change the base of operation to City Point, on the James River, being understood, I concluded to embark with the Second Regiment Wis. Vol., their time of service having expired, on board the mail boat Lizzie Barker, for Washington, where we arrived on the 18th inst., at 12 M.

A detail of the occurrences connected with these visits would swell this article beyond the intended limits. I would however say, that in the management of the Medical Department of our armies, quite as much as in others, the fruits of experience are most obvious. Order is now as triumphant as the want of it was in the commencement of the volunteer service. Our wounded now, from the battlefield to the U. S. General Hospitals, have all that skill, science and experience can do for men under such circumstances. On all occasions requiring outside assistance the best professional talent of the country is commanded—with ample supplies of every description, for if anything the Government lacks, the Sanitary Commission is sure to be present with its almost unlimited resources to supply the deficiency. I need not repeat here what I have so frequently said of the U. S. Sanitary Commission, and will only add that the more intimately one becomes acquainted with the comprehensiveness of its plans, the skill and economy with which they are carried into execution, and the vast amount of relief and benefits resulting, all the sanguine expectations formed in the beginning of its operations are so far transcended by its practical workings that it towers into sublimity when compared with any, or all other efforts of a similar nature, however commendable or useful they may be. In several of its most important departments, be it remembered, this grand work is conducted mainly by the women of our country. When was there ever before a field of such unselfish patriotic, useful labor opened for the occupancy of woman, and when was ever an opportunity more gloriously embraced? Work on, ye women of America! In the history of this gigantic struggle your deeds will add lustre to the achievements of our arms, and go down in the memory of mankind "to the last syllable of recorded time."

The following table contains all the appointments, promotions, resignations, discharges, dismissals and deaths, that have occurred in this department during the war to date.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully your ob't serv't.

E. B. WOLCOTT, Surgeon General, Wis.

ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
BOARD OF REGENTS

OF THE
UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN,

FOR THE YEAR ENDING SEPTEMBER 30, 1864.

To the Legislature of the State of Wisconsin:

The Board of Regents of the University of Wisconsin respectfully submit their report for the year ending September 30, 1864.

I. INTERNAL CONDITION OF THE UNIVERSITY.

During the year two of the departments defined in the act under which the University is organized, have been in operation, to wit, the "Department of Literature, Science and the Arts," and that of the "Theory and Practice of Elementary Instruction." The description given in our last report of the former department, so far as it has yet been developed in the University, is still applicable. Two courses of study for students of college grade are provided in that department, called respectively, the "Classical" and the "Scientific." The former is distributed over a period of four years, and is identical with the regular curriculum of the American college. The latter is designed to occupy but three years, and includes the English studies of the former, together with the French and German languages. Graduates of the former course receive the degree of Bachelor of Arts; those of the latter, the degree of Bachelor of Philosophy. A large proportion of those who take the degree last mentioned, however, pursue either the whole or a large part of the regular curriculum in the Latin language and literature. A Preparatory School is also maintained in connection with this department, designed to furnish the mathematical and classical training required for admission to the college classes. The second department above named, which may be otherwise denominated the University Normal School, provides for a course of study extending over a period of three years, and specially adapted to the wants of those who are qualifying themselves as teachers of our public schools. The larger part of the instruction in the Normal course is given by the Principal of that department and the preceptress, with an assistant female teacher; but the pupils have also instruction in special classes formed for them by the college professors, and have access, without extra charge, to the lectures and recitations of the college and preparatory classes.

There is also a Commercial School maintained in the city, which has a nominal connection with the University.

The whole number of different students in attendance upon the University during the last academic year, (not including the Commercial School) was three hundred and sixty-one (361); of whom 181 were gentlemen, and 180 ladies. This is the largest number ever reported as in attendance during the same length of time. Of these, 42 were members of college classes, 16 being engaged upon the "Classical Course," and 26 upon the "Scientific Course;" 60 were pursuing the regular Normal course; 50 were members of the Preparatory School; and 209 were Irregulars, i. e. students who did not devote themselves to either of the regular courses, but pursued select studies.

The statistics of attendance for the several terms composing the academic year are as follows: Fall term (1863), whole number, 229; Gentlemen, 110; Ladies, 119. Winter term (1863-4), whole number, 182; Gentlemen, 96; Ladies 86. Spring term (1864), whole number, 184; Gentlemen, 101; Ladies, 83.

More detailed information in reference to the faculty, students, courses of study, methods of instruction and discipline of the University, will be found in Appendix C.

II. UNIVERSITY BUILDINGS.

Of the three buildings which have been erected for the uses of the institution, the central edifice, which is upon the summit of the hill, and is designated "University Hall," is devoted entirely to lecture and recitation rooms, chapel, Normal School room, society halls, cabinet, library, chemical laboratory and other public rooms. It is one of the largest buildings of the kind in the West, and will furnish ample accommodations for most of the public uses of the institution after it shall come to have three times the number of students that have ever yet been in attendance upon it at any one time. The other two buildings are need for the residence of students and a portion of the faculty. The "North Dormitory" is occupied entirely by young gentlemen; the "South Dormitory" mostly by young ladies, but, with rooms appropriated to the families of the Dean of the University faculty, and the Principal of the Normal department, and to a Boarding Hall under the charge of the latter officer. These two buildings are entirely filled.

III. MEETINGS OF THE BOARD.

The Board of Regents met twice during the year. The winter meeting was held on the 20th and 21st of January. There were present Regents Barron, Conover, Fairchild, Pickard, Stewart, Vilas and Worthington. The Executive Committee submitted a report of its proceedings during the recess of the Board. The same committee, in accordance with previous instructions, submitted a revision of the By-Laws and Ordinances of the Board, which, after being amended, was adopted and ordered to be printed. Prof. J. W. STERLING, as Dean of the Faculty, presented a report of the condition and wants of the institution. A committee of gentlemen, not members of the Board, was appointed to attend the annual examination of the University classes. Regent FAIRCHILD was appointed a member of the Executive Committee to fill a vacancy created by the expiration of the term of Hon. J. T. LEWIS as Secretary of State and ex officio Regent.

The summer meeting was held on the 28th of June. There were present Regents Conover, Davis, Fairchild, Pickard, Salomon, Vilas and Worthington. The usual annual reports were received from the Dean of the Faculty, the several professors, and the Executive Committee. The members of the senior class (with one exception) having left the State, along with many other students of the University, as volunteers in the 40th Regiment of Wisconsin Infantry (one hundred day men), no commencement was held. The Executive Committee were authorized to provide for commencement exercises on the return of the class, if it should then appear advisable; and if not, the President of the Board and the Dean of the Faculty were authorized to prepare and deliver diplomas to the graduating class. The degree of Bachelor of Arts was directed to be conferred upon JAMES LAMBERT HIGH and WASHINGTON IRVING WALLACE, and the degree of Bachelor of Philosophy upon EUGENE M. CONGAR, AUGUSTUS H. SALISBURY and JOHN COIT SPOONER.

A committee, consisting of Regents Salomon, Conover and Pickard, was appointed to make inquiries in reference to obtaining a suitable person for the office of chancellor, and directed to report at the next meeting of the Board. The Executive Committee were authorized to employ a Principal of the Preparatory School at a salary not exceeding $1000. The undersigned were appointed a committee to prepare the annual report of the Board to the legislature.

These are the principal items of business transacted at the meetings of the Board. By the By-Laws, the Executive Committee are required, in the recess of the Board, to "provide for the execution of all orders and resolutions not otherwise specially committed—fill vacancies happening during recess—audit accounts, and generally take care that the institution take no detriment." A separate register of the doings of this committee is directed to be kept by the secretary, to be submitted from time to time to the Board for its final action; and it is provided that the committee shall meet steadily on the first Monday in each month. From the minutes of the committee it appears that they held twelve meetings during the year. For a statement of the persons composing the Board during the year, and of its officers and committees, reference is made to Appendix C.

IV. FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

From the books in the office of the Secretary of State it appears that the receipts of the University Fund Income, during the year under review, after deducting the amount refunded, and the amount overpaid the University Treasury on the 30th of September, 1883, were..... $10,779.92

The charges made by the State were as follows:

For clerk hire.....	$965.00
For printing.....	33.44
To appraisers of forfeited mortgage land.....	54.35

Total charges.....	$1,052.79
Paid University Treasurer.....	8,549.01
Balance Sept. 30, 1883.....	1,178.12

$10,779.92

The receipts into the University treasury from the Income Fund were as follows:

From the State Treasurer.....	$8,549.01
Balance Sept. 30, 1883.....	2,696.30

Total..... $11,245.30

The current expenditures were as follows:

Salaries of Professors and Tutor.....	$6,337.50
Salary of Secretary.....	100.00
Salary of Janitor.....	360.00
Incidental expenses and repairs.....	1,577.33
Insurance.....	405.75
Wood.....	939.30
Interest on Ledyard loan.....	$494.81
" loan from School Fund.....	99.01
	593.82

Total Expenditures.....	$10,313.90
Balance Sept. 30, 1884.....	931.40

$11,245.30

For a more detailed statement of receipts and expenditures, reference is made to Appendixes A and B, being the reports of the Treasurer and Secretary.

The following is an approximate estimate of receipts and expenditures for the current fiscal year:

Interest on the productive fund, less the State charges.....	$12,000.00
Balance in State Treasury, Sept. 30, 1884.....	1,173.12
Balance in University Treasury, Sept. 30, 1884.....	931.40

Total Resources.....	$13,104.52
Salaries of Instructors.....	$6,400.00
" Secretary.....	100.00
" Janitor.....	400.00
Insurance.....	405.75
Wood.....	1,500.00
Library, Cabinet and Miscellaneous.....	1,500.00
	10,305.74

The indebtedness of the University on the 30th of September, 1863, for moneys borrowed by authority of law for the erection of its buildings, was as follows :

Due the School Fund	$19,000.00
Due J. D. Ledward	5,000.00
Total	$24,000.00

During the last fiscal year this indebtedness was paid with moneys transferred for that purpose from the principal of the University Fund, in accordance with chapter 268, Laws of 1862. The University is now completely free from debt. The condition of its Principal Fund on the 30th of September, 1864, as appears by the report of the Secretary of State, was as follows :

Amount due on sales of lands held on certificate	$127,563.25
Amount due on loans secured by mortgage	18,607.00
Amount due on bonds and certificates of indebtedness of the State	11,000.00

Total productive fund $157,170.25

Of the lands with which the institution was originally endowed by the government of the United States, there are now on hand about 40,000 acres; of which some 17,000 acres have never been sold, and the remainder have been forfeited and not resold.

The productive fund above stated, bearing interest at seven per cent., will yield a gross income of $11,001.91. But under existing laws even this slender sum will be subject to a reduction of about $1000 on account of charges made by the state for administering the fund. We cannot conclude this report without once more inviting the attention of the legislature to the question, whether it would not be more creditable to the State to administer the grant bestowed upon it by the munificence of the Federal Government, for the purpose of building up and maintaining a State University, without making these charges. The institution under our care greatly needs a chancellor, and large additions to its library and its means of illustration and experiment in the natural sciences. It cannot afford to obtain or retain any other than able and experienced teachers in any of its chairs of instruction, and it ought to be able to offer such men salaries somewhat adapted to the enormous advance in the cost of living. A remission of the State charges against the fund, while it would not give us the means to accomplish all the objects named, or other important objects desired by the Board, would yet secure a material addition to our resources.

In conclusion, the attention of the legislature is called to the fact that the term of office of the following members of the Board expires on the 1st of January, 1865, to wit: O. M. CONOVER, of Madison; MORRIS M. DAVIS, of Appleton; NELSON DREWRY, of Cassville; and HARRISON C. HOBART, of Chilton.

SUPPLEMENTARY REPORT
T R U S T E E S
OF THE
WISCONSIN INSTITUTE FOR THE BLIND.

To the Legislature of the State of Wisconsin :

In their annual report to the Governor, on the 12th of October last, the Trustees omitted estimates necessary for an appropriation by your honorable body for the support of the Institution under their charge, during the present year. They will now supply that omission.

By reference to their annual report, it will be seen that they had in their treasury and in that of the State the sum of $4,836 94, available for current expense to this date.

The Trustees have expended in the current support of the Institution since the date of their report the sum of $4,923.09, and have contracted for fuel (coal and wood), the larger portion of which is delivered; and for which they are now liable, to the amount of $1,753.82, being a total expenditure of $6,676.91; or $1,839.97 more than the amount at their disposal for payment; making an indebtedness of $1,839.97.

As to the amount required for current support, judging from their experience of the year past, and allowing only for a slight increase in the number attending the school, the Trustees cannot see how they can defray the necessary expenses of the Institution with less than $16,500, including salaries of officers and teachers, and excluding ordinary repairs. For ordinary repairs and improvements on the grounds, the sum of $500 will be required.

Referring to their report of the 12th of October, 1864, the Trustees would call the attention of your honorable body to the present condition of the work shop. This building was commenced under an appropriation of last year; the sum of $5,000 has been expended upon it; and from the most careful estimates, the Trustees believe the sum of $6,500 will be required to complete it. The Trustees in no wise feel themselves responsible for the comparatively large sum this building will now cost. In the year 1860 the Trustees, in their report, placed before the Legislature, with the recommendation of the Governor, the importance of erecting this building at which time they could have contracted for its erection for the sum of $6,000. The Legislature failed to make the appropriation; the Trustees tried to get an appropriation again in 1861, but failed, the first appropriation being that of last year. Of course, now, with the greatly enhanced values of all building material and labor, the building costs more. Nevertheless, the building is one of the necessities of the Institution.

The business of education is not completed, and the institution fails in one of its most important ends, unless it furnish to every male pupil some trade or profession by which he may maintain himself and provide for his own wants after he leaves the institution. The art of broom making is easily learned by every blind boy, and can be prosecuted with successful results, after leaving the institution. This, then, is the principal object of this building to have a place in which to teach blind boys to make brooms. The building also will furnish dormitory room for the male portion of the school; the laundry will also be removed from the present building to the basement of the shop, giving space in the old building for bath rooms, now greatly needed; and cellar room for storage of vegetables and other provisions, which in the peculiar construction of the building, the institution is nearly deprived of. These considerations led the Trustees to urge the appropriation asked in behalf of the work shop.

It will occur to every member of your honorable body, that in the present incomplete condition of this building, an appropriation is immediately needed to preserve it from injury by the elements.

From the foregoing it will appear that the estimates for the year are as follows:

For indebtedness, in current expenses,	$1,840
For current expenses and salaries,	16,500
For ordinary repairs and improvements,	500
For completing the workshop,	6,500
Total,	$25,340

The item of salaries referred to above, includes only the salaries paid to the Superintendent and Teachers. The Trustees receive no pay or emoluments in any form, their labor being donated gratuitously to the Institution.

Respectfully submitted,

H. W. COLLINS, Sec'y.

Dated Janesville, Feb. 1, 1865.
